C. BAYLEY,
Junior Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

No. 1520A. OF 1865.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

Dated the 1st May 1865.

Notification.—The following Tea plantations and factories in Kumaon and the Deyrah Dhoon are offered for sale at the upset prices specified :—

1. Hawal Bagh in Kumaon, forty-six miles from the plains, and six miles from Almorah. The plantations (including the two small nurseries, viz., Kupeena and Lutchmaissur, in the immediate neighbourhood of Almorah) consist of about one hundred acres of land planted with Tea. At a short distance from the plantations there is a Cheer (Pinus longifolia) forest of about 100 acres in extent, in which the purchaser will have the right to cut timber, which is well fitted for making Tea chests, fire-wood, &c.

There are on the estate three large slated houses; numerous slated offices; a large slated factory; two large slated godowns; a slated barrack for Chinese Tea manufacturers, and the stock and block of the factory are complete for Tea operations and in working order.

2. Ayar Toli in Kuttyoor, Kumaon, distant about 80 miles from the plains, and about 40 miles from Almorah.

There are on the estate a slated factory and a large slated godown, slated barracks for Chinese Tea manufacturers, &c., and the stock and block of the factory are complete for the Tea operations and in working order.

This plantation consists of about 1,300 acres of land, of which about 500 acres are planted with Tea, two hundred acres of cleared land fitted for Tea-planting, and the remainder covered with pines, &c., forests, the timber of which is well adapted for making Tea chests, &c.

The yield of the two estates this season was lbs. 20,000 of Tea and 1,050 maunds of seeds.

These two estates will be sold in one lot in fee-simple, free of all demands on account of Land Revenue, exclusive of existing local cesses, such as Road, Educational, and Postal cesses, or such as may hereafter be legally imposed, at an upset price of Rs. 2,00,000 (two lacs of Rupees.)

A small portion of the plantation of Ayar Toli named Umrolie, belonging to the temple of Nagnath, will bear an annual rental of Rupees 24 (twenty-four Rupees) per annum.

This land is leased in perpetuity from the Temple of Nagnath on this rental.

3. Kowlagur in the Deyrah Dhoon, distant two coss to the west of the Town of Deyrah. It consists of about 450 acres of land, of which about 250 acres are under cultivation with Tea, and the remainder adapted for Tea cultivation.

Through the property a branch of the Beejapore Canal runs. At a short distance and to the South of the plantation there is a Forest of Syne, Jamun, &c., containing about 500 (five hundred) acres, in which the purchaser will have the right to cut timber for Tea chests, fire wood, charcoal, &c. The timber is well fitted for making Tea chests.

There are on the estate three bungalows; an extensive pucka Tea factory; two large pucka godowns; a barrack for Chinese Tea manufacturers, &c., and the stock and block of the factory are complete and in full working order.

The yield this season was lbs. 25,000 of Tea and 1,050 maunds of seeds.

This estate will be sold in fee-simple free of all demands on account of Land Revenue, exclusive of existing local cesses for roads, &c., or such as may hereafter be legally imposed, at an upset price of Rs. 2,00,000 (two lacs of Rupees.) The plantations will be transferred to the purchasers on the 1st April 1866, on or before which date the purchase money must be paid at the General Treasury, Calcutta.

Tenders will be received by William Jameson, Esquire, Superintendent, Botanical Gardens, North-Western Provinces, Saharunpore, until the 1st March 1866, if the factories, &c., be not previously sold by private sale, and the highest offer above the upset price will be accepted.

All tenders must be made in writing.

Every tender should be superscribed—"Tender for Tea plantation," and will be registered by the Superintendent of the Botanical Gardens on the date of receipt in a book, which he will keep, together with the tenders, in his own custody under lock and key.

The highest registered tender at the time being for any lot will be communicated by the Superintendent to any enquirers up to the time of sale, but the names of the parties who have tendered shall in no case be disclosed.

The register of tenders will be examined at noon, on the 1st March 1866, by a Committee consisting of the Superintendent, Botanical Gardens, the Judge, and the Collector of Saharunpore, at the Office of the Superintendent, and in the presence of all parties who may attend; and the amount of the highest tender for each lot, or, if there be more than one tender of equal amount, the number and amount of such tenders, but not the names of the parties tendering, will be publicly declared, and the highest tender, in writing, above the upset price at 1 P. M., will be accepted on the part of Government by the Committee.

On the tender being accepted by the Committee the purchaser must deposit five per cent. of the purchase money, which will be forfeited if the amount of the purchase money be not paid in full on the date specified.

Agents must be supplied by their principals with sufficient Powers of Attorney.

The above particulars are believed, in good faith, to be correct, but intending purchasers must make their own enquiries, as no reclamation can be listened to after sale.

References may be made to W. Jameson, Esquire, Superintendent, Government Botanical Gardens, Saharunpore.

By Order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces,

R. SIMSON,

Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces.

		1,024,000

N. B.—The quantities here stated are those computed to be in store on the 1st November next. Deficiency in Stock of any year will be provided for by delivery of like Salt of other year at the Depôt, or by a refund of price.

The following are the Conditions of sale :—

1*st*.—The Salt will be offered for sale at an upset price to be determined at the time, and calculated separately for the Mofussil and the Sulkea Stocks, with reference to the then state of the market, and it will be sold to the highest bidder above that price, or at that price should no higher be offered.

2*nd*.—The sale shall commence at the hour of 11 A. M. of the day above-mentioned, and shall not be continued after the hour of 5 P. M.; but if at that hour any of the Lots advertised for sale shall remain unsold, the sale may, at the discretion of the Board of Revenue, be resumed on the next day following (not being Sunday or a public holiday) at the hour of 11 A. M., and so on until the whole of the remaining Lots are disposed of; or, if the whole quantity advertised shall not be [illegible] day appointed, the Board may dispose [illegible] main on hand at a future sale.

re-sold at such time or times and under such conditions of re-sale as the Board of Revenue shall think fit. All losses and expenses whatsoever attending such re-sale shall be borne and paid by the defaulters, whilst any profit accruing from such re-sale shall be credited to Government.

6*th*.—The Promissory Notes taken on the day of sale under the last-mentioned condition, if remaining unredeemed at 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be placed in the hands of the Solicitor to the Government for [illegible]alization.

7*th*.—No Tender of Money, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Public Securities on account of Salt upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale will be afterwards accepted.

8*th*.—The price of the Salt shall be paid for within fifteen days from the day of sale; and in case any Lots shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the cash deposit made under the fifth condition, or any Public Securities that may have been deposited on account of such Lots, shall be forfeited, and the Salt shall be disposed of on account of Government at such time and in such manner as the Board of Revenue shall think fit, and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the Salt was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale.

9*th*.—The duty on the Salt shall, unless the purchaser wishes to bond it, be paid within sixty days from the day of sale. For any Lots which may remain uncleared beyond [illegible] of sixty days, excepting such [illegible] Golah Rent will thereafter be [illegible] of four Rupees per mensem fo[illegible]

10*th*.—The Salt may be b[illegible] ment or a Private Golah unde[illegible] applicable to Sea-imported Sa[illegible]

11*th*.—Certificates specifying [illegible] names of the purchaser or purchasers, the number of the Lots sold, and the description of Salt purchased, will be delivered on payment of the deposit at the time and in the manner mentioned in Condition 5th, and each Certificate to be so granted must be returned to the Office of the Board before any Orders and Rowannahs (corresponding with such Certificate) for the delivery of the Salt shall be issued.

the said purchaser or his order.

15*th*.—The Officer superintending the sale on the part of the Board of Revenue is empowered to reject, at his discretion, the bid of any individual unless such individual shall on demand tender at the time a deposit, either in Government of India Notes, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Government Securities, of a sum equal to the amount for which a Promissory Note would otherwise be taken under the 5th of these conditions.

16*th*.—The purchaser of any Lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession, at the same price and under the same conditions, any number of Lots of the same Salt, not exceeding altogether one hundred Lots; provided always that there remain a sufficient number of Lots of the Salt to complete the said one hundred.

17*th*.—In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the Salt included in this Notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

Notification.

THE following draft of the Bye-Laws framed by the Municipal Committee of Midnapore is published for general information. Any tax-payer wishing to offer any objections or sugges-tions must address the Chairman in writing:—

BYE-LAWS OF THE MIDNAPORE MUNICIPALITY.

Time and Mode of Collecting Tax.

1. For the information of tax-payers each Tehsildar shall be provided with a printed Certi-ficate of his authority to collect the amount of the bills delivered to him; such Certificate shall bear the seal of the Municipality, and the signature in English of the Chairman under whose authority the tax is collected, and the signature in Vernacular of one of the Native Commissioners. At the time of demanding payment every Tehsildar shall be bound to shew this Certificate if required.

2. The Tehsildars shall present the bills for any quarter to the tax-payers immediately after the commencement of the third month of that quarter.

3. No bills shall be presented to any person for any smaller sum than one anna.

4. The bills issued to Tehsildars under Section 44 shall be printed Cheque Bills bearing the seal of the Municipality and the signature of the Tax Darogah. The Tehsildar shall enter the date of presentation on the half which he retains.

5. Every Tehsildar shall be provided with a printed Cheque Book for receipts, on which the seal of the Municipal Commissioners shall appear. On receiving the money the Tehsildar shall sign and date the half which he gives to the tax-payer and the counterpart which remains in his possession.

6. When any property is distrained, the dis-training Officer shall immediately place it under the charge of the Tax Darogah on the premises of the Municipal Commissioners.

7. At the time of distraint the Tehsildar shall enter in Form C., for delivery to the defaulter, his own estimate of the value of the property distrained.

8. Immediately on distraint being made the Tehsildar shall paste up on the house of the de-faulter a notice of sale, fixing a day for the sale, not less than eight days from the date of distraint, not counting that day as one, and on the day of sale notice of the sale shall be given by beat of drum. All sales shall be held at the Office of the Municipal Commissioners by the Tax Darogah.

9. Payment of purchase money for goods sold under the last Section and delivery of goods shall be made immediately after the sale, and if the purchaser fail to the amount of his bid, then it shall be lawful for the Tax Darogah, at his discretion, to sell the goods again on the same, or any other day, and the purchaser shall in such case be responsible to the Commissioners for the loss on such re-sale.

Conduct of Municipal Officers.

Tax Collectors.

10. Every Tax Darogah and Tehsildar shall conform to all Rules framed for his guidance, and any infringement of those Rules may be punished by the Chairman by a fine not exceeding one month's pay, to be deducted from the salary of the offender, besides any other penalty to which he may be liable under the Laws in force.

Overseers and Scavengers.

11. Every Overseer and Scavenger and other Labourer shall conform to all Rules framed for his guidance, and any infringement of these Rules may be punished by the Chairman by a fine not exceeding eight annas, to be deducted from the salary of the offender, besides any other penalty to which he may be liable under the Laws in force.

Conservancy Clauses.

12. The occupier of each house shall place all rubbish that the Commissioners undertake to remove close to the road side opposite his own house, or at such other place as the Commissioner may direct, on such days of the week and before such time of the day as the Commissioners shall require him to do by public notice. Penalty,—A fine not exceeding one Rupee for each offence.

13. No person shall obstruct any highway by exposing any article for sale or by placing beds, mattrasses, bundles of fire-wood or of straw, packages, or any other thing whatever thereon, Penalty,—A fine not exceeding five Rupees.

14. No driver of any wheeled vehicle, or bearer of any kind of palkee, shall leave his conveyance on any highway in such manner as to prveent the free passage of other conveyances, provided that in any highway which is not wide enough to admit of two hackeries passing each other it shall be lawful for the driver of a hackery to stop for such reasonable time as may be necessary to load or unload, but no longer. Penalty,—A fine not exceeding five Rupees.

15. Any spout so placed that the water from it falls upon any highway shall be held to be a projection within the provisions of Sections 59 and 60 of Act III. (B. C.) of 1864.

16. Whoever shall hereafter build a house anywhere within the limits of the Municipality, whether on an old foundation or elsewhere, shall construct the external walls of such house of masonry or of earth and of no other materials except under sanction of a meeting of the Commissioners, and such walls shall not be less than eight feet high. Penalty,—A fine not exceeding twenty Rupees, and for every day's offence after conviction a fine not exceeding five Rupees,—see explanation to Section 18.

17. Whoever shall hereafter build a house at the side of any highway declared by a meeting of the Commissioners to be a main highway for the purposes of this Section, shall make the roof of such house of masonry or of tiling or of metal. Penalty,—A fine not exceeding twenty Rupees, and for every day's offence after conviction a fine not exceeding five Rupees,—see explanation to Section 18.

18. No person shall build any steps, or place any covering over any open drain belonging to the Commissioners without permission in writing from the Chairman. The Chairman shall, if the case allow it, grant permission under such conditions as shall secure easy access to the drain to clean it. Penalty,—A fine not exceeding ten Rupees, and for every day's offence after conviction a fine not exceeding one Rupee.

Explanation.—A person convicted under any of these three last Sections commits a daily offence so long as he fails to remove or alter the walls, roof, steps, or other covering therein described so as to comply with the Law.

19. No person shall send away the night soil from his house over any highway at any other time than before eight o'clock in the morning, or otherwise than in a closely covered vessel; nor shall he throw any night soil in any other places than those appointed for the purpose by the Commissioners. Penalty,—A fine not exceeding ten Rupees for each offence described in this Section.

20. The owner of any house in which a privy opens in any way towards the highway shall close the opening by a wooden door. Penalty,—A fine not exceeding ten Rupees. The occupier of such house shall keep such door closed at all times except when it is open for the purpose of using or emptying or repairing the privy. Penalty,—A fine not exceeding five Rupees.

21. The occupier of any premises within which any animal may die shall either remove the carcass to any place appointed by the Commissioners for the reception of carcasses before it becomes offensive, or he shall report the death to the Conservancy Overseer, who shall remove the carcass and charge the actual expense incurred to such occupier or to the owner of the animal if the owner be known. Penalty,—A fine not exceeding ten Rupees. Any Overseer who shall neglect to remove a carcass when called upon to do so shall be liable also to a fine not exceeding ten Rupees.

22. No person shall throw away any carcass, or any part thereof, anywhere else but in such places as shall be appointed by the Commissioners. Penalty,—A fine not exceeding ten Rupees.

23. No person shall let any diseased or worn out animal in his possession stray upon any highway. Penalty,—A fine not exceeding five Rupees.

24. No person possessing pigs shall keep them otherwise than in closed pens. Penalty,—A fine not exceeding two Rupees for each offence.

25. Every occupier of a shop or stall for the sale of any article of food shall keep such shop or stall in a clean and proper state. Penalty,—A fine not exceeding five Rupees. No such occupier shall sell, expose, or keep for sale, any article of food which is in a state unfit for consumption. Penalty,—A fine not exceeding twenty Rupees.

26. No occupier of a shop or stall for the sale of any article of food shall obstruct any Commissioner from entering and inspecting any such shop or stall, or from inspecting any article of food therein. Penalty,—A fine not exceeding twenty Rupees.

27. Every person owning a house or shed wherein a market is held shall take out a license from the Municipal Commissioners for that purpose and shall keep such house or shed in a clean and proper state, and no person shall hereafter establish a market except on application made to, and with the sanction of, a Meeting of the Commissioners. Penalty,—A fine not exceeding twenty Rupees.

28. No person shall dig any tank, pond, ditch or excavation in or close to any highway without the permission of the Commissioners. Penalty,—A fine not exceeding twenty Rupees.

29. Whenever, by any Conservancy Clause in Act III. of 1864, or in the Bye-Laws of the Municipality, any person is directed to do or to abstain from doing any act regarding any property or animal in his possession, that person shall be held to have disobeyed that direction of Law if any servant or agent of his, or any inmate of his house being in possession of such property, with that person's consent, express or implied, shall omit to do, or do any thing which would have been an offence against that direction of Law if that person had himself omitted to do it or done it.

Rules regarding Burning and Burial Grounds.

30. Whoever shall bring any corpse to be burnt in a burning ground shall burn it, and the clothes and matting in which it is wrapped, completely to ashes within six hours of its arrival on the ground. Penalty,—A fine not exceeding twenty Rupees.

31. No person shall bury a corpse in a masonry grave less than three and a half feet deep from the surface of the ground, nor in any other kind of grave less than five feet deep from the surface of the ground. Penalty,—A fine not exceeding twenty Rupees.

32. No person shall dig a grave at a less distance than three feet from an existing grave. This and the preceding Section shall apply to the burials of Bystums called Somaj, as well as to all other burials. Penalty,—A fine not exceeding ten Rupees.

Hooghly Municipality Bye-Laws.

Sanitary.

Rule 1.—No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, any corpse in any burial ground in a grave constructed of masonry in such manner that the coffin shall be at a less depth than four feet from the surface ground.

2. No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, in any burial ground any corpse in a grave not constructed of masonry which shall be less than six feet deep.

3. No person shall build or dig, or cause to be built or dug, any grave in any burial ground at a less distance than four feet from any other existing grave.

4. No person shall build or dig, or cause to be built or dug, a grave in any burial place in any other line than that marked out by the Municipal Commissioners.

5. No grave once used shall be opened for the burial of another body without the permission of the Municipal Commissioners.

6. No person when burning, or causing to be burnt, any corpse, or part of a corpse, in any burning ground, shall permit the same, or any part thereof, to remain without being completely reduced to ashes, or shall permit the clothes or other articles connected with the burning of such corpse to remain at or near such burning ground unless the same be completely reduced to ashes.

7. Every person who shall bring or convey, or cause to be brought or conveyed, any corpse, or part thereof, to any burning ground, shall burn, or cause the same to be burnt, within four hours after its arrival at the said burning ground.

8. No person shall throw, or cause to be thrown, any corpse or carcass, or any part of a corpse or carcass, upon any ground save in such place as may be set apart for that purpose by the Municipal Commissioners, or into any river, nulla, canal, drain or tank.

9. No person suffering from any contagious disease shall bathe in any public bathing place.

10. No person shall let loose, or cause or allow to be let loose, or allow to get loose any diseased or worn out animal into any highway, or into any place where such animal can escape into any highway.

11. Every person within whose premises any animal may die shall, within two hours after its death, either remove at his own expense the carcass to such place as may be set apart by the Municipal Commissioners for the reception of such carcass, or report its death to the Conser-

1*st*.—The Estates to be sold, subject to the Government Revenue against each, to the highest bidder above the upset price.

2*nd*.—The sale to be subject to existing leases and to the rights conferred by the settlement proceedings and laws in force, and Purchasers to be bound to respect the rights of resident cultivators who have signed the Schedule of Assessment made by the Revenue Authorities.

3*rd*.—If the amount of purchase money do not exceed Rupees 100, the whole amount to be paid down at once.

4*th*.—If the amount of purchase money exceed Rupees 100, one-fourth of the amount bid to be immediately deposited. If the balance be not paid by noon of the fifteenth day after the sale, reckoning the day of sale as one, or if that day be a close holiday, then by noon of the first succeeding Office day, the sale to be cancelled, the sum deposited being forfeited to Government, and the Estate to be again put up for sale at the risk of the defaulting Purchaser after issue of advertisement as in the case of original sale.

5*th*.—In addition to the ordinary Government Revenue fixed on the Estates the Purchasers shall be bound to pay for the construction of roads and improvement of communications one per cent. on the Government Revenue assessed from the date of entry upon the purchase. This sum will be leviable in the same manner as other arrears of Revenue.

By Order of the Board of Revenue,

R. B. Chapman,
Secretary.

Report on the Cultivation of Cinchonæ at Darjeeling during the month of July 1865.

From T. Anderson, Esq., M. D., Superintendent, Botanical Gardens, and in charge of Cinchona Cultivation in Bengal, to S. C. Bayley, Esq., Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 22, dated the 4th September 1865.)

I have the honor to submit, herewith, the Report on the cultivation of Chinchonæ at Darjeeling during the month of July 1865.

Report on the Cultivation of Cinchonæ at Darjeeling during the month of July 1865.

The progress of the Cinchona plants has been most satisfactory during the month of July. The growth at all the experimental Plantations shews a great increase compared with that of previous months, while the increase by cuttings during the month has exceeded 14,000, a greater number than has ever been obtained since the commencement of the cultivation at Darjeeling. The Table shewing the growth of certain measured plants during the month, may mislead those who take an interest in these reports of the progress of Cinchona cultivation. The growth recorded in these Tables is merely that of certain measured plants, and does not shew the greatest growth made during the month. Among the 3,256 plants permanently planted out, there are many larger than these measured plants. At the 5th Plantation there are about 370 plants of C. Succirubra, the majority of which are above 3 feet in height, while about 10 plants in addition to those numbered are 4 feet. At the 4th Plantation there are about 200 permanently planted out specimens of C. Officinalis, varying from 2 to 4½ feet in height, while at the 3rd Plantation there are 450 plants of this species about 18 inches high. The maximum and minimum growth made by the plants at the two Upper Plantations shews a great improvement in the vigour of these species at the higher elevations.

2. The weather during July was marked by great humidity, and a high temperature, and by cloudy misty days. Rain fell on every day with the exception of two; the amount of rain registered during the month at the 4th Plantation was 44·4 inches. The total rain-fall at this Plantation between 1st January and 31st July has been 95·58 inches.

The mean maximum temperature at the 4th Plantation was 87·10, the mean minimum 67·9, and the mean temperature of the month 77·54.

At the Court at Windsor, the 18th day of May 1865.

PRESENT:

The QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by "The Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1855," it is enacted that in any case in which any lighthouse, buoy, or beacon had been or should be thereafter erected or placed on or near the coasts of any British possession, by or with the consent of the legislative authority of such possession, Her Majesty might, by Order in Council, fix such dues in respect thereof to be paid by the owner or master of every ship which passes the same, or derives benefit therefrom, as Her Majesty might deem reasonable:

And whereas a light-vessel has, by and with the consent of the legislative authority of the Colony of Ceylon, been placed on the Little Basses Rock, in the said Colony, and a light is already exhibited therein:

And whereas the several classes of ships following, that is to say,—

Every ship which, in the same voyage, by the southward of Ceylon, shall cross a line drawn from the southernmost point of Ceylon to the north westernmost point of the Island of Sumatra, and also a line from the southernmost point of Ceylon to Cape Gardafui, on the eastern coast of Africa, and vice versa:

Every ship which, in any voyage to or from any place in the Maldive Islands, shall cross a line drawn from the southernmost point of Ceylon to the north-westernmost point of Sumatra:

Every ship which, in any voyage from any port on the eastern coast of Africa, south of Cape Gardafui, or from any port in Madagascar, Bourbon, Mauritius, or any Island adjacent to the same, including the Seychelles and the Chagues Islands, or in any voyage in which such ship shall have rounded the Cape of Good Hope eastward, shall cross a line drawn from the southernmost point of Ceylon to the southernmost point of the coast of Tenasserim, and shall, between the first day of April and the thirtieth day of September, both included, arrive at any port situate north of such line:

Every ship which, having departed between the first day of October and the thirty-first day of March, both included, from any port situate to the northward of such light, and also to the westward of the 90th meridian of longitude east from Greenwich, in any voyage to any port on the eastern coast of Africa, south of Cape Gardafui, or to any port in Madagascar, Bourbon, Mauritius, or any Island adjacent thereto, including the Seychelles and the Chagues Islands, or in any voyage in which such ship shall round the Cape of Good Hope westward, shall cross the latitude of the said light on the eastward side of the said light will pass the said light-vessel and will derive benefit therefrom

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, in exercise of the powers vested in Her by the said recited Act, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, is pleased to direct that from and after the date of this present Order, the dues in respect of the said light-vessel upon Little Basses Rock, to be paid for every such ship as aforesaid, except ships belonging to Her Majesty, Her heirs and successors, shall be one penny per ton of the burthen of every such ship for every such voyage as aforesaid.

(Signed) ARTHUR HELPS.

The following Order issued by the Government of India in the Foreign Department is re-published for information:—

No. 813.—Simla, the 22nd September 1865.—His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General in Council is pleased to confer, as a personal distinction, the title of Rai Bahadoor on Baboo Kalinarain Roy Chowdhree, of Bhowal, in Dacca.

The following Order issued by the Government of India in the Financial Department is re-published for information:—

No. 2528.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India in the Financial Department, dated Simla, the 26th September 1865.

READ a letter from the Government of Bengal, No. 668 dated 17th February 1865, requesting that some definite rule may be laid down to regulate the allowances of ministerial and other Officers of Government suspended from office pending enquiry into their conduct and eventually restored, and to fix definitely the principle on which any period of such a suspension can be reckoned towards pension.

Read a Circular from the Financial Department, No. 962 dated 23rd June 1865, calling on the Governments of Madras and Bombay to furnish information as to the practice in those Presidencies.

Read the replies from those Governments, Nos. 385 and 377, dated respectively 26th April and 8th August 1865.

RESOLUTION.—The Governor General in Council is pleased to pass the following Rules:—

1st.—Subsistence to an Uncovenanted Servant who is suspended pending an enquiry into his conduct should be limited, before the result of the enquiry is known, to one-fourth of his salary, unless he be an European on pay exceeding Rupees 25, in which case the subsistence is to be allowed at one-fourth of salary to an amount not less than Rupees 25 monthly

2nd.—Should the Officer be reinstated, he may, at the discretion of the Local Government, or of the Head of Department to whom the Local Government may delegate such authority, be allowed full salary, if he shall have been fully acquitted, or a portion of his salary, if the result of the enquiry should be censure or admonition; but where censure or admonition is awarded, the subsistence allowance during suspension must be so adjusted as not to involve additional charge.

3rd.—When the payment which the Local Government may adjudge for the period of suspension to an officer who is reinstated involves additional expense, it must be separately provided for.

4th.—On Officer whose suspension is followed by dismissal, will not be allowed more than the subsistence which may be admissible to him under Rule I. for the period that he was suspended.

5th.—The time passed under suspension pending enquiry is taken into account as service towards pension in cases of reinstatement; where suspension has been adjusted as a penalty, the period is disallowed.

ORDERED, that a copy of the foregoing Resolution be sent to all the Departments, Governments, and Administrations, and to the several Accountants-General and the Deputy Accountants-General in independent charge.

Also that it be published in the Gazette of India for general information.

The following Orders issued by the Government of India in the Military Department are re-published for information:—

FORT WILLIAM,
The 5th September 1865.

No. 1520A. of 1865.

General Department.

Dated the 1st May 1865.

Notification.—The following Tea plantations and factories in Kumaon and the Deyrah Dhoon are offered for sale at the upset prices specified:—

1. Hawul Bagh in Kumaon, forty-six miles from the plains, and six miles from Almorah. The plantations (including the two small nurseries, viz., Kupeena and Lutchmaissur, in the immediate neighbourhood of Almorah) consist of about one hundred acres of land planted with Tea. At a short distance from the plantations there is a Cheer (Pinus longifolia) forest of about 100 acres in extent, in which the purchaser will have the right to cut timber, which is well fitted for making Tea chests, fire-wood, &c.

There are on the estate three large slated houses; numerous slated offices; a large slated factory; two large slated godowns; a slated barrack for Chinese Tea manufacturers; and the stock and block of the factory are complete for Tea operations and in working order.

2. Ayar Toli in Kuttyoor, Kumaon, distant about 80 miles from the plains, and about 40 miles from Almorah.

There are on the estate a slated factory and a large slated godown; slated barracks for Chinese Tea manufacturers, &c., and the stock and block of the factory are complete for the Tea operations and in working order.

This plantation consists of about 1,300 acres of land, of which about 360 acres are planted with Tea, two hundred acres of cleared land fitted for Tea-planting, and the remainder covered with pines, &c., forests, the timber of which is well adapted for making Tea chests, &c.

The yield of the two estates this season was lbs. 20,000 of Tea and 1,650 maunds of seeds.

These two estates will be sold in one lot in fee-simple, free of all demands on account of Land Revenue, exclusive of existing local cesses, such as Road, Educational, and Postal cesses, or such as may be hereafter legally imposed, at an upset price of Rs. 2,00,000 (two lacs of Rupees.)

A small portion of the plantation of Ayar Toli named Bincolie, belonging to the temple of Nagnath, will bear an annual rental of Rupees 24 (twenty-four Rupees) per annum.

This land is leased in perpetuity from the temple of Nagnath on this rental.

3. Kowlaghir in the Deyrah Dhoon, distant two miles to the west of the Town of Deyrah. It consists of about 430 acres of land, of which about 380 acres are under cultivation with Tea, and the remainder adapted for Tea cultivation.

Through the property a branch of the Beejapore canal runs. At a short distance and to the South of the plantation there is a Forest of Syne, Jamun, &c., consisting of about 500 (five hundred) acres, in which the purchaser will have the right to cut timber for Tea chests, fire-wood, charcoal, &c. The timber is well fitted for making Tea chests.

There are on the estate three bungalows; an extensive pucka Tea factory; two large pucka godowns; a barrack for Chinese Tea manufacturers, &c., and the stock and block of the factory are complete and in full working order.

The yield this season was lbs. 25,099 of Tea, and 1,050 maunds of seeds.

This estate will be sold in fee-simple free of all demands on account of Land Revenue, exclusive of existing local cesses for roads, &c., or such as may hereafter be legally imposed, at an upset price of Rs. 2,00,000 (two lacs of Rupees.) The plantations will be transferred to the purchasers on the 1st April 1866, on or before which date the purchase money must be paid at the General Treasury, Calcutta.

Tenders will be received by William Jameson, Esquire, Superintendent, Botanical Gardens, North-Western Provinces, Saharunpore, until 1st March 1866, if the factories, &c., be not previously sold by private sale, and the highest offer above the upset price will be accepted.

All tenders must be made in writing.

Every tender should be superscribed—"Tender for Tea plantation," and will be registered by the Superintendent of the Botanical Gardens on the date of receipt in a book, which he will keep, together with the tenders, in his own custody under lock and key.

The highest registered tender at the time being for any lot will be communicated by the Superintendent to any enquirers up to the time of sale, but the names of the parties who have tendered shall in no case be disclosed.

The register of tenders will be examined at noon, on the 1st March 1866, by a Committee consisting of the Superintendent, Botanical Gardens, the Judge, and the Collector of Saharunpore, at the Office of the Superintendent, and in the presence of all parties who may attend; and the amount of the highest tender for each lot, or, if there be more than one tender of equal amount, the number and amount of such tenders, but not the names of the parties tendering, will be publicly declared, and the highest tender, in writing, above the upset price at 4 P. M., will be accepted on the part of Government by the Committee.

On the tender being accepted by the Committee the purchaser must deposit five per cent. of the purchase money, which will be forfeited if the amount of the purchase money be not paid in full on the date specified.

Agents must be supplied by their principals with sufficient Powers of Attorney.

The above particulars are believed, in good faith, to be correct, but intending purchasers must make their own enquiries, as no reclamation can be listened to after sale.

References may be made to W. Jameson, Esquire, Superintendent, Government Botanical Gardens, Saharunpore.

By Order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces,

R. Simson,

Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces.

Of Presidency Golahs at Sulkea, Balasore Pungah of 1268 S. S. ...		...	177,000
			1,024,000

N. B.—The quantities here stated are those computed to be in store on the 1st November next. Deficiency in Stock of any year will be provided for by delivery of like Salt of other year at the Depôt, or by a refund of price.

The following are the Conditions of sale:—

1*st.*—The Salt will be offered for sale at an upset price to be determined at the time, and calculated separately for the Mofussil and the Sulkea Stocks, with reference to the then state of the market, and it will be sold to the highest bidder above that price, or at that price should no higher be offered.

2*nd.*—The sale shall commence at the hour of 11 A. M. of the day above-mentioned, and shall not be continued after the hour of 5 P. M.; but if at that hour any of the lots advertised for sale shall remain unsold, the sale may, at the discretion of the Board of Revenue, be resumed on the next day following (not being Sunday or a public holiday) at the hour of 11 A. M., and so on until the whole of the remaining Lots are disposed of; or, if the whole quantity advertised shall not be sold on the day appointed, the Board may dispose of the Lots which remain on hand at a future sale.

3*rd.*—Each Lot will comprise five hundred maunds of Salt, the maund being of forty seers of eighty tolahs to the seer.

4*th.*—The Salt will be deliverable from the Store Depôts.

5*th.*—A Promissory Note for the sum of one hundred Rupees shall be taken as a deposit on each Lot from the purchaser in the Sale Room and before the Lot is registered in the Sale Book, and all such Promissory Notes shall be redeemed on the part of the purchasers at this Office by Bank of Bengal Receipts, or by substitution of other Public Securities of the Bengal Government on or before 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the fifth day after sale, or on the other hand failing such redemption by the time aforesaid, then the Lot or Lots for which no Bank of Bengal Receipts or deposit of other Public Securities as aforesaid shall have been delivered in shall be re-sold at such time or times and under such conditions of re-sale as the Board of Revenue shall think fit. All losses and expenses whatsoever attending such re-sale shall be borne and paid by the defaulters, whilst any profit accruing from such re-sale shall be credited to Government.

6*th.*—The Promissory Notes taken on the day of sale under the last-mentioned condition, if remaining unredeemed at 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be placed in the hands of the Solicitor to the Government for realization.

7*th.*—No Tender of Money, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Public Securities on account of Salt upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale will be afterwards accepted.

8*th.*—The price of the Salt shall be paid for within fifteen days from the day of sale; and in case any Lots shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the cash deposit made under the fifth condition, or any Public Securities that may have been deposited on account of such Lots, shall be forfeited, and the Salt shall be disposed of on account of Government at such time and in such manner as the Board of Revenue shall think fit, and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the Salt was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale.

9*th.*—The duty on the Salt shall, unless the purchaser wishes to bond it, be paid within sixty days from the day of sale. For any Lots which may remain uncleared beyond the above period of sixty days, excepting such as may be bonded, Golah Rent will thereafter be charged at the rate of four Rupees per mensem for each 100 maunds.

10*th.*—The Salt may be bonded in a Government or a Private Golah under the Bonding Rules applicable to Sea-imported Salt.

11*th.*—Certificates specifying the name or names of the purchaser or purchasers, the number of the Lots sold, and the description of Salt purchased, will be delivered on payment of the deposit at the time and in the manner mentioned in Condition 5th, and each Certificate to be so granted must be returned to the Office of the Board before any Orders and Rowannahs (corresponding with such Certificate) for the delivery of the Salt shall be issued.

12*th.*—No Orders and Rowannahs for the delivery of any Lot of Salt shall be issued until payment in full of price and duty shall have been made for the same.

13*th.*—Fees must be paid for Rowannahs agreeably to Rule 27 prescribed by the Government of Bengal under Section 11, Act VII. (B. C.) of 1864.

14*th.*—No deposit of Public Securities under the 5th of the present conditions will be received in this Office, except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the Sale Book, or his authorized Agent. The receipt for deposit of Public Securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the Securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

15*th.*—The Officer superintending the sale on the part of the Board of Revenue is empowered to reject, at his discretion, the bid of any individual unless such individual shall on demand tender at the time a deposit, either in Government of India Notes, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Government Securities, of a sum equal to the amount for which a Promissory Note would otherwise be taken under the 5th of these conditions.

16*th.*—The purchaser of any Lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession, at the same price and under the same conditions, any number of Lots of the same Salt, not exceeding altogether one hundred Lots; provided always that there remain a sufficient number of Lots of the Salt to complete the said one hundred.

17*th.*—In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the Salt included in this Notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

By Order of the Board of Revenue,

T. Bruce Lane,
Junior Secretary.

Meteorological Observations.

From S. C. BAYLEY, Esq., Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,—(No. 1059, dated the 20th February 1865.)

THE Lieutenant-Governor desires to draw the attention of the Government of India to the necessity, which the experience of the Cyclone of 5th October has made abundantly manifest, for establishing at the Port of Calcutta and along the Coast of the Bay of Bengal within the region of Typhoons, (that is to say, from Rangoon to Madras,) a system of Meteorological Observation similar to that which is now in operation in the United Kingdom under the direction of Admiral Fitzroy, and to that which His Honor believes already exists at Bombay, whereby not only may timely notice be given to the Masters of Vessels in Port and within sight of the Coast of the probable approach of bad weather, but the conditions of the atmosphere at various points may be carefully recorded and communicated to the Meteorological Department in England, to the Bombay Observatory and elsewhere, with a view to the general promotion of Meteorological science, especially in its practical bearing on navigation and on the safety of life and property within the influence of such storms as that with which Bengal has been lately visited with such destructive consequences.

2. The Lieutenant-Governor has hitherto abstained from entering on this subject because the Observatory in Calcutta, where alone Meteorological Observations are made and recorded, is superintended by the Surveyor-General of India under the orders of the Government of India, and His Honor was also aware that the Government of India has lately been in communication with the Asiatic Society, in consequence of a proposal made by the Meteorological Committee of the Society, to place the Observatory on a more efficient footing with a view, however, rather to the bearing of Meteorology on the measures to be taken for the preservation and improvement of the public health than to its important influence on the safety of the shipping resorting to Calcutta and other Ports in the Bay of Bengal, of other property liable to be damaged by violent storms, and of the lives of those who are exposed to their fury either at sea or within the reach of the storm-wave on land.

3. With a view, therefore, of establishing a system of Meteorological Observation on the more extended basis indicated in the first paragraph of this letter, the Lieutenant-Governor has determined to appoint a Committee composed of the gentlemen whose names are entered in the margin, for the purpose of considering the whole question of drawing up a practical scheme for giving effect to the object in view.

Captain J. F Tennant.
Mr. H F. Blanford.
„ J. Obbard.

From S. C. BAYLEY, Esq., Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to LIEUTENANT-COLONEL J E. GASTRELL, H. F. BLANFORD, Esq., and J. OBBARD, Esq.,—(Nos. 1808-10, dated 11th March 1865.)

WITH a view of establishing a system of Meteorological Observations at the Port of Calcutta and along the Bay of Bengal, the Lieutenant-Governor has resolved to appoint you to form a Committee for the purpose of considering the question and of drawing up a practical scheme for giving effect to the object in view.

2. A copy of a letter No. 1059, dated the 20th ultimo, addressed to the Government of India in the Home Department on the subject is herewith forwarded for your information.

From H. F. BLANFORD, Esq., Honorary Secretary to the Meteorological Committee, to the HON'BLE A. EDEN, Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 1, dated the 6th April 1865.)

WITH reference to your letter Nos. 1808-10, dated 11th March 1865, and its enclosure, No. 1059 of 20th February 1865, I have the honor to inform you that the Committee appointed by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor has resolved to recommend that a Meteorological Observing Station be established at Saugor Island as early as practicable, as a first step towards the formation of a more extended system. The position of Saugor Island on the Seaboard to the south of the Port of Calcutta, and in the direction from which the most severe storms approach this Port, renders it peculiarly fitted for a post from which warning may be given of approaching bad weather, and being in telegraphic communication with Calcutta by a line, which is but little liable to injury and consequent interruption, nothing more will be required than to furnish the Station with instruments, and to provide for their observation and record by one of the residents at the Station.

2. The Committee having placed themselves in communication with Colonel Douglas, the Director-General of Telegraphs for India, and Colonel Thuillier, the Surveyor-General, has received those gentlemen's most cordial co-operation, and have obtained their concurrence in the scheme, which I have now the honor to submit for His Honor's consideration.

3. It is proposed that three daily observations of the Barometer, dry and wet bulb Thermometer, wind (force and direction) and clouds (for upper wind currents) be taken by the Assistant in charge of the Telegraph Station and telegraphed in accordance with Admiral Fitzroy's system to the Surveyor-General's Office in Calcutta. These messages will take precedence of shipping and all private messages At the Surveyor-General's Office the observations will be reduced immediately on receipt and transmitted together with those made synchronously at the Calcutta Observatory to one of the Members of the Committee living in the immediate neighbourhood, and also to the Master Attendants. It is proposed that signals of the Fitzroy pattern which are now well understood by all seamen be provided at the Master Attendant's, the Fort or some other convenient and prominent position, and Saugor Island to be hoisted, in case of bad weather being expected, on intimation to that effect being transmitted from the Surveyor-General's Office through the Master Attendant and the Telegraph. The Committee believe that, as a temporary measure, they will be able to take charge of the working, of the system, and that they may thus gain experience, which will be valuable to them in making arrangements for its extension.

4. While, however, the Committee are prepared thus to initiate the system, they would wish it to be fully understood that they do not consider it possible to make any reliable prediction of the weather until the laws of the local atmospheric changes are ascertained. Of these laws nothing whatever is known at present, and it is only by unremitting attention to the data obtained during the first year or two, and a careful scientific collation of them that a firm basis will be laid for carrying out the above important object of the system.

5. They would recommend that a salary of Rupees 50 a month be sanctioned, as a special allowance, to the Assistant of the Telegraphic Department at Saugor Island for performing the additional work which Meteorological Observation will impose on him. The instruments can be furnished on indent from the Government Stores or the equipment of the Saugor Station, but it is recommended that for the extension of the system instruments of uniform pattern manufactured specially to order and tested and corrected at the Kew Observatory previous to shipment be provided. Should this proposition receive His Honor's approval the Committee will submit a specification of the instruments they would propose to provide without delay.

6. The Committee will draw up and print concise Rules for the guidance of Observers, and they would furnish them with a copy of Admiral Fitzroy's, or some other work on Meteorology.

7. The Committee would further strongly recommend that an Observing Station be also established at Port Blair in the Andaman Islands. Although this Station is not in telegraphic communication with Calcutta, and the observations taken there can only be transmitted by the monthly Mail, its position near the focus from which the Cyclones of the Bay of Bengal almost invariably proceed renders it of great importance as a Station, the records of which may be expected to throw much light on the Meteorology of the Bay, with a view to deducing the laws of the prevailing wind currents as above specified; it is only by a knowledge of these latter that the telegraphic system can be made of the greatest utility in affording a pre-knowledge of atmospheric disturbances.

8. With a view to the same object the Committee would recommend that observations be made at False Point and on board the light vessels stationed at the Pilots' ridge and the Eastern Channel under instructions that will be furnished by the Committee, and that these be forwarded as opportunity may serve to the Surveyor-General's Office, (through the Master Attendant). These observations will cost nothing to Government beyond the provision of the instruments.

9. The coast line of Telegraph to Madras does not at present communicate with the East Coast at any point within the Bengal Presidency. It is, however, very desirable that at least one Station on that Coast should forward a daily telegram to Calcutta, and it would be a great advantage were observations recorded at more than one Station and transmitted daily. With a view to this arrangement the Committee solicit that they be permitted to place themselves in communication with the Government of Madras. They would suggest that by adopting this course and reporting their proceedings to the Government of Bengal expedition will be secured, and they trust that speedy extension may thus be given to a system of Meteorological intercommunication, which will very much enhance the value of the results.

From the Hon'ble A Eden, Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to H. F Blanford, Esq, Honorary Secretary to the Meteorological Committee,—(No. 2909, dated the 20th April 1865.)

I am directed to thank you for your Report No. 1, dated the 6th instant. The Committee's recommendations have the Lieutenant-Governor's entire approval and, with reference to the 5th paragraph, I am to request that the Committee will be so good as to submit an indent to the Mathematical Instrument Department for the instruments required for the proposed Observing Stations at Saugor, False Point, and the Light Ships.

2. The Government of India has been addressed in regard to the other propositions of the Committee, in my letter No. 2911, dated this day, a copy of which is forwarded herewith.

From the Hon'ble A. Eden, Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,—(No. 2911, dated the 20th April 1865.)

In continuation of letter from this Office No. 1059, dated the 20th February last, I am directed to submit copy of a Report, dated the 6th instant, drawn up by the Meteorological Committee appointed to consider the subject of establishing a system of observations along the coast of the Bay of Bengal and at the Port of Calcutta.

2. I am at the same time to request the sanction of His Excellency the Governor General in Council to the allowance of Rupees 50 per mensem asked for on account of the Assistant of the Telegraph Department at Saugor Island, who may be charged with the duty of recording observations.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor also requests that His Excellency in Council may be moved to instruct the Director-General of Telegraph Department and the Surveyor-General to give effect to the Committee's recommendations.

4. The proposition of the Committee, contained in the 7th paragraph of their letter, in regard to the establishment of an Observing Station at Port Blair, will probably commend itself to the favorable consideration of the Government of India, and His Honor suggests that a similar step might, perhaps, with advantage be taken at the new Light House on the Alguada Reef.

5. I am to request that permission be given to the Committee to place themselves in communication with the Government of Madras, in accordance with their suggestion in paragraph 9.

From J. Geoghegan. Esq., Under-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Master Attendant,—(No. 2912, dated the 20th April 1865.)

I am directed to forward, for your information, copy of a letter, No. 1, dated the 6th instant, from the Secretary to the Meteorological Committee appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor, and to request that you will be so good as to place yourself in communication with the Committee, in view to the establishment of a system of weather signals in accordance with their suggestions, and in order to the issue of proper orders to the Officers in charge of the Light House at False Point and of the Light Ships.

From A. P. Howell, Esq., Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department, to the Hon'ble A. Eden, Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 1175, dated Simla, the 27th May 1865.)

I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letters noted on the margin, on the subject of establishing a system of Meteorological Observations along the coast of the Bay of Bengal and at the Port of Calcutta.

No. 1059, dated 20th February 1865.
No. 2911, dated 20th April 1865.

2. In reply I am directed to state that a special allowance of Rupees 50 per mensem for the Assistant of the Telegraph Department at Saugor Island, who may be charged with the duty of recording observations, will be recommended to the Financial Department.

3. The Director-General of the Telegraph Department and the Surveyor-General of India will be requested to give effect to the recommendations of the Meteorological Committee.

4. The Chief Commissioner of British Burmah will be consulted in regard to the proposed establishment of Observing Stations at Port Blair and on the Alguada Reef.

5. A copy of this correspondence will be forwarded to Madras, with a request that that Government will be good enough to cause any information or assistance that may be available to be afforded to the Meteorological Committee.

From Lieutenant-Colonel C. Douglas, Director-General of Telegraphs in India, to the Hon'ble A. Eden, Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 635, dated the——June 1865.)

Under instructions from the Government of India, I am prepared to give effect to the recommendation of the Meteorological Committee, viz., that a special allowance of Rupees 50 per mensem shall be made to the Assistant in charge of the Telegraph Office at Saugor Island, who will be charged with the duty of recording observations, as soon as the necessary arrangements are completed for commencing observations.

In charge of the Observatory.

The 16th October 1865.

Notice.

Calcutta Municipality.

Notice is hereby given that the valuation and measurement of the portion of the 3rd Division of the Town, noted in the margin, has been completed, and that the Books containing the said valuations and the rates assessed can be inspected on any day (Sundays excepted) at the Office of the Justices, between the hours of 11 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M., free of charge.

Bounded on the North by Machooa Bazar, on the South by Bow Bazar, on the East by Circular Road, and on the West by College Street.

The Justices will, on the 14th, 15th, and 16th day of November next, proceed to revise the said valuation and assessment, and to hear all appeals connected therewith, but no such appeal can be heard unless the amount of rate has been deposited with the Justices in accordance with the provisions of Section 77 of the above Act on or before the 10th day of November next.

Robt. Turnbull,
Secy. to the Justices of the Peace.

APPENDIX TO

The Calcutta Gazette.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1865.

NOTICE

Is hereby given that the sale of the Proprietary right of Government to the Estates enumerated in the following Advertisements of Sale will be made subject to these

CONDITIONS OF SALE.

1*st*.—The Estates to be sold, subject to the Government Revenue against each, to the highest bidder above the upset price.

2*nd*.—The sale to be subject to existing leases and to the rights conferred by the settlement proceedings and laws in force, and Purchasers to be bound to respect the rights of resident cultivators who have signed the Schedule of Assessment made by the Revenue Authorities.

3*rd*.—If the amount of purchase money do not exceed Rupees 100, the whole amount to be paid down at once.

4*th*.—If the amount of purchase money exceed Rupees 100, one-fourth of the amount bid to be immediately deposited. If the balance be not paid by noon of the fifteenth day after the sale, reckoning the day of sale as one, or if that day be a close holiday, then by noon of the first succeeding Office day, the sale to be cancelled, the sum deposited being forfeited to Government, and the Estate to be again put up for sale at the risk of the defaulting Purchaser after issue of advertisement as in the case of original sale.

5*th*.—In addition to the ordinary Government Revenue fixed on the Estates the Purchasers shall be bound to pay for the construction of roads and improvement of communications one per cent. on the Government Revenue assessed from the date of entry upon the purchase. This sum will be leviable in the same manner as other arrears of Revenue.

By Order of the Board of Revenue,

R. B. CHAPMAN,
Secretary.

Report on the Moorings of the Port of Calcutta.

FROM CAPTAIN H. HOWE, Deputy Master Attendant, in charge, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 2525, dated the 20th October 1864.)

WITH reference to the latter part of the 3rd paragraph of your letter No. 4141T of the 11th instant, I have the honor to submit, for the consideration of the Lieutenant-Governor, that it may be desirable to appoint a Committee to report upon the Moorings of the Port, the cause of Ships having been driven from them during the late Hurricane, and the best mode of re-laying them with our present appliances of heavy anchors, chains, and posts, pending the consideration ultimately of the question of Screw Moorings.

2. If His Honor would permit me, I would beg to suggest the President of the Chamber of Commerce as President, Lloyds' Surveyor as one Member, and any other scientific and practical men that His Honor may see fit to elect.

FROM S. C. BAYLEY, ESQ., Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the HON'BLE J. N. BULLEN,—(No. 4460, dated the 24th October 1864.)

I AM directed to inform you that the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to appoint you to be President of a Committee, whereof the gentlemen named on the margin are appointed Members, to consider and report on the questions proposed by the Deputy Master Attendant in the accompanying copy of a letter No 2525, dated the 20th instant, and on the adaptability of Screw Moorings to the circumstances of the Port. It is a question, the Lieutenant-Governor thinks, whether, with reference to cost and durability, as well as to the greater safety of the Shipping and to economy of space in the Port, it is not on the whole desirable that these Moorings should be generally substituted for those heretofore in use, and you are requested to consider what means exist for carrying out such a change, either gradually or at once.

Captain A. Fraser, R. E.
" H. Hyde, R. E.
" H Howe.
Mr. G Ross.

FROM the HON'BLE J. N. BULLEN, President, Calcutta Moorings Committee, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(dated the 28th November 1864.)

IN the letter No. 4460, dated 24th October 1864, from the Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal, appointing me the President of a Committee ordered to consider and report on certain questions proposed by the Deputy Master Attendant in his letter No. 2525, dated 20th October, it was requested that the Committee should consider whether it is not, on the whole, desirable that Screw Moorings should be generally substituted for those heretofore in use in the Port of Calcutta, and as to what means exist for carrying out such a change, either gradually or at once.

2. Bearing in mind the necessity which exists of providing safe moorings previously to the advent of the freshes next South-West Monsoon, and of indenting at once upon England for a large supply of moorings in the place of those which may be deemed irrecoverable, the Committee have resolved to report, (in anticipation of their general report on the several questions which are before it,) for the information of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, the conclusions they have arrived at on the question of the adaptability of Screw Moorings to the circumstances of this Port, so that, should His Honor concur in the views held by the Committee, arrangements may be at once made for obtaining from England a supply of these moorings instead of indenting for further supplies of a description of mooring which has been proved insecure, and consequently unfitted for the purpose for which it is required.

3. It has been proved before this Committee that many of the moorings gave way before the real strength of the gale (5th October) came on; and that while in some cases the chains have parted, in others the heaviest moorings of the Port, anchors, chains, and all, have been carried bodily to the other (Howrah) side of the river and to Cossipore. It has been further proved that, while in some instances the ships' chains parted, in the generality of cases the mooring chains (although of thicker iron) have given way. But the Committee observe that there has been nothing yet before them to shew that there has been any neglect on the part of the Authorities appointed to the charge of the moorings.

4. It does not seem to the Committee a matter for their consideration whether it be possible that any kind of moorings can be found which would uniformly hold the vessels in the Port in such a Cyclone as occurred on the 5th of October last, but there is no doubt in their minds as regards the superiority generally of a system of Screw Moorings over that hitherto in use, and especially of the value (having in view the small space in which the vessels have to be moored) as a holding power, of the screw itself, as adopted in many Ports at Home, over the heaviest anchor in use in the Port. The Committee being further of opinion that, by adopting the screw system, the Government will not only secure the most efficient known means of mooring ships, but also the most economical, are unanimous in recommending that these means should be at once obtained and put into use for the Port of Calcutta.

5. The Committee consider the matter, as regards the strength of the screw moorings, to be purely an engineering question, though the precise manner of applying them, and the position in which they should be laid, would be guided by those who have the best nautical knowledge of the circumstances of the Port and of the ships visiting it; and although the Committee have no doubt of the strength of these moorings, yet the engineering experience necessary for laying them down to the best advantage is not to be found in India. The Committee therefore suggest, for the consideration of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, that it will be well that the matter be at once referred to the Home Government, and that, on account of the urgent necessity of getting the vessels into safe berths before the periodical "freshes" come down in July or August of next year, after consultation with the Corporation of the Trinity Board and other Port Authorities who are said to have employed these Screw Moorings, a requisition be made for a sufficient number of them, with chains and appliances complete, on the principles most approved by those Authorities, and that these be at once despatched to India with competent persons and proper apparatus for laying them down. These should take the place of such moorings as cannot he recovered.

6. In making this requisition it will be necessary to send at the same time all the data procurable regarding the nature of the ground, (which is believed to be well known,) the strength and effect of the tides, currents or eddies, on vessels riding in the river, and a Chart of the positions in which the moorings will eventually have to be laid. With this information, and bearing in mind the inconsiderable weight of a screw as compared with an anchor, the Committee think that, while it is necessary to re-lay the moorings, so far as materials exist, on the system heretofore in use, there is quite sufficient time to obtain the materials for the change which the Committee recommend, in lieu of the anchors, &c., lost, before the rains set in.

7. The position in which the change should be first adopted might well be left to the Marine Department, but the Committee further suggest that, in re-arranging the moorings, those which are called second and third class moorings be altogether discarded, and the existing first class anchors be laid down in their places, the screw moorings being substituted for such first class anchors as may be deficient to complete the moorings of the Port before the freshes come down, such portion of the river side, as the Marine Department may decide on, being left clear for the purpose. After next South-West Monsoon, the Screw Moorings should, in the opinion of the Committee, be gradually substituted throughout.

8. It occurs further to the Committee to suggest, for the consideration of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, that an Officer of the Government practically acquainted with the whole mooring system as it existed, and the causes of its failure, be deputed to England, so that every information may be at hand on the subject, and the necessity of any reference to India and consequent delay may be avoided.

I AM directed to forward to you the accompanying letter, dated 28th ultimo, from the President of the Calcutta Moorings Committee, reporting the conclusions at which the Committee have arrived on the questions submitted for their consideration, and to request that you will be good enough at once to prepare an Indent for Screw Moorings in accordance with the Committee's recommendation. In doing this you will probably find it convenient to place yourself in personal consultation with the Committee.

2. The Lieutenant-Governor is also desirous of receiving a report from you on the suggestion made in paragraph 8 of the Committee's letter, and would be glad to know if you could name any Officer well acquainted with the condition and requirements of this Port who is now in England, and who may be willing to afford the assistance of his experience and co-operation.

From CAPTAIN JOHN G. REDDIE, Master Attendant, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 2993, dated the 3rd December 1864.)

IN accordance with Mr Junior Secretary S. C. Bayley's letter No. 5480 of the 1st instant, I have the honor to forward an Indent for Screw Moorings for 100 ships, marked No. 1 in the accompanying Drawing of Screw Pile Moorings; these should be complete with chains, swivels, and a person should be sent out with the necessary appartus for screwing them down.

2. As I am not well acquainted with Screw Pile Mooring, I consulted Colonel Fraser, R. E., (one of the Committee,) and we agree there should be Sheer Screws as well as the regular Mooring Screws with continuous ground chains to keep the vessel from sheering.

3. I would suggest that Captain Hill, my First Assistant, now in England, be requested to put himself in communication with the India Office to answer any question that may arise regarding the state of the river. Captain Hill is intimately acquainted with the river and the system of mooring ships that has been followed in this Port.

4. I enclose also for transmission, for reference, a Chart of the River with the Moorings laid down and the general depth of water.

5. I have in store about 1,200 fathoms of 2¾ and 1,700 of 2-inch chain; but as we have only as yet picked up one set of Moorings out of 180, it is impossible for me to say how much of this, if not all, may be used for the Moorings now being re-laid. I therefore recommend that Screw Piles with chains complete be sent out with all despatch.

6. If these are sent round the Cape they will arrive too late for laying before the South-West Monsoon. I therefore recommend that fifty be sent Overland and a person with apparatus complete.

From S. C. BAYLEY, Esq., Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Master Attendant,—(No. 5530, dated the 5th December 1864)

WITH reference to your letter No. 2993, dated the 3rd instant, I am directed to inform you that the Indent submitted by you for Screw Moorings for 100 ships has been forwarded for compliance to England.

2. I am to take this opportunity to request that you will be so good as to return the original enclosure of the letter from this Office, No. 5480 of the 1st idem.

From the HON'BLE J. N. BULLEN, President of the Committee on Moorings, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(dated the 17th April 1865.)

I HAVE the honor to forward, for submission to the Lieutenant-Governor, a copy of the Proceedings of the Committee appointed by His Honor to report upon the Moorings of the Port of Calcutta, with their report thereon as well as on the other subjects subsequently submitted for their consideration as marginally noted.

MR. [illegible]ROSS.

THE President read the letter from the Government of Bengal appointing the Committee, Appendix A.

Also letter from the Deputy Master Attendant, in charge, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, No. 2527A., dated 20th October 1864, Appendix B.

The general scope of the enquiry having been fully discussed, it was decided to take evidence in the first place—

1*st.*—As to the condition of the Moorings before and after the Cyclone.

2*nd.*—As to the number of Moorings which existed, their class, and the conditions which determined that classification.

3*rd.*—The Regulations in force for periodical examination of Moorings and Chains.

4*th.*—The Regulations in force for securing that the heavier Moorings were made available for the largest vessels.

5*th.*—And generally on all points bearing on the present system of Moorings.

It was resolved to request the attendance of the Harbour Master, Mr. Peterson, before the Committee at its next sitting.

The President was requested to communicate with the Government of Bengal respecting the appointment of a Secretary.

The Committee adjourned to Wednesday, the 2nd November, at 10 A. M.

SECOND DAY.

WEDNESDAY, 2ND NOVEMBER 1864.

CAPTAIN H. HYDE, R. E.

MR. G. ROSS.

MR. JAMES FREDERICK PETERSON was called in and examined.—

"I am Harbour Master, and have been so for the last 5 years. I was previously Deputy Harbour Master for 2½ years, and before that an Assistant Harbour Master for about 15 years. As Harbour Master the moorings were under my charge. There are in all 174 moorings, extending from below the New Mint to abreast of Bishop's College on the east bank. This number includes seven berths on the western bank near the Salt Golahs and Railway Jetty. The moorings were divided into classes,—1st, 2nd, and 3rd. The last-named were used exclusively for Inland Steamers, Pilot Brigs, and Government State Barges. There were 100 first class moorings. First class moorings are laid with anchors of about 70 cwt., say from 69 to 71 cwt. The old second class moorings were laid with anchors of from 50 to 66 cwt., but those lately laid have the same weight of anchors as first class moorings. Before the Cyclone the moorings were all in good order. There is a periodical examination of the moorings. The examination commences every year immediately after the termination of the freshes. By examination I mean that the rings carrying the mooring chains, the backing anchor chains, the two pendants, and the keys of the shackles were overhauled. All below the mooring ring is not overhauled; that is, 20 to 24 fathoms of 2-inch chain, shackled on to 8 fathoms of 2¾-inch chain, which is shackled on to the mooring anchor. This examination is considered sufficient, unless there is reason to suppose that either the mooring anchor or backing anchor has dragged. The backing anchor has 15 to 25 fathoms of chain according to depth of water. The parties responsible for the examination are myself or my Deputy. The in-shore mooring is a 2-inch chain secured to a sâl post 2 feet square, embedded 20 feet in the soil; the ring of the 2-inch chain goes down to low water mark, where it is shackled on to the ship's chain. The longest moorings were reserved for the largest vessels. A ship of 1,000 tons would be the largest we should put into a second class mooring. I can give no evidence as to the state of the moorings after the gale. We have only one anchor boat in use, and she has been uninterruptedly on special service with vessels in distress since the gale. Nor have divers been available for the examination of the moorings. I believe, however, that all the mooring anchors were in their places. What gave way was either the No. 3 shackle or the ship's cables. The ships were all moored with their heads up stream. They parted with the wind at S. E. The stern moorings parted first. With the wind at S. E., and the tide running flood, the greatest strain would be on the stern in-shore chain. Three of the sâl posts to which the in-shore ships were moored broke off. The in-shore ship would be moored with her own cable, shackled on to the ring of the chain attached to this post. The order is that the ship's bower chains shall invariably be used. I do not believe that any ships were moored by their stream cables at the time of the gale. I am of opinion that it would be impossible to moor ships head and stern securely in mid stream; they must be moored head up the river during the freshes, and when the tide came in, they would certainly part their stern mooring chains. The eddies also would cause them to break adrift. Ships cannot be securely moored in this river head and stern unless where there is an easy tide-way. Moorings could be laid at Garden Reach on the eastern bank below the King of Oude's. Probably, 40 ships could be there moored. These would, however, all be without the present limits of the Port. To the northward of Calcutta, no more moorings could be laid; nor on the other side of the river on account of shallow water and the bore."

Mr. Peterson retires.

The Committee decide in requesting from the Marine Department the following:—

1*st.*—A plan of two tiers of moorings drawn to scale.

2*nd.*—A description of the moorings, shewing classes and number of each class and measurement of each class.

3*rd.*—A statement shewing sizes of ships put into the several classes of moorings, and copies of departmental orders (if any) which regulate that operation.

4*th.*—A statement shewing the date of laying down each mooring, the date of last examination, the extent of examination, and the official whose duty it was to make it.

5*th.*—A statement of the repairs (if any) which have been made during the last three years, and the failures which have occurred during that time.

6*th.*—Copy of the rules for the supervision and examination of the moorings.

7*th.*—And statement of the strength of the establishment for overhauling the fixed moorings, in boats and men, the time it takes to examine each mooring, and the number of moorings examined during the year.

The Committee adjourns for one week to allow time for preparation of these documents.

THIRD DAY.

WEDNESDAY, 9TH NOVEMBER 1864.

Members Present:

THE CHAIRMAN.

COLONEL A. FRASER, R. E.

CAPTAIN H. HOWE.

The President reports that Captain S. G. Boon has been appointed Secretary to the Committee by the Government of Bengal.

Read letter from the Secretary to the Committee, to the Master Attendant, requesting the returns specified in the minutes of the last Meeting.—(Appendix C.)

Read letter from the Harbour Master, to the Master Attendant, in reply.—(Appendix C.)

Resolved to resume consideration of these papers at the next Meeting.

Screw Moorings and Beacons. Wharves, Jetties, Tramways.

Laid on the Table. Three letters in manuscript from Colonel Fraser, R. E., to the Government of India, Public Works Department, referred to this Committee by the Government of Bengal, relating to Wharves, Jetties, and Tramway along the river bank.

Resolved that these letters be returned to the Government of Bengal, with a request that they may be printed, and copies furnished for the use of each Member of the Committee.

Screw Pile Light Houses and Beacons.

Read letter from the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, forwarding printed copies of a letter from Captain A. R. Weston, P. and O. S. S. Simla, recommending the substitution of Screw Pile Light Houses and Beacons in place of the Floating Light Vessels and Floating Buoys, now in use.—(Appendix D.)

Also docket from the Bengal Office, forwarding copy of a letter from Captain Weston, to Mr. Schiller, recommending that the same system of lighting and buoying should be adopted in the Mutlah.—(Appendix E.)

Resolved that consideration of these papers be resumed on receipt of the printed copies of Colonel Fraser's letters.

Resolved that the attendance of Captain Haddock, of the S. S. Mauritius, and of Mr. Behrends, Deputy Harbour Master, be requested before the Committee at its next Meeting.

The Committee adjourns at noon to Saturday, the 12th November, at 10-30.

Read letter from Superintendent of Government Pier Works, Carwa, to the Secretary to Government of India, Marine Department, October 19th, 1864, marked G. in the Appendix.

Read Proceedings of the Sub-Committee, dated respectively 10th and 12th November, marked in the Appendix H., I.

CAPTAIN G. BARNES HADDOCK examined—

"I am Commander of the Screw Steamer Mauritius. This is my first year in command of the Steamer Mauritius, but I have been twelve years in command of vessels. The tonnage of my ship is 2,135 tons, length 265 feet, breadth 40 feet. I was in the Esplanade moorings, Nos. 9 and 10, during the gale of the 5th of October. The Thunder was astern of us. The Govindpore was ahead of me, outside her the Beaumaris Castle. My vessel was the inside one; the Broughton Hall was outside of me. I had been in the moorings about three weeks. My vessel was securely moored. I was moored head up the stream. The bow moorings were my own chains. The stern moorings on both sides belonged to the E I. Screw Steam Company. The best bower chain was used for the bow moorings. I had stern hawse pipes. I was not on board during the gale. The vessel broke adrift about 11 o'clock. I mean she parted her in-shore moorings about that time. The in-shore moorings are secured to posts. The wind at the time was E. N. E. That would be a little before the beam. The in-shore bow moorings gave way first. The vessel then fell on the top of the Broughton Hall; this was about 12 o'clock. The link of the in-shore stern moorings gave way on deck. In hauling in the chain of the in-shore bow mooring I found the shackle attached to it, nothing else. I hung by the stern moorings some time. While hanging on to the Broughton Hall the tier of shipping ahead gave way. There was sufficient scope on the remaining bower chain to allow the vessel to swing nearly across the tide. The Mauritius had her stern in-shore. My ship was the first of her tier to break adrift. The Broughton Hall and my ship left the moorings together. We drifted across the river together. My ship grounded first, the Broughton Hall a little after. We were close together after the gale. We hove the starboard bower chain over with us when we slipped it. It was our own Company's chain that parted when the stern moorings gave way. The in-shore stern mooring parted, the other mooring we took over the other side where we moored. Our top-gallant yards were across [illegible] masts on end before and during the gale, the [illegible]-boom rigged in. I don't think it would have made much difference if our top hamper had been down. I have some experience of [illegible] moorings. I have ridden out a heavy gale at [illegible] without damage. There were no casualties of importance during that gale. The great advantage of screw moorings is their great holding power at any range and possibility of giving greater scope without sacrifice of room. The Broughton Hall was the only ship we fouled until we got over to the other side. It was nearly two hours from the time of parting the in-shore bower moorings until we broke adrift. I had no anchor ready to let go at the time of the gale. I would suggest that vessels during the hurricane months should have their bower anchor ready to let go, and should be required to do so by the Port Regulations. I have spare hawse pipes."

Witness retires.

MR. BEHRENDS examined—

"I am Deputy Harbour Master. I have held that appointment one year and ten months, but have been eight years in the Harbour Master's Department. It is part of my duty to examine the moorings. The examination commences about December. The buoy and ring to which the mooring chains are connected are hove-up. By heaving them up the whole is exposed to view, except the chain that is attached to the anchor. I mean to say that all the rings, shackles, and chains are examined and overhauled every year. Any defects discovered are invariably made good. No moorings defective in any particular are ever re-laid. During the last year the whole of the moorings were examined between December and April. What most commonly gives way are the fore-locks and shackles. Applications for moorings are made to the Harbour Master, and sometimes to me at Cooly Bazar. It is a standing rule that the largest and longest ships should be placed where the heaviest moorings are laid. Vessels moor with their bower cables fore and aft. Within the last two years I have never seen stream cables used. It is part of my duty to report it if I saw a stream cable used. I have recovered five anchors at Cooly Bazar moorings; of these two were backing anchors, the other three were first class anchors. They were in their places. I found the ring which attaches the bridle chain was carried away. We have not given up any moorings as lost. We have dragged for the whole of the moorings, but only those I have mentioned have been discovered. The only mooring anchor found out of its place as yet is one found at Cossipore, about 50 cwt., as near as I can say. The rings to which the bridle chains are attached gave way principally. The in-shore moorings at Cooly Bazar are made fast to sâl posts. Two of them were dragged out altogether. One of them was found under the bottom of the Renown. These posts appeared to be new. In No. 4 moorings the ships' in-shore chain gave way. I have recovered these chains. The Sea Horse carried away her timber heads. New moorings may be re-laid, if I had boats, men, and stores, in six months. It is not an uncommon thing for the rings to give way. The ship Horizon previous to the gale carried away the rings. Two or three months before the gale some ship carried away the rings in Garden Reach. I know nothing of the advantages of screw moorings. I don't think it would be safe to moor a ship in the stream by all fours during the freshes. I think in fine weather in the stream they may be moored head and stern."

Witness retires.

Committee adjourns to November 15th.

FIFTH DAY.

12TH NOVEMBER 1864.

Chairman and all the Members present.

Read statement marked K. in the Appendix.

CAPTAIN W. TATE, of the Ship Broughton Hall, examined—

"My vessel is 1,493 tons register, 225 feet in length, 40 feet beam. I was in Nos. 9 and 10 Esplanade moorings on the morning of the 5th October 1864. I had been there ten days. I was outside the Mauritius Steamer. The Govindpore and Beaumaris Castle were in the tier ahead of me, and the Thunder astern. We were moored head up the river. We were well moored. We were moored with our own chains. We had 15 fathoms on the bow chains from the hawse pipes. There were 30 fathoms on the stern moorings which gave 15 fathoms drift outside. The chain was two inches, it was our best bower chain. I had an anchor at the bows, but there was no chain bent to it. I had only one set of hawse pipes forward. The stern moorings passed through quarter hawse pipes. I had royal masts on end, but only top-gallant yards across, no sails bent, jib-boom rigged in. I was on board and so were my crew. The moorings first gave way about half past twelve, my port in-shore moorings first parted. The in-shore bow moorings of the Steamer Mauritius gave way a quarter of an hour before that, and she was lying on me. I am sure it was not my own chain that parted, because, when endeavoring to get afloat, I was obliged to slip it over the other side of the river finding it fast to something to which the cable of the Mauritius was also fast, and we were unable to heave it in. After the in-shore bow mooring parted the ship swung out as far as the other bow chain would permit; this parted in about an half hour. The ring to which my starboard cable was shackled, parted, in as much as my shackle was all right when the bow-cable was hove in. We then swung out into the river holding on to the stern moorings. We held on for a very short time, and then both stern moorings parted. My port hawse pipes and bitts were torn away, and the cable ran out. The starboard mooring parted within the hawse pipe. I don't think if we had let go an anchor we would have brought the vessel up. The wind was before the beam when we parted. It was flood tide when the cable gave way. Previous to Mauritius parting I did not observe we were bearing a heavy strain on the moorings of the Mauritius. I have had no experience in screw moorings I think the present system of moorings may be improved. I think that bow and stern moorings alone, however strong, are not calculated to bear a heavy broadside strain, quarter moorings are required to keep a vessel in her place." Extract from the Log of the Broughton Hall is read and recorded.

Witness retires.

MR. ROBERT TAYLOR examined—

"I am the Commander of the Newcastle, 1,137 tons register, 196 feet in length, 36 feet 8 inches in breadth. We were in No. 4 Esplanade moorings on the 5th October 1864, and had been there about twenty-five days. We were fully loaded drawing 17 feet 4 inches. I was the inside ship of my tier. The Winchester was outside. I was moored head up stream. I considered my ship securely moored. We were moored with our own chains. I think 25 fathoms of our chain was out from the hawse pipes. The bower chain was used, its size was 1¾ inch. Both anchors were at the bows but no cable was bent. I have spare hawse pipes, but I can only use one set at a time on account of the patent windlass. I had royal yards across and sails bent ready for sea; jib-boom rigged in. My crew were all on board; I was not on board myself, all my Officers were. My moorings first gave way about 1-30 p. m. The ring of the in-shore bow moorings first gave way. I found this out when I hove in the chain, and found the shackle attached to it uninjured. When the bow and in-shore mooring gave way I fell on top the Winchester. I then bent on the cable to the starboard anchor and let it go. The Calumet and Clytemnestra were in the tier ahead of the Winchester and myself, they fell across our bows. I then parted my other bow chain close to the hawse pipe. After this our stern chains parted, the in-shore moorings first gave way. The Government mooring gave way; I have the ring and about a dozen links, and a swivel. The timber heads gave way, and the other mooring ran out. The starboard bower anchor that had been let go parted at 90 fathoms. I have had no experience with screw moorings. I can make no suggestions to improve the present kind of moorings. In the Esplanade moorings the vessels appeared to lay very fair. I did not observe that any strain was brought on the in-shore moorings by the outside ship. I think the main topsail got adrift before the vessel broke from her moorings, the main trysail also got adrift."

Witness retires.

CAPTAIN J. ROBERTSON examined—

"I command the Beaumaris Castle of 1,040 tons, 202 feet in length, and 35-6 in breadth I was in No. 8 Esplanade moorings outside of my tier; the Govindpore was inside me; the Broughton Hall and Mauritius were astern; and the Hampden was the in-store ship ahead of us. I was moored head of the stream; my chains were crossed; our best bower cables were used, size 1¾ inch. We had both our anchors at the bows, no cables bent, we have only one set of hawse pipes. The stern moorings went through rolling chocks on the quarter. Our royal yards were across, no sails were bent. My ship is very stiff, stands up without ballast; I did not send down my royal yards, my experience in this river did not induce me to anticipate any gale or necessity for doing so. I had seventeen men on board, my full complement is 30 men; some of my crew were in hospital. I was on board during the gale, my Chief Officer was in hospital."

"About 11 o'clock the in-shore moorings of the Mauritius gave way, she fell on the Broughton Hall, and the weight of the two ships carried away our stern moorings leaving my stern cable and the Govindpore's shackled on to the bridle; about 11-30 the Govindpore's in-shore moorings gave way and she fell on me, we then slipped our stern chains to get clear of the Govindpore and swung head to wind; we remained in that way for about an half hour; then the Hampden and another ship above me came down on the top of us; the weight of these ships drove us out, we took the bow moorings with us. I can say positively that none of the ship's chains parted, for when I hove them up I found part of the Government moorings attached. I have had no experience with screw moorings. I would suggest that an anchor with a double shank and fluke to each shank would stand better than the present plan of mooring. I think a 70 cwt. anchor ought to hold in a gale of wind in a river like this, I think the chain should be larger than 2 inches." Extract of ship's Log put in and read.

SIXTH DAY.

3rd November 1864.

Chairman and all the Members present.

Read statement of Sub-Committee marked L. in the Appendix.

Read the Harbour Master's report on the condition of the mooring posts and chains from Chandpaul Ghât to Armenian Ghât, marked M. in the Appendix.

Mr. George Grigs examined—

"I am the Commander of the Moresfort, of 1,184 tons, 230 feet in length, 34-4 beam. I was in No. 3 Calcutta moorings on the morning of the 5th October, the outside ship of my tier; next to me was the Simla; the in-shore vessel was the Continental. The John Chisholm, Tornado, Dhollera, and Iron Duke were in the tier astern. I was moored head up stream, and I believe well moored. I was in the moorings about five weeks. I was moored with my own cables fore and aft; size of chain 1¾. Our chains were crossed. I had no chain bent to my anchor ready to let go while in moorings. There are spare hawse pipes, but our patent windlass prevents their being used. The stern chains lead through the quarters. Our royal masts were on end, and top-gallant yards crossed; no sails bent, and jib-boom rigged in. All the crew were on board, consisting of thirty, all told. I was on board during the Cyclone. At 11 A. M. the Simla's port bower chain gave way, she then fell on the top of us. My vessel held on about three quarters of an hour in this manner. The Continental's both stern moorings gave way and wedged the Simla upon us. In this position we remained an hour. The port bower chain then parted, it was the Government mooring chain that gave way. I found this to be the case when I hove the chain in and found a portion of the Government chain attached to it. The starboard chain parted half an hour after this; in this instance also it was the Government mooring chain that gave way, as I found some of the Government chain attached to my chain when I hove it in. All the time the starboard chain was holding us, the ships in the tier astern of me were dragging our stern outwards. Ultimately our stern moorings gave way; the fixed mooring chains parted. One of the mooring buoys we took away with us. I bent the port cable on the starboard anchor and dropped the anchor under foot when the first bower chain parted. My anchor brought me up for three quarters of an hour; I had 150 fathoms of chain out. I would have rode it out if three ships had not run into me. The ships were the Solway, Red Rose, and Great Tasmania. I think there would have been less damage if the ships had had there top hamper down before the Cyclone came on. As a nautical man, I thought the weather on the Tuesday evening (October 4th) threatening. I have commanded a ship in Calcutta three or four years. I was at anchor in the stream during the month of August of the present year for ten days. I am of opinion it would be perfectly feasible to moor ships head and stern in the stream; ships would be secure with the usual scope of 25 fathoms to the hawse. I have had experience with screw moorings. I have been at Newcastle-on-Tyne where screws are used. Their holding power is much greater. They will admit of longer scope. I have never known vessels to break adrift from screw moorings. The tide in the Tyne, when the ice breaks up, runs 7 knots. I have seen ships of two thousand tons lying two in a tier moored in the stream with that tide running. The ships were moored head and stern."

Question.—Are you aware that the object of putting ships into the moorings close to the shore is to keep them out of the strength of the tide?

Answer.—Certainly.

Question.—Did you sheer about much when riding in the stream during August last?

Answer.—A good deal.

Question.—Don't you think, with a tide running six or seven knots with flurries and eddies, it would be a dangerous position for a ship to be moored head and stern in the stream?

Answer.—That would depend upon how she was moored; if securely moored, I think they would not be so much in danger as ships lying at their own anchors in the stream.

Question.—Don't you think if she broke her sheer through any of the ground tackle giving way when moored head and stern in such a tide that she would be in danger of capsizing if she could not swing to the tide?

Answer.—No, not unless she took the ground.

A ship cannot break her sheer if moored head and stern. I think fixed moorings are preferable to swinging moorings in the stream.

Witness retires.

Mr. George Vivian Gideon examined—

"I command the Winchester of 1,157 tons, 210 feet long, 32 feet beam. I was in No. 4 Esplanade moorings, outside ship of my tier, Newcastle was inside of me, there was no vessel astern of us. I was moored head up stream and well moored. I was about 10 days in those moorings I was moored with my own chains fore and aft. The bower chains were used, size 1¾. I have double hawse pipes. I had an anchor and chain ready to let go. We had skysail masts aloft, top-gallant yards across, and jib-boom rigged in, no sails bent. The whole of my crew were on board, excepting 11 men discharged on the 4th, the day previous to the Cyclone. I was on board the day of the Cyclone. About 11 A. M. our starboard bower chain parted; our own chain parted. I was moored with open hawse. The Newcastle fell upon us before we parted. We remained some considerable time in this way, then the other bow chain parted, our own chain in this instance also gave way, we then hung by our stern moorings till 3 P. M.; the in-shore mooring at this time gave way; it was the Government chain that parted. I found this to be the case when I hove it in. The other stern mooring gave way when the Thunder fell upon us; the Government chain in this instance also gave way; in heaving my chain in I found the Government chain attached. I let go two anchors to bring the vessel up, one with the chain cable and one with a hemp cable bent to it; the weight of our anchors are 41 cwt.; we had 40 fathoms of chain out. The anchors did not bring the vessel up. I think the vessels would not have felt the force of the wind so much if their top hamper had been down. I have been here before during the freshes. I have had no personal experience with screw moorings. Screw moorings, I believe, have greater holding power than common anchors. The vessels on the Tyne are moored, I understand, with bridles similar to the manner adopted in Calcutta; only that screws are used instead of anchors. In the freshes I would rather be at my own anchors than at all fours in the stream. I don't think vessels would be safe in fixed moorings in the stream during the freshes. I think the tides and eddies would make it unsafe. I think a ship would be safer lying at swinging mooring than at her own anchors."

Witness retires.

Committee adjourns to Monday, November 28th.

SEVENTH DAY.

28TH NOVEMBER 1864.

The Chairman and all the Members present.

MR. GEORGE BARTLETT YOUNG, Branch Pilot, examined—

"I am of opinion that it is not safe to moor ships head and stern in the stream during the freshes. In the N. E. Monsoon, ships would be moored head down the stream. I think it would be more safe for a ship to be at swinging moorings than at her own anchors, provided the chain and anchors are larger than her own, and it would also be more convenient. The bore coming up would snap any chain: it is most felt on the Howrah side, and less felt in the centre of the stream than on either side of the river."

Question by the President, No. 1.—In which of the moorings is the bore most felt?

Answer.—In the Kidderpore and Bankshall moorings.

Question by Colonel Fraser, No. 2.—Would a vessel meeting a breaker be more jerked than by meeting a wave.?

Answer.—I think a vessel meeting a breaker would be more jerked than when meeting a wave.

Question by the President, No. 3.—Is the proportion of ships that break adrift from those moorings larger than any other?

Answer.—I am not able to say.

Question by Captain Hyde, No. 4.—Is the bore felt more or less in the stream opposite the Bankshall and Kidderpore moorings than in the moorings?

Answer.—I think more.

Question No. 5.—Is the bore felt more or less in the stream opposite the Esplanade moorings than in the moorings?

Answer.—More in the stream.

Question by Mr. Ross, No. 6.—Are there any parts of the river where the bore is less felt in the stream than at the Bankshall and Kidderpore moorings?

Answer.—There are parts.

Question No. 7.—What parts would you indicate?

Answer.—Above from where the bore crosses at Bankshall to Cossipore, also in Garden Reach.

Question No. 8.—Would there be much or any risk of a ship breaking her sheer well moored taught head and stern head up stream in the freshes?

Answer.—I think there would be a risk.

Question No. 9.—Would the strain then on the ships moored head and stern in the stream be so much greater than when lying at their own anchors?

Answer.—I think there is little difference, the ships' appliances are not strong enough to meet either case.

Question by Captain Howe, No. 10.—Supposing a ship moored head and stern in the stream during the freshes, and the ebb-tide running in eddies taking her on one bow and breaking her sheer, would not the ship be in danger of being thrown on her beam ends if unable to swing to the tide?

Answer.—Decidedly.

Question No. 11.—Would she be likely, under such circumstance, to carry away her cut water, stem, windlass, and hawse pipes, even if she were not thrown on her beam ends?

Answer.—If she got her chains under her fore foot which she would be likely to do in a bad sheer.

Witness withdraws.

MR. GEORGE STREVENS examined—

"I am a pensioned Branch Pilot."

Question by the President, No. 12.—How many years' experience have you had on the river?

Answer.—I have had 41 years' experience on active service.

Question No. 13.—Do you think it would be safe to moor vessels head and stern in the stream all through the year?

Answer.—I do not.

Question No. 14.—Do you think it would be safe to moor vessels in this way during any part of the year?

Answer.—It may be for two or three months during the easy tides.

Question No. 15.—Why do you think vessels could not be safely moored at all fours during the other months of the year?

Answer.—During the freshes eddies are very violent, the sands shift, and the bore is very strong.

Question No. 16.—Is the bore strongest in the stream where ships are anchored, or on the side of the river on the east bank where they are moored?

Answer.—It would be strongest in the stream.

Question No. 17.—Are there parts of the river where the bore is more felt in the stream than at other parts?

Answer.—I think not, all the way up in deep water it is felt the same.

Question No. 18.—Does the bore cross the river at any particular parts?

Answer.—Yes, it crosses from Howrah Ghaut to near Mint Ghaut, and from thence it crosses to the Goosery side.

Question No. 19.—At these crossing points is the bore felt more strongly than at other parts of the stream?

Answer.—I think not.

Question by Captain Howe, No. 20.—You say the bore crosses first from Howrah over to the Mint, but the wave pervades the whole river, does it not?

Answer—Certainly.

Question No. 21.—Is the bore felt more or less in the stream opposite Kidderpore and Bankshall mooring than in the moorings?

Answer.—I think more.

Question No. 22.—Is the bore felt more or less in the stream opposite the Esplande than in the Esplanade moorings?

Answer.—More in the stream.

Question by Colonel Fraser, No. 23.—You said if nothing gave way, ships would not sheer to a dangerous extent; do you think that it is possible to moor ships in mid stream sufficiently strong that nothing should give way in moorings or ships?

Answer.—The moorings might be made of sufficient strength, but the ships as they exist, according to my experience, have not sufficiently strong fittings to bear the strain.

Question by Mr. Ross, No. 24.—Would there be much or any risk of a ship breaking her sheer well-moored taught head and stern head up stream on the freshes?

Answer.—If she was well-moored she would not have scope sufficient to allow her to sheer more than a point, and that would not be sufficient to lead to damage to the vessel.

Question by Captain Howe, No. 25.—Do you think cargo or other boats could go alongside ships moored in the stream during the height of the freshes?

Answer.—I think not.

Question by the President, No. 26.—In your long experience have you ever known ships moored head and stern in the stream during the freshes?

Answer.—No.

Adjourned to 1st December.

EIGHTH DAY.

1st December.

All the Members present.

Mr. James Frederick Peterson, Harbour Master, re-called and examined.

Question by the President, No. 27.—Have you, in your long experience of Harbour Master, ever seen ships moored in the stream at all fours?

Answer.—No.

Question No. 28.—Do you think they could be safely moored in that way?

Answer.—No.

Question No. 29.—Not at any season of the year?

Answer.—For three months, from November to February, they could be safely so moored.

Question No. 30.—Then during the other nine months you think they could not be so moored?

Answer.—They could not.

Question No. 31.—Why not?

Answer.—On account of the strong tides and bores.

Question No. 32.—What effect would the strong tides, which you allude to, have on vessels moored at all fours in the stream?

Answer.—If they take the slightest "cant" every thing will be carried away.

Question No. 33.—What do you mean "every thing will be carried away?"

Answer.—Either the ship's chains, bitts, or mooring chains would part.

Question No. 34.—Cannot ships be so moored that they may ride fair to the tide, and such a case as you describe be rendered impossible?

Answer.—No, there must be some slack chain to allow of the rise and fall of tide.

Question No. 35.—Have you had any practical experience of mooring in other Ports?

Answer.—No.

Question by Colonel Fraser, No. 36.—You say ships cannot be safely moored at all fours in the centre of the stream—are there any other positions within the limits of the Port besides eastern bank where ships could be so moored?

Answer.—None, excepting the four moorings laid abreast of the Salt Golahs.

Question No. 37.—Is there room for additional moorings abreast of the Salt Golahs?

Answer.—No.

Question by Mr. Ross, No. 38.—In some of the outside moorings, for instance, the four berth tiers, are not the tides, eddies, and bores as strong, or nearly so, as in the middle of the stream?

Answer.—Not quite so strong as in the middle of the river.

Question No. 39.—Are they nearly so strong?

Answer.—They may be nearly as strong.

Question No. 40.—You say the tides, eddies, and bores are felt nearly as strong by vessels lying in the outside tier in some of the Calcutta Moorings, as by vessels in the stream—have any of the consequences you predict as likely to occur to vessel moored in the stream, occurred to vessels in such berths?

Answer.—No, the in-shore ship is the key of her tier, and we are always compelled when we move a ship out from the in-shore berth, to have another vessel ready to go in; this keeps vessels in the tier from sheering.

Question No. 41.—Must not the ships in the moorings have play on their mooring tackle, and so the outside ship be at liberty to cant in like manner as if they were at all fours in the stream?

Answer.—No, the outside ship is checked by the vessels inside her, and so she cannot sheer about, as she would, if moored singly in the stream.

Question by Colonel Fraser, No. 42.—Would the strain upon the tackle of a ship moored at all fours in the stream be more or less in the freshes than if she were at liberty to sheer about at her own anchors?

Answer.—The strain would be greater if she were moored under fours.

Question by Captain Hyde, No. 43.—Is the force of the tide and eddies, and of the bores, as strong in any of the moorings on the Calcutta side as in the centre of the stream?

Answer.—The tides and eddies are nearly as bad in the two outer berths Nos. 1 and 2, Calcutta moorings, but not quite; the bores are less felt.

Question by Captain Howe, No. 44.—Independent of the action of the tide on a ship moored head and stern in the stream in the freshes, as suggested in previous questions, would not the occurrence of a heavy gale of wind blowing on the broad side of a ship in such circumstances place her in danger if she could not swing or ride head to wind?

Answer.—It would be dangerous for her.

Question by the President, No. 45.—Is there any spot in the centre of the stream within Port limits where the tide and bores, separately for each, are less felt than in Nos. 1 and 2, Calcutta Moorings?

Answer.—As to tide, none; as to bore, I don't know of any.

Question by Captain Hyde, No 46.—In what parts of the river are the bores most felt, I mean whether in the stream or in-shore where the ships lie at moorings?

Answer.—The bore is strongest on the western bank and up to the centre of the stream; from the centre to the eastern bank it is less felt.

Question by Captain Howe, No. 47.—Is the bore in the centre of the stream more felt than in the moorings on the Calcutta side?

Answer.—Yes, a great deal.

Witness withdraws.

Mr. C. W. Warden, Branch Pilot, examined.

Question by the President, No. 48.—What experience have you had of this river?

Answer.—I have been 27 years in the service.

Question No. 49.—Have you, in your experience, ever seen ships moored under fours in the stream?

Answer.—Never.

Question No. 50.—Do you think they could be safely so moored?

Answer.—I am unable to give a positive opinion.

Question No. 51.—Do you wish that answer to be understood to apply to all seasons of the year?

Answer.—I think at some season of the year they could be so moored.

Question No. 52.—What season?

Answer.—From November to March inclusive.

Question No. 53.—Then as to the other months?

Answer.—No, I think it would not be safe.

Question No. 54.—Why not?

Answer.—On account of the tides and the communication with the shore for cargo and passengers.

Question No. 55.—How could the tide affect the ship so moored?

Answer.—The tides at certain seasons of the year do not run fair; they run in surfaces in opposite directions, they cause a ship to run ahead of her anchors, to sheer and to carry away her chains, hawse pipes, and other gear.

Question by Mr. Ross, No. 56.—That remark applies to vessels lying at their own anchors, but if moored under fours they could not run ahead of their anchors?

Answer.—If they were so moored, head and stern, that they could not move, then of course they could not run ahead of their anchors.

Question No. 57.—Is it possible to moor a ship in that way?

Answer.—I hardly think it is.

Question by the President, No. 58.—But why not?

Answer.—Because you must allow some latitude for rise and fall of tide.

Question No. 59.—Have you had any experience of moorings in other Ports?

Answer.—I have not.

Question No. 60.—Supposing fixed moorings are laid in the stream of such weight that they could not be lifted with cable of extra strength, so that nothing could give way; do you then think that ships could be safely moored in the stream?

Answer.—I don't think the appliances of ship suitable for such moorings.

Question by Mr. Ross, No. 61.—Given the same appliances, would the ship be more safe in the stream at her own anchors swinging to the tide than at her fixed moorings?

Answer.—Moorings in the stream under fours are safer.

Question No. 62.—If you were taking a ship, say, a heavy ship, to sea in the freshes, and on coming to your anchorage for the day, found you could put her into fixed moorings, all fours in the streams, would you do so, or would you prefer to keep her at her own anchors?

Answer.—I would put her into moorings so far as the safety of the ship is concerned.

Question by the President, No. 63.—You have said already that ships cannot be safely moored under fours in the stream during the freshes, yet you now say they would be safer moored than riding at their own anchors; how do you reconcile these answers to the fact that vessels do ride safely at their own anchors in the stream?

Answer.—It is not safe for ships lying either at their own anchors or at moorings in the stream, but of the two they are safer at fixed moorings.

Question by Captain Howe, No. 64.—Is it possible to moor under fours, so that a vessel should not sheer about to a certain extent?

Answer.—It may be possible at slack water.

Question No. 65.—Supposing her so moored, what would be the effect of an eddy tide acting on the bow or quarter?

Answer.—It might careen her a little over, but beyond that no harm would ensue.

Question by Captain Howe, No. 66.—What would be the effect of a gale of wind on the beam of a ship so moored?

Answer.—If light, she might turn over; if laden, she would ride safely.

Question by Mr. Ross, No. 67.—Supposing a vessel in the in-shore moorings with a similar gale of wind, what would be the effect?

Answer.—The effect would be similar.

Committee adjourns to December 3rd.

NINTH DAY.

3rd December.

All the Members present.

Mr. W. H. Cox, Branch Pilot, examined.

Question by the President, No. 60—What experience have you had of the river?

Answer.—Nearly 22 years' continuous service.

Question No. 61.—In that long experience, have you yourself moored ship under fours in the stream, or seen a ship so moored?

Answer.—Never.

Question No 62.—Do you think it could be safely so done at any season?

Answer.—I certainly do not think it could be done during the freshes.

Question No. 63.—Why not in the S. W. Monsoon?

Answer.—I think ships would be injured, though they might not part from their moorings, owing to the strength of the tides.

Question No. 64.—Supposing no moorings near the river bank to be available, and that it was necessary for the vessel to remain in the stream, do you think she would be safer at her own anchors, swinging to the ebb and flood, than moored in the stream head and stern to fixed moorings?

Answer.—Lying in the stream head and stern, he would have four chains to break before she went adrift, lying at her own moorings she would have only two, consequently she would be safer at fixed moorings.

Question by Colonel Fraser, No. 65 —If in fixed moorings one of the ship's bow chains parted, would there be any liability of her capsizing, a strong tide running?

Answer.—She would careen over, but if a good model, there would not be much chance of her capsizing.

Question by Captain Howe, No. 66.—You say a ship would have four chains to carry away before she broke adrift; but she would only have two at each extremity at a time?

Answer.—Yes.

Question No. 67.—Head up the river, if a vessel parted her bow chains and swinging round till brought up by her stern moorings, would she be likely to hold on riding stern on to a strong ebb tide in the freshes?

Answer —That entirely depends on the strength of the stern fastenings of the ship.

Question by Captain Howe, No. 68.—Would it not also depend somewhat on the form of a ship, thus, would a ship ride by the stern so securely, or nearly so, as by the head?

Answer.—The stern frame of a ship is not calculated to hold her

Question by the President, No. 69—Has the helm any power over the vessel in a tide way when fast by the stern?

Answer.—I think not.

Question No. 70.—Then would the ship so fast not sheer about to a dangerous extent, and be liable at once to carry away her stern moorings?

Answer.—The liability to do so increases.

Question by Captain Howe, No. 71.—Should a ship be moored in the stream under fours, could she by means of her helm sheer out of the way of any danger coming upon her, say a ship or straw boat on fire, or vessel adrift?

Answer.—She could not.

Question by the President, No. 72.—Then as to swinging moorings, would these be safer for vessels than lying at their own anchors, swinging ebb and flood?

Answer.—They would be safer.

Question No. 73.—I put these three positions to you,—

A vessel off town with no mooring berth vacant near the shore, in which position do you think she would be most safe?

1*st.*—Riding at her own anchors, swinging ebb and flood.

2*nd.*—Riding at Government swinging moorings.

3*rd*—Moored at fixed moorings under fours.

Answer.—I certainly think the second, whilst riding at Government swinging moorings she would have her two anchors ready to let go in case of accident.

Question No. 74.—Are there any of the parts of the river within the limits of the Port beyond those now laid with moorings where moorings could be laid?

Answer.—I think there are from Muttea Bruss's Ghaut to the premises of the Calcutta Steam Tug Company; ships could be moored near the bank, and I think twenty ships could be moored near the bank in double tiers, but this is outside the present limits of the port: again on the right bank from the Garden House Point to the Garden Steps six ships could be moored in a single tier; above Muttea Bruss's Ghaut, three more in single tier.

Question No. 75.—Is the force of the bore where it is most felt in the moorings greater or less than where least felt in the river?

Answer.—I think about the same.

Question No. 76.—Where is it least felt in the stream?

Answer—Abreast of Fort Point.

Question No. 77.—Where is it most felt in the moorings?

Answer.—Bankshall Ghaut.

Witness retires.

Mr. B. K. Benesly, Brevet, B. P., examined.

Has been 21 years' continuous service on the river, part of which time was spent in the Surveying Department.

Question by the President, No. 78.—In that long experience have you yourself moored vessels under fours in the stream or seen a ship so moored?

Answer.—Never.

Question No. 79.—Do you think it could safely be done at any season?

Answer.—I don't think it could with safety to herself during the period when bores prevail, or during the height of the freshes.

Question No. 80.—Why not in the S. W. Monsoon.

Answer—I think she could not be safely so moored, because you must allow a certain amount of scope, and she would either forge ahead into the next tier or something would give way on board: a ship's fastenings are not calculated to hold in such a heavy stream, particularly the stern fastenings, and this is where the greatest strain would be, the increased strain on a ship moored head up stream as she would necessarily be during the freshes.

Question No. 81.—I put these three positions to you—A vessel off town with no mooring berth vacant near the shore, in which position do you think she would be most safe?

1*st.*—Riding at her own anchors, swinging ebb and flood.

2*nd.*—Riding at Government swinging moorings.

3*rd.*—Moored at fixed moorings under fours.

Answer.—I think the second, for the same reason as Mr. W. Cox. Riding at ship's anchors or being moored under fours, I think the latter would be the least dangerous of the two.

Question No. 82.—Are there any other parts of the river within the limits of the Port beyond those now laid with moorings where moorings could be laid?

Answer.—None within the limits of the Port. In Garden Reach from Muttea Bruss's Ghaut to Gordon, Stuart and Co., I think ships could be moored in three tiers without inconveniencing the running channel on the northern bank, perhaps 16 ships in single tier, but the present "turning ground" must be abandoned.

Question No. 83.—Do you think the strain on the ship's appliances would be greater or less when riding at her own anchors, or when moored at all fours?

Answer.—The strain will be greater if riding at her own anchors and sheering about.

Witness withdraws.

Committee adjourns to December 10th.

TENTH DAY.

10TH DECEMBER 1864.

All the Members present.

MR. CHARLES SMYTH, Master Pilot, examined.

Question by the President, No. 84.—How long have you been in the service?

Answer.—I have been in the service 21 years; my service has been continuous.

Question No. 85.—Have you had any experience of mooring vessels under fours in the stream?

Answer.—None.

Question No. 86.—Have you ever seen vessels so moored?

Answer—No.

Question No. 87.—Do you think they could be so moored with safety to the vessels themselves?

Answer.—As ships are generally fitted, especially their after-fittings, I think they could not be so moored.

Question No. 88.—In the N. E. Monsoon?

Answer.—I think that from the 15th November to the end of January inclusive they could be so moored in safety.

Question No. 89.—In the S. W. Monsoon?

Answer—No.

Question No. 90.—Have you ever seen vessels in the stream moored to permanent swinging moorings?

Answer.—Yes.

Question No. 91.—Do you consider a vessel at such moorings safer than lying at her own anchors in the stream?

Answer—Yes.

Question No. 92.—On what grounds?

Answer.—The anchor being heavier, has a greater holding power; the ground tackle can be made heavier and stronger than a ship's ground tackle would be; she would also have her own anchors ready to let go if she broke adrift.

Question No. 93.—Vessels moored under fours require, I presume, less space than if moored to swinging moorings or lying at their own anchors?

Answer.—They would.

Question No. 94—Then in the N. E. Monsoon, when you think that vessels could safely be moored under fours, by so mooring them, many more vessels could be accommodated within limits of the Port than swinging ebb and flood, can you form an idea how many additional vessels could be so accommodated, say between Hastings' Bridge and abreast the Railway Ghaut?

Answer—I cannot say how many, but I should think fully double the number which can now be accommodated.

Question No. 95—In the S. W. Monsoon, presuming no in-shore mooring available, which of the three methods of mooring would you prefer?

1*st.*—At fixed moorings under fours in the stream.

2*nd.*—At permanent swinging moorings.

3*rd.*—At her own anchors?

Answer.—I think the second.

Question by Colonel Fraser, No. 96.—Could the moorings be so laid in the stream that in the N. E. Monsoon when the river is most crowded they could be converted into swinging moorings?

Answer.—Yes they could be so laid; but of course the same number of vessels could not be put into them when used as swinging moorings.

Question No. 97.—You have said that of the methods of mooring a ship in the stream in the S. W. Monsoon when no in-shore moorings were available, a vessel would be safer at permanent swinging moorings than if moored under fours, or lying at her own anchors; but a vessel lying at her own anchors, and one moored under fours, which would you consider the safest for the vessel?

Answer.—I would prefer my own anchors.

Witness withdraws.

MR. CHARLES REED JOHNSON, Commander of the Continental, British Ship, examined.

Question by the President. No. 98.—Have you been frequently to this Port?

Answer.—I have been here six or seven times, since 1850, at all seasons of the year. I have had experience of the strength of the freshes as much as most ship masters.

Question No. 99.—Supposing you arrived off town and found no mooring berth available in shore and were offered the choice of mooring your vessel in the stream in three ways, viz.:—

1*st.*—At fixed moorings under fours,

2*nd*—At permanent swinging moorings,

3*rd.*—At your own anchors,

Which do you think would be the safest for your vessel?

Answer.—I would prefer lying at my own anchors.

Question No. 100.—Why?

Answer.—Because, through eddies or the bore, the ship would be likely to run over the buoy (at swinging moorings) and be in danger of rubbing off her copper, or even stave in a plank.

Question No. 101.—Are there no means of keeping the buoy clear of the ship?

Answer.—It could be done by leading a hawser from the buoy to the bowsprit; but that would bring a heavier strain on the bowsprit than I should consider safe.

Question by Colonel Fraser, No. 102.—You say ships at swinging moorings would forge a head foul of the buoy, is that not an argument in favor of all fours?

Answer.—Yes, but although many ships are properly fitted to receive the after chains, many are not.

Question by Captain Howe, No. 103.—Do you think that a ship moored head and stern in the stream during heavy freshes would be in a safer position even if she had bitts strong enough to hold her aft?

Answer.—Yes, I think she would.

Question No. 104.—Would she not be safer if able to swing to the tide instead of having to bear a heavy lateral pressure with strong eddies and flurries?

Answer.—Yes.

Question No. 105.—Would not a ship moored head and stern in the stream be in a dangerous position with a heavy gale of wind on her beam, she being unable to swing or ride head to wind?

Answer.—She would, if her ports were not properly secured.

Question by Colonel Fraser, No. 106.—Would the danger be greater or less than if in moorings near the bank?

Answer.—If the wind was off shore she would be safer in the shore moorings; if on the other beam she would be safer in the stream.

Question No. 107.—You have had considerable experience of the Mississippi?

Answer.—I have been there half a dozen times.

Question No. 108.—Is there any similarity between that river and the Hooghly?

Answer.—The only difference between the Hooghly and the Mississippi is that the stream always runs down in the Mississippi; there is no flow of tide.

Question No. 109.—What is the velocity of the river in the strongest tides?

Answer.—I should think 8 knots, quite as strong as in the Hooghly in the freshes.

Question No. 110.—How are ships moored in the Mississippi?

Answer.—They lay alongside the Pier usually 3 in a tier, moored head and stern all head up stream; every ship in each tier has her own bow and stern hawsers made fast to posts on shore; the largest ships are usually put outside, no anchor moorings are provided: it is optional for any ship to let go her anchor if she likes; ships are made fast to each tier; the inside ship is the key ship, she is supposed to be so well secured that she can hold the outside vessels: the wharps of the key ship are fast to the Pier: every ship lies with her yards a cock-bill.

Question No. 111.—Is the stream of the Mississippi alongside the Pier as strong as in the Hooghly in the moorings?

Answer.—Equally as strong.

Question by the President, No. 112.—Have you ever rode out a gale of wind in the Mississippi moored as you described?

Answer.—Not a heavy gale.

Question No. 113.—Do you consider the mode of mooring ships in the Mississppi superior in point of safety to the method adopted in this river?

Answer.—If each ship has her own anchor, as each vessel in the Mississppi has her own post, they ought to hold equally well; but if they do break adrift they are better off in the Mississippi than here, because they have their own anchors ready to let go.

Question No. 114.—Do you think ships moored in the Mississippi as you have described could have rode out in safety the gale of the 5th October 1864?

Answer.—I don't think they would.

Question No. 115.—Are the Piers in the Mississippi public or private property?

Answer.—Private property.

Question No. 116.—Are they substantially erected?

Answer.—No.

Question No. 117.—How do they fare in a gale of wind?

Answer.—They have a post or two knocked away occasionally, but I never saw any carried away altogether.

Question No. 118.—In what length of time is a vessel usually loaded and discharged, say of 1,000 tons.?

Answer.—They can discharge and load in fifteen days at the outside.

Question No. 119.—Do vessels anchor in the stream in the Mississippi?

Answer.—They do, until they can get a berth.

Question No. 120.—Are accidents to vessels in the stream as frequent as here?

Answer.—No, a ship very rarely sustains any damage.

Witness withdraws.

Committee adjourns to December 16th.

REPORT.

The Committee appointed by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal to enquire into the system of Moorings existing in the Port of Calcutta, and the desirableness of substituting Screw Moorings for those heretofore in use, and to whom the following further subjects were subsequently remitted for their consideration, viz.:—

"A plan for increasing the conveniences of the Port by the constructions of Quays, Jetties, and Tramways;

"A proposition to substitute Screw Pile Lighthouses for the Light Vessels at the Sandheads; and

"A similar proposition for the substitution of Screw Pile Beacons for the Channel Buoys;"

—having taken evidence, oral and documentary, as printed in detail in the Appendix hereof, have the honor to report—

See letter of instructions, Appendix A.

1*st.*—ON THE CALCUTTA MOORINGS.

The Committee find from the Marine Office that, prior to the Cyclone of 5th October last, the most violent storm of which there is any definite record as passing over the Port of Calcutta was that of the 3rd June 1842, and that on that date the state of the moorings is recorded to have been as follows:— Appendix W.

Fixed Moorings along shore	59
Swinging Moorings in stream	32

In the fixed moorings 5 ships rode safely during the storm and 32 broke adrift; the other moorings were vacant.

In the swinging moorings 21 remained secure and 11 were carried away.

The Reports of the gale state that of the 32 casualties in the fixed moorings

25 ships parted in the shackles,
3 ships parted bridle chains,
1 ship parted from shore post,
3 ships, there is no report.

The whole of the moorings could not be recovered immediately after the storm, and hence many ships had to ride at their own anchors in the stream during the freshes, and a report (Appendix X.) shews that among these ships between the 14th July and 27th August there were 40 casualties of various kinds.

In the commencement of 1855 the fixed moorings were increased so as to accommodate 77 vessels, and the Chamber of Commerce, finding that this was still insufficient, suggested that swinging moorings should be laid down.

The Marine Authorities strongly objected to this, and Captain Rogers, then Superintendent of Marine, in urging wet docks, pointed out that if a violent storm did pass over the crowded Port of Calcutta in the freshes "the destruction of property and life would be immense."

Later in the same year Government sanctioned an increase in the fixed moorings so as to accommodate 154 ships, and the moorings have been added to till in the month of October, prior to the Cyclone, the Committee find that the mooorings in Port numbered 174 as per plan and detailed sketch.

The Committee find that the moorings have been yearly examined, overhauled, and reported on by the Harbour Master, as per Appendix C., under written orders from the Master Attendant issued from time to time.

The evidence shews that the moorings are divided into three classes as follows:—

1st Class Moorings for ships of 1,200 tons and upwards.

2nd Class Moorings for ships of 700 tons and upwards.

3rd Class Moorings for small ships of 300 tons and for river craft.

Special moorings had to be put down for the ships of the East Indian and London Screw Steam Shipping Company, the length of their ships exceeding that of the largest vessels usually resorting to this Port.

The moorings were laid with single fluke anchors. The whole of the tackle below the rings, together with buoys and their connecting chains, belonged to the Port.

Vessels were moored under the Harbour Master's orders by their own bower cables to the rings.

Harbour Masters were responsible for the work of mooring.

The Committee find, from the records of the Master Attandant's Office, that there were in moorings on the morning of the 5th October last 151 vessels, of which 144 drifted or were carried away.

The Committee find that during the Cyclone the in-shore tackle generally first gave way, and that the reasons for this appear to have been—

1*st*.—That from the course in which the Cyclone passed over the vessels moored, the greatest strain was brought on the shore tackle.

2*ndly*.—That the system of mooring adopted transmitted to the shore tackle an undue strain, (viz., a portion of the tension caused by every ship in the tier in addition to the tension due to the ships directly moored by it,) whilst this tackle was only of ordinary size as compared with other portions of the moorings.

3*rdly*.—That the system of mooring adopted in the port was so far defective in that every ship in a tier or set of tiers was more or less dependent on the other ships. That the vessels being thus as it were links of a floating net work, any one link of which giving way, or any portion of ships mooring or tackle failing, the whole fabric was of necessity disturbed; so that in the late Cyclone, when portions did give way, an accumulated strain was brought on link after link, on mooring after mooring, till the whole of the ships went adrift together.

Captain Howe is of opinion that, before condemning the present system as defective, the Committee are bound to shew that a better system is in existence elsewhere, or to propose a more perfect system for this Port. The majority of the Committee are, however, of opinion that it is only necessary they should point out what they believe to have been the causes of failure of the present system, leaving it to the professional advisers of the Government to provide the remedy.

The Committee find that in the year 1842 the average burthen of ships was 550 tons, while in 1864 it was 850 tons.

The Committee find from the detailed evidence of the failure in the moorings that most frequently the failure has been in the Government moorings.

1*st*.—That though the storm of June 1842, when the largest anchors laid were of 60 cwt., and all previous experience justified the belief that the anchors actually in use, ranging from 60 to 70 cwt., were sufficient, yet the Cyclone of 5th October 1864 has proved that the largest anchors used were insufficient for the purposes of the Port, having regard to the increased size of ships now to be provided for.

2*nd*.—That the almost universal faultiness in the shackles as shewn in the gale of 1842 has been in a measure remedied; but that mooring rings of large diameter, such as were in use, though of great massiveness and apparent strength, were ill calculated to bear excessive strain, and consequently gave way.

3*rd*.—That there have also been failures in the fittings and tackles of the ships.

4*th*.—That many ships trading to this Port are not constructed to meet the requirements of mooring in the River Hooghly, which for safety demands double hawse pipes forward and hawse pipes aft.

Appendix B., G., S.

5*th*.—That though there are printed regulations for the shipping, as per Appendix Y. generally, ships were not prepared for the Cyclone, and that there were no means in the Port of giving warning of approaching storms.

The Committee have before them several letters and pamphlets on screw moorings; they also have evidence of screw moorings being laid in other Ports. It appears to the Committee that the general system on which these screw moorings are laid down is correct, and that the holding power of screw moorings is limited only by the strength of tackle. They, therefore, recommend that the whole of the Calcutta Moorings be relaid with screw moorings, and that these moorings be obtained, as advised in the preliminary Report.*

* Appendix R.

They also recommend that the attention of the Home Authorities be directed to Saunder's patent safety springs, as that plan seems intended to provide against one of the greatest and most frequent causes of injury to which vessels moored in this Port are subject, viz., sudden and violent jerks.

They recommend that intimation be given to Lloyds, and generally, so far as may be possible, to ship-owners that the safety of ships in the River Hooghly would be greatly promoted by the ships being provided with hawse pipes aft to carry mooring chains, and of double hawse pipes forward to admit of mooring chains being attached without unbending the cables from the anchors, so that the anchors should always be available for immediate use in the Port.

The Committee recommend that, in connection with Light-houses, the Coast Telegraph and the Calcutta Observatory, a comprehensive system of weather observations and warnings, be organized after the plan of Admiral Fitzroy, which has been carried out throughout Great Britain, and they would urge on Government not to take any half measure from means available in this country, but to at once apply to the proper authorities in England for a complete system, and that thereon rules and regulations for the shipping in the Port be printed and issued.

The Committee, finding that the number of mooring berths was not sufficient to contain the shippping of the Port, took evidence as to the possibility of extending the moorings, or of otherwise providing safely for vessels which cannot be moored along the river bank.

They find that the moorings proper cannot be sufficiently extended in the Port.

That therefore ships must of necessity ride in the stream.

That ships would not be safe at fixed moorings in the stream.

That swinging at their own anchors, ships are not safe in the S. W. Monsoon.

That if it be absolutely necessary to place ships in the stream during the S. W. Monsoon, the best method of placing them will be at swinging screw moorings.

These conclusions are fully borne out, as well by the evidence taken by the Committee, as by the the records of the casualties which occurred in the river during the freshes of 1842, and by the experience of the Marine Department from that date to 1855.

Appendix XD.

The Committee, therefore, recommend that such moorings be placed in the river, not as affording a safe berth (for the Committee do not consider a ship safe in any portion of the stream during the S. W. Monsoon), but as the best alternative for a ship that cannot get a shore berth.

Finally, the Committee strongly recommend that a steam anchor boat with steam windlass or other appliance be provided as early as possible for the the service of the Port. There is urgent need for a boat of this character, which can be moved with facility from point to point, both in connection with the moorings and for recovering ships' anchors with greater expedition than is at present possible.

2*nd*.—SCREW PILE JETTIES.

It is in evidence before the Committee that moorings have been put down in every spot where it is safe to place a ship throughout the year.

That though trials have been made by placing moorings in other spots where the depth of water permitted, it has been found that there is no safe mooring ground unoccupied, and that the moorings cannot be extended within the Port, and it is conclusively shewn that there is not room for the vessels now resorting to Calcutta to remain in the Port during the S. W. Monsoon in safety.

The Committee consider it imperative that every possible step should be taken to give proper and sufficient accommodation to the shipping, and they point out that, in their opinion, the first and immediate step is the construction of jetties.

It is in evidence that in loading and unloading from jetties there will be a great saving in time, and consequently, with a given trade, a diminution of the number of ships at any one time in the Port. The advantages of jetties to ships, shippers, and the Customs Department, are so well recognized as to need no notice from the Committee.

The Committee consider that some approved plan of jetties should at once be adopted; they strongly urge that no more time be lost, that immediate action be taken, and that no scheme of wet docks be permitted to delay the construction of jetties, the object of which being to give immediate as well as permanent relief to existing trade can in no way affect any scheme that will take time to mature, execute, and bring into operation.

The Committee point out that, however much the Port may be assisted, that however rapidly any docks may hereafter be built and extended, the accommodation will for years have difficulty in keeping pace with the wants of trade, and that there will be sufficient shipping to occupy Jetties as well as Wet Docks.

The Committee have before them Colonel Fraser's letter with enclosures, and though the Committee cannot give any opinion on the construction, they can acknowledge to a certain extent the efficiency and adaptability of screw pile jetties to the Port of Calcutta, and they therefore recommend the consideration of the scheme to Government, pointing out that to the Committee one of the greatest advantages of the plan is rapidity of construction.

Appendix S.

3*rd*.—SCREW PILE LIGHT HOUSES.

The Committee have evidence before them that, in the case of a severe gale, the floating lights are almost invariably driven from their stations; that in ordinary weather some of these vessels are often drifted long distances, and that, in short, the lights when most required are gone or are uncertain in position. The Committee consider, therefore, that, if it be possible to establish fixed lights at the mouth of the Hooghly, lights should be so fixed, and though they consider that the urgency for the best possible lights is sufficient to warrant a very large outlay, they are of opinion that if it be found practicable to establish screw pile light-houses, such structures will be found less costly than the light ships both in first construction and after maintenance. The question of construction appears to the Committee to be a purely professional one; they therefore confine themselves to advising and urging Government to direct proper surveys and experiments to be made by their Light-house Engineer, sufficient to determine the practicability of placing the most approved Light-houses on the Sands at the mouth of the Hooghly. The Committee point out that the experiment will not be one as to construction but as to fitness of locality to receive structures of known excellence, and that the importance of the object to be attained will warrant considerable outlay.

4th.—SCREW BEACONS IN THE RIVER.

The Committee find that the buoys as moored are constantly carried adrift, and they advise, as in the case of Light-houses and for similar reasons, that experimental screw pile beacons be at once put in settled parts of the river. Such beacons, if found to succeed, would be found very serviceable as tidal gauges.

Colonel Fraser, R. E., a Member of the Committee, having left Calcutta before this Report was drawn up, his signature is not attached to it. The Committee, however, believe that he fully coincides with the conclusions and recommendations expressed herein.

Appendix B.

WITH reference to my letter No. 2525 of this date, recommending the appointment of a Committee to enquire generally into the question of the moorings in this Port, pending the consideration of the introduction of screw moorings, I have the honor to state that I have since had an opportunity of reading a work on "Sub-Marine Foundations, particularly the Screw Pile and Moorings, by Alexander Mitchell, M. I., C. E, and an account of the Maplin Sand Light-house, by John B. Redman, M. I., C. E, together with Excerpt Minutes of Proceedings of the Institution of 'Civil Engineers, by permission of the Council."

Published by Mitchell's Screw Pile and Mooring Company, 17, Great George Street, Westminster.

A perusal of this work, and an inspection of the plans and sketches of the moorings now in use in several of the harbours in England, especially in Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and Sunderland, and in the Port of London within the jurisdiction of the Corporation of the Trinity House, remove all possibility of doubt on the subject, and must satisfy all who investigate it as to the immense security and safety as regards holding power of the screw pile over the moorings commonly used, which are the Span Chain Mooring, and the Sinker or Mooring Block.

The Span Chain is in use in this Port. The Sinker is a heavy block of stone or iron laid upon the surface in the bed of the river, or placed in an excavation prepared for its reception not used here; but both of these continue to be the only moorings in use at the Royal Dock-yards, probably on account of the value of the old stock or material, and to their not being much exposed.

At the same time it must be remarked, in justice to the moorings in this Port, that they have been laid under a better and more systematic method than those in use in the Port of London prior to the introduction of the screw pile moorings; a glance at the sketches Nos. 1 and 2, which accompany this letter, will, I think, clearly prove this.

As proofs of the estimation in which the screw pile moorings are held in England, the Corporation of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, within a few months of the expiration of the inventor's privilege, and when the renewal of it appeared doubtful, paid, for the permission to use the patent in the Tyne as applied to moorings alone, the sum of £2,500, and they have carried out the system to a considerable extent with great benefit; and it is recorded in the pamphlet which is before me, published by authority, that, on the occasion of a very heavy storm which occurred when nearly a thousand ships were wind-bound in the river, and the greatest consternation prevailed, not a single mooring gave way, although they were all fearfully tried, and not £10 worth of damage was done, whilst in the neighbouring port of Sunderland injury was sustained by the shipping to the extent of nearly £30,000. Another proof of the value set upon the screw moorings is that in 1847 the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, before whom an application was then argued for a renewal of the patent then about to expire, granted a warrant for a new patent for the period of fourteen years.

The screw pile, as described in the pamphlet, is simply a bar of iron with a wrought iron screw point, having at its lower extremity a broad plate or disc of metal in a spiral or helical form, on the principle of the screw, in order that it should enter the ground with facility, thrusting aside obstacles to its descent without materially disturbing the texture of the strata it passed through, and that it should at the same time offer an extended base either for resisting downward pressure, or an upward strain.

When this broad spiral flange or "Ground Screw" is employed as a mooring to resist an upward strain, its holding power depends upon the area of its disc, the nature of the ground into which it is inserted, and the depth to which it is forced beneath the surface.

The proper area of the screw must, in every case, be determined by the nature of the ground and the purpose for which required; the largest size yet used has been four feet in diameter, and the depths to which they have been inserted at Newcastle vary from 10 to 20 feet.

It is evident, then, that such a flange or ground screw inserted to a depth of 20 feet has immense holding power in the ground. In the words of the pamphlet, the mass of ground thus affected* in the case of the screw mooring is in the form of the frustum of a cone inverted, that is, with its base at the surface, the breadth of the base being in proportion to the tenacity of the ground; this is pressed on by a cylinder of water equal to its diameter, the axis of which is its depth, and the water again bears the weight of a column of air of the diameter of the cylinder; if therefore a cast iron screw of a given area be forced into the earth to a certain depth, it must afford a firm point of attachment for a buoy chain in every direction, and will oppose a powerful resistance even to a vertical strain, which generally proves fatal to sinker moorings, depending, as they do, chiefly on their specific gravity.

* That is to say, disturbed before the mooring can be displaced by any direct force.

The following description of the method of mooring vessels in the port of Newcastle-upon-Tyne is extracted from the Proceedings of the Institution quoted:—

"A heavy ground chain composed of links each 3 feet in length, of round iron 3¼ inches in diameter, was stretched along the bed of the river in the deep water, and in the direction of the current, instead of, according to the old system, placing it as a bridle across the stream. To this chain, at given distances, marking the centre of each tier and the mid distance between, were shackled studded link mooring chains of 2¼-inch iron, which had been previously laid down with the lower extremity of each attached to a screw mooring inserted into the bottom of the river at each spot, to depths varying from 10 feet to 20 feet; the depth of water at low water spring tides varied from 15 feet to 24 feet, where rock was met with, it was penetrated by the wrought iron screw point for about 1 foot, or as far as the underside of the table of the screw."

Our ground chain is 2¼ inches.

To bring into practical usefulness the lesson now learned, nothing further seems necessary, should Government approve, than that Government should, as immediately as it deems proper, cause communication to be entered into with Mr. Mitchell relative to the adoption of his moorings in this Port, furnishing him with full particulars of our wants and requirements, the nature and extent of the ground to be brought under the operation of his patented method, the number of screw piles, &c., required, and every other kind of information that can possibly be afforded to insure a practical and successful result.

In the meantime the moorings can be re-laid with the large reserve means at our disposal, and, on the introduction of the screw moorings, the old stock may be sold off; the cheapness of the new method will, in a few years, abundantly re-pay the cost of introducing it, and save the annual expense of keeping up the present chain moorings.

The system is equally applicable to Light-houses and to Beacons in substitution of buoys in many parts of the river not liable to change, and I shall make these the subject of a separate communication.

Appendix C.

From Captain S. G. Boon, Secretary, to Captain J. Reddie, Master Attendant.

By direction of the Committee on the Moorings of the Port of Calcutta, I have the honor to request you will be good enough to furnish me with the under-mentioned information:—

1*st.*—Plan of tiers of moorings drawn to scale.

2*nd.*—Description of moorings shewing classes and number of each class and measurement of each.

3*rd.*—A statement shewing sizes of ships put into the several classes of moorings, and what regulates this operation.

4*th.*—Statement shewing the date of laying down each mooring, date of last examination and the extent of examination, and the official whose duty it was to make it, and a statement of repairs, if any, which had been made during the last three years, and the failures which have occurred during that time.

5*th.*—Copy of the rules of supervision and examination of each mooring, and of the rules under which ships are moored, the strength of the establishment for overhauling the fixed moorings, and number of boats and men.

6*th.*—Time it takes to examine each mooring, and the number of moorings examined in the year.

Appendix C a.

From J. F. Peterson, Esq., Harbour Master, to Captain J. G Reddie, Master Attendant,—(No. 1317, dated the 8th November 1864.)

With reference to Captain S. G. Boon's letter of the 4th instant to your address, herewith returned, I beg to furnish the information required, as much as I can:—

1. The plan of the tiers of moorings to be drawn to scale I am unable to supply, as I have no Draftsman allowed for my Office.

2. The classes and number of each class, and measurement of each class of moorings are given in Statement A.

3. Ships are placed into the different classes of moorings according to their length, size, and draft.

4. The moorings are examined during the fine weather season; the last time that they were examined was from November 1863 to May 1864 by over-hauling, weighing, and re-laying them; and when any of them are brought home during the the freshes they are immediately re-layed. The Deputy Harbour Master superintends the whole of the operations under my directions. Statements B., C., and D. shew the repairs that have have been executed during the past three years.

5. There is no written rule by which the moorings are examined, but they are all overhauled every year as mentioned before, * and ships are hauled into the moorings on the flood tide during the fine weather season, and on the ebb-tide during the freshes. Two anchor boats, with 21 men attached to each boat, is the Establishment employed in examining the moorings.

6. The time it takes to examine and re-lay each mooring is uncertain, as it depends upon the extent of the repairs required to be done, and the whole of the moorings are examined every year.

HARBOUR MASTER'S OFFICE;
The 11th May 1864.

J. F. PETERSON,
Harbour Master.

Appendix D.

From S. C. Bayley, Esq., Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the President and Members of the Committee appointed to enquire into the adaptability of Screw Moorings to the circumstances of the Port of Calcutta,—(No. 4594, dated the 29th October 1864.)

In continuation of my endorsement No. 4491, dated the 25th instant, I am directed to forward the accompanying letter,* with enclosure, from Captain A. R. Weston, and to request that your Committee will take into their consideration and will report on the questions mooted by that gentleman, as well as on the subject of Moorings, into which you were more particularly requested to enquire.

* Dated the 28th September last.

From Captain A. R. Weston, P. & O. S. S. Simla, to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,—(dated the 28th September 1864.)

The magnitude of the trade of Calcutta, and the great increase which must be looked for in it as the resources of British India become developed, render it most imperative that the aids to navigation in approaching and leaving the Port should be of the most perfect kind attainable, and be maintained in the highest possible state of efficiency.

2. Believing that this matter has already engaged the attention of Government, and thinking that you may desire to be informed of the opinion of some who, from the nature of their profession, are practically acquainted with the subject, I venture to lay before you the following remarks, which will, I trust, be found worthy of your consideration.

3. The present system of lighting and buoying the entrances and channels of the Hooghly, though perhaps the best that was available at the time when it was adopted, is quite inadequate to the requirements of the present day, and has in principle been superseded by modern discoveries, presenting the advantages of greater efficiency combined with considerable reduction in expense.

4. The invention of Screw Piles has enabled Light-houses to be securely placed in situations where it had previously been considered impossible to maintain any other Beacon than a Floating Light Vessel, and as the success of the new principle has been so fully demonstrated by the Light-houses already in full work at the several places named in the margin, there appears to be no reason why the present Light Vessels (the Eastern Channel and Lower Gasper) at the entrance of the Hooghly should not be re-placed by Light-houses on Screw Piles.

5. A very important advantage possessed by structures raised on these piles is the small surface offered by them to the run of the tide, or the stroke of a wave, whilst they afford facilities for forming so rigid a structure, that, as in the case of the Fleetwood and other Light-houses, scarcely any vibration can be perceived even in the heaviest weather.

6. Looking out at night, and especially during and after bad weather, for intricate positions, it is of the utmost importance that mariners should rely with undoubting confidence, not only on the stability of the light, but also on its unvarying position and appearance. All these advantages are possessed by fixed lights, (that is, Lights shewn from Light-houses,) but in tempestuous weather the Floating Light Ships are nearly obscured by the spray, and their lights have no steadiness on account of the constant motion, whilst in consequence of their breaking adrift from their moorings, hundreds of lives and millions of property have been lost. Nor can they be said to occupy any precise position, shifting, as they do, with the wind and tide, twice the length of the chains by which they ride.

7. By the use of iron, the ravages of the Teredo Navalis and other seaworms, so much dreaded for timber structures on almost every coast, may be entirely disregarded, and experience has shewn that no apprehension need be entertained of the prejudical action of salt water upon Screw Piles; neither the wrought nor the cast iron of the Maplin Sand Light-house, which was fixed nearly thirty years ago, being in the slightest degree injured; the Courtown Pier, built sixteen years ago, being in an equally good state of preservation.

8. The channels of the Hooghly are at present marked by Buoys, which, from the nature of their construction, are continually getting out of order and drifting from their proper positions, becoming thereby sources of doubt and perplexity and even of danger, in addition to the enormous cost of maintenance.

9. I propose—

(b.) To build a Light-house of the second order, Catoptric, fixed at 60 feet above high water level, in lieu of the present Lower Gasper Light Ship.

(c.) To place Screw Pile Beacons in lieu of Buoys to mark the channels in the Hooghly.

10. Having, with the assistance of one of the Senior Pilots, selected six Buoys and a similar number of Beacons (named in the margin) occupying the most important positions as crossing and leading marks, I suggest that these should first be re-placed by Screw Pile Beacons, as an experiment previous to adopting the system throughout.

11. I enclose a Statement shewing the comparative cost of the proposed system as compared with the present, both as regards outlay and annual expenditure.

12. The figures in this Statement require little comment. A very important feature is the enormous saving in the annual expenditure, amounting to £12,944 per annum, by which, in the course of three years, thirty-six weeks, the whole amount of the original outlay would be recovered, while the Light-houses and Beacons (with perhaps the exception of the wooden tops and hoods of the latter) would probably be in better condition than ever; whereas in the present system (as will be seen by the Statement) the original outlay is doubled in four years, twenty-six weeks, by the excess in the annual expenditure, the property being then more than half worn-out. A more important feature still is the greater efficiency of Light-houses and stationary Beacons as compared with Light Vessels and Buoys, which, I submit, should be sought for at any cost.

13. Should you wish to receive fuller details respecting my proposed system, I shall be most happy to wait upon you with drawings and specifications, and trusting that the matter will receive the favorable consideration of Government.

Appendix E.

From the Acting Secretary to the Municipal Commissioners of the Town of Canning, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(dated the 28th October 1864.)

In compliance with a Resolution passed at a Meeting of the Municipal Commissioners for the Town of Canning held here on the 25th instant, I have the honor to submit, for consideration of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, copy of a letter addressed to me on the subject of lighting and buoying the River Mutlah, together with a Statement setting forth the difference between present cost of lighting and buoying the river, and estimated cost of proposed method as set forth by Captain Weston.

No. 4702.

Forwarded for the consideration of the President and Members of the Committee appointed to enquire into the adaptability of Screw Moorings to the circumstances of the Port of Calcutta. The return of the enclosures is requested.

By Order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

S. C. Bayley,

Junior Secy., Govt. of Bengal.

Fort William,
The 1st November 1864.

From Captain Arnold R. Weston, to F. Schiller, Esq., Borradaile, Schiller & Co.,—(dated the 28th September 1864.)

Now that the development of the Mutlah is fast becoming an accomplished fact, the efficient lighting the entrance and buoying the channels of the river is a question of the highest importance, and, before the present system of Light Ships and Floating Iron Buoys is too largely or permanently taken up, I would like to propose another system, which I feel sure will be found well worthy the consideration of the Chamber of Commerce, or whatever authority has the conservancy of the Port.

The invention of Screw Piles has enabled Light-houses to be placed securely in situations where it had previously been considered impossible to maintain any other Beacon than a Floating Light Ship. The success of the principle has been fully demonstrated by the Light-houses already in full work at the several places named in the margin.

Screw Pile Light-houses.
Maplin Sand.
Fleetwood.
Belfast.
Dundalk.
Chapman Sand.
Spit Bank.
Sandkey-Florida.
Brandywine Delaware.
Gun Fleet Sand and others.

A very important advantage possessed by structures raised on these piles is the small surface offered by them to the run of the tide, or the stroke of a wave, whilst they afford facilities for forming so rigid a structure that, as in the case of the Fleetwood and other Light-houses, scarcely any vibration can be perceived even in the heaviest weather.

Looking out at night, and especially after bad weather, for intricate positions, it is of the utmost importance that mariners should rely with undoubting confidence, not only on the stability of the Light, but also on its unvarying position and appearance. All these advantages are possessed by fixed Lights (that is, Lights shewn from Light-houses,) but in tempestuous weather the Floating Light Ships are nearly obscured by the spray, whilst in consequence of their breaking adrift from their moorings, hundreds of lives and millions of property have been lost. Nor can they be said to occupy any precise position, shifting, as they do, with the wind and tide, twice the length of the chains by which they ride.

By the use of iron, the ravages of the Teredo Navalis and other sea-worms, so much dreaded for timber structures on almost every sea coast, may be entirely disregarded, and experience has shewn that no apprehension need be entertained of the prejudicial action of salt water upon the Screw Piles; neither the wrought nor the cast iron of the Maplin Sand Light-house, which was fixed nearly thirty years ago, being in the slightest degree injured; the Courtown Pier, built sixteen years ago, being in an equally good state of preservation.

The channels of the Mutlah are at present marked by Buoys, which, from the nature of their construction, are continually getting out of order and drifting from their proper positions, becoming thereby sources of doubt and perplexity, and even of danger in addition to the enormous cost of maintenance.

I propose—

(a) To build a Light-house of the first order, Catoptric, fixed 90 feet above high water level on the tail of the Bulcherry Sand in 6 fathoms in lieu of the present Light Vessel.

(b) To build a Light-house of the second order, Catoptric, fixed 50 feet above high water level on the western edge of the Roy Mutlah Sand in 5 fathoms.

(c) To substitute Screw Pile Beacons in lieu of Buoys to mark the channels.

I enclose an approximate comparative Statement shewing outlay and annual expenditure of both systems, from which you will see the saving of the annual expenditure of the proposed system is enormous. The greater efficiency (the chief point to be considered) of the proposed system must be patent to all; for instance, a Light-house can never get adrift—

Being more solid, it can carry heavier lanterns, and consequently shew a brighter light.

Being higher, the light is seen at a greater distance, and thus sooner picked up.

Beacons can never get adrift, and thus can always be depended upon.

Being solid they can carry higher and larger hoods, and are consequently distinguishable more easily at great distances, being also readily shifted, the annual expense of doing which will be hardly appreciable, as the surveying vessel, being fitted with the Screwing Apparatus, would herself shift them, and in a quarter of the time now sometimes occupied by the present Buoy Brig in the Hooghly, and thus remove two of the heaviest items in the Statement.

The constant complaints brought against the present system as used in the Hooghly, upon every one of the above points, should be quite sufficient to condemn it. At all events the Conservators of the Port should pause ere they commit themselves irrevocably to the present system.

Knowing the deep interest you take in all that concerns the Mutlah, I unhesitatingly leave my proposition in your hands, and should you wish further details, I shall be happy to supply you with drawings and estimates.

Appendix F.

From CAPTAIN H. HOWE, Deputy Master Attendant, in charge, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 2576, dated the 24th October 1864.)

WITH reference to the last paragraph of my letter No. 2527A. of the 20th instant, I have the honor to submit that the present is a fitting time for the consideration of the question of substituting our Floating Light Ships by Light-houses erected on the foundation of Mitchell's Screw Piles.

2. To say nothing of the frequency with which our Light Ships have for years been driven from their Stations during heavy gales, and the great danger to which the crews are exposed on such occasions, as also the risks to ships making for the Station during the absence of the Floating Light, there is the present melancholy apprehension, now amounting almost to certainty, that the Hope has foundered, and the Krishna is yet missing.

3. The application of the Screw Pile to fixed Light-houses on sands, in localities exposed to the full action of the winds and waves in heavy storms, has, for several years, been successfully carried out on the coasts of England and Ireland.

4. These structures have generally been erected in shoal water, say in sixteen to seventeen feet, but the inventor has stated that he would have no hesitation in placing Screw Piles in depths of water of five or six fathoms, and would guarantee their success.

5. In 1838 a Light-house on this principle was erected, by direction of the Corporation of the Trinity House, on the Maplin Sand, at the mouth of the River Thames, where the channel was formerly marked by a Floating Light.

6. This is one of a series of lights for marking the Swin Channel, perhaps the most dangerous, most exposed, and most frequented of all the channels on the coast; all the east country craft and the greater portion of the coasting and collier vessels passing through this channel, while its liability and exposure to heavy storms is shewn by the numbers of colliers and other craft that are annually wrecked on the sands, or that founder in the channel during gales of wind in the winter season.

7. This Light-house, according to the evidence given by eminent Civil Engineers at a Judicial enquiry before the Privy Council, is fixed upon a bank of very loose sand covered by the sea, but the house has stood steadily, there being nothing for the water to strike against in comparison with the holding power of the screws at the bottom of the piles.* The tide rises upon the supports of this house sixteen feet.

* The nature of this screw was described in my letter No. 2527 A.

8. The foundation is composed of nine wrought iron piles twenty-six feet long and five inches in diameter, having a four feet (in diameter) screw at foot of each. The screws were sunk into the bank to the depth of twenty-two feet, leaving about four feet of the piles out of the ground on which to secure the upper works. The work of sinking these piles into the ground* was completed in nine consecutive days.

* Which was done by means of powerful capstans fitted on a raft previously prepared.

9. A description of one of these Light-houses will serve for all, and sketches of two are annexed. I shall therefore proceed to enumerate some others that have been erected on different parts of the coast.

10. In 1839-40 the Fleetwood Light-house was erected in Morecombe Bay.

11. Morecombe Bay is described as the place of all others on the west coast of England most exposed, perhaps, to the tempest and the storm, but the vibration in this structure, during heavy gales, has been found to be so slight as not even to affect the going of a time-piece,† the reason was that the supports offered no resistance to the waves, though the tide rose on them at equinoctial springs to the height of thirty-two feet.

† In the Eddystone Light-house during heavy storms the vibration is so great that the rate of the time-pieces was affected.

12. In 1844 a Screw Pile Light-house was placed in Belfast Lough, Carrickfergus Bay, on the coast of Down.

13. In 1846 a large and important Beacon was placed between the Queen's and Prince's Channel leading into the Thames. It stands in a most exposed situation at the extremity of the Tongue Sand, in a depth at low water of seventeen feet.

14. Courtown Pier is another and remarkable structure built on the same principle.

15. It is erected on an open and exposed part of the coast of Wexford, a coast unprotected nearly from north to south with an open sea of seventy miles in front, while a surf of great height and force beats almost without intermission on the shore.

16. The above are sufficient proofs, without quoting further, that, as stated in the Phamplet from which my information is derived, and from which I have drawn largely in this letter, the system may be safely employed in any situation, however exposed to the action of the Sea, provided always that the ground is free from rock, and the principle was declared before the Privy Council to be especially applicable to quicksands.

17. Mr. Walker, the Consulting Engineer to the Corporation of the Trinity House, states his belief that Beacons or other structures erected upon Screw Piles would stand as well on the Goodwin Sands as on the Maplin and other places.

18. I have quoted all these facts and scientific opinions to prevent the possibility of a doubt arising as to the capability of a Screw Pile Light-house being erected on the sands or reef heads in our channels and withstanding the heavy Sea that prevails for months together at the Sandheads; the evidence afforded that Light-houses erected on the principle in question, in equally exposed situations, were as firm and substantial after ten years' continuance as when first erected, proves that they would be equally safe and substantial at the Sandheads.

19. I would therefore propose for consideration that Light-houses be erected on the edges of the channels in the room of the Lower Gasper Light Ship and the Light Ship at the Eastern Channel Station; the former to be the first undertaken, the situation possessing the greater facilities. I would also have said that the experiment might be first tried there, but there seems to be no need of experiment when the system has been tried, tested, and proved for upwards of twenty years, in tempest, sea, and surf, which are the exact characteristics of our Sandheads.

20. The Lower Gasper Light-house can be erected on the edge of the nearest sand in two and a half to two and three quarter fathoms low water, say fifteen to sixteen feet, the rise of the tide being twelve or thirteen feet spring tides; we have seen that in Morecombe Bay the tide rises thirty-two feet.

21. The exact position for this light is just on the eastern edge of the Gasper Sand, where it will answer as a guide for the Eastern Channel as well as the Gasper; and the light in this position will serve to mark the channel equally as well as the present Light Ship, while it will be infinitely more sure and constant

22. On this point I have consulted Mr. retired Branch Pilot Strevens, an Officer of great experience and talent, and the above is the conclusion arrived at, while he assures me at the same time that there is never any sensible change in the channel of the Lower Gasper; the Upper Gasper, it is feared, from its shifting nature and character, must continue, for a time at least, to be illuminated by a Floating Light until the practicability and facility of shifting and transplanting these structures, if desired, has been ascertained.

23. It is believed they can be easily removed and planted in another locality.

24 The Lower Floating Light is in eight and a half fathoms low water, and a Light-house can be erected on the reef in about the same latitude in six fathoms, the inventor, it will be remembered, having guaranteed to sink his piles with success in thirty-six feet.

25. It is believed that with a good floating station, and every preparation previously made, the piles for these Light-houses might be securely fixed in one fine weather season at the Sandheads, and after standing the test of the South-west Monsoon, the superstructure might be erected during the following season.

26. On the score of cost and annual expense, the comparison is altogether in favor of the Light-houses

27. That on Maplin Sand cost £3,350, of which the dioptric apparatus for lighting cost nearly £1,000; the only repair required in ten years was the occasional application of a little paint.

28. The annual expense of the Fleetwood Light-house in lighting materials and attendance is stated to be £335, while on the authority of Captain Washington, R. N., Inspector of Light-houses, the average annual expense of the Floating Lights of Great Britain is £1,316 each.

	Rs.	As.	P.
Yearly expense for Establishment, &c..	30,455	1	1

29. The cost of one Floating Light and the annual cost of maintenance is shewn in the margin.

30. I trust that the evidence I have submitted of the great superiority of the Screw Pile Light-house over Floating Light Ships, either as regards security, safety, permanency of position, and maintenance of light of the highest order, impossible to be obtained in a Light Ship, and lastly great saving in prime cost and annual expense, will be admitted by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor as powerful arguments in favor of my recommendation, which I beg respectfully and earnestly to press upon His Honor's early and favorable consideration.

Appendix G.

From Alfred Wells, Esq, Superintendant of Government Pier Works, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Marine Department,—(datted the 19th October 1864.)

Having heard of the late destruction of many vessels at Calcutta, I have the honor in forwarding you a phamplet together with a Sheet of Patent Screw Piles and Moorings. The system of Patent Screw Moorings is becoming extensively used in England and abroad; each Mooring is calculated to bear a strain of four heavy ships; I have frequently seen twelve colliers made fast to one mooring in the River Thames when blowing a heavy gale of wind, and they have rode in perfect safety during the time, so that the holding power was very severely tested.

The price of No. 1 Mooring for soft ground is £24 each.

The price of No. 2 Mooring for hard ground is £30 each.

A complete set of screwing instruments for fixing Moorings is £140 per set. This price is free on board in England; should any Moorings be required, you will please address Mr. G. Wells, the sole Licensee and Manufacturer.

Appendix H.

Calcutta, 10th November 1864.

The undersigned Members of the "Committee on Moorings," now sitting in Calcutta, examined this morning, on the part of the Committee, what were said to be No. 6 In-shore 2nd Class Moorings, Calcutta, and which the Harbour Master, Mr. Peterson, stated had been carried away bodily, anchor and all, to Cossipore, by the Futteh Shah Allum, of 820 tons, on the day of the gale of 5th October 1864.

The anchor was said to be 56 Cwt. It was two-fluked, but with the upper fluke bent down, thus differing from the 1st Class Mooring Anchors said to be 70 Cwt., which we saw in the Dockyard, and which have only a single fluke.

The anchor and stock were, though old, in good order. A studded chain of 2¾ inches was shackled to the anchor ring, which was of 3¾ inches iron about 2'4" in diameter, the shackle being of 4¼ inches iron. There was a shackle to the end of the 2¾ inches chain which had no pin; this shackle was termed No. 3, a pattern of which is before the Committee.

The shackles and chain were comparatively new, (the chain was marked 1815 on the stud,) and nothing was corroded, though the Moorings were said to have been down a long time. None of the parts of the Mooring, presented to us for inspection, had the appearance of having given in any way, but the whole of the Mooring was stated to have been lifted and carried bodily to Cossipore.

Appendix I.

Statement of Examination, which took place this morning, the 12th November 1864, of Chains and Posts forming the inside shore moorings of ships lying alongside the Esplanade off Calcutta, and Engine-house Moorings, and Nos. 1 to 11 Esplanade Moorings, on the part of the Calcutta Committee on Moorings by the following Members:—

Lieut. Colonel A. Fraser, R. E.
Captain H. Howe, Deputy Master Attendant.

1.—Engine-house Moorings, two ships,—West of 1,000 tons and Great Tasmania.

The post to which the Flood mooring chain was attached was perfectly good, and was said to have been received in 1858-59. The old post* was close by. The chain is 2 inches rubble chain—2 links 4¼ inches by 9¼ inches inside measurement; one of these links had parted.

2.—No. 1 Esplanade moorings—Steamers Madras† and Bombay, post all right. Ebb chain—2 inches stud and square—and 3¼ inches long link chain This mooring was all right, the ring and shackle being there. The shackle of the Steamer's chain said to have parted, as there is nothing in the ring.

Flood chain and post carried bodily away.

4.—No. 3 Esplanade mooring in-shore—Ship Clytemnestra. Ebb Post all right, post chain ring parted; Flood Post all right, chain ring parted.

5.—No. 4 Esplanade mooring—Ship Newcastle inside. Ebb Post all right; Ebb chain ring lying broken on the bank.

Flood Post‡ (which was also the Ebb Post of No. 5 moorings) carried away bodily, chains and all.

6.—No. 5 Esplanade mooring—Manilla, the inside ship Ebb Post and chain as above.

Flood Post‖ all right, flood chain of 2¼ inches with inside chain of only 2 inches, but a link of the heavier chain parted.

* There were several old Posts along the line, which the Harbour Master stated he kept to attach Hawsers to.

† The ship first mentioned is the inside ship. There were only two in a Tier in the Esplanade moorings. The Ebb Post is that one holding a vessel's port bow—the Flood chain passing from stern on the Port side and crossed

‖ St. Lawrence, now lying in No. 8 with a stern scope of chain of about 90 fathoms, including 30 of her own.

7.—No. 6 Esplanade mooring. Ebb Post (carries also flood chain of No. 5 mooring) all right.

Ebb chain shackle* (which attaches the ring to the chain), called No. 3 shackle, parted.

Flood Post (which carries also Ebb chain of No. 7 and is said to have been new) carried bodily away, chains and all.

8.—No. 7 Esplanade moorings, Ebb Post as above.

Flood Post (which carries also Ebb chain of No. 8 mooring) all right. There was a pendant on this chain ring (why, is not explained), and the shackle (No. 3) parted, and ring and shackle of pendant both gone. There is a 1¾ inches chain inside the 2 inches chain which form the moorings.

9.—No. 8 Esplanade mooring, inside ship the Govindpore.

Ebb chain ring parted; shackle No. 3 at the end of the chain all right.

Flood Post and all carried away.

10.—Nos. 9 and 10 Esplanade moorings, owing to the length of the ships of the Company to which the Mauritius belongs, these two moorings were formed into one.

Ebb Post all right, chain ring parted.

Flood Post† all right, chain all right, ring all right; outside the ring was a piece of stud chain, 2 inches said to be, and one of the links of this latter chain had parted.

11.—No. 11 Esplanade mooring—single ship, the Thunder.

Ebb Post started about 3 feet forward, but not broken or out of the ground.

Ebb chain and ring all right, Thunder's chain (stud 1¾ inches) parted at the bending link, 15 fathoms from the Government ring proper.

Flood Post all right, with chain and ring.

A temporary Flood Post and mooring had been laid for the Thunder, for some purpose explained by the Harbour Master; it was all right, but the Thunder's stern chain of 1¾ inches stud had parted.

Appendix K.

Statement of Examination of the In-shore Moorings, Cooley Bazaar, by the Sub-Committee of the Calcutta Mooring Committee.

Calcutta, 15th November 1864.

No. 1, Ebb.—Post all right, chain all right, shackle and ring all right; the inside or post chain worn; it is said no vessel was moored here on the 5th October.

No. 1, Flood.—This is said to be all right; we could not see as it was covered up with road metal. The Troop hulk at the jetty was attached to this; she broke adrift, parting her own chain.

No. 2, Flood.—Post and all clean gone out of the heavy masonry footing.

No. 2, Ebb.—Clean gone, post and all; ship Renown lying on these moorings. Mr. Behrends, the Deputy Harbour Master, said that he was there at the time of the gale and that the Renown was the first to go and carried away the other vessels.

No. 3, Flood.—Ship's chain 1¼ inches (of the Alum Shah) parted, mooring 1⅛ inches all right: a piece of Ship's chain on the ring; the ship said to be Arab.

No. 3, Ebb.—Above ship parted her own chain, 1¼ inches, at the link beyond the bending link, which, with the shackle, was shewn to us; inside chain of moorings much worn.

N. 4 A.—Flood post all right; 2 inches rubble inside, shackled with 3¼ inches square shackle to a 1¼ inches stud chain, chain worn but all right: there was no ship attached to this on the day of the gale.

New No. 4, Flood.—1¼ inches chain's post all right; chain ring carried away.

New No. 4, Ebb.—Clean gone, post and all.

No. 4, Flood.—Post, long link 3¼ inches square chain, with 2 inches stud chain outside, ring of 3¼ inch iron, 2 inches shackle, all right.

No. 4, Ebb.—Post and all clean gone.

No. 5, Flood.—Inside length 1¾ inches twisted stud links, several studs gone; 2 inches stud chain outside ring all right; the Gustave Louis is said to have held on to this; no less than 5 ships in these moorings.

No. 5, Ebb.—Post started, but there inside chain, long link, to which we found shackled a much worn piece of 2 inch chain, one of the links of which had parted; this link had not, however, parted at the worst looking place, but at a flaw in the iron.

We remarked, generally, with reference to these moorings, that they were much worn in many places, and that the proportion of chains, links, and shackles were not well arranged, but we do not wish to convey the impression tha the moorings parted on account of these worn parts. It was stated, however, that but small ships were generally put in these moorings, though the Romania, which went ashore above Prinsep's Ghât, and was the ship in this tier, could not be called a small ship.

It will be seen from the above that the Gustave Louis held on throughout the gale to No. 5 flood mooring, though the ebb chain had parted. It would be instructive to know how the other four outside ships carried away.

Appendix L.

LOG OF THE BROUGHTON HALL,

Wednesday, 5th October 1864.

Begins with squally weather and heavy showers of rain, wind N. E. at 6 A. M.; turned the hands to work as usual, and washed decks at 7 A. M. The weather continuing very dark and threatening with rain, got the side ports lashed in and every thing secured about the decks; furled the awnings, and put preventive lashings on the stern moorings. At 9 A. M., the gale increasing gradually, got the best hawser on deck, to be ready in case of accident; noon—the gale increasing rapidly, and all appearance of a heavy Cyclone, Barometer falling fast. At 12 h. 15 m. the Steamer Mauritius, which was moored in-shore of us parted her starboard chain and swung against us, wind still increasing in heavy gusts, and constant rain. At 12-30 we parted our in-shore moorings on the port side, shortly afterwards, in a heavy gust, parted both moorings forward and swung with the Mauritius athwart the river, until the stern moorings brought the ship up. At about 2 P. M. parted our stern moorings and drove before the wind athwart hawse of the ship River Clyde, her bowsprit coming foul of our mizzen rigging, the people of the River Clyde cut it and we drove clear of her. As soon as we parted our forward moorings we got our large hawser bent on to the port anchor, but we had not got it secured when the ship took the ground and heeled over very much and bumped heavy. The Steamer Mauritius still entangled with us at 4 P. M. The gale raging with hurricane fury, the ship Western Star was driven foul of us, carrying away our mizzen mast and all attached, the after house containing the Chief Mate's room, and one for the Captain, Lockers for flags and small stores of various kinds, together with spanker gaff and boom, &c. Same time, the Mauritius Steamer swung round bow on to us, and we drove up the river a considerable way until the Mauritius got entangled with the Ship Newcastle, and we got fast to the Lady Palmerston, where we remained aground. Finding the ship laying over on her beam ends and taking water in her side ports, cut away the royal, top-gallant and topmast backstays, when all the top-masts and all attached, together with the fore-yard and jib-boom went over the side, and the ship righted considerably. We also find that, by the chafing and pitching of the Western Star against our stern and quarter, that the whole of the taffrail is carried away, that the steering apparatus and rudder are unshipped and rendered utterly useless, also that the port cathead and port anchor, with hawser attached, were carried away by the Steamer Mauritius. At 3 P. M. the gale moderating and veering to the southward of east; at 6 P. M. more moderate and wind veering to the westward, ship lying aground in soft mud; at 8 P. M. wind about west and moderate, with occasional fresh gusts, lying fast aground, without any motion; Carpenter and First Mate report 11 feet water, only, all round the ship. The Steamer Mauritius is lying inside of us on our port bow and grinding heavy against forecastle, and the Western Star is lying heavy on our starboard quarter. The Lady Palmerston is also lying in-shore of our port quarter, but we are clear of each other. Pumped ship at 30 inches at 8 p. m.

* This shackle is of 2¼ inches iron.

† This, regarding Flood mooring of Mauritius, was explained by the Harbour Master as follows:—Some two or three years ago the Queen of the South left a piece of 2 inches chain 60 fathoms long, which the Agents of the Company requested might be used as in-shore and Buoy chain, in addition to the regular Government mooring, for the purpose, we understand, of enabling the vessels of the Company to pick up the mooring more quickly. Mr. Peterson said that this chain had been always used by the ships of the Company with full knowledge. It is this chain (said to have been left by the Queen of the South) which has parted.

Extract from Log of the Ship "Beaumaris Castle," October 5th 1864.

OCTOBER 5TH A. M.—First part dull and rainy, at daylight wind fresh at N. E., with heavy leaden appearance to S. E.; got all the awnings down and secured after breakfast; wind increasing, pointed all the yards to the wind, and the wind increasing at 11, blowing very hard, drawing to S. E. About noon a high "Bore," came up, and (S. S) Mauritius tore away her head shore moorings and fell across her outside ship, putting all the weight of both ships on our stern moorings; and as the wind increased they tore the moorings away by which we were held abaft, and the Govindpore, inside of us, tore her head shore moorings and fell on us, doing considerable damage. To save ourselves from being stove and sunk by her we slipped our stern bower cables, which held us together—the moorings being gone, we swung head to wind.

Blowing a hurricane; the vessels ahead of us now breaking adrift,

1-30 P. M. drove down on us and forced us across the bows of a ship at her anchors; her bowsprit took our quarter and swept across our poop, carrying away all with it, destroying the skylight where my Barometer was hanging, and the wheel and steering apparatus, taking all the stanchions away round the stern, and her cables under our heel tore away the rudder, then we swung clear of her; but the Hampden and another ship drove across our bows and tore

2-30 P. M. us away with them. Letting go our port bower anchor we cleared them, but drove on shore on the Howrah side of the river. The Hurricane increasing in violence, drawing to S. S. E, we remained some time under the lee of several vessels stranded to the south of us, but tiers of ship came drifting and dashing against the ship below us, and then into us, tore us away, and we went drifting up the river, dashing into other vessels either aground or in the way, carrying away our fore-top-mast, top-gallant-masts, lower top-sail yards, main-top gallant-mast, jib and mizzen-booms, catheads

3-30 P. M. and bulwarks. At length, at about 3-30 to 4 P. M., we dashed among a number of stranded vessels at Cossipore and arrested our further upward course, and a number of other vessels driving up against us jammed us in on the bank, the vessels Hindostan and Glen Isla, on our bow and quarter, being deeper laden. We made our large hawser fast to the Hindostan to prevent being taken away again with

6 P. M. the next flood; about six o'clock it seemed to moderate and afterwards the sky got clear and was followed by a light W. S. W. wind and clear weather; sounded the pumps and found she was making no water. The Barometer being dashed down, no observations were of course made after about 1-30 P. M., when it appeared to be at 29-45.

Calcutta, 16th November 1864.

On the part of the Calcutta Mooring Committee, a piece of chain, being a part of the Government Bow Moorings of the Newcastle, was examined on board that ship this day.

A length of chain with ring and shackle and swivel attached to it, and about one fathom in length, was found shackled to the in-shore bow chain of the ship.

The ring of 3 inches iron was all right; the chain was 2¼ inches stud.

A link or shackle attached to the swivel had parted, and in heaving in her own chain the Newcastle found the above attached to it.

Calcutta, 17th November 1864.

We examined, on this date, a set of moorings consisting of two first class mooring anchors with ground chains complete. They had been carried away bodily to the Howrah side and were lying close to the bottom of the wreck Southampton.

One anchor had a wooden spelter ed stock, and the fluke of this was broken off and lying upwards; the other anchor had an iron stock and was complete; the chains appeared to be in good order.

Report on the condition of the Mooring Posts and Chains from Chandpaul Ghât to Armenian Ghât.

No. 1, Calcutta Moorings.—Flood Post is broken off from the mason work, and the in-shore bridle chain carried along with the post. The Ebb Post is in good condition, the bridle chain and shackle are there, but the ring has parted and is lost.

2. No. 2, Calcutta Moorings.—Flood Post is all right and in good condition, the bridle chain, shackle and ring are all correct. The Ebb Post is old, and the bridle chain has parted about 2 fathoms from the post; the chain is 2 inches, and old.

3.—No. 3, Calcutta Moorings.—Flood Post is in good condition, the bridle chain, shackle and ring are all correct. The Ebb Post is also in good condition, the bridle chain is the old long link mooring chain, and the shackle and ring are there.

4.—No. 4, Calcutta Moorings.—Flood Post is in good condition, the bridle chain has parted about 3 fathoms from the post; the piece left is 2 inches English stud chain, and in good order. The Ebb bridle chain was made fast to a big tree at Bankshall Ghât, and parted by the ship Harry Warren.

5.—No. 1, Bankshall Moorings.—Flood Post is at present underneath the Hulk Mattabangah ashore. The ring and shackle are in good condition. The vessel's chain that was made fast to the ring parted. The Ebb Post is in good condition, the bridle chain, shackle and ring are all in good order, the vessel's chain parted from the ring.

6.—No. 2, Bankshall Moorings.—Flood Post is in good condition, the bridle chain, shackle and ring are all in good order. No vessel was lying there during the Cyclone. The Ebb Post is also in good condition, the bridle chains, shackle and ring are all in good order.

7. The in-shore moorings of new No. 3 and No. 4, Calcutta, were kept clear for the numerous cargo boats that go to and from the Custom House.

8.—No. 5, Calcutta Moorings.—Flood Post is in good condition, the bridle chain, shackle and ring are all in good order. The Inland vessels that occupied the in-shore moorings parted from the ring. The Ebb Post is old, the bridle chain, shackle and ring are all right and in good condition.

9.—No. 6, Calcutta Moorings.—Flood Post is in good condition, the bridle chain, shackle and ring are all in good order. The Ebb Post is old, the bridle chain, so far as it can be seen, is in good order. The Steamer Nada is lying on top of the chain.

10.—No. 7, Calcutta Moorings.—Flood Post is in good condition, the bridle chain is buried deep in the mud and used by Inland vessels occupying the in-shore berth.

11. The Ebb Post of No. 7, and Flood Post of No. 8, Calcutta Moorings, are buried in the mud far down alongside of Jessop's Wharf and cannot be got at. The Ebb Post of No. 8 is also covered up by the bank having been raised to a great height.

12.—No. 10, Calcutta Moorings.—Flood Post cannot be got at on account of the immense quantity of Government bricks piled upon the top of the Post and Chain. The Ebb Post is also covered by bricks belonging to the Municipal Commissioners, and also by broken cargo boats.

13.—No. 11, Calcutta Moorings.—Flood and Ebb Posts are also buried under broken cargo boats and stones.

Extract from Log of Ship "Winchester."

Wednesday, October 5th 1864.—Day-light, strong breeze, with hard squalls from the N. E. and heavy rain; at 8 A. M. wind increasing and every symptom of an approaching gale, Barometer 29-50.—Furled awnings and put preventer lashings on cables.

9 A. M.—Wind still increasing, and water getting much troubled, causing the ships to range and strain at their moorings very heavily.

10 A. M.—Wind blowing a furious gale. Seeing a probability of ship parting, unshackled the starboard bower chain abaft the windlass, bent it to the anchor and got chain on deck out of the locker, bent 11 inches hemp tow rope to port anchor, coiled rope down clear for running, and clenched end to the foremast, got starboard boat in board, battened down all hatches and closed lower deck scuttles. Barometer 29-15.

11 A. M.—Gale increasing and wind shifting more to the eastward, Ship Newcastle broke adrift forward and lay against our starboard side, her port cathead breaking in starboard bulwarks, bending chain plates, chafing laniards and carrying away guard boards of fore rigging. Barometer 28-90.

12-15 P. M.—Starboard bow chain broke adrift from the mooring. The two ships bringing port cable tight across the stem, broke cutwater, started stem knees, and did various damage to trail boards, &c. Figure head broken, and bobstay crane iron bent, and started by Newcastle's bowsprit.

12-30 A. M.—Parted port cable at ring of moorings, ship swung stern to wind. Newcastle drove clear, cutting our side very badly as she passed; tearing up guard boards, starting chain plates, and chafing laniards and rigging, smashed and carried away accommodation ladder, tore out boat's davit, and breaking poop rail; at the same time her yards fouled our braces, and running gear, cutting them all to pieces.

1 P. M.—Quarter deck and main deck awnings blew adrift in shreds. Wind at East, a frightful hurricane. Barometer 28-50.

1-30 P. M.—Let go both anchors under foot, veered tow rope, and 15 fathoms chain, overhauled 30 fathoms clear for running with check stoppers. Port stern mooring broke adrift.

2-30 P. M.—Saw a large ship drive across the Steamer Thunder and both ships came up athwart our chain a-stern, and brought away the mooring, the Thunder striking the rudder, breaking starboard poop rail boomkin, and carrying away boom, guys and gear.

Veered tow rope to clench and starboard chain 60 fathoms, ship canted across when tow rope parted, and starboard anchor dragged, ship drifting fast up the river, at times lying quite down on her beam ends, then righting again as she came end on to the wind Soon after, breaking adrift, came into collision with five other ships, breaking off port cathead, which dropped over board, forecastle stanchions and rail carried away, and breaking up guard boards of fore and main rigging, starting chain plates and badly chafing laniards and rigging in many places, and parting jib, guy, and smashing port-quarter boat. After some time swung clear and drove towards the left bank of the river, striking the bank several times and then driven furiously further on.

3-30 P. M.—Struck near the Chitpore Canal and was slowly blown over the ground till ship stopped by the Eastern Bengal Railway Jetty, where she remained; soon after the ship became fixed. The Ship Tulja came up and struck her on the port-quarter breaking in quarter gallery, poop rail, boomkin and warping chock, cutting up mizzen rigging, and laniards, parting top-gallant backstay, and carrying away mizzen top-gallant mast. Gale broke, and wind gradually subsided after 4 o'clock; at night when water left the ship she heeled over to port and settled down forward, leaving her stern high up on the bank.

At low water sounded and found 2¼ fathoms over the bow.

Found clogs of stern ports cut through, and plank ends and ports started. When port stern mooring broke adrift, starboard chain surged round mizzen mast to which they were made fast, tearing off all battens, and chafing mast.

G. L. GIDRON,
Commander.

Log of Ship "Moresfort."

TUESDAY 4TH OCTOBER A. M.—Fine and clear; P. M., unable to take in cargo, during the night dull and cloudy with heavy showers of rain; midnight wind from East, peculiar undulating swell, making the ships toss about, though calm. Sky overcast with heavy rain.

OCTOBER 5HT A. M.—Wet with heavy squalls at times, and every appearance of bad weather; furled awnings and prepared for a storm; 9-30 Bar. 29-40. In a terrific squall the Simla's port chain parted, also the stern chains of the Ship Continental, both ships being inside of us, therefore, throwing additional weight on the Moresfort, carrying away our port chain, which was immediately hove in and shackled on to the best bower anchor, we held for some time, until several other ships came drifting on to us, when we parted the other chain, we then cleared. In doing so, the Simla carried away our fore and upper fore top sail yards; we brought up safely in the river with best bower anchor, and the whole of the port chain 150 fathoms, holding very well, until the Ships Solway, Red Rose, and Great Tasmania came athwart with fearful crash and our chain cable broke.

Owing to the violence of the Cyclone, and drifting ships and collisions, the main-mast went by the board, carrying the mizzen top-mast and other small spars with it. During the whole time we were drifting towards the West side of the river, when, after considerable other damage sustained by collisions with other ships, we took the ground on Goosery Sand, about three miles from Calcutta, and laid quiet. Sounded round and found the ship on level ground; 10 P. M better weather, hove in the starboard chain and shackled on second bower anchor to be ready, sounded pumps and found seven inches in the well.

During the violence of the storm the river was in a complete foam. Noon Bar 29-26, 2-40 P M. 28-55, 12 P M 9-230.

P. S.—When we hove, in our forward and stern moorings found part of the Government moorings fast to each chain.

Improvement of the conveniences of the Port of Calcutta.

READ the three following letters from the Superintendent of Light-Houses on the subject of improving the conveniences of the Port of Calcutta by means of Quays, Jetties, Tramways, and Screw Moorings:—

ORDER.—Ordered, that the foregoing papers be forwarded, in original, to the Government of Bengal for consideration, in connection with the general subject of the improvement of the Port of Calcutta, which is before the Lieutenant-Governor, (vide letter from the Government of India in the Public Works Department, No. $\frac{391C}{3915}$, dated 19th August 1864,) with the remark that Lieutenant-Colonel Fraser's suggestions as to Screw Moorings have already been forwarded for the consideration of Government in the Home (Marine) Department.

(Sd.) E. C. S. WILLIAMS, Capt., R. E.,
Under-Secy. to the Govt of India,
Public Works Department.

From LIEUTENANT-COLONEL A. FRASER, R.E., Superintendent of Light-houses, to CAPTAIN E. C. S. WILLIAMS, R. E., Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department,—(No. 220C., dated the 7th October 1864.)

I HAVE long thought it highly desirable that the style of moorings used for mooring the vessels in the river off Calcutta might be advantageously and economically altered, but have considered it useless to propose anything which would entail an expensive change, while there was nothing to support views likely to cause such cost.

2. Observing, however, the fatal effects of the late (5th October) Gale on the magnificent shipping in this river, and estimating the cost at which the disasters must be repaired, it is well worth enquiry as to how the vessels generally parted from their moorings, and as to whether an improvement cannot be made in the method of such mooring by which the chances of safety to the ships may be much increased.

3. I do not exactly know the system upon which the Calcutta moorings are laid down, but it is probable that more efficient moorings on the screw system might be gradually substituted at one-tenth of the cost.

4. There can be, I think, no doubt of the superior holding power of screws over every other description of mooring. It was stated, at a discussion at the Institution of Civil Engineers in 1848 by Mr. Brooks, the Engineer of the Corporation of Newcastle-on-Tyne, that "the Corporation had purchased the right of putting down Screw Moorings in that river, and had carried the system out to a considerable extent. General benefit was experienced by the increased facilities afforded for the shipping, and on the occasion of a very heavy storm which occurred, when nearly a thousand ships were wind-bound in the river, and the greatest consternation prevailed, not a single mooring gave way, although they were all fearfully tried, and not ten pounds worth of damage was done, whilst in the neighbouring port of Sunderland injury was sustained to the extent, he believed, of nearly thirty thousand pounds." Supposing the moorings to be in fault, we might congratulate ourselves indeed could the same thing have been said on the 5th of October 1864 of the moorings in Calcutta.

5. Screw Moorings might possibly be objected to where there was any chance of a heavy jerking sea, by which the hold in the ground might be loosened; but in a river like that at Calcutta, where the strain is constant, I am of opinion that no mooring can equal them whether for safety or economy of money and space. Captain Washington, R. N., wrote as follows to the Secretary of the Institution of Civil Engineers in 1848:—"I have also seen the Screw Moorings laid down in the Clyde both at Glasgow and at Greenock, in the Humber and the Tyne, and in all places have heard them well spoken of; those in the Tyne, I have reason to believe, have already saved some thousands of pounds worth of shipping from damage. As a sailor fully alive to the value of good ground tackle, I strongly recommend their use in all harbours in which space is an object, and in what harbour is it not?"

6. It is possible that such a hurricane as we had the day before yesterday may not occur again for many years, but it may occur again next year, and I think I have said enough at present to shew that there would be use in enquiry. The enquiry would be almost confined to three simple questions; one at Home,—"Do the advantages of the Screw Pile Moorings laid down within the last twenty years justify their use out here in lieu of the present moorings?" Two in Calcutta,—"Did the fixtures to which the mooring chains were fastened move?" or "Did the chains part?" If the former, Screw Moorings should be, without a doubt, substituted as soon as possible.

7. Bearing on the same subject I should be very much inclined, on the score of economy and certainty, to recommend fixed screw pile beacons for marking the channels generally in this river in lieu of the expensive buoys and moorings now used.

8. And lastly, I would notice a difficulty that has been noticed a hundred times before, but which I have not yet seen any attempt to overcome, and that is, the great want of facility in loading and unloading ships. Every one knows the cost and risk of the present mode, and now that so many hundreds of boats have been destroyed, the difficulty will be enhanced. I have heard the plan proposed of having floating piers like that at Liverpool, &c., &c., &c., but a good standing wharf will, for the purpose required, be better than any floating pier, for the simple reason that the floating pier is always at the same distance below the deck of a ship, whereas a standing pier is only at that distance at the top of high water, so that in one case where you have always to lift or lower through say twenty feet to load or unload a ship, in the other you have only to lift or lower through that distance at high water. Why not, therefore, build gradually a continuous screw pile wharf from Armenian Ghaut down to the Dock-yard, with projections to the side of every tier of ships and with a good tramway on the bank side. The expense would be comparatively small if built gradually on a general plan, and the returns on each one hundred feet done would probably pay in two years the next hundred feet. There is no doubt in my mind that this arrangement would wholly answer the purpose in view, while the small cost and early completion of any portion would bring in very large returns to complete the remainder, and eventually to form a large fund whereby a more permanent quay* might possibly be built.

* Or Wet Docks. see P. S. A. F.

P. S.—I am aware that Wet Docks have been proposed as a panacea for all evils likely to accrue to the shipping in the river, but it is hard to see that, with ships well moored, and the banks well quayed, we shall not obtain nearly all the advantages of Wet Docks at an expense which will not put an "incubus" on the trade for generations. And the arrangement I have proposed (paragraph 8), both facile and speedy, while benefiting all, will, as it seems to me, produce a revenue which hereafter will enable the City to build the Docks for such portion of the shipping as may require it.

From LIEUTENANT-COLONEL A. FRASER, R. E., Superintendent of Light-houses, to CAPTAIN E. C. S. WILLIAMS, R. E., Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department,—(No. 221C., dated the 10th October 1864.)

IN continuation of my letter No. 220C, date 8th October 1864, regarding screw moorings

screw pile beacons, and a screw pile wharf for the whole river frontage of Calcutta, I have the honor to state that, from the following calculations, it would seem to be worth the while of any Company or of the Municipality to undertake the wharf, and probably the moorings to.

2. The cost of a screw pile wharf four feet above high water mark, carried generally, say, to six feet of water at low water, with projections carried generally to eighteen feet of water at low water to the sides of vessels of ordinary tonnage and such projections finished off with bridges for the deepest ships, would certainly not cost more than from £40 to £50 a foot of river bank. Say, for illustration, the frontage extended three miles or 5,280 × 3= 15,840 feet, the total cost would be say 15,840 × £50=£792,000, or say £800,000. Say, with the increased facilities of discharging and loading a ship required to be fifteen days alongside, and, taking the extreme length of a ship at 300 feet, the wharf would take alongside 15,840 × 300=say fifty ships every fifteen days or 100 Ships per month. Assume 800 tons as the average tonnage of the ships, and we have 100 × 12 × 800 × 2=19,20,000 tons as the quantity of goods loaded and unloaded per annum. Considering the saving of time (which is money) and risk, I do not suppose that 2 Rupees per ton would be considered heavy wharfage charge in comparison with the cost and risk of loading and unloading goods now incurred in boats. On this rough calculation the wharf would bring in 19,20,000 × 2=38,40,000 Rupees per annum as interest on the original outlay, and this is 48 per cent. Tolls on passengers on goods landed from Inland Steamers and Native Boats, which could all lie conveniently (without the chance of being crushed, as at present) in six feet of water, in the bays between the projections to eighteen feet of water, would far more than pay for repairs and maintenance.

3. The above calculations are more put forward to draw attention to the subject and have no pretence to strict accuracy, though I do not think they will be found very far wrong. I have not time to go into the cost of the wharf more then I have done, but it is easily done by any Engineer, and the other calculations can be put right by any Merchant.

4. As a part of the scheme, and as likely to be also remunerative, the tramway mentioned in my former letter should be formed running in the inner side of the wharf, but outside the ghâts from the Railway Station to the Government Dock-yard, the crossing at Tolly's Nullah being formed by a traversing bridge to allow of ingress and egress to boats, &c. Such a tramway would bring or take all goods from any part of the river bank, Turn Tables being given opposite each projection to eighteen feet water. The wharf need in no way interfere with bathing ghâts.

5. If this plan were adopted it would probably be more convenient that a double line of ships should be moored near the centre of the river, and moorings laid down along the wharf frontage for only a single line of vessels to load and unload, loaded ships going to sea giving place to others; and four or five of the projections (to eighteen feet of water) might be specially kept for sea-going steamers. Where perishable goods would be landed, the wharf would be covered in.

6. Supposing proper moorings be given, this plan would answer nearly all purposes of Wet Docks at probably a less expense without a doubt of its success, and with a certainty of quicker returns.

7. It would be best for the Municipality to undertake the work themselves. Half the work could be finished in three years, and the returns on the capital expended would enable the Municipality to get easily the remainder of the money, and eventually to devote the large returns, which may reasonably be expected, to other improvements. Fifteen lacs a year, for five years, would complete the work, and for the cost of every portion finished ample interest would be secured. But the work should be commenced on a general plan from the north, having eventually the entire river bank in view; and the tramway on the inside, and the screw moorings on the outside, should be carried south simultaneously with the wharf.

8. I may state, with reference to my former remarks on screw moorings, (letter No. 220C.,) that I see it stated that this system of mooring has been recently adopted by the Admiralty at Portsmouth and Holyhead; that the Thames Conservators have had an extensive system of them laid down; that they have been adopted in some of the principal harbours of the United Kingdom; and that they were employed "most satisfactorily" by the late Sir William Cubitt in mooring the large landing stage in the Mersey, at Liverpool.

9. Having forty or fifty distinct landing places and loading wharves for heavy and light craft for passengers and goods by steamers or ships, will also, as it seems to me, eliminate that element of dire confusion which now seems to disturb and obstruct the very important business, in a large commercial city, of loading and unloading ships at the river bank.

10. If the Government thought there was no impropriety in so doing, I would suggest that a copy of this and my former letter, No. 220C., be forwarded for opinion to the Chamber of Commerce.

Note.—From the Commercial Annual of 1864 I gather that the external trade of Bengal was as follows:—

		Vessels.	Tonnage.
Imports	...	1,376	917,102
Exports	...	1,279	882,166
Total	...	2,655	1,799,268

so that the calculations so far in the 2nd paragraph may well stand, for though I have put down 1,020,000 tons as the amount of tonnage upon which wharf dues would be chargeable, more than the difference would probably be obtained upon tonnage landed and embarked in the internal trade. I have not provided for a sufficient number of ships, for I have supposed only 1,200 ships to come alongside in the year, whereas the return shews 2,655 require to be accommodated; but I have averaged each ship at 300 feet long and of 800 tons, but ships of 300 feet in length are the exception, not the average, and smaller vessels would not take half the time alongside; this is a mere matter of detail not affecting the general question.

The value of Imports in 1863-64 was Rupees	16,60,62,614
The value of Exports in 1863 64 was Rupees	23,92,62,285
Total „	40,53,24,899

and I have calculated Rupees 38,40,000 as the cost of putting the above value of Exports safely and quickly on board, and the above value of imports safely and quickly on land, and this is nearly 1 per cent. on the total value. The question seems to be therefore—Can the Merchant afford to pay for a safe, speedy, and efficient arrangement for loading and unloading his merchandize 1 per cent. instead of what he has to pay now or an un-safe, slow, and inefficient arrangement? And this is a question that the Merchant can best answer.

From Lieutenant-Colonel A. Fraser, R. E., Superintendent of Light-houses, to Captain E. C. S. Williams, R. E., Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department,—(No. 222C., dated the 13th October 1864.)

Having a Schedule of prices by Mr. Wells (who, I believe contracted to build the Madras Pier) of some of the iron-work required for a screw pile pier, and feeling that such arrangements as I proposed in my previous letters, Nos. 220C. and 221C., will, if carried out, be of great benefit to the community of Calcutta, I do not hesitate to forward to you a rough statement of the probable cost of properly accommodating ships (with a rough sketch of what I mean) as a verification of the rate I gave in my letter No. 221C. per running foot of river bank, viz., £50.

2. I believe in the statement of cost I have fully provided for every thing, and on going more closely into it the result is more favorable than I at first thought.

3. From a more close, but still cursory view of the river bank, I do not think it will be necessary to run the general line of wharf beyond low water, as thence the bank drops very suddenly to deep water. I have therefore combined the general wharf and tramway, which, while not interfering (scarcely in any way) with existing arrangements, will give fifty-four feet more of strand road, and for nearly the same price (£800,000) as mentioned in my letter No. 221C., I am able to provide the means of putting goods on board ships from almost the doors of the godowns at (1) one per cent. on the value of the goods, while paying those who carry out the plan over (40) forty per cent. It is probable also that, in fixing the length of the projecting piers at 144 feet from low water, I have gone beyond what will actually be required, but I have done so with a view of being certainly on the safe side as regards cost.

See annexed Note on maintenance, &c.

4. The Government having allowed the Madras Pier to be built, which, though of considerable convenience, can scarcely ever pay, as no ship can go alongside, and therefore the cost of shipment into boats and landing from boats are not saved, I can scarcely suppose that they will not give consideration to a project which, as it seems to me on reasonable calculations, will certainly, if those calculations are nearly correct, re-pay itself in three years, while the piers are not exposed to any risk of destruction.

5. Besides the high percentage directly paid on this proposed outlay, it is perhaps scarcely necessary to point out the many ways it will pay indirectly, but I will mention one or two which are of importance. First—It will set free perhaps some 20,000 people now employed in dinghees, cargo boats, in loading and unloading them, in loading and unloading and driving hackeries, and numbers of artificers employed in building and repairing these boats and carriages, and direct their labour towards other branches of industry, and thereby cheapen the labor market. In a highly civilized country it may doubtless be a matter of consideration whether a number of laborers should be thrown out of employment in any particular branch; but in a country in a highly progressive state it must be of great advantage to reduce labor by improvement in one branch, and direct it to improvement in another. Second—It will probably reduce the time which vessels need to stay in this Port from forty to twenty days. Third—It will probably much reduce the Harbour Master's and River Police Establishments, and will certainly cause savings to the State in the Quarter-Master General, Army Commissariat, Ordnance Commissariat, and Customs Department, and finally the long line of well-lighted piers will add much to the appearance of the City and to the convenience and safety of its Inhabitants and Shipping.

6. There are, doubtless, proper sections, &c, already taken of the river bank with longitudinal levels, but if not, now is the time to do it, while the river side is unencumbered with ships, with a view of laying down a precise plan, and obtaining a precise estimate.

7. To those who would object to this screw pile scheme on the score of want of permanency, I would remark that it is the quickest way of accommodating the commerce of the Port, as well as the quickest way of getting a return for the money expended. If the work were placed in the hands of a "River Trust," the money gained would give funds at the rate of some 30 lacs of Rupees per annum wherewith either to form a permanent inside tramway, or a permanent outside quay-wall, while the screw pile platform would form the very best position from which to execute such works. The materials being ready, 300 feet of screw pile pier might be done per month, and every part done would bring immediate returns.

See Note on establishment, maintenance, and income accompanying.

8. In conclusion, therefore, I say that the arrangements I have sketched, together with proper screw moorings for the entire shipping ever likely to be in the Port, could be carried out and laid down for, say, in round numbers one million sterling, and that they would bring in a return of over 40 per cent after the lapse of five years The best plan to raise the money would be for a "River Trust" to raise the money in the market in instalments of £200 000 per annum for five years on Debentures at an interest of say 6 per cent. with a currency of eight, seven, six, five and four years respectively, guaranteed on the Port Dues, and re-payable at the option of the "Trust" at the expiration of those periods In eight years, then, from the commencement of the work, the "Trust" would be in a position to pay off its liabilities (taking into consideration returns in parts of the works intermediately finished) and have at its disposal, after deducting 10 per cent. for maintenance and repair, a yearly sum of at least 30 lacs of Rupees to take in hand (as in last paragraph) more permanent arrangements while in the mean while it will have perfectly accommodated the shipping and the commerce generally of the Port. I include a Note of the probable ultimate cost of maintaining the pier and moorings, with a Memorandum of the probable savings on present mode of shipping and landing goods to complete the subject.

Note.—The enclosed Statement only includes Screw Moorings for ships alongside the wharf in detail and merely a lump sum for the other moorings.

See annexed Note on maintenance and repairs, &c.

9. I should mention that the distance apart at which I have placed the screws for moorings in the Sketch is subject to correction.

P. S.—Should this project be thought worthy of consideration by His Excellency the Viceroy, I would request that my previous letters, Nos. 220C. and 221C., with this and its accompaniments, might be printed together as shewing the entire plan proposed by me.

Statement of work to be done and cost, to accompany Lieutenant-Colonel Fraser's letter No. 222C. of the 13th October 1864.

The work to be done according to the accompanying Sketch is as follows:—

1. To build a facing wall along the whole left bank of the river where required at about three-quarters flood tide from the Railway Station to the Government Dock-yard, with masonry back projections opposite each pier to receive the two-inch tie-rods connecting the piles forming the piers.

2. To fill in behind this wall level with the top, which is to be four feet above high-water mark, spring tides.

3. At fifteen feet from the face of this wall to run a line of piles six inches diameter, screwed into the ground with Mitchell's screws. This line of piles to be connected with the wall and with each other (except the wall connections opposite the piers, which will be of two-inch iron) by diagonal one and a half inch rod iron traces.

4. At twelve feet from the first row of piles a second row to run twelve feet from the last, and connected with each other and the first line in like manner.

5. At twelve feet from the second line a third row of piles connected in a similar manner.

6. At fifteen feet from the third line a fourth row of piles connected in a similiar manner.

7. Commencing at a convenient spot near the Railway Station on left bank to run out at convenient intervals, not exceeding 300 feet from centre to centre, screw pile piers averaging 144 feet long by 48 broad, consisting of piles eight inches diameter of from thirty to fifty feet long with Mitchell's screws having (where necessary) the patent saw edges. Five lines of piles twelve feet apart, connected together longitudinally and transversely with two-inch rod iron diagonal braces, and the two outer bays further braced and shutted by T. iron braces at the level of low water. Each pier to be finished off with Teak Timber Fender Piles 12" × 12."

8. The heads of the piles to be arranged with iron caps to receive Teak Timber girders, over which Teak joists, and the whole finished off with three-inch planking one inch apart. Railings of four-inch standard with three-inch diagonal bracing, foot and hand rail to be given; steps of open cast iron-work to be given as per Sketch.

9. The inner half (seventy-two feet) of each pier to be covered in lightly with corrugated iron pitched roofs for the protection of perishable goods, for Police Stations, and Toll Collectors.

10. The piers and tramway to be lighted with gas, and pipes to be laid along the piers in connection with the Town water-supply (when in existence) for watering ships.

11. Along the whole length of the centre bays of the piers and wharf a double line of tramway of the Indian Railway gauge to be given. My calculation shews that 100 tons per diem will be loaded and unloaded at each pier, take each truck to carry on an average three tons, and to make six trips per diem, six up and six down, we shall require six (6) trucks to each pier, or 300 trucks for goods. Sidings to be given at convenient places. The tramway turn-tables to be given opposite each pier to turn the trucks on to the piers. Standing and movable cranes to be given at convenient places. It is well to have the tramways on the piers on the inner bays, while the movable cranes run upon rails on the outer halves (seventy-two feet) of the piers to pick up all goods from boats, &c., as well as from ships.

12. Between the piers, and simultaneously with their construction, Screw Moorings to be laid on the plan shewn roughly in the Sketch.

Propable Cost of the above.

Calcutta,

A. FRASER, Lieut.-Col., R. E.

From LIEUTENANT-COLONEL A. FRASER, R. E., Superintendent of Light-houses, to CAPTAIN E. C. S. WILLIAMS, R. E., Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department,—(dated the 19th October 1864.)

I MADE a mistake in my Note of Establishment for Tramways, &c., which accompanied my letter No. 222 C, and which I altered in the detail and not in the totals at the end of the Note. Would you kindly correct this for me.*

* Correction made.

I don't know whether the information about Government of India having decided upon going in for Jetties was intended to stop my plan, but it is easy to shew that you can't build Jetties without a Tramway, or a Tramway without Jetties with any useful effect.

1. You known that the chief Godowns of this Port are situated at the end (the north) of a long line of ships moored along the bank, and that this distance (south) is three miles. That Jetties should be generally useful, you must build them along the whole line at the distance apart of a ship's length. You thus increase the principal cost of shipping goods, i. e., land carriage on ordinary roads, and it would be easy to shew that the shipper would gain very little by this arrangement, while you merely produce the confusion now taking place opposite the Godowns above along the whole of the Strand and Course.

2. A Tramway without Jetties would not pay, because it would never be used, as it would merely add the cost of conveyance along the Tramroad to the cost of present boat hire, which, I imagine, varies but little at any point of the River bank within the three miles.

It seems to me therefore you must go in for the combination of the line as I have proposed, and which is at least comprehensive. You can't have solid Jetties as the Bays would silt up, and of others none are equal in permanence and celerity of construction to Screw Piles.

I wish I had mentioned the points (noted in 1 and 2 above) in my letter, but in laying it before Government you can do so for me should the Government be inclined to give consideration to the matter.

P. S.—By adopting my proposed arrangements you settle the whole River question at once; any partial arrangements are to my mind to be avoided.

Note of the probable Cost of maintaining the Wharves, Jetties, Tramways, and Moorings proposed in Lieutenant-Colonel Fraser's letter No. 222C. of 13th October 1864.

The actual amount of Exports of Merchandise for the year 1863-64 was in value - ...	20,94,69,119
And of Treasure - ...	2,97,93,166

The actual amount of Export tonnage for 1863-64 was Rupees 8,82,166, ∴ the mean value of a ton of Merchandise exported was $= \frac{20,94,69,119}{8,82,166} =$ Rs. 240.

∴ The mean value of a ton of Export and Import Merchandise $= \frac{240 + 121}{2} =$ Rs. 180 nearly.

I have proposed Rupees 2 per ton. The questions seems to be resolved into, can the Merchant pay 1¼ per ton, or about ·9 per cent. on the value of his goods on the average (of course some goods would pay more and some less)? and will the charge on the "Treasure" make up the remaining ¼ per ton on the difference between 8,82,166, 9,17,102=17,99,268 (the actual Import and Export tonnage) and the 2,000,000 tons upon which I have calculated as paying labor dues and wharfage at Rupees 2 per ton?

If these questions are answered affirmatively, then I say, what with the internal commerce and tolls on passengers besides, the scheme will pay the "Trust" over 40 per cent., which is a very large margin of profit.

Memorandum.

I conclude this paper with a Memorandum of the probable cost of the present mode of shipping goods which I obtained from Major Willes, Deputy Commissary General.

	Rs.	As.	P.
1. The average cost per ton (taking light and heavy goods together) of carriage by hackery in Calcutta per mile is - - -	1	11	0
(Of this the shipper and receiver of goods would save by the Tramway from 4 annas to 8 annas per ton.)
2. The average cost per ton (taking as above) of boat hire from River bank to ship's side is - -	2	0	0
(Of this the shipper would save Rupees 2 per ton.)
3. The averave cost per ton (taking as above) of lifting goods from a hackery on the River bank into a boat at the River side - -	1	11	0
(Of this the shipper would save Rupees 1-11.)
4. From another source I learn that the cost of lifting a ton of goods from a boat into a ship is about per ton - - -	0	4	0
(Of this the shipper would save 4 annas.)
5. I assume myself that a ship does not pay less than (per ton) for Harbour Masters and Moorings -	0	4	0
Total now paid per ton -	5	14	0

Hence it would appear that by paying a tonnage due of Rupees 2 per ton for the Tramway, Piers, Wharf, and Moorings, and all other Port dues, the shippers and receivers of goods and owners of ships would save over Rupees 2 per ton, which is another large margin of profit. So that it is probable that a tonnage due of Rupees 2-8 per ton, while very profitable to trade, would meet all Harbour dues, all Light dues, and all other dues necessary to keep the River from Calcutta to its mouth in the most perfect order possible, and while giving to the shipping the most perfect accommodation, would give an extraordinary profit to the "Trust" which undertakes the arrangements.

P. S.—Private Wharves, such as the Peninsular and Oriental Company's, &c., should either be joined on to the general arrangements and compensation given, or should be separately taxed.

Appendix T.

From Captain E. C. S. Williams, R. E., Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department,—(No. $\frac{444}{1110}$C., dated the 12th November 1864.)

Transferred to the Government of Bengal for consideration.

From Lieutenant-Colonel A. Fraser, R. E., Superintendent of Light-houses, to Captain E. C. S. Williams, R. E., Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department,—(No 261, dated the 29th October 1864.)

Adverting to the correspondence which has taken place on the subject of Light-houses on Screw Piles, and which has resulted in the Government of India having requested one to be sent out for the Straits of Malacca to take up the position of the present Light Ship Torch, and I being ordered to survey and report upon sites for three others on the coasts of British Burmah, one being at the mouth of the Rangoon River in lieu of the present Light Ship, a second on the Baragon Flat, and a third on or inside the Oyster Reef off Akyab; and adverting, especially to the last paragraph of my letter No. 528, dated 14th March 1864, in which I stated that the lights at the entrance of the Calcutta River were quite inadequate to the wants of the trade; and observing that the late gales have again proved that Light Ships are in no way to be depended upon for certainty of light, while in original cost they are probably as expensive as Light-houses on Screw Piles, and trebly costly in maintenance and very inferior as regards the power of showing a good light, I have the honor again to bring to the notice of the Government of India the value of Light-houses when they can be built on Screw Piles over Light Ships, with a view to the substitution of the former for the latter at the Sandheads should a survey prove it to be practicable; and with this object I would recommend that the range of surveys and experiments I propose to undertake under the orders of Government as communicated in Colonel Strachey's No. $\frac{191}{1414}$C.,

Public Works Department No. 38, dated 26th May 1864, to the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, from the Government of India, in the Public Works Department.

Proceedings, Governor General of India in Council, No. 049C. of 23rd April 1864, and Secretary, Public Works Department's letter No. $\frac{444}{1110}$C., dated 15th July 1864, and Proceedings, Governor General in Council, No. $\frac{444}{1110}$C., dated 27th May 1864.

dated 15th July 1864, and No. $\frac{3}{3}\frac{1}{3}\frac{1}{3}$C., dated 15th June 1864, be extended to the Sandheads.

2. You will observe that I do not commit myself to the opinion that it is practicable to substitute Light-houses on Screw Piles for the Light Ships at the Sandheads, but the present system of lighting, as I have thrice before brought to the notice of the Government, is, as I think, capable of improvement and it is well worth while going to the small expense of surveying, &c., to endeavor to ascertain the practicability or otherwise of introducing a mode of lighting in fixed Light-houses so immeasurably superior.

Appendix V.

Memorandum of the method adopted in laying down Moorings in the Port of Calcutta.

Supposing a double set of first class Moorings, i. e, for 2 ships to be ordered to be laid off the Esplanade in 6 fathoms low water, the course would be as follows:—

I measure off my distance from the upper part of Baboo Ghât as a starting point to the lower part, and mark it with a small buoy. I then measure off and mark my distance from the shore from low water-mark, say about 25 fathoms where I intend to place my first set of moorings, consisting of one large anchor of 70 Cwt. and a small backing anchor of 18 to 20 Cwt, with a chain 15 to 25 fathoms 1¼ to keep the moorings in their place.

To the heavy anchor there are attached 8 fathoms of 2¾ inches chain called the ground chain, and 20 to 24 fathoms of 2 inches chain; at the end of this is a No. 3 shackle to receive a large ring of 3½ inches iron for the pendant to be shackled to.

The pendants consist each of two fathoms of 2 inches chain with a No. 3 shackle and another large ring, to which the ship's chain is shackled on.

The length of the ship's chain from the hawse pipe to the mooring ring is generally from 10 to 15 fathoms. The buoy for keeping the mooring ring up, is secured to the ring by a No. 3 shackle, a No. 4 buoy swivel and a No. 4 shackle to the buoy.

The outer or second set is laid down in precisely the same manner at a distance of about 15 fathoms apart.

There is also a large post sunk well up on the bank 22 feet long and 2 feet square, to which is secured a 2-inches chain 40 fathoms long, at the end of which is a No. 3 shackle and a No. 1 ring to which the in-shore chain from the ship is fastened.

Harbour Master.

Appendix X.

From A. B. CLAPPERTON, Esq., Officiating Master Attendant, to C. B. GREENLAW, Esq., Secretary to the Marine Board, —(No. 1, dated the 1st September 1842.)

IN continuation of my letter No. 125, dated the 20th June last, I have now to submit, in compliance with the orders of the Marine Board,* the accompaying Statements† from the Harbour Master of the names and tonnage of all the vessels at the Hon'ble Company's moorings during the gale of June last, specifying those that broke adrift, with the particular mooring parted from, and the cause of parting as far as has been ascertained; showing also the weight of the mooring anchors, and size of chain where known, and state of preparation in which each vessel was, at the time, to withstand the fury of the gale.

* Contained in your letter No. 2903A., dated the 10th of June.
† Marked A. B. & C.

2. From these documents it will be seen by Statement A., that there were 30 vessels at the chain moorings off Calcutta when the gale took place on the 3rd June, 5 only of which lay secure, while 25 vessels broke adrift, leaving only 12 sets of moorings complete available. At Howrah the old set of moorings No. 1 were carried away by the two ships riding by them, leaving the new set No. 2 complete. At the Cooley Bazar, per Statement B., there were only two ships at the moorings, one of them lay secure and the other parted all her shackles; and it appears that partly by the force of the wind upon the buoys of the vacant moorings, and partly by the Prince Albert driving over them, dragging the ground chains from their position up and down the River, the buoys are now so intermixed that it is impossible, at some of the tiers, to distinguish the ebb and flood buoys from each other, so that the moorings at No. 3 and 4, though not lost, are "all adrift" till they can be hove up and re-laid during the fine weather season.

3. The Statement marked C. shows that of the 8 swinging moorings off the docks on the Howrah side, 3 of them parted during the gale. Three of the swinging moorings laid on the edge of the Sumatra likewise parted, Nos. 3 and 4, during the gale, and No. 7 subsequently, leaving 12 sets still complete. The three Pilot vessels' moorings off the Bankshall were also lost, as well as one at the Cooley Bazar above the Amherst's buoy, and two of the steamers' moorings at Kidderpore at a subsequent period. The cause of these vessels breaking adrift cannot, I fear, be accurately ascertained till the moorings are recovered and hove up, the Harbour Master's Department having as yet been able to recover and re-lay only three mooring anchors, and one of the Pilot vessels' moorings previous to the setting in of the freshes.

4. By these disasters only 22 set of chain moorings instead of 59, and 21 set of swinging moorings instead of 32, as per margin, remained for the security of the shipping during the freshes, and the consequence of which state of things has been much damage done to the shipping by the vessels moored in the stream breaking adrift on the springs, when it was impossible to avoid collision with each other from the crowded state of the harbour. There being upwards of 190 ships in the river during the greater part of last month, I beg to submit, for the Board's information, a Statement marked D., of 40 casualities which have occurred in the river between the 14th of July and 27th of August which by no means comprehends the whole of these misfortunes, as many accidents happened, of which I have received no written report either from the Commander or the Harbour Master.

5. When these accidents began to take place from the effects of the freshes, there were about 30 ships at the moorings and secured under fours. The Commanders and Agents soon became most calamorous to have their vessels placed in security under fours, and the calls upon the Harbour Master for his assistance were far beyond what his Department could promptly attend to; vessels were obliged to wait their turns, and loud were the complaints of delay in consequence. In this exigency the Harbour Master applied to me by letter, dated 13th ultimo, which accompanies, marked E., to be permitted under the Board' sanction to allow the individuals named in his letter who were candidates for employment as Assistant Harbour Masters to aid in the duties during this very great pressure upon his Department. I was unwilling to submit his proposition to the Board without laying before them, at the same time, more information of the necessity of such a step than was contained in Captain Gillett's letter; but he was authorized to employ such of the men as were willing to work upon a promise of being recommended for remuneration, should their services give satisfaction, and I am happy to say that by their assistance the Harbour Master was enabled to attend more promptly to the wants of the shipping, and in a few days he had upwards of 80 ships hauled under fours at the moorings and their own anchors in different parts of the river which tended to clear the Harbour greatly and to give satisfaction to all parties.

6. The assistance of these men were no longer required about the end of last month, when their services were immediately dispensed with, and I now beg to submit, for the Board's satisfaction, a Statement marked F. of the duties they performed; and should the Board concur with me in the pressing necessity for this prompt and adventitious aid being given by the Harbour Master, I trust they will sanction my drawing out a contingent bill for the services of these auxiliary hands at the rate of 4 Rupees per diem, for which I make no doubt they will be sufficiently thankful; and I beg likewise to solicit that the Board will sanction the substitution of Mr. J. Simson as Extra Assistant Harbour Master for Mr. A. Dunbane, who has rendered himself unworthy of further employment,* and that of Mr. C. A. Heald in lieu of Mr. Buary, resigned.

* Vide Harbour Master's letter marked G., herewith forwarded.

7. I take this opportunity likewise to submit Statement marked H. of the employment of the whole of the Harbour Master's Assistants from April to August last, and two Statements marked I. and K. of the Receipts and Disbursements in the Harbour Master's Department for the same period, all of which contain matter for the Board's information more or less connected with the purport of this letter.

14th July ...	Barque "Glen Huntly" ... Captain W Cleland.	Brig "Echo" in dropping down fell foul of her.	Carried away her larboard bumpkin
14th „ ...	Brig "Echo" ... Captain.	Fell foul of the "Glen Huntly" in dropping down	Carried away the head of her fore topmast and flying jibboom.
22nd „ ...	Barque "Sumatra" ... Captain Crawford.	"William Shand" fell foul of her while dropping down.	Doing considerable damage, but not specified.
25th „ ...	Barque "Olive Branch" .. Captain Thompson.	Ship "Regina" fell foul of her while dropping down.	Carried away her jibboom, spritsail yard, lower boom crutch boom rails, and started cut water.
27th „ ..	Brig "Moulmein" ... Captain Morton.	Fouled by a Pilot Brig in dropping down by hooking her chains, and swung alongside.	Carried away her main outrigger cross trees, and sprang the main yard.
27th „ ...	Ditto ditto ...	Fouled a second time by the Barque "Sultan" under charge of Mr. Middleton, run in to the Brig under sail caught by the eddies.	Carried away her starboard swinging boom, boats davits, injuring jibboom, and damaging brig's sides.
28th „ ...	Barque "Royal Tar" ... Captain Ball.	Fell foul of the "Duchess of Kent" in dropping down.	Carried away her mizzen mast, and receiving other damages not reported.
28th „ ...	Barque "Duchess of Kent ... Captain Anderson.	Barque "Royal Tar" fell foul of her while dropping down.	Carried away her jibboom, standing, and flying jibboom guys, jib down haul, stay-sail, halyards, &c, carried away the fore channels, stove in the bulwark, broke lower boom crutch, and broke away the fastenings of the quarter boat, and one of the thwart knees of the gunwale, also rubbed the mizzen channels.
29th „ ...	Ship "Helen" ... Captain Boaz.	Fell foul of the "Margarett" and "Royal Tar" while dropping down.	Extent of damages not reported.

30th „ ...	Barque "Juliet" ... Captain Alexander.	Drove from her anchors ...	Received damages; particulars not reported.
2nd Aug. ...	Barque "Agnes" ... Captain Davison.	Barque "Science" fell foul of her, and got athwart hawse, in coming to her berth.	Carried away her small bower anchor, hawse pipe, bitts, cut water, jibboom, bobstay, and hawser.
5th „ ...	Ditto ditto ...	Slipped from her anchor ...	Lost her starboard anchor and 60 fathoms of chain.
7th „ ...	Ship "Glenleg" ... Captain J. Beles.	Taken aback with a North-Wester in the Gasper channel; the vessel under charge of Mr. W. Laing, Pilot, who furled sails.	The next morning, after the vessel anchored, an attempt was made to weigh, but did not succeed on account of the heavy swell having carried away the devil's claws, stoppers, messenger, and hawse pipe. The Pilot in charge thought it most prudent to slip his chain and anchor. On her arrival at Calcutta, the Harbour Master took charge immediately, hauled her into moorings, with the troops on board.
7th „ ...	"Princess Victoria" ... Captain Blackmore.	Parted from her anchors ...	In drifting down, she laid hold of the "City of Poonah;" the extent of damages not reported.
7th „ ...	"Maj Merrilies" ... Captain Skinner.	Parted from one of the swinging moorings, and fortunately brought herself up by anchor.
8th „ ...	"Duke of Lancaster" ... Captain McKenzie.	Barque "Samarang" fell foul of her, having parted.	Carried away her jibboom.
8th „ ...	"Ship Brooke" ... Captain Carpenter.	"Samarang" fell foul of her, having parted	Carried away her bow prit.
8th „	Barque "Romeo" ... Captain Pollock.	"Samarang" fell foul of her, having parted in the night, parted from her anchors.	Carried away her sheet anchor, and started her cutwater.
8th „ ...	Barque "Samarang" ... Captain Robertson	Fouled the "Romeo" ...	Carried away her quarter gallery.
9th „ ...	Barque "Lord Goodridge" ... Captain Mills.	Sprung a leak 5 feet water in her hold, both pumps going to keep her free.	Was kept from sinking by the exertions of the Harbour Master's Department, and afterwards hauled into Dock.
9th „ ...	Ship "Old England" ... Captain J. Hodson.	Broke adrift by dragging her anchor ...	No damage reported
10th „ ...	Barque "Wenefried" ... Captain Hardy.	Broke adrift by parting from her anchor	No damage reported.
11th „ ...	Ship "York" ... Captain Legg	Taken aback in a North-Wester in Gasper Channel.	Lost anchor and started main bitts, and other damages
11th „ ...	Barque "Florist" ... Captain Hugguis.	Ship "Helen" broke adrift from her moorings under tours, fell foul of the "Florist," and broke her adrift from Cooly Bazar moorings.	The extent of damages not reported.
12th „ ...	Ship "Sultan" ... Captain Robinson.	Steamer "Ganges" fell foul of her, in steaming down the river.	Carried away her cutwater; cut the main stem. Carried away bowsprit, 30 fms of chains and anchor attached to it.
12th „ ...	Barque "Bohemian" ... Captain Little.	"Saxe Gotha" fell foul of her, having parted her anchors, and drifted about the river.	Sustained considerable damage; particulars not reported.
12th „ ...	Barque "Carroghmon" ... Captain W. Bell.	"John Craig" fell foul of her in dropping down	Doing serious injury to her by carrying away her bowsprit head, and stove in her windlass.
12th „ ...	Ship "Eliza" ... Captain McCarthy.	Ship "Windermere" fell athwart hawse of her, having parted her bower anchor.	Broke her starboard chain from the anchor; jibboom, spritsail, yard, &c., broke the bolts of the cutwater, turned it on one side from the main stem, as low down as 16 feet mark, and occasioned her other serious injuries

REGULATIONS OF THE PORT OF CALCUTTA, AND THE NAVIGABLE RIVER AND CHANNELS LEADING THERETO UNDER ACT XXII. OF 1855.

No. 401.

Orders by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

Notification.—The 1st July 1856.—With the sanction of the Governor General of India in Council, it is hereby declared, that the Port of Calcutta and the navigable River and Channels leading to that port, are subject to Act No. XXII of 1855

The limits of the said port of Calcutta are as follows:—

To the North, a line drawn across the River Hooghly from the boundary pillar on the north side of Hautkollah Ghaut to the boundary pillar on the north side of Sulkea Ghaut.*

To the South, a line drawn from the boundary pillar at the south-west corner of the house on the river bank usually occupied by the Superintendent of the Botanical Gardens and known as Garden House, to the boundary pillar at the south-west corner of the public Ghaut opposite.

So much of Tolly's Nullah as lies to the west of a line drawn across the Nullah between the two boundary pillars 300 yards within Hastings' Bridge.

The limits of the said port include to the east and west so much of the River Hooghly and of the shores thereof, and so much of Tolly's Nullah and of the shores thereof, as are within 50 yards of high-water mark Spring Tides.

The limits of the navigable River and Channels leading to the said port of Calcutta made subject to the said Act are as follows:—

To the North, the port of Calcutta as above defined.

To the South, a line drawn east and west from the Lower Floating Light

All parts of the navigable Channels, called the Eastern and the Western Channels, and of the River Hooghly between the said limits and below high water line at Spring Tides, are subject to the said Act.

PORT RULES.

With the sanction of the Governor General of India in Council, the following Port Rules have been made, and are hereby promulgated for general information and guidance.—

Rule 1.—No Vessel, if above 200 Tons, shall enter within the limits of the Port of Calcutta, or move from one place to another within the Port between sunset and sunrise, without the special permission of the Master Attendant.

Rule 2.—All Vessels within the Port of Calcutta shall be bound to take up such berth as may be appointed for them by the Master Attendant, the Harbour Master, or their Assistants, and shall change their berths or remove when required by such Authority.

Rule 3.—All Vessels above Fort Point shall keep their jib and driver booms rigged in; and all Vessels within the Port of Calcutta shall, on the requisition of the Master Attendant or the Harbour Master, rig in their jib and driver booms, and shall strike their yards and masts if required so to do by either of those Officers.

Rule 4.—Every Ship or Vessel within the Port of Calcutta shall remove any anchor or spar, or other substance projecting from her side, when required to do so by the Master Attendant or the Harbour Master.

Rule 5.—Vessels taking in or discharging ballast or any particular kind of Cargo within the Port of Calcutta, shall be bound to take up such berth as the Master Attendant or the Harbour Master may direct Rule 6.—A free Channel of 240 yards width is to be kept for ships moving up or down the River within the Port, and also free passages to piers, jetties, landing places, wharves, quays, docks and moorings; and all Vessels shall be bound to move when required to clear such Channels or passages.

* The Northern limits of the Port of Calcutta are extended to the Cossipore Gun Foundry Ghaut and a point on the opposite side of the River. Vide Notification in the Calcutta Gazette, No. 309, dated 5th March 1858

Rule 7.—All Vessels within the Port of Calcutta shall anchor, moor, and unmoor when and where required by the Master Attendant and the Harbour Master.

Rule 8.—All Vessels within the Port of Calcutta shall be moored or warped from place to place as required by the Master Attendant or Harbour Master; and no Vessel shall cast off a wharp that has been made fast to her to assist a Vessel in mooring without being required so to do by the Pilot or Officer in charge of the Vessel mooring.

Rule 9.—No vessel shall use any of the Government Chain Moorings, whether fixed or swinging, without permission of the Master Attendant or the Harbour Master.

Rule 10.—All Vessels occupying Government Mooring, fixed or swinging, shall be liable to pay for the same according to the following scale but no more.

NOTIFICATION.

Under the Orders of Government a revision has been made of the scale for hire of Chain Moorings in the Port of Calcutta, and in future the rates will be as follows:—

Rule 11.—No Vessels within the limits of the Port of Calcutta shall boil any pitch or dammer on board, or shall draw off spirits by candle or other artificial lights.

Rule 12.—All Vessels within the limits of the Channels leading to the Port of Calcutta shall, when at anchor, between sunset and sunrise, have a good light hoisted at the starboard fore-yard arm; and all Vessels under weigh at night shall show a good light at the fore-royal or upper foremast head; and when under weigh in tow of a Steamer shall, in addition to the mast-head light, show a good light at each fore-yard arm, the Steamer showing the usual light prescribed by the Admiralty Regulations.

The Provisions of Sections XII, XXVIII, XXXVII, and XL. of the said Act No. XXII. of 1855 are hereby specially extended to the Port of Calcutta.

W. GREY,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

ACT No. XXX. OF 1857.

An Act for the levy of Port-dues and Fees in the Port of Calcutta.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is necessary to fix the amount of the Port-dues and fees to be hereafter levied and taken in the Port of Calcutta in accordance with the provisions of Act XXII. of 1855: It is enacted as follows:—

Port-due chargeable on sea-going Vessels of twenty tons and upwards entering the Port.

I. A Port-due, at a rate not exceeding the rate of four annas for every ton of burden, shall be chargeable in respect of every sea-going Vessel of the burden of twenty tons and upwards which shall enter the said Port.

No Port-due on Vessels compelled by stress of weather to re-enter the Port.

II. Provided that no such due shall be chargeable in respect of any Vessel which, having left the Port, is compelled to re-enter it by stress of weather, or in consequence of having sustained any damage.

Port-due on Dhonies, and Country Vessels.

III. Provided also that the Port-due chargeable in respect of Dhonies and Country Vessels employed in the coasting trade, shall be at a rate equal to one half the rate chargeable in respect of other Vessels; and such due shall not be chargeable oftener than once in sixty days in respect of the same Vessels.

Vessels entering the Port in ballast.

IV. Vessels entering the Port in ballast shall be charged with three-fourths of the Port-due which would otherwise be chargeable.

Tug Steamers and River Steamers.

V. Tug Steamers and River Steamers belonging to the said Port shall be liable to the Port-due specified in Section I of this Act; and the said due shall be chargeable in respect of every such Steamer once between the 1st day of January and the 30th day of June, and once between the 1st day of July and the 31st day of December in each year. The provisions of Section XLVI, Act XXII. of 1855, shall not be applicable to such Steamers.

Fees for certain services.

NOTIFICATION

The 1st June 1864.

The sanction of the Governor General of India in Council having been obtained, under Section VII., Act XXII. of 1855, to the following Rules, they have accordingly been added to the Port Rules published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 16*th July* 1856, and are now notified for general information:—

Rules for the better Prevention and Suppression of Fires in Shipping in the Port of Calcutta.

Rule I.—Smoking, and the use or possession of lighted chillums in any part of a ship except the upper deck, are strictly prohibited.

Rule II.—No naked light of any description is to be taken into the hold of any ship. Closed lanterns secured by lock and key of such description, and in charge of such Officers of the ship as the Conservator of the Port may select and appoint, shall alone be taken into the hold of any ship.

Rule III.—When fire is known to have broken out in any Vessel, the Officers in charge of all Vessels in neighbouring moorings or anchorages shall furl their awnings, get their force-pumps ready for use, and prepare for slipping their cables and chains, seeing especially that the pins of the shackles can be immediately knocked out.

Rule IV.—The Conservator of the Port or any person subordinate to him may at any time board any vessel, in order to ascertain that the above Rules are carried out.

S. C. Bayley,

Junior Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

From the Hon'ble A. Eden, Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Hon'ble J. N. Bullen, President of the Committee on Moorings,—(No 3619, dated the 20th May 1865.)

I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 17th ultimo, submitting a copy of the Proceedings of the Committee appointed to report upon the Moorings of the Port of Calcutta, and in reply to forward to you the accompanying copy of a Resolution recorded by the Lieutenant-Governor on the subject. I am also to convey His Honor's cordial acknowledgments for the interesting and valuable Report furnished by the Committee.

Resolution, dated the 20th May 1865.

Read the Proceedings of the Committee appointed to report upon the moorings of the Port of Calcutta, forwarded with the letter from the President of the Committee, dated the 17th ultimo.

Read again Marine Proceedings of this Government for December 1864, Nos. 41-45.

Read again Marine Proceedings for February 1865, Nos. 18-19, and for March 1865, Nos. 28-29.

Read again General Proceedings for April 1865, Nos. 20—23.

2. The Lieutenant-Governor observes, that the Committee point out that the Cyclone of October last revealed that the system of mooring adopted, transmitted to the shore tackle an undue strain, while this tackle was only of ordinary size as compared with other portions of the moorings; and that the system was so far defective that every ship in a tier or set of tiers was more or less dependent on the other ships.

3. The Committee also find that the largest anchors used were insufficient for the increased size of ships visiting the Port: that the massive rings of large diameter which were in use were ill calculated to bear the excessive strain to which they were subjected and gave way: that there have been failures in the fitting and tackle of ships, that many ships visiting the Port are defective in regard to hawse pipes; and that the regulations of the Port do not suffice, for giving warning of approaching storms, or for making the arrangements necessary to prepare ships for bad weather.

4. They accordingly recommend that the whole of the Calcutta moorings be re-laid with screw moorings to be obtained overland, and that the attention of the Home Authorities be directed to Saunders' patent safety springs.

5. They also recommend that the necessity in this Port of hawse pipes aft and double hawse pipes forward be generally made known, especially to Lloyds, and that a comprehensive system of weather observations be organized on Admiral Fitzroy's plan.

6. The Committee find further that moorings proper cannot be sufficiently extended to meet the requirements of the Port; that ships must of necessity ride in the stream, which is not safe in the South-West Monsoon, and that they had better be placed at swinging screw moorings.

7. Finally, the Committee strongly recommend a steam anchor boat with steam windlass, both in connection with the moorings and for recovering ships' anchors.

8. The Committee strongly recommend to the consideration of Government the scheme of screw-pile jetties independently of any decision which may be arrived at in regard to wet docks.

9. The Committee give no opinion as to the construction of screw-pile Light-houses, as they consider the question a purely professional one, but they recommend proper surveys and experiments to be made by the Light-house Engineer with a view to determine the question of practicability.

10. They recommend, moreover, that in the place of buoys, experimental screw-pile beacons be at once put in settled parts of the river.

11. The Lieutenant-Governor desires that the thanks of Government may be conveyed to the Committee for their valuable and interesting Report.

12. In the letter No. 5531 of the 5th December last screw moorings to the number of 100 have already been indented for and are expected to arrive during the current month. Mr. Wells who had been sent out from England to superintend the laying down of these moorings has arrived, and is now engaged in making preparation to commence work the moment the screw moorings come into Port. As soon as this first instalment of screw moorings is laid down a further Indent will be sent to the Secretary of State for such a number as may be required; the Master Attendant will be requested to prepare the estimate, and at the same time to point out any alterations or modifications which, after experience gained in laying the first supply, the condition of the river may render necessary.

13. In regard to hawse pipes the Government of India has been already addressed in letter No. 2057, dated the 20th March last, with a view to all Vessels visiting the Port being in future supplied with four hawse holes and stern iron hawse pipes.

14. A scheme of Meteorological Oobservations has also been drawn up by the Commitee appointed for that purpose and submitted to the Government of India with the recommendation of the Lieutenant-Governor. The recommendation of the Mooring Committee will also be forwarded for the consideration of His Excellency the Governor General.

15 The Master Attendant will be requested to report on the number of swinging screw moorings which will be required; on the cost and establishment necessary for the steam anchor boat such as the Committee recommend; and of the number and cost of screw beacons to be laid down in place of buoys.

16. The consideration of the scheme of screw jetties will be postponed and taken up in connexion with the report of the Hooghly Bridge and Wet Dock Committee.

From the HON'BLE A. EDEN, Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,—(No. 3620, dated the 20th May 1865.)

No. 2057, dated the 20th March 1865
No. 2911, dated the 30th April 1865.

In continuation of the letters marginally noted, I am directed to forward, for submission to His Excellency the Governor General in Council, the accompanying copy of the Proceedings of the Committee appointed to report upon the Moorings of the Port of Calcutta, together with a Resolution recorded by the Lieutenant-Governor on the subject; I am to add that the suggestions of the Commitee have received His Honor's entire concurrence.

2. It will be observed that the Committee strongly urge the necessity for the institution, in connexion with Light-houses, the Coast Telegraph, and the Calcutta Observatory, of a comprehensive system of weather observations and warnings after the plan organized in England by the late Admiral Fitzroy, and the Lieutenant-Governor desires to take this opportunity of again recommending this important measure to the consideration of the Government of India.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India in the Home Department (Marine), No. 1891, under date Simla, the 22nd June 1865.

READ a letter from the Government of Bengal, No. 3620, dated the 20th ultimo forwarding a copy of the Proceedings of the Committee appointed to report upon the Moorings of the Port of Calcutta, together with a Resolution recorded by the Lieutenant-Governor on the subject.

READ again the following papers:—

1. Bengal Special Narrative, No. 7 of 1864, dated 5th December.

2. Marine Proceedings, 28th March 1865, Nos. 8 and 9.
   Marine Despatch to Secretary of State, No. 10 of 1865, dated 28th March.
3. Marine Despatch from Secretary of State, No. 1 of 1865, dated 16th January.
   Marine Proceedings, April 1865, No. 1.
   Marine, to Secretary of State, No. 11 of 1865, dated 3rd April.

A SUMMARY of the recommendations of the Committee is given in paragraphs 2 to 10 of the Resolution of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal enclosed in the letter of the 20th ultimo abovementioned; and in the remaining paragraphs the Lieutenant-Governor indicates the steps taken, or proposed to be taken, in respect of the several matters referred to by the Committee.

2. The communication referred to in the 13th paragraph of the Resolution regarding the provision of hawse-holes and hawse-pipes in vessels frequenting the Port of Calcutta has been forwarded to the Secretary of State with the Despatch No. 10, dated the 28th March 1865.

3. Orders have already been communicated to the Government of Bengal in the letter from this Department, No. 1175, dated the 27th ultimo, on the proposal referred to in paragraph 14 of the Resolution for establishing a system of Meteorological Observations along the coast of the Bay of Bengal and at the Port of Calcutta.

4. The question of the proposed substitution of Screw-pile for Floating Light-houses, referred to in the 9th paragraph of the Resolution, and the 3rd Section of the Committee's Report, will be considered in the Public Works Department.

5. The Governor-General in Council concurs with the Lieutenant-Governor on all other points noticed in the Resolution.

ORDERED, that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Government of Bengal.

Ordered, that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Public Works Department for the purpose above indicated, together with a copy of the Committee's Report and of the Lieutenant-Governor's Resolution thereon; and that the attention of the Public Works Department be drawn to the 3rd Section of the Report, and to Appendices D., E., F., T., and W.

Correspondence regarding the advisability of Ships having four instead of two hawse-holes as at present.

From CAPTAIN JOHN G. REDDIE, Master Attendant, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 316, dated the 30th January 1865.)

HAVING reference to the great damage done to the Shipping in this Port by the Cyclone, and the various remedies proposed to prevent such in future, I would suggest that His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor call the attention of the Board of Trade to the necessity of all ships having four hawse-holes, as at present the greater number of ships coming here have only two. Had ships four hawse-holes they could always keep two anchors bent, so that in case of breaking adrift a ship could let go another anchor and probably bring up. A local Act could then be passed compelling all ships in Port to have two anchors ready to let go in case of breaking adrift.

From S. C. BAYLEY, Esq., Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Secretary to the Bengal Chamber of Commerce,—(No. 848, dated the 13th February 1865.)

I AM directed to forward the accompanying copy of a letter No. 316, dated the 30th ultimo, from the Master Attendant, suggesting that every ship that comes to this Port should have four hawse-holes, so that in case of a Vessel breaking adrift she could always be prepared to let go a second anchor, and I am to request that the Chamber of Commerce will be so good as to favor the Lieutenant-Governor with an expression of their opinion on Captain Reddie's suggestion.

From H. W. I. WOOD, Esq., Secretary to the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, to S. C. BAYLEY, Esq., Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(dated the 3rd March 1865.)

THE Committee of the Chamber of Commerce direct me to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 848 of the 13th ultimo.

They think the Master Attendant's suggestion an excellent one, and hope it will recommend itself to the favorable consideration of the Board of Trade and be generally adopted.

Ships would thus have greater security in case of breaking adrift from their moorings, and ship-owners will no doubt approve of the suggestion and act upon it.

The Committee would also recommend iron pipes for stern moorings which are usually made fast on deck and carried over or under the taffrail, an insecure and clumsy way of carrying them out: stern hawse-pipes for the chains would be an improvement.

The Committee will place themselves in communication with the Committee of Lloyds, London, with the view to give all possible publicity to Captain Reddie's suggestion.

From S. C. BAYLEY Esq., Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,—(No. 2057, dated the 20th March 1865.)

I AM directed to forward, herewith, for the consideration of His Excellency the Governor-General in Council, a copy of a correspondence* containing two proposals for the better security of the Ships visiting this Port. The first proposal is made by the Master Attendant, and is to the effect that every Ship should have four instead of, as at present, two hawse holes, by which means she could always keep two anchors bent and in the event of her breaking adrift let go a second anchor. The second proposal is made by the Committee of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, who, whilst supporting the Master Attendant's suggestion as being an excellent one and likely to be approved of and acted upon by Shipowners, recommend, also, that instead of the clumsy and insecure practice usually adopted of having stern moorings "made fast on deck and carried over or under the taffrail," stern iron hawse pipes should be made through which the chains should be passed. This plan, the Committee observe, would be a decided improvement.

* From the Master Attendant, No. 316, dated 30th January 1865.
To the Secretary to the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, No. 848, dated 13th February 1865.
From the Secretary to the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, dated 3rd March 1865.

2. In submitting, therefore, the above proposals the Lieutenant-Governor desires me to say that he strongly recommends them to the notice of His Excellency the Governor-General in Council, in order that they may be communicated through the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India to the Board of Trade, with such further recommendation for their adoption as His Excellency in Council may be pleasd to make.

If the same shall exceed six, but shall not exceed twelve tolahs in weight,—two annas.

If the same shall exceed twelve tolahs in weight there shall be charged and taken one additional anna for every six tolahs in weight above twelve tolahs; and every fraction of six tolahs above twelve tolahs, shall be charged as six additional tolas.

An extra or supplement to any newspaper, bearing the same date as the newspaper and transmitted therewith under the same cover, shall be deemed part of the newspaper.

Nothing contained in this Act shall be construed to oblige any person to send any newspaper, pamphlet, or other printed or engraved paper through the Post Office, but it shall be lawful for all persons to send the same in any other manner.

Newspapers, &c, how to be sent by post.

7. A newspaper, pamphlet, or other printed or engraved paper shall not be sent by the letter-post at the rates prescribed in the last preceding Section, unless the following conditions be observed, that is to say—

(1.) It shall be without a cover, or in a short cover open at both ends.

(2.) There shall be no word printed on such newspaper, pamphlet, or other printed or engraved paper after its publication, or upon the cover thereof, nor any writing or mark upon it, or upon the cover of it, except the name and address of the person to whom it is sent, and the name and address of the sender.

(3.) There shall be no paper or thing enclosed in or with any such newspaper, pamphlet, or other printed or engraved paper.

When to be charged with letter postage.

8. Any newspaper, pamphlet, or other printed or engraved paper sent by the letter-post, in respect of which the above conditions shall not be observed, shall, together with any thing enclosed in or with the same, be charged with postage at the rate which would be charged on an unstamped letter of equal weight.

Proof Sheets.

9. Proof sheets marked as such, may be sent by the letter-post at the rates prescribed for newspapers, provided the contents be correctly certified on the cover by the signature in full of the sender; otherwise the same shall be charged with postage at the rate which would be charged on an unstamped letter of equal weight.

Inland banghy postage.

10. Inland banghy postage shall be charged by weight and distance, on parcels sent by the banghy post, according to the following scale :—

For Distances.		If not exceeding in weight.
		20 Tolahs.	100 Tolahs.	200 Tolahs.	300 Tolahs	400 Tolahs.	500 Tolahs.	600 Tolahs.

Exceeding ...	1,200	1 14	3 12	7 8	11 4	15 0	18 12	22 8

Provided that not more than one letter shall be enclosed in a banghy parcel, under a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees. All articles not exceeding twelve tolahs in weight, sent through the Post Office, shall be conveyed by letter-post and be charged with letter postage, unless specially directed to be sent by banghy post.

Table of Distances.

11. Banghy postage, when chargeable by distance under Section 10 of this Act, shall be calculated and charged according to a Table of Distances which shall be prepared by order of the Governor General of India in Council, on such principles as shall appear to him equitable and convenient, and may from time to time be corrected. And it shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council to declare that the distances from or to Post Offices not entered in the Table shall, for the purposes of this Act, be regarded as represented by the distances shown in the Table, from or to the Post Offices nearest to them respectively. Each Post-Master General shall prepare from the aforesaid Table in the English and Vernacular languages, for the use of every Post Office under his control, a list of all the other Post Offices in India, arranged alphabetically, and shewing the distance of each of them from the Post Office for the use of which it is made, and such list shall be affixed in some conspicuous place in such Post Office.

Where banghy parcels and letter mails are conveyed in the same carriage.

12. Whenever the Post-Master General of any Presidency shall have notified in the Official Gazette that the banghy post is conveyed with the letter-post along any line of road, it shall not be lawful to send by the banghy post any letter or written communication of less weight than twelve tolahs, or any packet of newspapers; and every person who shall knowingly send by the banghy post along any such line of road, any such letter, written communication, or newspaper enclosed in a parcel, shall forfeit for every such offence a sum not exceeding fifty Rupees, and postage shall be charged for every such letter, written communication or newspaper, as if sent separately by the letter-post.

Where there is no banghy post.

13. Where there is no banghy post established on any line of road, letters, parcels and other Articles exceeding twelve tolahs and not exceeding forty tolahs in weight, shall be received and transmitted by the letter-post. Letters shall be charged according to the scale in Section 5, and newspapers, pamphlets, and other printed or engraved papers, according to the scale in Section 6 of this Act, as the case may be; parcels and book packets shall be charged with banghy postage according to the scale in Section 10 or Section 15 of this Act, as the case may be, if it be certified in writing, on such parcel or book packet, under the full signature and address of the sender, that it does not contain any letter or other written communication, or any newspaper, or other article on which a higher rate of postage is chargeable under any Section of this Act.

Letters and other articles exceeding twelve tolahs, but not exceeding forty tolahs.

Certificate.

14. If any such certificate be false, any such letter or other article contained in such certified parcel or book packet shall be charged with postage according to the rate specified in Section 5 or Section 6 of this Act as if sent separately, and the sender shall be subject to the penalty hereinafter provided.

Parcels exceeding forty tolahs, to be forwarded at discretion of Post-Master.

Parcels exceeding forty tolahs and not exceeding six hundred tolahs in weight, shall be transmitted along any such line as banghy parcels; but it shall be in the discretion of the Post-Master, or Deputy Post-Master to whom such parcels are brought for despatch, to forward them at such times and in such manner as may be convenient.

Ship postage on parcels.

15. On all parcels chargeable under Section 10 of this Act with banghy postage, according to distance when conveyed by land, ship postage shall be charged when they are conveyed by means of Her Majesty's Indian post by sea, according to the following scale, that is to say—

On every parcel not exceeding twenty tolahs,—two annas.

On every parcel exceeding twenty tolahs, but not exceeding forty tolahs,—four annas.

On every parcel exceeding forty tolahs, but not exceeding one hundred tolahs in weight,—eight annas:

And for every hundred tolahs in weight above one hundred tolahs,—eight additional annas. Every fraction of one hundred tolahs above one hundred tolahs, shall be charged as one hundred additional tolahs; and if such parcel be conveyed by Her Majesty's Indian post, partly by banghy and partly by sea, ship postage shall be charged in addition to inland banghy postage.

Books, pamphlets, &c.

16. Subject to such rules and conditions as the Governor General of India in Council may from time to time direct, books, packets of newspapers and of printed or engraved or manuscript papers other than newspapers, provided the postage thereon be prepaid by means of a proper stamp or stamps to be affixed thereon, as hereinafter provided, shall, if sent by the banghy post, be charged with the following rates of postage, without reference to the distance to which they may be carried:—

If not exceeding twenty tolahs in weight,—one anna.

If exceeding twenty tolahs, but not exceeding forty tolahs in weight,—two annas.

And for every twenty tolahs in weight above forty tolahs, there shall be charged and taken one additional anna; and every fraction of twenty tolahs above forty tolahs, shall be charged as twenty additional tolahs.

If the postage chargeable on any such book, or other article, be not prepaid as aforesaid, it shall be subject to the rate of postage prescribed for banghy parcels in Section 10 of this Act.

Governor General in Council may direct pre-payment of postage in all cases.

17. It shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council at any time to direct that all or any letters or other articles shall not be forwarded by post, unless the postage thereof shall be fully prepaid by means of a proper stamp or stamps; or that on all or any letters, or other articles on which the postage shall not be fully prepaid by a stamp or stamps, or otherwise, as the said Governor General in Council shall direct, there shall be charged such higher rates of postage as from time to time may be deemed expedient, not exceeding double the rates of postage hereinbefore specified.

Governor General of India in Council may alter the rates of postage.

18. It shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council from time to time to authorize the levy of postage at rates different from those prescribed in this Act, provided that no increase be made in any particular of the rates prescribed in Sections 5 and 6 of this Act.

Governor General may fix rates of steam postage.

19. It shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council from time to time to direct that postage duties, different from the rates authorized by this Act, shall be chargeable on letters, or other articles to be specified in such order, sent through the post from or to any part of Great Britain, or any British Colony, or any Foreign Country to or from any places in British India. The postage charged on any letter, or other article specified in any order of Council made under this Section, whether under the name of steam postage or any other denomination, shall, after the rates of such postage have been published in the Official Gazette of any Presidency, be recovered in the same manner as postage under this Act.

May fix rates of postage for articles sent wholly or partly by sea.

20 It shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council to fix, from time to time, rates of postage to be levied on all letters or other articles transmitted by post, by sea or partly by sea and partly by land from one port or place in India to another: it shall not be necessary that such rates be uniform; but they may vary according to the conveyance or route by which such letters or other articles shall be sent.

Registered letters.

21. Any person posting a letter or other article shall be entitled to require that it shall be registered at the Receiving Post Office, and that a receipt shall be granted for such registered letter or article; and it shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council to direct that, in addition to any rates of postage payable under this Act, a fee not exceeding four annas shall be charged on any letter or other article which the sender thereof shall require to be so registered, and such registration fee shall be paid on the letter or other article being delivered at the Post Office.

22. It shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council from time to time by order to declare in what cases registration shall be compulsory, and to direct that a double registration fee shall be levied on the delivery of any letter or other article which ought, under the order of the Governor General in Council, to have been registered at the time of posting, on which the registration fee shall not have been prepaid.

Expresses.

23. It shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council from time to time to fix and order any rate of postage to be charged for the conveyance of letters or other articles by express, in addition to or instead of any other rates of postage chargeable on such letters and articles under this Act.

Re-directed letters.

24. On every letter or other article which shall be re-directed at any Post Office, or forwarded by post from any place to which it shall have been conveyed by post, there shall be charged for the postage thereof from the place at which the same shall be re-directed, in addition to all other postage paid or due thereon, the rate of postage to which it would be liable if posted and prepaid by stamp at the place where it shall be re-directed.

Letters and other articles once put into the Post Office cannot be re-called.

25. No person having delivered into any Post Office any letter or other article, shall be entitled to re-call the same; but nothing in this Section shall prevent the re-delivery of any such letter or other article to the sender thereof, subject to such Rules and Regulations, if any, as the Governor General of India in Council may from time to time provide in that behalf.

Postage on unpaid letters, &c., to be paid by the receiver.

26. The person to whom any letter or other article, the postage of which has not been paid, shall be delivered, shall not be bound to pay the postage if he forthwith return the same unopened; but if he open the same, he shall be bound to pay the postage due thereon. If he forthwith return the same unopened, the sender of the letter or other article shall be bound to pay the postage thereof. If any person shall refuse to pay any postage which he is legally bound to pay for any letter or other article, the same may be recovered for the use of the Secretary of State for India by any Post-Master General, or by any Officer in charge of a Post Office by order of a Post-Master General, in the same manner as a fine may be recovered under this Act; and it shall be lawful for the Officer in charge of any Post Office to withhold from the person so refusing, until such postage be paid, any other letter or other article addressed to that person, not being superscribed as on Her Majesty's Service. Provided always, that if a letter or other article shall appear to the satisfaction of the Post-Master of the Office of Delivery to have been maliciously sent for the purpose of annoying the person to whom it is addressed, the Post-Master of the Delivery Office may remit the postage.

Unclaimed letters, &c.

27. Clause 1.—A list of all letters and other articles posted and addressed to persons who cannot be found, shall be prepared daily in every Post Office, and exposed for not less than two weeks in the most conspicuous part of such Office; and all such letters and other articles which shall have remained three weeks unclaimed in any Office, shall, if the sender's name and address are written on the cover, be returned to the posting office to be delivered to the sender free of all charge: all letters and other articles, of which the sender's name and address cannot be ascertained, unless they be opened, shall, after remaining unclaimed for three weeks as above, be forwarded to the Office of the Post-Master General of the Presidency.

To be opened, &c.

Clause 2.—The Post-Master General, or some person duly appointed for the purpose and bound to secrecy, shall immediately open all such letters or other articles, and if the address of the sender can be discovered, shall enclose them in Dead Letter covers and return them to the sender. All letters and other articles, of which neither the person addressed nor the sender can be found, shall, after they have remained unclaimed in the Office of the Post-Master General for one year, be destroyed.

Money, &c., found therein.

Clause 3.—All money found in any unclaimed letter, or other article, shall be paid into the Public Treasury; and all other valuable property found as above, shall be sold by the Post-Master General of the Presidency, or by some one duly authorized by him for that purpose; and the proceeds of the sale shall be paid into the Public Treasury for the benefit of any person who may have a right thereto, after deducting all sums due from such person for postage.

Refused letters, &c.

28. Every letter or other article rejected unopened by the person to whom it is addressed, shall, if any postage is due thereon and if the sender's name and address are written on the cover, be returned to the posting office, in order that the postage due may be recovered from the sender; in all other cases, or when the sender's name and address are not on the cover, such letter or other article shall be forthwith sent to the Office of the Post-Master General of the Presidency, who shall open the letter or other article and take measures to recover the postage from the sender, or shall at his discretion destroy the letter or other article; and all money or other valuable property which such letter or other article may contain, shall be disposed of in the manner prescribed in the preceding Section, with respect to such money or property contained in unclaimed letters.

Commanders of inward-bound vessels carrying Mails how to proceed.

29. When any vessel arrives by sea at any place within British India at which there is a Post Office, the Commander of such vessel shall, as speedily as possible, cause every letter, mail bag, box and packet on board of such vessel which is directed to that place, and not excepted from the exclusive privilege of the Post Office, to be delivered either at the Post Office, or to some Officer of the Post Office authorized to receive the same; and if there be on board any letter, mail bag, box or packet directed to any other place, and not excepted from the exclusive privilege aforesaid, the said Commander shall, as speedily as possible, report the same to the Post-Master of the place at which he has arrived, and shall act according to the directions he may receive from such Post-Master, and the receipt of such Post-Master shall discharge such Commander from all responsibility in respect of such letter or packet. Every Commander of a vessel, who shall wilfully disobey any of the directions contained in this Section, shall be punished with a fine not exceeding one thousand Rupees.

Penalty.

Detention of letters on board, prohibited.

30. Every person, being either the Commander of a vessel inward-bound, or any one on board such vessel, who shall, within British India, knowingly have in his possession any letter not excepted from the privilege of the Post Office, after any part of the letters on board the said vessel shall have been sent to the Post Office, shall forfeit for every such letter a sum not exceeding fifty Rupees, whether the letter be in the baggage or on the person of the offender, or otherwise in his custody; and every such person who shall detain any such letter after demand made for the same by an Officer of the Post Office, shall forfeit for every such letter a sum not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Bounty Money.

31. For every letter delivered by the Commander of any ship, in conformity with the directions of Section 29 of this Act, the Officer in charge of the Post Office shall pay to the said Commander the sum of one anna; and the sum of one anna shall be chargeable as postage on such letter, in addition to any other postage chargeable thereon under this Act. Provided that no payment shall be made to the Commander of any vessel on account of the delivery of any letter, unless the claim of such Commander shall be preferred before the vessel leaves the place at which the letter was delivered, or before the expiration of two months from the date of the arrival of such vessel. Provided also, that nothing contained in Section 29 and the former part of this Section of this Act, shall extend to any letter or mail bag, or box or packet conveyed by any mail ship or mail steamer recognized as such by the Governor General of India in Council.

Commanders of outward-bound vessels to receive mails on board.

32. The Commander of every vessel leaving any place in British India by sea, shall receive on board of such vessel every letter and packet which he shall be required so to receive by any Officer of the Post Office, and shall give a receipt for such letter or packet; and every Commander of a vessel who shall wilfully disobey any direction contained in this Section, shall be punished with a fine not exceeding one thousand Rupees.

No dangerous substance to be sent by post.

33. No person shall knowingly post, or send, or tender or deliver, in order to be sent by the post, any letter, parcel or packet containing any explosive or other dangerous material or substance; and any person contravening this prohibition shall be punished for every such offence, with a fine not exceeding two hundred Rupees.

Postage Stamps.

34. All letters and other articles having a stamp or stamps affixed thereto (such stamp or stamps in every case being affixed on the outside, and being equal in value to the rate or rates of postage to which such letters or other articles are liable under this Act), shall, provided the stamp or stamps shall not have been used before, be considered as prepaid.

How to be provided.

35. The Governor-General of India in Council shall cause postage stamps to be provided, denoting such values as the said Governor General of India in Council may direct, and shall give such orders, and make such other regulations relative thereto, as may be deemed expedient.

Postage Stamps to be under management of any Officer to be appointed.

36. Postage stamps, provided as aforesaid shall be under the care and management of such Officer or Officers as the Governor General of India in Council shall from time to time direct; postage stamps shall be considered as stamps issued by Government for the purpose of Revenue, within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code; and all sums of money realized by the sale of such stamps, shall be carried in the public accounts to the credit of the Post Office.

Vendors of Postage Stamps to be appointed.

37. The Governor General of India in Council may from time to time make rules for the appointment and government of vendors of postage stamps, and thereby direct how and under what terms and condition postage stamps may be supplied to them for sale; and whether any and what security shall be given by such vendors, and whether any and what remuneration or discount shall be allowed to them; and how and in what manner, and at what time or times, such vendors shall keep and render their accounts, and pay over the proceeds of any sales made by them, or re-deliver the stamps entrusted to them.

Vendors to be bound by rules.

38. Government vendors of postage stamps shall be bound by such rules, and in case of any wilful breach thereof, shall be punished with a fine not exceeding two hundred Rupees, in addition to any other proceedings to which they may be liable.

Penalty of vendor refusing to supply stamps.

39. Any Government vendor of postage stamps who shall be convicted of refusing, or unnecessarily delaying without reasonable excuse to furnish postage stamps to any person desiring to purchase the same, and tendering in lawful currency the full value thereof (the stamp vendor having in his possession for sale sufficient stamps of the description and value required), shall be punished with a fine not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Penalty of vendor selling stamps for higher price than the value denoted thereby.

40. Any Government vendor of postage stamps convicted of taking from a purchaser a higher price than the value denoted on the stamps sold, shall be punished on conviction with imprisonment of either description as defined in the Indian Penal Code, for any term not exceeding six months, or shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred Rupees; and shall also be liable to refund to the purchaser the whole amount proved to have been taken in excess, which amount may be recovered by such purchaser before a Criminal Court, in the same manner as any penalty under this Act.

Franking abolished.

Letters on Her Majesty's Service, duly certified as such, how to be charged.

41. Letters and other articles on Her Majesty's Service, certified to be such by the signature of any public Officer authorized in that behalf by the Governor General of India in Council, shall be forwarded by the post, and the postage due thereon shall be charged to or recovered from the several Public Departments to or from which such letters or packets are sent, in such manner as the said Governor General of India in Council shall from time to time direct.

Penalty for false certificate.

42. Every person who shall, for the purpose of defrauding the Post Office Revenue, wilfully certify by writing on any official or other letter or packet delivered at any Post Office for conveyance by post, that which is not true in respect of such letter or packet, or in respect of the whole of its contents, or shall knowingly send or deliver, or attempt to send or deliver, for conveyance by post, any letter or packet with any such false certificate thereon; and every person who shall knowingly send, or permit to be sent by post, under colour or pretence of an official communication, any letter, paper, writing or other enclosure of a private nature; and every person who shall aid, abet, or conceal any of the offences in this Section abovementioned, shall, for every such offence, be punished with a fine not exceeding five hundred Rupees.

Penalty for detaining Mails.

43. It shall not be lawful for any person, unless acting by express order of the Government, to detain, except for a criminal offence, a Post Office messenger whilst carrying the mails, or to detain any carriage or horse upon which the mails are being carried, or on any pretence to open a packet or mail bag or box in transit from one Post Office to another, and every person who shall be guilty of any of the abovementioned offences, shall be punished with a fine not exceeding five hundred Rupees.

Penalty for retaining letters, &c., delivered by mistake.

44. Every person who shall fraudulently retain, or wilfully secrete, or make away with, or keep or detain, or being required to deliver up by an Officer of the Post Office, shall neglect or refuse to deliver up a post-letter or other article which ought to have been delivered to any other person, or a mail bag, box or packet containing a letter or other article which shall have been sent by the post, shall be punished, on conviction before a Criminal Court, with imprisonment of either description as defined in the Indian Penal Code, for a term not exceeding two years, and shall also be liable to a fine.

Penalties for breach of privilege.

45. Clause 1.—Every person who shall convey, otherwise than by the post, a letter not excepted from the said exclusive privilege shall, for every letter so conveyed, forfeit a sum not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Clause 2.—Every person who shall perform, otherwise than by the post, any services incidental to conveying letters from place to place, whether by receiving, taking up, ordering, collecting, carrying, tendering or delivering a letter or letters not excepted from the said exclusive privilege, shall forfeit for every such letter a sum not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Clause 3.—Every person who shall make a collection of letters for the purpose of transmitting them through the post in a "Clubbed" packet, and every person who shall knowingly tender or deliver a letter to be sent in a Clubbed packet, shall forfeit for every such letter a sum not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Clause 4.—Every person who shall send a letter not excepted from the said exclusive privilege, otherwise than by the post, or shall either tender or deliver a letter not so excepted, in order to be sent otherwise than by the post, shall forfeit for every such letter a sum not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Clause 5.—Every person who shall make a collection of excepted letters for the purpose of sending them otherwise than by the post, shall forfeit for every such letter a sum not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Clause 6.—Every person who shall carry, receive, tender or deliver a letter, or collect letters contrary to the provisions of Section 8 of this Act, shall forfeit for every such letter a sum not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Clause 7.—Every person who shall be in the practice of committing any of the acts mentioned in this Section, shall, for every week during which the practice shall be continued, forfeit a further sum not exceeding five hundred Rupees.

Penalty for neglect on the part of persons employed to carry Mails.

46. Every person employed to convey or deliver any mail bag, or box, or any letter or other article sent by post, who shall be guilty, while so employed, of drunkenness, carelessness or other misconduct, whereby the safety of any such bag, box, or letter or other article shall be endangered; or who shall loiter or make delay in the conveyance or delivery of any such bag, box, letter or other article; or who shall not use proper care and diligence safely to convey or deliver any such bag, letter or other article, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty Rupees; and any person employed to deliver a letter or other article sent by the post, who shall not duly deliver the same, shall, within a reasonable time not exceeding twenty-four hours, report the fact at the Post Office where he received such letter or other article and return the same; and if any such person shall wilfully make a false report, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Penalty for stealing, &c., or opening letters, &c., by persons employed in the Post Office.

47. Whoever being in the employ of the Government in the Post Office Department, shall steal, fraudulently secrete, destroy, throw away or appropriate any letter or other article sent by post, or anything contained in any such letter or other article, or shall mutilate or break open any such letter or other article, or any bagghy parcel or box, with the intention of fraudulently appropriating anything therein contained, shall be punished, on conviction before a Criminal Court, with imprisonment of either description as defined in the Indian Penal Code, for a term not exceeding seven years, and shall also be liable to a fine.

Penalty for fraudulently altering marks on letters, &c., by persons employed in the Post Office.

48. Whoever being in such employ as last aforesaid, shall fraudulently put any wrong mark on any letter or other article, or shall fraudulently alter remove or cause to disappear any mark or stamp which is on any letter or other article; or shall fraudulently use or place with or upon any letter or other article, any stamp which shall have been removed from any other letter or other article; or being entrusted with the delivery of any letter or other article, shall knowingly demand or receive any sum of money for the postage thereof other than the sum duly chargeable for such postage; or shall aid, abet, or conceal any of the above named acts, shall be punished, on conviction before a Criminal Court, with imprisonment of either description as defined in the Indian Penal Code, for a term not exceeding two years, and shall also be liable to fine.

49. Whoever being in such employ as last aforesaid, and being entrusted with the preparing or keeping of any document, shall, with a fraudulent intention, prepare the document incorrectly, or alter that document, or shall aid, abet, or conceal any of the abovenamed acts, or secrete or destroy that document, shall be punished, on conviction before a Criminal Court, with imprisonment of either description as defined in the Indian Penal Code, for a term not exceeding two years, and shall also be liable to fine.

Penalty for sending letters without charging postage, by persons employed in the Post Office.

50. Whoever being in such employ as last aforesaid, shall send by the post, or put into any mail bag or box, any unstamped letter or other article upon which postage has been paid or charged in the manner prescribed in this Act, intending thereby to defraud the Government of the postage on such letter or other article, or shall aid, abet, or conceal any such acts, shall be punished, on conviction before a Criminal Court, with imprisonment of either description as defined in the Indian Penal Code, for a term not exceeding two years, and shall also be liable to fine.

Any person charged with offence punishable with fine only may be summarily convicted.

51. Any person, whether a European British subject or not, who shall be guilty of any offence for which, according to the provisions of this Act, he shall be liable to a fine only, shall be punishable for such offence by any Criminal Court upon summary conviction.

Conviction to be quashed on merits only. Form of conviction, &c.

52. No conviction, order or judgment of any Criminal Court, shall be quashed for error of from or procedure, but only on the merits; and it shall not be necessary to state on the face of the conviction, order or judgment, the evidence on which it proceeds, but the depositions taken, or a copy of them shall be returned with the conviction, order or judgment, and if no jurisdiction appears on the face of the conviction, order or judgment, but the depositions taken supply that defect, the conviction, order or judgment shall be aided by what so appears in such depositions.

Magistrate may refer charge to his Assistant.

53. A Magistrate may refer for trial and decision any charge of an offence hereby made punishable by fine only, to any of his Assistants or to any Deputy Magistrate lawfully apointed to exercise the powers of a Covenanted Assistant, and in such case every such Assistant or Deputy Magistrate may exercise all the powers vested in a Magistrate, subject to all the rules applicable to criminal cases deputed to such Assistants or Magistrates acting judicially.

Fines how levied.

54. All fines imposed under the authority of this Act, for offences punishable by fine only, by any Criminal Court or by any Assistant to a Magistrate or Deputy Magistrate, may, in case of nonpayment thereof, be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender, by warrant under the hand of any of the abovenamed Officers. In case any such fine shall not be forthwith paid, any such Officer may order the offender to be apprehended and detained in safe custody until the return can be conveniently made to such warrant of distress, unless the offender shall give security to the satisfaction of such Officer for his appearance at such place and time as shall be appointed for the return of the warrant of distress, and such Officer may take such security by way of recognizance or otherwise. If upon the return of such warrant, it shall appear that no sufficient distress can be had whereon to levy such fine, and the same shall not be forthwith paid, or in case it shall appear to the satisfaction of such Officer, by the confession of the party or otherwise, that he has not sufficient goods and chattels whereupon such fine or sum of money could be levied if a warrant of distress were issued, any such Officer, by warrant under his hand, may commit the offender to prison, there to be imprisoned only, or to be imprisoned and kept to hard labour, according to the discretion of such Officer, for any term not exceeding two calendar months where the amount of the fine shall not exceed fifty Rupees, and for any term not exceeding four calendar months where the amount shall not exceed one hundred Rupees, and for any term not exceeding six calendar months in any other case: the commitment to be determinable in each of the cases aforesaid on payment of the amount.

Imprisonment if no sufficient distress, &c.

Moiety of fines to informer.

55. A share not exceeding one moiety of every fine imposed and recovered under this Act, may be awarded to the informer.

No proceedings to be taken without an order.

56. No proceedings shall be taken for the recovery of any fine imposed under the authority of this Act, for offences punishable by fine only, without an order of Government, or an order in writting under the hand of the Director-General of the Post Office, or of a Post-Master General.

Public servants committing offences in Foreign States in alliance.

57. If any public servant who shall be employed in the Post Office Department, or shall be appointed a vendor of postage stamps, or entrusted by the Government of India or any Local Government with the sale of postage stamps within the Dominions of any Foreign Prince or State in India in alliance with Her Majesty, in which a post shall be established by the Government of India, shall, within the Dominions of such Prince or State, commit any act hereby prohibited, or omit to do any act hereby required to be done, by any person similarly employed, appointed or entrusted as aforesaid within British India, such public servant shall be guilty of an offence, and, on conviction thereof, shall be punished in the same manner as if such act had been done or omitted within British India; and every such person may be tried, convicted and punished either by fine or otherwise, according to the nature of the offence, by any Court or Officer duly empowered by the Governor General of India in Council, to take cognizance of offences committed in such Dominions by public servants, or by any Court or Magistrate, or other competent Officer in any part of British India, in the same manner as if the offence had been committed in such part.

Letters, &c., suspected to contain contraband articles, or writing in contravention of this Act, how to be dealt with.

58. If any Officer in charge of a Post Office shall suspect that any letter or other article lying for delivery at his Office, contains any contraband article, or any article on which duty is owing to Government; or that any letter or other article lying for delivery at the Post Office, contains any writing or enclosure in contravention of the provisions of Sections 7, 10, 12, 13, 42, of this Act, it shall be lawful for such Officer to summon the person to whom the letter or other article is directed, to attend at the Post Office by himself or Agent, within forty-eight hours after the arrival thereof at that Post Office, and to open the same in the presence of the person to whom it is directed, or of that person's agent, and if that person shall not so attend by himself or agent, then to open it in the absence of that person. Provided that if the Officer in charge be under the rank of a Post-Master, he shall call in two respectable persons as witnesses before he shall open a letter or other article in the absence of the person to whom it is addressed. Provided also, that in all cases the opened letter or other article shall be subsequently delivered to the person to whom it is addressed, unless it be required for ulterior proceedings, and that the opening of the same and the circumstances connected therewith, shall be immediately reported to the Post-Master General. It shall also be lawful for any Officer in charge of a Post Office to refuse to forward any parcel through the Post Office by sea to any foreign port, or to any place not on the Continent of India, unless such parcel be accompanied by a Custom House Pass.

Government not responsible for loss.

59. The Government shall not be responsible for any loss or damage which may occur in respect of any thing entrusted to the Post Office for conveyance; and no person employed by the Government in the Post Office Department, shall be responsible for any such loss or damage, unless that person shall cause such loss or damage negligently, maliciously, or fraudulently.

Governor General in Council may frame Rules.

60. It shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council from time to time to frame Rules for the conduct of the Post Office not inconsistent with this Act, and therein to prescribe the regulations, conditions, and restrictions according to which all letters and other articles shall be posted, forwarded, conveyed, and delivered.

District dawks.

61. It shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council from time to time to frame Rules for the management of all or any Zemindaree, Thannah, or other District dawks, and to declare from time to time what portions of this Act shall be applicable to such dawks, and to persons employed in connexion therewith.

Property sent by the post to be laid in the Post-Master General.

62. Whenever an offence shall be committed in respect of any mail bag or box, or any letter or other article sent by the post, it shall be lawful to lay in the charge to be preferred against the offender, the property of such mail bag, box, letter or other article in the Post Master-General of the Presidency; and it shall not be necessary in the charge to allege or to prove upon the trial or otherwise, that such mail bag, box, letter or other article was of any value; and in any charge to be preferred against any person employed under the Post Office for any offence committed against this Act, it shall be lawful to state that such offender was employed under the Post Office at the time of committing the offence, without stating further the nature of particulars of his employment.

References to Act XVII. of 1854, to be read as made to this Act.

63. References to any Section of Act No. XVII. of 1854 made in any Act passed subsequent thereto, shall be read as if made to the corresponding Section of this Act.

Interpretation Clause.

64. In this Act—unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—"Criminal Court" includes every Judge, Magistrate, Justice of the Peace, or Police Magistrate lawfully exercising jurisdiction in criminal cases: "Fine" includes a penalty or forfeiture or a sum of money due upon a forfeited recognizance: "Clubbed Packet" shall be taken to mean a packet containing a collection of letters, not made by an agent of the Post Office, transmitted through the Post Office with the view of the enclosed letters being delivered to more than one person through the agent of the person by whom the packet was made up: "Mails" shall include any letter, parcel or other article conveyed under the provisions of this Act, as well as any box, bag or other article, or any carriage, horse, messenger or other person employed or used by the Post Office for the conveyance or safe custody of the mails; and "British India" includes the Territories which are now or shall be vested in Her Majesty or Her Successors by the Statute 21 and 22 Vic., cap. 106 (An Act for the better Government of India).

Short title.

65. This Act may be cited as "The Indian Post Office Act, 1865."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Various amendments of the Post Office Act No. XVII. of 1854, having from time to time presented themselves as desirable, and the phraseology of the existing Act being in some respects obsolete, and several of the Penal Sections having become superfluous by the passing of Act XLV. of 1860. (The Indian Penal Code), it is considered expedient to repeal the existing law, and to enact a new one embodying all the alterations both of form and of substance which have become desirable. The principal amendments proposed will be found in Sections 5, 15, 18, 20 and 22 of the Bill.

Section 5 (corresponding with Section 6 of the present law) enacts the rates to be charged on letters, and it is proposed that postage should increase by one anna for each half tola or fraction thereof above one tola, instead of by two annas for every tola or fraction thereof above two tolas, as under the existing law.

Section 15 (corresponding with Section 17 of the present law) enacts the rates to be charged as "Ship Postage" on parcels conveyed by the Indian Post by sea; the proposed alteration being that parcels not exceeding twenty and forty tolas, shall be taxed at the rate of two annas and four annas respectively, instead of at the rate of eight annas which is now leviable on all parcels which do not exceed one hundred tolas in weight.

Section 18 (corresponding with Section 25 of the present law) gives to the Governor General in Council authority to alter all rates of postage, but not so as to increase the rates of letter and newspaper postage.

The authority thus proposed to be given, differs from that possessed under the existing law, in the absence of restriction in respect of increase, so far as the rates of book and parcel postage are concerned.

Section 20 gives to the Governor General in Council authority (which is not possessed under the present law) to fix the rates of postage on letters, &c., conveyed by sea, or partly by sea and partly by land, within the limits of British India: these rates being, under existing arrangements, the same as the ordinary inland rates, together with steam postage (in a consolidated form) where the sea conveyance is effected by mail packets under contract or convention with Her Majesty's British Government.

Section 22 gives to the Governor General in Council authority (not possessed under the present law) to declare in what cases registration shall be compulsory, and to direct the levy of a double registration fee on delivery in such cases, in default of pre-payment. The intention of this Section is to provide for the introduction, in the Indian Post Office, of a measure similar to that introduced in 1862 in the British Post Office, the object of which was explained by Her Majesty's Post-Master General to be "to put a stop to the "frequent loss of letters containing coin, forwarded "through the post without the security of registration, and to remove from the Officers of the "Post Office the temptation to dishonesty offered "by the passage of such letters"

Two years' experience has proved the utility of the regulation in respect of the British Post Office; and it is, therefore, considered desirable to provide in this Bill for the application of a like measure to the Indian Post Office.

The following Order issued by the Government of India in the Financial Department is re-published for information:—

No. 2778.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India in the Financial Department, Simla, under date the 6th October 1865.

READ a letter dated 29th August 1865, from Mr. M H Foster, Commissioner of Inquiry into Indian Accounts, containing his views regarding the formation of a Central Office of Account.

RESOLUTION.—The Governor General in Council observes that there is already a Central Office of Account, viz., that of the Auditor-General of India, but the work hitherto prescribed for it has to be modified and adapted now to the requirements of the new system of accounts.

2. From various causes it was deemed inexpedient, under the old system of accounts, to obtain from the Account Offices other than annual accounts of the actual receipts and charges of the several Presidencies and Provinces. The monthly and quarterly Statements of receipts and disbursements fulfilled but imperfectly the purpose of an account of actual receipts and charges.

3. Under the new system, however, the abolition of pre-audit, and the separation of Cash Accounts from Store Accounts in the Civil and Military Departments, and of the accounts of the Military and Public Works Departments from those of the Civil Department, have facilitated materially the submission, henceforth, of monthly accounts of audited receipts and charges by the several Offices of Account in the Civil, Military, and Public Works Departments.

4. To utilise these monthly accounts at the earliest practicable period they should be incorporated monthly in Imperial Books, which the Central Office will keep, for shewing the Revenues and Charges of India, as well as of each Presidency and Province.

5. The procedure prescribed in the 21st to the 33rd and 36th and 37th paragraphs of Mr. Foster's Memorandum will be followed in the submission of accounts to the Central Office, and in the preparation there of the Imperial Books; and at the close of the year the annual Finance and Revenue accounts for submission to Parliament will be prepared from those books.

6. In order that the Imperial Books may be opened without delay, the Central Office of Account will accept from the Accountants-General of the several Presidencies and Provinces, and from the Military and Public Works Departments, approximate balances for the 30th April 1865, which can be set right afterwards by corrective entries.

7. And in order that the monthly accounts of the Local Accountant-General may be rendered promptly to the Central Office of Account, the Governor General in Council requests that the several Local Governments and Administrations will issue stringent orders for the punctual submission of the monthly Treasury accounts by Officers in charge of Treasuries.

8. If punctuality be ensured in this respect, "there is no reason," as observed by Mr. Foster, "why the monthly abstract accounts of the several Presidencies and Provinces should not be "transmitted to the Central Office within four "weeks after the expiration of each month. The "accounts of such Treasuries as lie at a great dis-"tance from Head-Quarters, and are habitually "late in their arrival, should be treated as ac-"counts of the subsequent month," except in the last month of the financial year. For the submission of the accounts for that month to the Central Office a little longer time will be allowed.

9 Under these orders, the monthly and quarterly Statements of receipts and charges, which appertain to the old system of account, will be dropped as soon as they can be superseded by the monthly account of audited receipts and payments under the new system.

10. In connection with this revised procedure for a monthly in place of an annual consolidation of the accounts of receipts and charges of India, it is necessary to revise the several Establishments under the Officer who is Auditor-General of India and Accountant-General to the Government of India.

11. Henceforth this Officer will be called Comptroller General of Accounts,—the Board of Audit, which has been in abeyance for some time, being hereby abolished.

12. The Comptroller General will deal, on his own authority, with all ordinary questions relating to Indian accounts, such as the classification of receipts and payments, the processes of recording them, the mode of closing subsidiary heads of account and the like,—his decisions on these points, when they establish a general rule, being simply communicated to the Financial Department.

13. But questions affecting any two of the three Departments—Civil, Military, and Public Works—or affecting the degree of control by the Supreme and Local Governments, respectively, of particular items of receipt or payment, should be referred to the Government of India in the Financial Department for settlement, in communication, if necessary, with the Secretariats of the Departments concerned,—or if any points of this character, affecting one Department only, be settled in accordance with the report of the Comptroller General of Accounts by an order of Government in the Department concerned, the report and decision should be communicated to the Financial Department.

14. The fundamental principles also of the new system, viz., the separation of Cash from Store Accounts, except in the Public Works Department,—the prohibition, save in a few authorised exceptional cases, of inter-departmental adjustments,—the restriction of Treasury Accounts, as far as practicable, to mere elementary facts,—are not to be relaxed by the Comptroller General of Accounts without a reference to Government.

15. The Budget and Regular Estimates will be consolidated by the Comptroller General, but they will be reviewed, as hitherto, in the Financial Department.

16. In Provinces where the Budget Estimate is printed, a copy will be sent to the Financial Department and to the Comptroller General respectively; but where this desirable end has not yet been attained, and the Budget is still furnished in manuscript, one copy only will be submitted, viz., to the Financial Department, which Department, after reviewing the Estimate, will forward it to the Comptroller General for incorporation in the Imperial Estimates.

17. The Comptroller General of Accounts will have charge of the following duties, viz.:—

1*st*.—The management of the Public Debt, until the transfer of the duty to the Bank of Bengal.

2*nd*.—The accounts of the Treasuries which are under Officers who are immediately under the Government of India.

3*rd*.—The Central Office of Account.

18. For these duties he will be allowed the aid of a Deputy Comptroller General, an Assistant Comptroller General, and a complement of other Officers on the classified list of the Account Department, with the requisite Office Establishment.

19. But as in connection with the arrangements now ordered the cost of the Financial Secretariat must be reduced, the additional charge for the Comptroller General's Department, beyond the cost of the Offices now under him, which are noted in the margin, should be met from the above-mentioned saving,—the new Department being organized by a re-distribution of Officers rather than by any increase of expense.

Auditor-General's Office.
Board of Audit.
Office of the Accountant-General, Government of India, for Treasury Accounts.
Audit of Postal and Telegraph charges

ORDERED, that a copy of this Resolution, and of paragraphs 21 to 40 of Mr. Foster's Memorandum regarding the Central Office of Account, be sent to the Foreign, Home, Military, and Public Works Departments of the Government of India; the several local Governments and Administrations; the Comptroller General of Accounts; the several Accountants-General, and to the Deputy Accountants-General in independent charge. Also, that the Resolution, and paragraphs 21 to 40 of Mr. Foster's Memorandum, be published in the Gazette of India.

Extract, paragraphs 21 to 40, from a Memorandum by Mr. M. H. Foster, on the measures to be adopted for establishing a Central Office of Account in India.

21. Each Government and Administration will prepare and forward to the Comptroller General a monthly Abstract of Receipts and Payments in the Form already laid down. This Abstract shews the Receipts,—1st, under the Main Heads, such as "Land Revenue," "Customs," &c; and 2nd, under Minor Heads, such as regards the latter, "Imports," "Exports," "Miscellaneous;" and Expenditure under,—1st, Main Heads, such as "Land Revenue;" 2nd, Minor Heads, such as "Collectors' Establishments;" and 3rd, Detailed Items, such as "Salaries," "Contingent Charges," &c.

See Auditor-General's Circular No. 8, dated 3rd August, Forms Nos. 18 and 19.

22. The Main and Minor Heads will be sufficient for the records of the Central Books, so that the detailed items may be omitted from these Accounts, though they will be included in the Abstract for the purpose of reference in case of need. Before these Abstracts are dealt with in the Central Office, it would be convenient to strike out the annas and pies from the totals that are to be posted, increasing by one Rupee such totals as have the greatest number of annas in as many cases as will be sufficient to compensate for an equivalent number of Rupees lost by the omission of annas and pies.

23. The Military and Public Works Departments will also furnish monthly Statements of their transactions in the form prescribed by Government. In these the Main Ledger Heads will be "Army" and "Public Works," and the Minor Heads will consist of the Grants and other Heads of Service or of Receipt.

24. The Ledger will open with three General Accounts, viz., "Government Account," "General Revenue Account," and "Grant Account." Then will follow the several Revenue and Receipt Heads, then the Expenditure and Payment Heads, and finally the Personal and Balance Accounts.

25. It is needless to give all the Ledger entries in detail, but the following are the main entries, and will be sufficient to shew the principle upon which the Account is to be worked.

26. The Balance Account will shew the total debit and credit, opening and closing balances which will appear on the several Heads of Account throughout the Ledger. The Grants will be debited to Government and credited to Grant Account; Revenues and other Receipts will be credited to the Heads of Receipt and debited to the Accountants receiving them. Sundry Services will be debited with the amount of payments, and the Accountants making them will be credited. The General Revenue Account will be credited with the amount of Revenue received, and the Heads of Revenue will be debited. The General Revenue Account, under which all the items of Revenue will be collected, will be debited, and Government will be credited with the total amount of Revenue.

27. On the other hand, the Heads of Expenditure will be credited with payments out of Grants, and the Grant Account will be debited with the amount of such expenditure. The balance on this account at the close of the year will shew either a saving on the Grants or an excess of Expenditure, and will be credited or debited to Government Account accordingly. The balance at the credit of the Government Account will represent the difference between assets and liabilities of Government, and will be carried to Balance Account. The balance on the Receipts Accounts will represent the sums at the credit of Funds, &c., and will be carried to Balance Account. The Balances of Funds and Debt Accounts will be carried to Balance Account, and the debit balances on the Accounts of sundry Accountants will represent the amount for which they are indebted to Government, and, being carried to Balance Account the Books will be closed.

28. Under this arrangement the Books will display the whole of the financial transactions of the Indian Empire, including the Grants, the Receipts, the Expenditure, the Savings on the Grants or the excess of Expenditure, and the Balances.

29. A Table is added which will exemplify these operations more clearly than words can do. It must be remembered that the Ledger Headings are put in classes, and many detail Suspense and Adjustment Heads are omitted, as they will follow the ordinary course and not affect the principles laid down.

Appendix C.

30. There should be no "Profit and Loss Account." Profit should go to the proper Head of Revenue, and losses as charges against the Head of Service on account of which they have been incurred.

31. The entries will be carefully journalised monthly in a Journal, similar in shape to that now being introduced into the Bengal Account Office, with Debtor and Creditor columns on opposite sides The Debtor and Creditor columns of the Journal should agree in amount at the close of each entry and thus check its correctness.

32. The Minor Heads will be thus dealt with and will be posted monthly into the Ledger, which will have a seperate Heading for each Minor Head tabulated with inner columns for the separate Governments. This will not be difficult to arrange as regards space if the annas and pies be rejected. These Minor Headings will be closed annually to the Major Heads, for which an opening will be reserved at the commencement of each set of Minor Heads. The mode of closing the Major Heads has already been described.

33. A monthly Trial Balance Sheet should be prepared on a printed Form from the Ledger. The totals on the Debtor and Creditor side of this Sheet will correspond in amount with those on the Journal, in which the total should be carried on throughout the year. It need scarcely be stated that no entry should appear in the Ledger that does not also pass through the Journal, though supplementary details may be added to either when found convenient without interfering with the totals forming the actual entry.

34. Before the opening entries can be passed into the Books it will be necessary to obtain from the several Governments and Administrations, and from the Military and Public Works Departments, a Statement of the closing balances on their Books at the end of the previous financial year, in order that the opening entries may be correctly made in the Central Books.

35. There will be considerable difficulty in obtaining an accurate Statement, owing to the state of arrear which pervades almost all the Indian Accounts. Every effort should be made to bring these up in the shortest possible time, and where correct balances cannot be obtained, rather than delay the opening of the Books, it would be preferable to accept approximate balances, and as errors or discrepancies are discovered, to set them right by corrective entries.

36. When the Accounts have been brought into working order, a monthly Account should be prepared in the Form herewith annexed, shewing in abstract the Balances and the Receipts and Payments throughout India brought together under the Main Heads, and giving in separate columns the transactions of the month, and the totals for the expired period of the year, the estimated amount for the 12 months being shewn in the third column, so that an exact comparison can be made against the Estimates of the progressive revenue and expenditure. The twelfth monthly Account will shew the total transactions of the year compared with the Budget Estimate. One copy of this Account should be submitted monthly to the Financial Department, and one copy to the Secretary of State. Specimen Forms of the Journal, Ledger, and Trial Balance Sheet are also attached.

Appendix D.

Appendices E, F, and G.

37. The Annual Finance Accounts would be an extension of this Account, and would shew the same transactions in greater detail. The Form of this Account appended to the Commissioner's Civil Report has been sanctioned by Government under Financial Resolution dated 20th April 1865, subject to some trifling modification set forth in the Resolution.

38. These appear to be the main points to be dealt with in laying down a scheme for the establishment of a set of Imperial Accounts which will combine the whole of financial transactions in India, those which are conducted in England being for the present excluded from the Indian Books.

39. That difficulties will arise in the practical application of a system so new to India is fully to be expected; but if the general principles laid down be kept in view, there is no reason to suppose that these difficulties cannot be successfully overcome.

40. The most stringent rules should be adopted for securing the punctual submission of the monthly Treasury Accounts, as a failure in this respect must be one of the chief obstacles to the successful working of any system of Account. When once the new system has been fairly established, there is no reason why the monthly Abstract Accounts of the several Governments should not be transmitted to the Central Office within four weeks after the expiration of each month. The Accounts of such Treasuries as lie at a great distance from Head-Quarters, and are habitually late in their arrival, should be treated as Accounts of the subsequent month, except, perhaps, those of the last month of the financial year, for the receipt of which a limited extra time may be accorded.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

Dated the 1st May 1865.

Notification.—The following Tea plantations and factories in Kumaon and the Deyrah Dhoon are offered for sale at the upset prices specified:—

1. Hawul Bagh in Kumaon, forty-six miles from the plains, and six miles from Almorah. The plantations (including the two small nurseries, viz., Kupeena and Lutchmissur, in the immediate neighbourhood of Almorah) consist of about one hundred acres of land planted with Tea. At a short distance from the plantations there is a Cheer (Pinus longifolia) forest of about 100 acres in extent, in which the purchaser will have the right to cut timber, which is well fitted for making Tea chests, fire-wood, &c.

There are on the estate three large slated houses; numerous slated offices; a large slated factory; two large slated godowns; a slated barrack for Chinese Tea manufacturers; and the stock and block of the factory are complete for Tea operations and in working order.

2. Ayar Toli in Kuttvoor, Kumaon, distant about 80 miles from the plains, and about 40 miles from Almorah.

There are on the estate a slated factory and a large slated godown; slated barracks for Chinese Tea manufacturers, &c., and the stock and block of the factory are complete for the Tea operations and in working order.

This plantation consists of about 1,300 acres of land, of which about 360 acres are planted with Tea, two hundred acres of cleared land fitted for Tea-planting, and the remainder covered with pines, &c., forests, the timber of which is well adapted for making Tea chests, &c.

The yield of the two estates this season was lbs. 20,000 of Tea and 1,650 maunds of seeds.

These two estates will be sol in one lot in fee-simple, free of all demands on account of Land Revenue, exclusive of existing local cesses, such as Road, Educational, and Postal cesses, or such as may be hereafter legally imposed, at an upset price of Rs. 2,00,000 (two lacs of Rupees.)

A small portion of the plantation of Ayar Toli named Bineolie, belonging to the temple of Nagnath, will bear an annual rental of Rupees 24 (twenty-four Rupees) per annum.

This land is leased in perpetuity from the temple of Nagnath on this rental.

3. Kowlaghir in the Deyrah Dhoon, distant two miles to the west of the Town of Deyrah. It consists of about 430 acres of land, of which about 380 acres are under cultivation with Tea, and the remainder adapted for Tea cultivation.

Through the property a branch of the Beejapore canal runs. At a short distance and to the South of the plantation there is a Forest of Syne, Jamun, &c., consisting of about 500 (five hundred) acres, in which the purchaser will have the right to cut timber for Tea chests, fire-wood, charcoal, &c. The timber is well fitted for making Tea chests.

There are on the estate three bungalows; an extensive pucka Tea factory; two large pucka godowns; a barrack for Chinese Tea manufacturers, &c., and the stock and block of the factory are complete and in full working order.

The yield this season was lbs. 25,099 of Tea, and 1,050 maunds of seeds.

This estate will be sold in fee-simple free of all demands on account of Land Revenue, exclusive of existing local cesses for roads, &c., or such as may hereafter be legally imposed, at an upset price of Rs. 2,00,000 (two lacs of Rupees.) The plantations will be transferred to the purchasers on the 1st April 1866, on or before which date the purchase money must be paid at the General Treasury, Calcutta.

Tenders will be received by William Jameson, Esquire, Superintendent, Botanical Gardens, North-Western Provinces, Saharunpore, until 1st March 1866, if the factories, &c., be not previously sold by private sale, and the highest offer above the upset price will be accepted.

All tenders must be made in writing.

Every tender should be superscribed—"Tender for Tea plantation," and will be registered by the Superintendent of the Botanical Gardens on the date of receipt in a book, which he will keep, together with the tenders, in his own custody under lock and key.

The highest registered tender at the time being for any lot will be communicated by the Superintendent to any enquirers up to the time of sale, but the names of the parties who have tendered shall in no case be disclosed.

The register of tenders will be examined at noon, on the 1st March 1866, by a Committee consisting of the Superintendent, Botanical Gardens, the Judge, and the Collector of Saharunpore, at the Office of the Superintendent, and in the presence of all parties who may attend; and the amount of the highest tender for each lot, or, if there be more than one tender of equal amount, the number and amount of such tenders, but not the names of the parties tendering, will be publicly declared, and the highest tender, in writing, above the upset price at 4 P. M., will be accepted on the part of Government by the Committee.

On the tender being accepted by the Committee the purchaser must deposit five per cent. of the purchase money, which will be forfeited if the amount of the purchase money be not paid in full on the date specified.

Agents must be supplied by their principals with sufficient Powers of Attorney.

The above particulars are believed, in good faith, to be correct, but intending purchasers must make their own enquiries, as no reclamation can be listened to after sale.

References may be made to W. Jameson, Esquire, Superintendent, Government Botanical Gardens, Saharunpore.

By Order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces,

R. SIMSON,

Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces.

Of Presidency Golahs at Sulkea, Balasore Pungah of 1268 S. S. ...		177,000
		1,024,000

N. B.—The quantities here stated are those computed to be in store on the 1st November next. Deficiency in Stock of any year will be provided for by delivery of like Salt of other year at the Depôt, or by a refund of price.

The following are the Conditions of sale:—

1*st.*—The Salt will be offered for sale at an upset price to be determined at the time, and calculated separately for the Mofussil and the Sulkea Stocks, with reference to the then state of the market, and it will be sold to the highest bidder above that price, or at that price should no higher be offered.

2*nd.*—The sale shall commence at the hour of 11 A. M. of the day above-mentioned, and shall not be continued after the hour of 5 P. M.; but if at that hour any of the Lots advertised for sale shall remain unsold, the sale may, at the discretion of the Board of Revenue, be resumed on the next day following (not being Sunday or a public holiday) at the hour of 11 A. M., and so on until the whole of the remaining Lots are disposed of; or, if the whole quantity advertised shall not be sold on the day appointed, the Board may dispose of the Lots which remain on hand at a future sale.

3*rd.*—Each Lot will comprise five hundred maunds of Salt, the maund being of forty seers of eighty tolahs to the seer.

4*th.*—The Salt will be deliverable from the Store Depôts.

5*th*—A Promissory Note for the sum of one hundred Rupees shall be taken as a deposit on each Lot from the purchaser in the Sale Room and before the Lot is registered in the Sale Book, and all such Promissory Notes shall be redeemed on the part of the purchasers at this Office by Bank of Bengal Receipts, or by substitution of other Public Securities of the Bengal Government on or before 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the fifth day after sale, or on the other hand failing such redemption by the time aforesaid, then the Lot or Lots for which no Bank of Bengal Receipts or deposit of other Public Securities as aforesaid shall have been delivered in shall be re-sold at such time or times and under such conditions of re-sale as the Board of Revenue shall think fit. All losses and expenses whatsoever attending such re-sale shall be borne and paid by the defaulters, whilst any profit accruing from such re-sale shall be credited to Government.

6*th.*—The Promissory Notes taken on the day of sale under the last-mentioned condition, if remaining unredeemed at 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be placed in the hands of the Solicitor to the Government for realization.

7*th.*—No Tender of Money, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Public Securities on account of Salt upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale will be afterwards accepted.

8*th*—The price of the Salt shall be paid for within fifteen days from the day of sale; and in case any Lots shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the cash deposit made under the fifth condition, or any Public Securities that may have been deposited on account of such Lots, shall be forfeited, and the Salt shall be disposed of on account of Government at such time and in such manner as the Board of Revenue shall think fit, and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the Salt was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale.

9*th*—The duty on the Salt shall, unless the purchaser wishes to bond it, be paid within sixty days from the day of sale. For any Lots which may remain uncleared beyond the above period of sixty days, excepting such as may be bonded, Golah Rent will thereafter be charged at the rate of four Rupees per mensem for each 100 maunds.

10*th.*—The Salt may be bonded in a Government or a Private Golah under the Bonding Rules applicable to Sea-imported Salt.

11*th.*—Certificates specifying the name or names of the purchaser or purchasers, the number of the Lots sold, and the description of Salt purchased, will be delivered on payment of the deposit at the time and in the manner mentioned in Condition 5th, and each Certificate to be so granted must be returned to the Office of the Board before any Orders and Rowannahs (corresponding with such Certificate) for the delivery of the Salt shall be issued.

12*th.*—No Orders and Rowannahs for the delivery of any Lot of Salt shall be issued until payment in full of price and duty shall have been made for the same.

13*th.*—Fees must be paid for Rowannahs agreeably to Rule 27 prescribed by the Government of Bengal under Section 11, Act VII. (B. C.) of 1864.

14*th*—No deposit of Public Securities under the 5th of the present conditions will be received in this Office, except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the Sale Book, or his authorized Agent. The receipt for deposit of Public Securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the Securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

15*th.*—The Officer superintending the sale on the part of the Board of Revenue is empowered to reject, at his discretion, the bid of any individual unless such individual shall on demand tender at the time a deposit, either in Government of India Notes, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Government Securities, of a sum equal to the amount for which a Promissory Note would otherwise be taken under the 5th of these conditions.

16*th.*—The purchaser of any Lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession, at the same price and under the same conditions, any number of Lots of the same Salt, not exceeding altogether one hundred Lots; provided always that there remain a sufficient number of Lots of the Salt to complete the said one hundred.

17*th.*—In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the Salt included in this Notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

By Order of the Board of Revenue,

T. BRUCE LANE,
Junior Secretary.

CALCUTTA CUSTOMS,
The 24th October 1865.

J. A. CRAFORD,
Collector of Customs.

Bye-Laws for the Town of Jessore proposed to be adopted under Section 84 of Act III. (B. C.) of 1864.

I.—Regarding servants and others employed by the Commissioners.

RULE 1.—ALL persons appointed in writing or otherwise to any office under the Municipal Commissioners, whether payable by salary or commission, shall, by accepting such appointment, be held to have acknowledged themselves to be amenable to the Rules hereinafter contained, and to all such Rules as may from time to time be passed by the Commissioners for the Regulation of the conduct of persons employed by them.

RULE 2.—All persons employed by the Commissioners whose services may be no longer required shall at all times be liable to discharge after receipt of previous notice for the period of one month, or of one month's salary, and no such person shall withdraw from the duties of his office without having given previous notice for the period of one month, or forfeiture of one month's salary.

RULE 3.—All persons now holding, or who may hereafter be appointed to, any office under the Commissioners shall, when required so to do, furnish security to such amount as the Commissioners may from time to time fix, and any person failing to furnish such security within reasonable time, or within such time as the Commissioners may appoint, shall be held to have thereby forfeited his appointment and may be removed from office.

RULE 4.—Breach or any neglect of duty on the part of any persons employed under the Commissioners may be punished as described in classified List of offences which will hereafter be published as an annexure to these Bye-Laws irrespectively of any penalty to which such person may be liable under any Law. Provided that no fine inflicted under this Rule shall exceed one month's salary, or commission of the person so fined.

RULE 5.—Nothing herein contained shall be held to debar the Commissioners from instituting proceedings in any Civil Court having jurisdiction against any such person being, or having been, in their employ, with a view to the recovery of damages for any loss or injury which they may consider themselves to have sustained in consequence of any act done, or intended to be done, by such person.

II.—Collection of Tax.

RULE 6.—The House Tax shall be held to be due on the first day of each quarter and may be levied at any time after such date. That is, the Tax for the 1st Quarter is due on the 1st of May; for the 2nd Quarter is due on the 1st of August; for the 3rd Quarter is due on the 1st of November; for the 4th Quarter is due on the 1st of February.

RULE 7.—When the name of any owner is not known it shall be sufficient to designate him in any notice or other proceeding under the Act as "the owner" of the property on which the rate is assessed without further description.

RULE 8.—The provisions of Section 81 of the District Municipal Improvement Act shall apply to bills presented for payment.

RULE 9.—Every person upon whom a notice has been served to furnish any such return as that provided in Section 29 of the District Municipal Improvement Act shall furnish and send such return to the Office of the Commissioners within fifteen days from the day on which the said notice has been served, as prescribed in Section 81 of the said Act.

III.—Rules regarding Conservancy.

RULE 10.—No person shall tether or graze cattle, goats, or other animals, or cause them to be tethered, or cause or allow them to stray on any public highway, except with the permission of the Commissioners.

RULE 11.—No one shall erect any tatee, privy or urinal within ten feet of any public highway.

RULE 12.—No one shall keep any tatee, privy or urinal within ten feet of any public highway for more than ten days after notice to remove it shall have been given by the Commissioners.

RULE 13.—No one shall cause any water-spouts to throw any water on any public highway.

RULE 14.—No one shall perform any office of nature in any other place, not being privies in private premises, than such as may have been appointed by the Commissioners, provided that such places have been set apart by the Commissioners.

RULE 15.—No one shall expose for sale for the purpose of being used as food or drink any article unfit for such purpose.

RULE 16.—No one shall keep a smith's forge, slaughter-house, piggery, butcher's shop, or conduct any of the trades mentioned in Section 77 of Act III. of 1864 in any place prohibited by the Commissioners.

RULE 17.—Every owner, occupier, or farmer of any market shall, within fourteen days after he shall have received notice from the Commissioners so to do, provide such places of retirement for the purposes of nature as, in the opinion of the Commissioners, may be necessary for cleanliness and health of the said market.

RULE 18.—No owner, occupier, or farmer of any such market shall sell or expose, or permit to be exposed for sale, or admit into, or permit to remain in, any such market any offensive meat, o fish, or decomposed vegetable matter, but such owner, occupier, or farmer must, without any delay, cause any such meat, fish, or vegetable matter to be at once removed to a place to be notified to him by the Commissioners.

RULE 19.—Every person within whose premises any animal may die shall, within three hours of its death, or if death occurs at night, within three hours after daylight, either remove at his own expense the carcass to such a place as may be set apart by the Commissioners for the reception of carcasses, or report its death to the Conservancy Overseer of the Division within which such premises may be situated, and in such latter case shall pay to the said Overseer the expense of removing the carcasses at such rate as the Commissioners may from time to time determine.

RULE 20.—After the issue of thirty days' notice by the Commissioners no person shall erect or renew external roofs or walls of huts or other buildings in or near any public highway of, or with grass, leaves, mats, or other inflammable materials.

RULE 21.—No person shall make, within the limits defined under Section 3 of Act III. of 1864, any excavation of more than three feet in depth (excepting graves, water-courses, or wells) without the written permission of the Commissioners, who shall have power to prescribe the place and manner of making such excavations.

Rule 22.—With reference to Section 55 of Act III. of 1864 the following Bye-Laws are prescribed. All rubbish, dirt, &c., intended for removal must be deposited daily on the side of the road between midnight and 8 A. M.

Rule 23.—No one shall burn or bury any corpse within the precincts of the town at any other place than those fixed under Act III. of 1864.

Rule 24.—No one shall throw any corpse into the river within the precincts of the town as defined under Section 3, Act III. of 1864.

Rule 25.—No one shall throw, or cause to be thrown, any corpse or carcass, or any part of a corpse or carcass, upon any ground or into any river, nullah, canal, drain or tank.

Rule 26.—No one shall carry a corpse, or part of a corpse, through any highway unless it be decently covered and totally concealed from public view.

Rule 27.—No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, any corpse in any burial ground in the town of Jessore in a grave constructed of masonry except in such manner that coffin shall not be at a less depth than four feet from the surface of the ground.

Rule 28.—No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, in any such burial ground any corpse in a grave not constructed of masonry which shall be less than six feet deep.

Rule 29.—No person shall build, or cause to be built, a grave of masonry in any such burial ground at a less distance than two feet from any other existing grave.

Rule 30.—No person shall build or dig, or cause to be built or dug, a grave in any burial place in the said town in any other line than that especially marked out by the Commissioners for the purpose.

Rule 31.—No person when burning, or causing to be burnt, any corpse, or part of a corpse, in any burning ground within the said town shall permit the same, or any part thereof, to remain without being completely reduced to ashes, or to be removed until the same be so reduced.

Rule 32.—Any person who dies of small-pox shall be removed from the place in an hour after his death and all his clothes be burnt to ashes.

Rule 33.—Every person who shall bring or convey, or cause to be brought or conveyed, any corpse, or part thereof, to any burning ground within the said town, shall burn, or cause to be burnt, the same within six hours after its arrival at the said burning ground.

Rule 34.—No person shall, while carrying any corpse through the precincts laid down in Act III. of 1864, deposit the same on or near any public highway for the purpose of resting, or for any purpose.

Rule 35.—No one shall drive a vehicle, or carry or cause to be carried on dark nights, without a light, such things as may do bodily injury to any person who may come in contact with them.

Rule 36.—The words "near any public highway," used in Act III. of 1864 and in these Bye-Laws, shall mean within ten yards from any boundary of highway.

Rule 37.—Every person who shall commit an infringement of any of the foregoing Bye-Laws by doing any act prohibited by any such Bye-Laws, or by neglecting to do any act directed to be done by such Bye-Laws, shall be liable to fine according to the scale laid down in the subjoined Table.

IV.—Miscellaneous.

Rule 38.—Any person who has any suggestion or complaint to make on any subject within the scope or authority of the Commissioners, may do so in writing on unstamped paper, to be presented at the Office of the Commissioners on any day between the hours of 12 and 4.

Rule 39.—The accounts of receipts and disbursements of each month shall be submitted to the Commissioners at the first meeting of the following month and a progress statement of works in hand shall be submitted to the Commissioners once a quarter.

Rule 40.—If any person is disposed to give a donation or periodical contribution for any purpose of public improvement within the scope of the Commissioners' authority, the same shall be received and carried to the credit of the Town Municipal Fund and appropriated at the discretion of the Commissioners according to the wish of the donor.

Rule 41.—Any person applying for the written permission of the Commissioners for any of the purposes specified in these Bye-Laws, shall have to pay a certain amount of fees, to be determined by the Commissioners, for every such permission not exceeding Rupees 20.

Class	7.	Arms and Accoutrements.
Ditto	8.	Fancy Work in Paper, Wax, Bamboo, &c.
Ditto	9.	Hardware and Cutlery.
Ditto	10.	Miscellaneous.

N. B.—Prizes in this Department will be awarded according to the excellence of the articles exhibited.

It is requested that intending competitors inform the Secretary to the Central Committee at Berhampore, or the Secretary to one of the District Committees, (which have been formed at Rampore Bauleah, Rungpore, Dinagepore, Maldah, Pubna and Bogra,) of their intention on or before January 1st 1866, giving a general description of the animals and articles which they propose to exhibit.

Printed cards, after having been filled in and signed by the Secretary, or a member of the Central or of one of the District Committees, will be given to intending Exhibitors; and without these cards no animal or article will be admitted into the Show-yard.

Information as to means of transport, &c., will be furnished by the Committees, and bond fide expenses of Exhibitors will be given at the discretion of the Committees.

To the Committees is reserved a right of rejection of animals and articles which do not appear worthy of exhibition, and there is also reserved a right of withholding prizes in those cases in which the best specimen exhibited does not appear worthy of a prize.

In many cases in which prizes are given open to competitors from the whole Division, and others to competitors from each District of the Division, it will happen that two prizes, viz., one Divisional and one District prize, will be adjudged to one specimen. In these cases one prize only may be taken, the owner of the specimen shall have his option, and the prize which he elects to decline shall be given to the Exhibitor of the specimen next in merit.

Arrangements will be made for the supply of fodder, &c. The Show-yard being in the immediate vicinity of the Gora Bazaar, no difficulty in regard to the supply of provisions can possibly be experienced.

Ground in the immediate vicinity of the Show-yard has been reserved for the encampment of those Native gentlemen who may desire it.

Extra prizes will be awarded to animals and aricles not enumerated in this list in all cases of extraordinary merit.

The latest dates for receipt in the Show-yard of specimens in the various Departments are detailed below:—

Department	I.	January 20th.
Ditto	II.	Ditto 15th.
Ditto	III & IV.	Ditto 13th.

On the last day of the Exhibition there will be a Flower and Vegetable show, at which Prizes will be awarded.

SECOND APPENDIX TO

The Calcutta Gazette.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1865.

NOTICE

Is hereby given that the sale of the Proprietary right of Government to the Estates enumerated in the following Advertisements of Sale will be made subject to these

CONDITIONS OF SALE.

1*st.*—The Estates to be sold, subject to the Government Revenue against each, to the highest bidder above the upset price.

2*nd.*—The sale to be subject to existing leases and to the rights conferred by the settlement proceedings and laws in force, and Purchasers to be bound to respect the rights of resident cultivators who have signed the Schedule of Assessment made by the Revenue Authorities.

3*rd.*—If the amount of purchase money do not exceed Rupees 100, the whole amount to be paid down at once.

4*th.*—If the amount of purchase money exceed Rupees 100, one-fourth of the amount bid to be immediately deposited. If the balance be not paid by noon of the fifteenth day after the sale, reckoning the day of sale as one, or if that day be a close holiday, then by noon of the first succeeding Office day, the sale to be cancelled, the sum deposited being forfeited to Government, and the Estate to be again put up for sale at the risk of the defaulting Purchaser after issue of advertisement as in the case of original sale.

5*th.*—In addition to the ordinary Government Revenue fixed on the Estates the Purchasers shall be bound to pay for the construction of roads and improvement of communications one per cent. on the Government Revenue assessed from the date of entry upon the purchase. This sum will be leviable in the same manner as other arrears of Revenue.

By Order of the Board of Revenue,

R. B. CHAPMAN,
Secretary.

LEGISLATIVE.

The 4th October 1865.

THE following Bill and Statement of Objects and Reasons accompanying it, are published for general information, by order of His Excellency the Governor General, under the 19th of the Rules for the conduct of business at Meetings of the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations.

A Bill for the Management of the Post Office, for the Regulation of the Duties of Postage, and for the Punishment of Offences against the Post Office.

1. ACT No. XVII. of 1854 is hereby repealed, except so far as it repeals the whole, or any part of any other Act or Regulation, and except as to any act or offence which shall have been done or committed, or to any money which shall have become due, or to any fine or penalty which shall have been incurred, or to any proceedings which shall have been commenced before this Act shall come into operation.

Repeal of Act No. XVII. of 1854.

2. Wheresoever, within British India, posts or postal communications are, or shall be established by the Government of India, the said Government shall have the exclusive privilege of conveying by post, from one place to another, all letters, except in the following cases; and shall also have the exclusive privilege of performing all the incidental services of receiving, collecting, sending, despatching, and delivering all letters, except in the following cases, that is to say—

Exclusive privilege of carrying letters, vested in the Government of India.

(1.) Letters sent by a private friend in his way, journey or travel, so as such letters be delivered by such friend to the person to whom they shall be directed, without hire, reward or other profit or advantage for receiving, carrying or delivering the same.

(2.) Letters solely concerning the affairs of the sender or receiver thereof, sent by a messenger on purpose.

(3.) Letters solely concerning goods or other property sent either by sea or land, to be delivered with the goods or property which such letters concern, without hire, reward or other profit, or advantage for receiving, carrying or delivering such letters.

But nothing herein contained shall authorize any person to make a collection of such excepted letters for the purpose of sending them in the manner hereby authorized.

3. Wheresoever, within British India, posts or postal communications are, or shall be established by the Government of India, the following persons are expressly forbidden to collect, carry, tender or deliver any letter or letters, or to receive any letter for the purpose of carrying or delivering the same, although they shall not receive hire or reward for so doing, that is to say—

Persons expressly forbidden to collect, carry or deliver letters.

(1.) Common carriers of passengers or goods, and their drivers, servants or agents, except letters solely concerning goods in their carriages.

(2.) Owners and Commanders of ships, steamboats, or other vessels passing on any river or canal, or to or from any port in British India, and their servants or agents, except letters solely concerning goods on board.

4. For carrying on the service of the Post Office, it shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council to appoint or to authorize the appointment of such Officer or Officers, with such official styles or designations, and to invest them with and delegate to them such powers not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act, as the said Governor General of India in Council may, from time to time, deem expedient.

Appointment of Officers.

5. Wheresoever posts or postal communications are, or shall be established by the Government of India, postage, if prepaid by a stamp or stamps, as hereinafter provided, shall be charged by weight on letters transmitted by the letter post by land, according to the following scale:—

Postage rates on letters.

On every letter not exceeding a quarter of a tolah in weight,—six pie.

On every letter exceeding a quarter of a tolah, and not exceeding half a tola in weight,—one anna.

On every letter exceeding half a tolah, but not exceeding one tolah in weight,—two annas.

And for every half a tolah in weight above one tolah, one additional anna; and every fraction of half a tolah above one tolah, shall be charged as one additional half tolah.

Every article transmitted by the letter post shall be deemed a letter within the meaning of this Section, unless it be an article on which a different rate of postage shall be chargeable under this Act.

Postage rates on newspapers, &c.

6. Wheresoever posts or postal communications are, or shall be established by the Government of India, postage on newspapers, pamphlets, and other printed or engraved papers transmitted by the letter post by land, shall be charged by weight according to the following scale :—

On every newspaper, pamphlet, or other printed or engraved paper—

If the same shall not exceed six tolahs in weight,—one anna

If the same shall exceed six, but shall not exceed twelve tolahs in weight,—two annas.

If the same shall exceed twelve tolahs in weight there shall be charged and taken one additional anna for every six tolahs in weight above twelve tolahs; and every fraction of six tolahs above twelve tolahs, shall be charged as six additional tolas.

An extra or supplement to any newspaper, bearing the same date as the newspaper and transmitted therewith under the same cover, shall be deemed part of the newspaper.

Nothing contained in this Act shall be construed to oblige any person to send any newspaper, pamphlet, or other printed or engraved paper through the Post Office, but it shall be lawful for all persons to send the same in any other manner.

Newspapers, &c., how to be sent by post.

7. A newspaper, pamphlet, or other printed or engraved paper shall not be sent by the letter-post at the rates prescribed in the last preceding Section, unless the following conditions be observed, that is to say—

(1.) It shall be without a cover, or in a short cover open at both ends.

(2.) There shall be no word printed on such newspaper, pamphlet, or other printed or engraved paper after its publication, or upon the cover thereof, nor any writing or mark upon it, or upon the cover of it, except the name and address of the person to whom it is sent, and the name and address of the sender.

(3.) There shall be no paper or thing enclosed in or with any such newspaper, pamphlet, or other printed or engraved paper.

When to be charged with letter postage.

8. Any newspaper, pamphlet, or other printed or engraved paper sent by the letter-post, in respect of which the above conditions shall not be observed, shall, together with any thing enclosed in or with the same, be charged with postage at the rate which would be charged on an unstamped letter of equal weight.

Proof Sheets.

9. Proof sheets marked as such, may be sent by the letter-post at the rates prescribed for newspapers, provided the contents be correctly certified on the cover by the signature in full of the sender; otherwise the same shall be charged with postage at the rate which would be charged on an unstamped letter of equal weight.

Inland banghy postage.

10. Inland banghy postage shall be charged by weight and distance, on parcels sent by the banghy post, according to the following scale :—

For Distances.		If not exceeding in weight.
		20 Tolahs.	100 Tolahs.	200 Tolahs.	300 Tolahs	400 Tolahs.	500 Tolahs.	600 Tolahs.
	Miles.	Rs. As	Rs. As.	Rs. As.	Rs. As.	Rs. As.	Rs. As.	Rs. As.
Not exceeding ...	100	0 2	0 4	0 8	0 12	1 0	1 4	1 8
Not exceeding ...	300	0 6	0 12	1 8	2 4	3 0	3 12	4 8
Not exceeding ...	600	0 12	1 8	3 0	4 8	6 0	7 8	9 0
Not exceeding ..	900	1 2	2 4	4 8	6 12	9 0	11 4	13 8
Not exceeding ...	1,200	1 8	3 0	6 0	9 0	12 0	15 0	18 0
Exceeding ...	1,200	1 14	3 12	7 8	11 4	15 0	18 12	22 8

Provided that not more than one letter shall be enclosed in a banghy parcel, under a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees. All articles not exceeding twelve tolahs in weight, sent through the Post Office, shall be conveyed by letter-post and be charged with letter postage, unless specially directed to be sent by banghy post.

Table of Distances.

11. Banghy postage, when chargeable by distance under Section 10 of this Act, shall be calculated and charged according to a Table of Distances which shall be prepared by order of the Governor General of India in Council, on such principles as shall appear to him equitable and convenient, and may from time to time be corrected. And it shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council to declare that the distances from or to Post Offices not entered in the Table shall, for the purposes of this Act, be regarded as represented by the distances shewn in the Table, from or to the Post Offices nearest to them respectively Each Post-Master General shall prepare from the aforesaid Table in the English and Vernacular languages, for the use of every Post Office under his control, a list of all the other Post Offices in India, arranged alphabetically, and shewing the distance of each of them from the Post Office for the use of which it is made, and such list shall be affixed in some conspicuous place in such Post Office.

Where banghy parcels and letter mails are conveyed in the same carriage.

12. Whenever the Post-Master General of any Presidency shall have notified in the Official Gazette that the banghy post is conveyed with the letter-post along any line of road, it shall not be lawful to send by the banghy post any letter or written communication of less weight than twelve tolahs, or any packet of newspapers; and every person who shall knowingly send by the banghy post along any such line of road, any such letter, written communication, or newspaper enclosed in a parcel, shall forfeit for every such offence a sum not exceeding fifty Rupees, and postage shall be charged for every such letter, written communication or newspaper, as if sent separately by the letter-post.

Where there is no banghy post.

13. Where there is no banghy post established on any line of road, letters, parcels and other Articles exceeding twelve tolahs and not exceeding forty tolahs in weight, shall be received and transmitted by the letter-post. Letters shall be charged according to the scale in Section 5, and newspapers, pamphlets, and other printed or engraved papers, according to the scale in Section 6 of this Act, as the case may be; parcels and book packets shall be charged with banghy postage according to the scale in Section 10 or Section 15 of this Act, as the case may be, if it be certified in writing, on such parcel or book packet, under the full signature and address of the sender, that it does not contain any letter or other written communication, or any newspaper, or other article on which a higher rate of postage is chargeable under any Section of this Act.

Letters and other articles exceeding twelve tolahs, but not exceeding forty tolahs.

Certificate.

14. If any such certificate be false, any such letter or other article contained in such certified parcel or book packet shall be charged with postage according to the rate specified in Section 5 or Section 6 of this Act as if sent separately, and the sender shall be subject to the penalty hereinafter provided.

Parcels exceeding forty tolahs, to be forwarded at discretion of Post-Master.

Parcels exceeding forty tolahs and not exceeding six hundred tolahs in weight, shall be transmitted along any such line as banghy parcels; but it shall be in the discretion of the Post-Master, or Deputy Post-Master to whom such parcels are brought for despatch, to forward them at such times and in such manner as may be convenient.

Ship postage on parcels.

15. On all parcels chargeable under Section 10 of this Act with banghy postage, according to distance when conveyed by land, ship postage shall be charged when they are conveyed by means of Her Majesty's Indian post by sea, according to the following scale, that is to say—

On every parcel not exceeding twenty tolahs,—two annas.

On every parcel exceeding twenty tolahs, but not exceeding forty tolahs,—four annas.

On every parcel exceeding forty tolahs, but not exceeding one hundred tolahs in weight,—eight annas.

And for every hundred tolahs in weight above one hundred tolahs,—eight additional annas. Every fraction of one hundred tolahs above one hundred tolahs, shall be charged as one hundred additional tolahs; and if such parcel be conveyed by Her Majesty's Indian post, partly by banghy and partly by sea, ship postage shall be charged in addition to inland banghy postage.

Books, pamphlets, &c.

16. Subject to such rules and conditions as the Governor General of India in Council may from time to time direct, books, packets of newspapers and of printed or engraved or manuscript papers other than newspapers, provided the postage thereon be prepaid by means of a proper stamp or stamps to be affixed thereon, as hereinafter provided, shall, if sent by the banghy post, be charged with the following rates of postage, without reference to the distance to which they may be carried :—

If not exceeding twenty tolahs in weight,—one anna.

If exceeding twenty tolahs, but not exceeding forty tolahs in weight,—two annas.

And for every twenty tolahs in weight above forty tolahs, there shall be charged and taken one additional anna; and every fraction of twenty tolahs above forty tolahs, shall be charged as twenty additional tolahs.

If the postage chargeable on any such book, or other article, be not prepaid as aforesaid, it shall be subject to the rate of postage prescribed for banghy parcels in Section 10 of this Act.

Governor General in Council may direct pre-payment of postage in all cases.

17. It shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council at any time to direct that all or any letters or other articles shall not be forwarded by post, unless the postage thereof shall be fully prepaid by means of a proper stamp or stamps; or that on all or any letters, or other articles on which the postage shall not be fully prepaid by a stamp or stamps, or otherwise, as the said Governor General in Council shall direct, there shall be charged such higher rates of postage as from time to time may be deemed expedient, not exceeding double the rates of postage hereinbefore specified.

Governor General of India in Council may alter the rates of postage.

18. It shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council from time to time to authorize the levy of postage at rates different from those prescribed in this Act, provided that no increase be made in any particular of the rates prescribed in Sections 5 and 6 of this Act.

Governor General may fix rates of steam postage.

19. It shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council from time to time to direct that postage duties, different from the rates authorized by this Act, shall be chargeable on letters, or other articles to be specified in such order, sent through the post from or to any part of Great Britain, or any British Colony, or any Foreign Country to or from any places in British India. The postage charged on any letter, or other article specified in any order of Council made under this Section, whether under the name of steam postage or any other denomination, shall, after the rates of such postage have been published in the Official Gazette of any Presidency, be recovered in the same manner as postage under this Act.

May fix rates of postage for articles sent wholly or partly by sea.

20 It shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council to fix, from time to time, rates of postage to be levied on all letters or other articles transmitted by post, by sea or partly by sea and partly by land from one port or place in India to another: it thall not be necessary that such rates be uniform; but they may vary according to the conveyance or route by which such letters or other articles shall be sent.

Registered letters.

21. Any person posting a letter or other article shall be entitled to require that it shall be registered at the Receiving Post Office, and that a receipt shall be granted for such registered letter or article; and it shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council to direct that, in addition to any rates of postage payable under this Act, a fee not exceeding four annas shall be charged on any letter or other article which the sender thereof shall require to be so registered, and such registration fee shall be paid on the letter or other article being delivered at the Post Office.

22. It shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council from time to time by order to declare in what cases registration shall be compulsory, and to direct that a double registration fee shall be levied on the delivery of any letter or other article which ought, under the order of the Governor General in Council, to have been registered at the time of posting, on which the registration fee shall not have been prepaid.

Expresses.

23. It shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council from time to time to fix and order any rate of postage to be charged for the conveyance of letters or other articles by express, in addition to or instead of any other rates of postage chargeable on such letters and articles under this Act.

Re-directed letters.

24. On every letter or other article which shall be re-directed at any Post Office, or forwarded by post from any place to which it shall have been conveyed by post, there shall be charged for the postage thereof from the place at which the same shall be re-directed, in addition to all other postage paid or due thereon, the rate of postage to which it would be liable if posted and prepaid by stamp at the place where it shall be re-directed.

Letters and other articles once put into the Post Office cannot be re-called.

25. No person having delivered into any Post Office any letter or other article, shall be entitled to re-call the same; but nothing in this Section shall prevent the re-delivery of any such letter or other article to the sender thereof, subject to such Rules and Regulations, if any, as the Governor General of India in Council may from time to time provide in that behalf.

Postage on unpaid letters, &c., to be paid by the receiver.

26 The person to whom any letter or other article, the postage of which has not been paid, shall be delivered, shall not be bound to pay the postage if he forthwith return the same unopened; but if he open the same, he shall be bound to pay the postage due thereon. If he forthwith return the same unopened, the sender of the letter or other article shall be bound to pay the postage thereof. If any person shall refuse to pay any postage which he is legally bound to pay for any letter or other article, the same may be recovered for the use of the Secretary of State for India by any Post-Master General, or by any Officer in charge of a Post Office by order of a Post-Master General, in the same manner as a fine may be recovered under this Act; and it shall be lawful for the Officer in charge of any Post Office to withhold from the person so refusing, until such postage be paid, any other letter or other article addressed to that person, not being superscribed as on Her Majesty's Service. Provided always, that if a letter or other article shall appear to the satisfaction of the Post-Master of the Office of Delivery to have been maliciously sent for the purpose of annoying the person to whom it is addressed, the Post-Master of the Delivery Office may remit the postage.

Unclaimed letters, &c.

27. Clause 1.—A list of all letters and other articles posted and addressed to persons who cannot be found, shall be prepared daily in every Post Office, and exposed for not less than two weeks in the most conspicuous part of such Office; and all such letters and other articles which shall have remained three weeks unclaimed in any Office, shall, if the sender's name and address are written on the cover, be returned to the posting office to be delivered to the sender free of all charge: all letters and other articles, of which the sender's name and address cannot be ascertained, unless they be opened, shall, after remaining unclaimed for three weeks as above, be forwarded to the Office of the Post-Master General of the Presidency.

To be opened, &c.

Clause 2.—The Post-Master General, or some person duly appointed for the purpose and bound to secrecy, shall immediately open all such letters or other articles, and if the address of the sender can be discovered, shall enclose them in Dead Letter covers and return them to the sender. All letters and other articles, of which neither the person addressed nor the sender can be found, shall, after they have remained unclaimed in the Office of the Post-Master General for one year, be destroyed.

Money, &c., found therein.

Clause 3.—All money found in any unclaimed letter, or other article, shall be paid into the Public Treasury; and all other valuable property found as above, shall be sold by the Post-Master General of the Presidency, or by some one duly authorized by him for that purpose; and the proceeds of the sale shall be paid into the Public Treasury for the benefit of any person who may have a right thereto, after deducting all sums due from such person for postage.

Refused letters, &c.

28. Every letter or other article rejected unopened by the person to whom it is addressed, shall, if any postage is due thereon and if the sender's name and address are written on the cover, be returned to the posting office, in order that the postage due may be recovered from the sender; in all other cases, or when the sender's name and address are not on the cover, such letter or other article shall be forthwith sent to the Office of the Post-Master General of the Presidency, who shall open the letter or other article and take measures to recover the postage from the sender, or shall at his discretion destroy the letter or other article; and all money or other valuable property which such letter or other article may contain, shall be disposed of in the manner prescribed in the preceding Section, with respect to such money or property contained in unclaimed letters.

Commanders of inward-bound vessels carrying Mails how to proceed.

29. When any vessel arrives by sea at any place within British India at which there is a Post Office, the Commander of such vessel shall, as speedily as possible, cause every letter, mail bag, box and packet on board of such vessel which is directed to that place, and not excepted from the exclusive privilege of the Post Office, to be delivered either at the Post Office, or to some Officer of the Post Office authorized to receive the same; and if there be on board any letter, mail bag, box or packet directed to any other place, and not excepted from the exclusive privilege aforesaid, the said Commander shall, as speedily as possible, report the same to the Post-Master of the place at which he has arrived, and shall act according to the directions he may receive from such Post-Master, and the receipt of such Post-Master shall discharge such Commander from all responsibility in respect of such letter or packet. Every Commander of a vessel, who shall wilfully disobey any of the directions contained in this Section, shall be punished with a fine not exceeding one thousand Rupees.

Penalty.

Detention of letters on board, prohibited.

30. Every person, being either the Commander of a vessel inward-bound, or any one on board such vessel, who shall, within British India, knowingly have in his possession any letter not excepted from the privilege of the Post Office, after any part of the letters on board the said vessel shall have been sent to the Post Office, shall forfeit for every such letter a sum not exceeding fifty Rupees, whether the letter be in the baggage or on the person of the offender, or otherwise in his custody; and every such person who shall detain any such letter after demand made for the same by an Officer of the Post Office, shall forfeit for every such letter a sum not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Bounty Money.

31. For every letter delivered by the Commander of any ship, in conformity with the directions of Section 29 of this Act, the Officer in charge of the Post Office shall pay to the said Commander the sum of one anna, and the sum of one anna shall be chargeable as postage on such letter, in addition to any other postage chargeable thereon under this Act. Provided that no payment shall be made to the Commander of any vessel on account of the delivery of any letter, unless the claim of such Commander shall be preferred before the vessel leaves the place at which the letter was delivered, or before the expiration of two months from the date of the arrival of such vessel. Provided also, that nothing contained in Section 29 and the former part of this Section of this Act, shall extend to any letter or mail bag, or box or packet conveyed by any mail ship or mail steamer recognized as such by the Governor General of India in Council.

Commanders of outward-bound vessels to receive mails on board.

32. The Commander of every vessel leaving any place in British India by sea, shall receive on board of such vessel every letter and packet which he shall be required so to receive by any Officer of the Post Office, and shall give a receipt for such letter or packet; and every Commander of a vessel who shall wilfully disobey any direction contained in this Section, shall be punished with a fine not exceeding one thousand Rupees.

No dangerous substance to be sent by post.

33. No person shall knowingly post, or send, or tender or deliver, in order to be sent by the post, any letter, parcel or packet containing any explosive or other dangerous material or substance; and any person contravening this prohibition shall be punished for every such offence, with a fine not exceeding two hundred Rupees.

Postage Stamps.

34. All letters and other articles having a stamp or stamps affixed thereto (such stamp or stamps in every case being affixed on the outside, and being equal in value to the rate or rates of postage to which such letters or other articles are liable under this Act), shall, provided the stamp or stamps shall not have been used before, be considered as prepaid.

How to be provided.

35. The Governor-General of India in Council shall cause postage stamps to be provided, denoting such values as the said Governor General of India in Council may direct, and shall give such orders, and make such other regulations relative thereto, as may be deemed expedient.

Postage Stamps to be under management of any Officer to be appointed.

36. Postage stamps, provided as aforesaid shall be under the care and management of such Officer or Officers as the Governor General of India in Council shall from time to time direct: postage stamps shall be considered as stamps issued by Government for the purpose of Revenue, within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code; and all sums of money realized by the sale of such stamps, shall be carried in the public accounts to the credit of the Post Office.

Vendors of Postage Stamps to be appointed.

37. The Governor General of India in Council may from time to time make rules for the appointment and government of vendors of postage stamps, and thereby direct how and under what terms and condition postage stamps may be supplied to them for sale; and whether any and what security shall be given by such vendors, and whether any and what remuneration or discount shall be allowed to them; and how and in what manner, and at what time or times, such vendors shall keep and render their accounts, and pay over the proceeds of any sales made by them, or re-deliver the stamps entrusted to them.

Vendors to be bound by rules.

38. Government vendors of postage stamps shall be bound by such rules, and in case of any wilful breach thereof, shall be punished with a fine not exceeding two hundred Rupees, in addition to any other proceedings to which they may be liable.

Penalty of vendor refusing to supply stamps.

39. Any Government vendor of postage stamps who shall be convicted of refusing, or unnecessarily delaying without reasonable excuse to furnish postage stamps to any person desiring to purchase the same, and tendering in lawful currency the full value thereof (the stamp vendor having in his possession for sale sufficient stamps of the description and value required), shall be punished with a fine not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Penalty of vendor selling stamps for higher price than the value denoted thereby.

40. Any Government vendor of postage stamps convicted of taking from a purchaser a higher price than the value denoted on the stamps sold, shall be punished on conviction with imprisonment of either description as defined in the Indian Penal Code, for any term not exceeding six months, or shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred Rupees; and shall also be liable to refund to the purchaser the whole amount proved to have been taken in excess, which amount may be recovered by such purchaser before a Criminal Court, in the same manner as any penalty under this Act.

Franking abolished.

Letters on Her Majesty's Service, duly certified as such, how to be charged.

41. Letters and other articles on Her Majesty's Service, certified to be such by the signature of any public Officer authorized in that behalf by the Governor General of India in Council, shall be forwarded by the post, and the postage due thereon shall be charged to or recovered from the several Public Departments to or from which such letters or packets are sent, in such manner as the said Governor General of India in Council shall from time to time direct.

Penalty for false certificate.

42. Every person who shall, for the purpose of defrauding the Post Office Revenue, wilfully certify by writing on any official or other letter or packet delivered at any Post Office for conveyance by post, that which is not true in respect of such letter or packet, or in respect of the whole of its contents, or shall knowingly send or deliver, or attempt to send or deliver, for conveyance by post, any letter or packet with any such false certificate thereon; and every person who shall knowingly send, or permit to be sent by post, under colour or pretence of an official communication, any letter, paper, writing or other enclosure of a private nature; and every person who shall aid, abet, or conceal any of the offences in this Section abovementioned, shall, for every such offence, be punished with a fine not exceeding five hundred Rupees.

Penalty for detaining Mails &c.

43. It shall not be lawful for any person, unless acting by express order of the Government, to detain, except for a criminal offence, a Post Office [illegible] Messenger whilst carrying the mails, or to detain any carriage or horse upon which the mails are being carried, or on any pretence to open a packet or mail bag or box in transit from one Post Office to another, and every person who shall be guilty of any of the abovementioned offences, shall be punished with a fine not exceeding five hundred Rupees.

Penalty for retaining letters, &c., delivered by mistake.

44. Every person who shall fraudulently retain, or wilfully secrete, or make away with, or keep or detain, or being required to deliver up by an Officer of the Post Office, shall neglect or refuse to deliver up a post-letter or other article which ought to have been delivered to any other person, or a mail bag, box or packet containing a letter or other article which shall have been sent by the post, shall be punished, on conviction before a Criminal Court, with imprisonment of either description as defined in the Indian Penal Code, for a term not exceeding two years, and shall also be liable to a fine.

Penalties for breach of privilege.

45. Clause 1.—Every person who shall convey, otherwise than by the post, a letter not excepted from the said exclusive privilege shall, for every letter so conveyed, forfeit a sum not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Clause 2.—Every person who shall perform, otherwise than by the post, any services incidental to conveying letters from place to place, whether by receiving, taking up, ordering, collecting, carrying, tendering or delivering a letter or letters not excepted from the said exclusive privilege, shall forfeit for every such letter a sum not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Clause 3.—Every person who shall make a collection of letters for the purpose of transmitting them through the post in a "Clubbed" packet, and every person who shall knowingly tender or deliver a letter to be sent in a Clubbed packet, shall forfeit for every such letter a sum not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Clause 4.—Every person who shall send a letter not excepted from the said exclusive privilege, otherwise than by the post, or shall either tender or deliver a letter not so excepted, in order to be sent otherwise than by the post, shall forfeit for every such letter a sum not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Clause 5.—Every person who shall make a collection of excepted letters for the purpose of sending them otherwise than by the post, shall forfeit for every such letter a sum not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Clause 6.—Every person who shall carry, receive, tender or deliver a letter, or collect letters contrary to the provisions of Section 3 of this Act, shall forfeit for every such letter a sum not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Clause 7.—Every person who shall be in the practice of committing any of the acts mentioned in this Section, shall, for every week during which the practice shall be continued, forfeit a further sum not exceeding five hundred Rupees.

Penalty for neglect on the part of persons employed to carry Mails.

46. Every person employed to convey or deliver any mail bag, or box, or any letter or other article sent by post, who shall be guilty, while so employed, of drunkenness, carelessness or other misconduct, whereby the safety of any such bag, box, or letter or other article shall be endangered; or who shall loiter or make delay in the conveyance or delivery of any such bag, box, letter or other article; or who shall not use proper care and diligence safely to convey or deliver any such bag, letter or other article, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty Rupees; and any person employed to deliver a letter or other article sent by the post, who shall not duly deliver the same, shall, within a reasonable time not exceeding twenty-four hours, report the fact at the Post Office where he received such letter or other article and return the same; and if any such person shall wilfully make a false report, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Penalty for stealing, &c., or opening letters, &c., by persons employed in the Post Office.

47. Whoever being in the employ of the Government in the Post Office Department, shall steal, fraudulently secrete, destroy, throw away or appropriate any letter or other article sent by post, or anything contained in any such letter or other article, or shall mutilate or break open any such letter or other article, or any baughy parcel or box, with the intention of fraudulently appropriating anything therein contained, shall be punished, on conviction before a Criminal Court, with imprisonment of either description as defined in the Indian Penal Code, for a term not exceeding seven years, and shall also be liable to a fine.

Penalty for fraudulently altering marks on letters, &c., by persons employed in the Post Office.

48. Whoever being in such employ as last aforesaid, shall fraudulently put any wrong mark on any letter or other article, or shall fraudulently alter, remove or cause to disappear any mark or stamp which is on any letter or other article; or shall fraudulently use or place with or upon any letter or other article, any stamp which shall have been removed from any other letter or other article; or being entrusted with the delivery of any letter or other article, shall knowingly demand or receive any sum of money for the postage thereof other than the sum duly chargeable for such postage; or shall aid, abet, or conceal any of the above named acts, shall be punished, on conviction before a Criminal Court, with imprisonment of either description as defined in the Indian Penal Code, for a term not exceeding two years, and shall also be liable to fine.

Penalty for incorrectly preparing documents, or secreting documents, by persons employed in the Post Office.

49. Whoever being in such employ as last aforesaid, and being entrusted with the preparing or keeping of any document, shall, with a fraudulent intention, prepare the document incorrectly, or alter that document, or shall aid, abet, or conceal any of the abovenamed acts, or secrete or destroy that document, shall be punished, on conviction before a Criminal Court, with imprisonment of either description as defined in the Indian Penal Code, for a term not exceeding two years, and shall also be liable to fine.

Penalty for sending letters without charging postage, by persons employed in the Post Office.

50. Whoever being in such employ as last aforesaid, shall send by the post, or put into any mail bag or box, any unstamped letter or other article upon which postage has been paid or charged in the manner prescribed in this Act, intending thereby to defraud the Government of the postage on such letter or other article, or shall aid, abet, or conceal any such acts, shall be punished, on conviction before a Criminal Court, with imprisonment of either description as defined in the Indian Penal Code, for a term not exceeding two years, and shall also be liable to fine.

Any person charged with offence punishable with fine only may be summarily convicted.

51. Any person, whether a European British subject or not, who shall be guilty of any offence for which, according to the provisions of this Act, he shall be liable to a fine only, shall be punishable for such offence by any Criminal Court upon summary conviction.

Conviction to be quashed on merits only. Form of conviction, &c.

52. No conviction, order or judgment of any Criminal Court, shall be quashed for error of from or procedure, but only on the merits; and it shall not be necessary to state on the face of the conviction, order or judgment, the evidence on which it proceeds, but the depositions taken, or a copy of them shall be returned with the conviction, order or judgment, and if no jurisdiction appears on the face of the conviction, order or judgment, but the depositions taken supply that defect, the conviction, order or judgment shall be aided by what so appears in such depositions.

Magistrate may refer charge to his Assistant.

53. A Magistrate may refer for trial and decision any charge of an offence hereby made punishable by fine only, to any of his Assistants or to any Deputy Magistrate lawfully appointed to exercise the powers of a Covenanted Assistant, and in such case every such Assistant or Deputy Magistrate may exercise all the powers vested in a Magistrate, subject to all the rules applicable to criminal cases deputed to such Assistants or Magistrates acting judicially.

Fines how levied.

54. All fines imposed under the authority of this Act, for offences punishable by fine only, by any Criminal Court or by any Assistant to a Magistrate or Deputy Magistrate, may, in case of non-payment thereof, be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender, by warrant under the hand of any of the abovenamed Officers. In case any such fine shall not be forthwith paid, any such Officer may order the offender to be apprehended and detained in safe custody until the return can be conveniently made to such warrant of distress, unless the offender shall give security to the satisfaction of such Officer for his appearance at such place and time as shall be appointed for the return of the warrant of distress, and such Officer may take such security by way of recognizance or otherwise. If upon the return of such warrant, it shall appear that no sufficient distress can be had whereon to levy such fine, and the same shall not be forthwith paid, or in case it shall appear to the satisfaction of such Officer, by the confession of the party or otherwise, that he has not sufficient goods and chattels whereupon such fine or sum of money could be levied if a warrant of distress were issued, any such Officer, by warrant under his hand, may commit the offender to prison, there to be imprisoned only, or to be imprisoned and kept to hard labour, according to the discretion of such Officer, for any term not exceeding two calendar months where the amount of the fine shall not exceed fifty Rupees, and for any term not exceeding four calendar months where the amount shall not exceed one hundred Rupees, and for any term not exceeding six calendar months in any other case: the commitment to be determinable in each of the cases aforesaid on payment of the amount.

Imprisonment if no sufficient distress, &c.

Moiety of fines to informer.

55. A share not exceeding one moiety of every fine imposed and recovered under this Act, may be awarded to the informer.

No proceedings to be taken without an order.

56. No proceedings shall be taken for the recovery of any fine imposed under the authority of this Act, for offences punishable by fine only, without an order of Government, or an order in writting under the hand of the Director-General of the Post Office, or of a Post-Master General.

Public servants committing offences in Foreign States in alliance.

57. If any public servant who shall be employed in the Post Office Department, or shall be appointed a vendor of postage stamps, or entrusted by the Government of India or any Local Government with the sale of postage stamps within the Dominions of any Foreign Prince or State in India in alliance with Her Majesty, in which a post shall be established by the Government of India, shall, within the Dominions of such Prince or State, commit any act hereby prohibited, or omit to do any act hereby required to be done, by any person similarly employed, appointed or entrusted as aforesaid within British India, such public servant shall be guilty of an offence, and, on conviction thereof, shall be punished in the same manner as if such act had been done or omitted within British India; and every such person may be tried, convicted and punished either by fine or otherwise, according to the nature of the offence, by any Court or Officer duly empowered by the Governor General of India in Council, to take cognizance of offences committed in such Dominions by public servants, or by any Court or Magistrate, or other competent Officer in any part of British India, in the same manner as if the offence had been committed in such part.

Letters, &c., suspected to contain contraband articles, or writing in contravention of this Act, how to be dealt with.

58. If any Officer in charge of a Post Office shall suspect that any letter or other article lying for delivery at his Office, contains any contraband article, or any article on which duty is owing to Government; or that any letter or other article lying for delivery at the Post Office, contains any writing or enclosure in contravention of the provisions of Sections 7, 10, 12, 13, 42, of this Act, it shall be lawful for such Officer to summon the person to whom the letter or other article is directed, to attend at the Post Office by himself or Agent, within forty-eight hours after the arrival thereof at that Post Office, and to open the same in the presence of the person to whom it is directed, or of that person's agent, and if that person shall not so attend by himself or agent, then to open it in the absence of that person. Provided that if the Officer in charge be under the rank of a Post-Master, he shall call in two respectable persons as witnesses before he shall open a letter or other article in the absence of the person to whom it is addressed. Provided also, that in all cases the opened letter or other article shall be subsequently delivered to the person to whom it is addressed, unless it be required for ulterior proceedings, and that the opening of the same and the circumstances connected therewith, shall be immediately reported to the Post-Master General. It shall also be lawful for any Officer in charge of a Post Office to refuse to forward any parcel through the Post Office by sea to any foreign port, or to any place not on the Continent of India, unless such parcel be accompanied by a Custom House Pass.

Government not responsible for loss.

59. The Government shall not be responsible for any loss or damage which may occur in respect of any thing entrusted to the Post Office for conveyance; and no person employed by the Government in the Post Office Department, shall be responsible for any such loss or damage, unless that person shall cause such loss or damage negligently, maliciously, or fraudulently.

Governor General in Council may frame Rules.

60. It shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council from time to time to frame Rules for the conduct of the Post Office not inconsistent with this Act, and therein to prescribe the regulations, conditions, and restrictions according to which all letters and other articles shall be posted, forwarded, conveyed, and delivered.

District dawks.

61. It shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council from time to time to frame Rules for the management of all or any Zemindaree, Thannah, or other District dawks, and to declare from time to time what portions of this Act shall be applicable to such dawks, and to persons employed in connexion therewith.

Property sent by the post to be laid in the Post-Master General.

62. Whenever an offence shall be committed in respect of any mail bag or box, or any letter or other article sent by the post, it shall be lawful to lay in the charge to be preferred against the offender, the property of such mail bag, box, letter or other article in the Post Master-General of the Presidency; and it shall not be necessary in the charge to allege or to prove upon the trial or otherwise, that such mail bag, box, letter or other article was of any value; and in any charge to be preferred against any person employed under the Post Office for any offence committed against this Act, it shall be lawful to state that such offender was employed under the Post Office at the time of committing the offence, without stating further the nature of particulars of his employment.

References to Act XVII. of 1854, to be read as made to this Act.

63. References to any Section of Act No. XVII. of 1854 made in any Act passed subsequent thereto, shall be read as if made to the corresponding Section of this Act.

Interpretation Clause.

64. In this Act—unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—"Criminal Court" includes every Judge, Magistrate, Justice of the Peace, or Police Magistrate lawfully exercising jurisdiction in criminal cases: "Fine" includes a penalty or forfeiture or a sum of money due upon a forfeited recognizance: "Clubbed Packet" shall be taken to mean a packet containing a collection of letters, not made by an agent of the Post Office, transmitted through the Post Office with the view of the enclosed letters being delivered to more than one person through the agent of the person by whom the packet was made up: "Mails" shall include any letter, parcel or other article conveyed under the provisions of this Act, as well as any box, bag or other article, or any carriage, horse, messenger or other person employed or used by the Post Office for the conveyance or safe custody of the mails; and "British India" includes the Territories which are now or shall be vested in Her Majesty or Her Successors by the Statute 21 and 22 Vic., cap. 106 (An Act for the better Government of India).

Short title.

65. This Act may be cited as "The Indian Post Office Act, 1865."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Various amendments of the Post Office Act No. XVII. of 1854, having from time to time presented themselves as desirable, and the phraseology of the existing Act being in some respects obsolete, and several of the Penal Sections having become superfluous by the passing of Act XLV. of 1860. (The Indian Penal Code), it is considered expedient to repeal the existing law, and to enact a new one embodying all the alterations both of form and of substance which have become desirable. The principal amendments proposed will be found in Sections 5, 15, 18, 20 and 22 of the Bill.

Section 5 (corresponding with Section 6 of the present law) enacts the rates to be charged on letters, and it is proposed that postage should increase by one anna for each half tola or fraction thereof above one tola, instead of by two annas for every tola or fraction thereof above two tolas, as under the existing law.

Section 15 (corresponding with Section 17 of the present law) enacts the rates to be charged as "Ship Postage" on parcels conveyed by the Indian Post by sea; the proposed alteration being that parcels not exceeding twenty and forty tolas, shall be taxed at the rate of two annas and four annas respectively, instead of at the rate of eight annas which is now leviable on all parcels which do not exceed one hundred tolas in weight.

Section 18 (corresponding with Section 25 of the present law) gives to the Governor General in Council authority to alter all rates of postage, but not so as to increase the rates of letter and newspaper postage.

The authority thus proposed to be given, differs from that possessed under the existing law, in the absence of restriction in respect of increase, so far as the rates of book and parcel postage are concerned.

Section 20 gives to the Governor General in Council authority (which is not possessed under the present law) to fix the rates of postage on letters, &c., conveyed by sea, or partly by sea and partly by land, within the limits of British India: these rates being, under existing arrangements, the same as the ordinary inland rates, together with steam postage (in a consolidated form) where the sea conveyance is effected by mail packets under contract or convention with Her Majesty's British Government.

Section 22 gives to the Governor General in Council authority (not possessed under the present law) to declare in what cases registration shall be compulsory, and to direct the levy of a double registration fee on delivery in such cases, in default of pre-payment. The intention of this Section is to provide for the introduction, in the Indian Post Office, of a measure similar to that introduced in 1862 in the British Post Office, the object of which was explained by Her Majesty's Post-Master General to be "to put a stop to the "frequent loss of letters containing coin, forwarded "through the post without the security of regis- "tration, and to remove from the Officers of the "Post Office the temptation to dishonesty offered "by the passage of such letters."

Two years' experience has proved the utility of the regulation in respect of the British Post Office; and it is, therefore, considered desirable to provide in this Bill for the application of a like measure to the Indian Post Office.

Notification.—The following Tea plantations and factories in Kumaon and the Deyrah Dhoon are offered for sale at the upset prices specified :—

1. Hawul Bagh in Kumaon, forty-six miles from the plains, and six miles from Almorah. The plantations (including the two small nurseries, viz., Kupeena and Lutchmaissur, in the immediate neighbourhood of Almorah) consist of about one hundred acres of land planted with Tea. At a short distance from the plantations there is a Cheer (Pinus longifolia) forest of about 100 acres in extent, in which the purchaser will have the right to cut timber, which is well fitted for making Tea chests, fire-wood, &c.

There are on the estate three large slated houses; numerous slated offices; a large slated factory; two large slated godowns; a slated barrack for Chinese Tea manufacturers; and the stock and block of the factory are complete for Tea operations and in working order.

2. Avar Toli in Kuttyoor, Kumaon, distant about 80 miles from the plains, and about 40 miles from Almorah.

There are on the estate a slated factory and a large slated godown; slated barracks for Chinese Tea manufacturers, &c., and the stock and block of the factory are complete for the Tea operations and in working order.

This plantation consists of about 1,300 acres of land, of which about 360 acres are planted with Tea, two hundred acres of cleared land fitted for Tea-planting, and the remainder covered with pines, &c., forests, the timber of which is well adapted for making Tea chests, &c.

The yield of the two estates this season was lbs. 20,000 of Tea and 1,650 maunds of seeds.

These two estates will be sold in one lot in fee-simple, free of all demands, on account of Land Revenue, exclusive of existing local cesses, such as Road, Educational, and Postal cesses, or such as may be hereafter legally imposed, at an upset price of Rs. 2,00,000 (two lacs of Rupees)

A small portion of the plantation of Avar Toli named Binolie, belonging to the temple of Nagnath, will bear an annual rental of Rupees 24 (twenty-four Rupees) per annum.

This land is leased in perpetuity from th temple of Nagnath on this rental.

3. Kowlaghir in the Deyrah Dhoon, distant two miles to the west of the Town of Deyrah. It consists of about 430 acres of land, of which about 380 acres are under cultivation with Tea, and the remainder adapted for Tea cultivation.

Through the property a branch of the Beejapore canal runs. At a short distance and to the south of the plantation there is a forest of Sane, Jamun, &c., consisting of about 500 (five hundred) acres, in which the purchaser will have the right to cut timber for Tea chests, fire-wood, charcoal, &c. The timber is well fitted for making Tea chests.

There are on the estate three bungalows; an extensive pucka Tea factory; two large pucka godowns; a barrack for Chinese Tea manufacturers, &c., and the stock and block of the factory are complete and in full working order.

The yield this season was lbs. 25,099 of Tea, and 1,050 maunds of seeds.

This estate will be sold in fee-simple free of all demands on account of Land Revenue, exclusive of existing local cesses for roads, &c., or such as may hereafter be legally imposed, at an upset price of Rs. 2,00,000 (two lacs of Rupees.) The plantations will be transferred to the purchasers on the 1st April 1866, on or before which date the purchase money must be paid at the General Treasury, Calcutta.

Tenders will be received by William Jameson, Esquire, Superintendent, Botanical Gardens, North-Western Provinces, Saharunpore, until 1st March 1866, if the factories, &c., be not previously sold by private sale, and the highest offer above the upset price will be accepted.

All tenders must be made in writing.

Every tender should be superscribed—"Tender for Tea plantation," and will be registered by the Superintendent of the Botanical Gardens on the date of receipt in a book, which he will keep, together with the tenders, in his own custody under lock and key.

The highest registered tender at the time being for any lot will be communicated by the Superintendent to any enquirers up to the time of sale, but the names of the parties who have tendered shall in no case be disclosed.

The register of tenders will be examined at noon, on the 1st March 1866, by a Committee consisting of the Superintendent, Botanical Gardens, the Judge, and the Collector of Saharunpore, at the Office of the Superintendent, and in the presence of all parties who may attend; and the amount of the highest tender for each lot, or, if there be more than one tender of equal amount, the number and amount of such tenders, but not the names of the parties tendering, will be publicly declared, and the highest tender, in writing, above the upset price at 4 P. M., will be accepted on the part of Government by the Committee.

On the tender being accepted by the Committee the purchaser must deposit five per cent. of the purchase money, which will be forfeited if the amount of the purchase money be not paid in full on the date specified.

Agents must be supplied by their principals with sufficient Powers of Attorney.

The above particulars are believed, in good faith, to be correct, but intending purchasers must make their own enquiries, as no reclamation can be listened to after sale.

References may be made to W. Jameson, Esquire, Superintendent, Government Botanical Gardens, Saharunpore.

By Order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces,

R. SIMSON,
Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces.

Of Presidency Golahs at Sulkea, Balasore Pungah of 1268 S. S.			177,000
			1,024,000

N. B.—The quantities here stated are those computed to be in store on the 1st November next. Deficiency in Stock of any year will be provided for by delivery of like Salt of other year at the Depôt, or by a refund of price.

The following are the Conditions of sale:—

1*st.*—The Salt will be offered for sale at an upset price to be determined at the time, and calculated separately for the Mofussil and the Sulkea Stocks, with reference to the then state of the market, and it will be sold to the highest bidder above that price, or at that price should no higher be offered.

2*nd.*—The sale shall commence at the hour of 11 A. M. of the day above-mentioned, and shall not be continued after the hour of 5 P. M.; but if at that hour any of the Lots advertised for sale shall remain unsold, the sale may, at the discretion of the Board of Revenue, be resumed on the next day following (not being Sunday or a public holiday) at the hour of 11 A. M., and so on until the whole of the remaining Lots are disposed of; or, if the whole quantity advertised shall not be sold on the day appointed, the Board may dispose of the Lots which remain on hand at a future sale.

3*rd.*—Each Lot will comprise five hundred maunds of Salt, the maund being of forty seers of eighty tolahs to the seer.

4*th.*—The Salt will be deliverable from the Store Depôts.

5*th*—A Promissory Note for the sum of one hundred Rupees shall be taken as a deposit on each Lot from the purchaser in the Sale Room and before the Lot is registered in the Sale Book, and all such Promissory Notes shall be redeemed on the part of the purchasers at this Office by Bank of Bengal Receipts, or by substitution of other Public Securities of the Bengal Government on or before 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the fifth day after sale, or on the other hand failing such redemption by the time aforesaid, then the Lot or Lots for which no Bank of Bengal Receipts or deposit of other Public Securities as aforesaid shall have been delivered in shall be re-sold at such time or times and under such conditions of re-sale as the Board of Revenue shall think fit. All losses and expenses whatsoever attending such re-sale shall be borne and paid by the defaulters, whilst any profit accruing from such re-sale shall be credited to Government.

6*th.*—The Promissory Notes taken on the day of sale under the last-mentioned condition, if remaining unredeemed at 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be placed in the hands of the Solicitor to the Government for realization.

7*th.*—No Tender of Money, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Public Securities on account of Salt upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale will be afterwards accepted.

8*th*—The price of the Salt shall be paid for within fifteen days from the day of sale; and in case any Lots shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the cash deposit made under the fifth condition, or any Public Securities that may have been deposited on account of such Lots, shall be forfeited, and the Salt shall be disposed of on account of Government at such time and in such manner as the Board of Revenue shall think fit, and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the Salt was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale.

9*th*—The duty on the Salt shall, unless the purchaser wishes to bond it, be paid within sixty days from the day of sale. For any Lots which may remain uncleared beyond the above period of sixty days, excepting such as may be bonded, Golah Rent will thereafter be charged at the rate of four Rupees per mensem for each 100 maunds.

10*th.*—The Salt may be bonded in a Government or a Private Golah under the Bonding Rules applicable to Sea-imported Salt.

11*th.*—Certificates specifying the name or names of the purchaser or purchasers, the number of the Lots sold, and the description of Salt purchased, will be delivered on payment of the deposit at the time and in the manner mentioned in Condition 5th, and each Certificate to be so granted must be returned to the Office of the Board before any Orders and Rowannahs (corresponding with such Certificate) for the delivery of the Salt shall be issued.

12*th.*—No Orders and Rowannahs for the delivery of any Lot of Salt shall be issued until payment in full of price and duty shall have been made for the same.

13*th.*—Fees must be paid for Rowannahs agreeably to Rule 27 prescribed by the Government of Bengal under Section 11, Act VII. (B. C.) of 1864.

14*th*—No deposit of Public Securities under the 5th of the present conditions will be received in this Office, except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the Sale Book, or his authorized Agent. The receipt for deposit of Public Securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the Securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

15*th.*—The Officer superintending the sale on the part of the Board of Revenue is empowered to reject, at his discretion, the bid of any individual unless such individual shall on demand tender at the time a deposit, either in Government of India Notes, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Government Securities, of a sum equal to the amount for which a Promissory Note would otherwise be taken under the 5th of these conditions.

16*th.*—The purchaser of any Lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession, at the same price and under the same conditions, any number of Lots of the same Salt, not exceeding altogether one hundred Lots; provided always that there remain a sufficient number of Lots of the Salt to complete the said one hundred.

17*th.*—In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the Salt included in this Notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

By Order of the Board of Revenue,

T. Bruce Lane,
Junior Secretary.

The Board however reserve to themselves the right of altering these dates should circumstances render it expedient to do so.

The following are the conditions of Sale :—

1*st.* The Opium will be sold for exportation by sea only, and no certificate will be granted except to cover such Export.

2*nd* The Opium will be ordinarily offered for sale at an upset price of Rupees 800 per Chest, and sold to the highest bidder above that price, except under the circumstances for which provision is made by Clause 12th of these conditions of Sale.

3*rd.* The Sale shall commence at the hour of 11 A. M. of the day fixed by previous Notification, and shall not be continued after the hour of 5 P. M., but if at that hour any of the lots advertised for sale shall remain unsold, the sale may, at the discretion of the Board of Revenue, be resumed on the next day following (not being Sunday or a Public Holiday) at the hour of 11 A M, and so on, until the whole of the remaining lots are disposed of, or, if the whole quantity advertized shall not be sold on the day appointed, the Board may dispose of the lots which remain on hand at a future Sale

4*th.* Each lot shall contain five Chests.

5*th.* A Promissory Note for a sum, calculated according to the scale noted in the margin, shall be taken as a deposit on each lot from the Purchaser in the Sale Room, and before the lot is registered in the Sale Book, and all such Promissory Notes shall be redeemed on the part of the Purchasers at this Office by Bank of Bengal Receipts, or by substitution of other Public Securities of the Bengal Government on or before 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the fifth day after the sale, or on the other hand, failing such redemption by the time aforesaid, then the lot or lots for which no Bank of Bengal Receipts, or deposit of other Public Securities as aforesaid shall have been delivered in, shall be re-sold at such time or times and under such conditions of re-sale as the Board of Revenue shall see fit, and all losses and expenses, whatsoever, attending such re-sale shall be borne and paid by the defaulters, whilst any profit accruing from such re-sale shall be forfeited to Government.

	Deposit.
When the amount bid is less than Rs 1,200 per Chest	Rs. 200 per Chest.
On bids of Rs 1,200 but less than Rs. 1,600	„ 300 „
On bids of Rs 1,600 but less than Rs. 2,000	„ 400 „
and so on, Rs 100 being added to the deposit for every additional Rs. 400 bid.

6. The Promissory Notes taken on the day of sale under the last mentioned condition, if remaining unredeemed at 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be placed in the hands of the Solicitor to the Government for realization in such manner as to him shall seem fit.

7. No tender of money, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Public Securities on account of Opium, upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be afterwards accepted.

8. The Opium now advertised for sale shall be paid for within fifteen clear days from the day of sale, and in case any lots of such Opium shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the Cash Deposit made under the fifth condition, or any Public Securities that may have been deposited on account of such lots or Chests, shall be forfeited, and the Opium shall be disposed of on account of Government at such time, and in such manner, as the Board of Revenue shall think fit, and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the Opium was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale.

9. Purchasers taking out Certificates or Orders for the delivery of Opium after making full payment as above prescribed, shall have the option of naming the number of lots of their purchase, which they may desire to be included in each Certificate or Order, and it is to be clearly understood that the Certificates or Orders so taken out shall be considered final, and not afterwards changeable for other Certificates or Orders authorizing the delivery of single lots or of a different number of lots or Chests, whether more or less than the number of lots or Chests originally required to be included in each Certificate or Order.

10. No deposit of Public Securities under the fifth of the present condition will be received in this Office, except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the Sale Book, or his authorized Agent. The Receipt for deposit of Public Securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the Securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

11. The Officer superintending the sale on the part of the Board of Revenue is empowered to reject, at his discretion, the bid of any individual unless such individual shall, on demand, tender at the time a deposit either in Government of India Notes, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Government Securities a sum equal to the amount, for which a Promissory Note would otherwise be taken under the fifth of these conditions.

12. With a view to prevent fictitious bidings designed to obstruct the sale, it is hereby notified that the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall be competent, at any time during the sale, to withdraw any unsold lot and immediately to put it up again for sale at a maximum upset price, diminishing the same gradually until a bid is obtained, and the first bonâ fide bidder for a lot after it has been offered for sale in the mode here described, shall be held and declared to be the purchaser of the said lot and the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall also be competent to dispose in the same manner of as many of the subsequent lots as he may think proper, provided always that no lot shall be sold below the minimum price of 800 Rupees specified in the second of these conditions.

13. The purchaser of any lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession at the same price and under the same conditions any number of lots of the same Agency Opium not exceeding altogether twenty-five lots; provided always that there remain a sufficient number of lots of the Opium to complete the said twenty-five.

14. In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the Opium included in this Notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall and may be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

15. The following papers will be exhibited for inspection on the day of sale, or may be seen previously to that date by application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue:—

No. 1.—Certificate of the Opium advertized for sale.

No 2.—Report of the examination of such Opium.

16. The Public are hereby informed that, in providing the investment of the Behar and Benares Opium for the year 1864-65, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years, to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the Cakes, and to have the due proportion of Opium put into each Cake. An account of the weight of the drug when packed at Behar and Benares, and a Statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken for the purpose of comparison from the dispatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue.

17. Any further information respecting weight or quality of the Opium advertized for sale that may be desired by parties connected with the trade will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on application at the Office of the Board of Revenue, but, in accordance with established usage, under no circumstances will the Board entertain or recognize any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of Opium, or adulteration of the drug which may be preferred on reference to chests after the sale and delivery of the Opium for shipment.

18. It is hereby further notified that, under the 6th Article of the Convention between Great Britain and France, dated the 7th March 1815, quoted below, the Agents in India of the French Government, or persons duly appointed by them, are entitled to demand that, out of the quantities of Behar and Benares Opium declared as above for sale at the twelve sales of the year 1866, there shall be delivered to them at the average of the particular sale or sales to which the Opium so applied for may belong, a quantity not exceeding in the aggregate 300 chests, and the Agents of the French Government must make requisition specifying the quantity of Opium required by them at any particular sale within thirty days from the advertisement of such intended sale, provided, however, that the Agents of the French Government may make such requisition for the whole quantity within thirty days from the publication of this Notification. If the Agents of the French Government shall not make the requisition for Opium within the time above-mentioned the entire quantity of about 40,000 Chests of Behar and Banares, as above estimated, will be brought to sale in the usual manner, and if they shall make application for quantity of Opium to be delivered to them out of the quantity advertised for sale at each or any of the twelve sales above-mentioned, but shall not pay for it within the prescribed period of payment, the Government of Bengal reserves to itself the right of disposing of the Opium which the French authorities may so fail to pay for, either by increasing the quantity reserved at the sale next ensuing the date of payment, or by selling it at a sale to be held expressly for the purpose.

The 31st October 1865.

J. A. CRAWFORD,
Collector of Customs.

Bye-Laws proposed by the Municipal Commissioners appointed for the Town of Burdwan and its Suburbs under Section 84 of Act III. of 1864.

1. Each quarterly instalment of the rate and taxes mentioned in the Act shall be considered to have become due at the commencement of the quarter on account of which each instalment is payable, and may be levied at any time after the commencement of each quarter, that is to say—

The instalment payable on account of the quarter ending ...	31st July . / ,, Oct. .. / ,, Jan. . / 30th April	May be levied on and after..	1st May / 1st Aug. / 1st Nov. / 1st Feb.

2. The external roofs and walls of any hut or any other building whatever about to be erected or renewed on or near any public highway, shall not be made of grass, leaves, mats or any other inflammable material, unless with express permission of Municipal Commissioners.

3. No person shall dig or make or cause to be dug or made in any place within the Burdwan Municipal Circle, any tank, pond, ditch, hole, or other excavation without the sanction of the Municipal Commissioners, and any person so offending shall within seven days from date of receiving an order from any Municipal Commissioner, fill or cause to be filled, any tank, pond, ditch, hole, or other excavation dug or made by him.

4. The Municipal Commissioners may cause to be put up or pointed on a conspicuous part of any house, building, wall, or place in any highway the name by which such highway is to be known, and no person shall destroy, pull down, or deface any such name or put up any name different from that put up by order of the Commissioners.

5. The Municipal Commissioners may fix a number on a conspicuous place on the outer side of any house or building, or at the entrance of the enclosure thereof fronting any highway, and no person shall destroy, pull down, or deface any such number.

6. No person shall cut grass on any public highway, being the property of the Municipal Commissioners.

7. No person shall tether cattle, goats or other animals or cause them to be tethered or cause or allow any cattle to stray for the purpose of grazing on the side of any public highway.

8. Every person within whose premises any animal may die, shall within two hours after its death either remove at his own expense the carcass to such place as may be set apart by the Municipal Commissioners for the reception of such carcass, or report its death to the Conservancy Overseer and in such latter case shall pay to the said Overseer the expense of removing the carcass at such rate as the Commissioners may determine, and in cases where the said person is not the owner of the animal, and the owner is known, the owner shall alone be responsible for the payment of such expense, and such expense shall be recoverable as a debt due to the Commissioners.

9. No person (after warning from any of the Municipal Commissioners) shall allow any pigs to be at large or keep them otherwise than in closed pens.

10. No person shall suffer any offensive matter from any manufactory or place of business, or cooking-house, or stable to flow into any river, nullah, canal, tank or surface drain.

11. All dust, dirt and rubbish of any kind, the removal of which is undertaken by the Municipal Commissioners, shall be deposited on the side of the road, and not more than five yards from the entrance of the premises from which it has come, every morning between the hours of 4 A. M. and 7 A M.

12. No refuse resulting from any business, trade, or profession shall be removed by the Municipal Commissioners except on payment for removal at such rate as the Commissioners may determine, and any expense incurred on this account shall be recoverable as a debt due to the Municipal Commissioners. No such refuse shall be deposited on any highway without permission from the Commissioners.

13. All dirt, dust, ashes, rubbish, sewerage, soil, dung and filth collected from the highways, houses, premises, sewers and cesspools by the Municipal Commissioners shall be the property of the Municipal Commissioners who shall have power to sell or dispose of the same as they may think proper, and the money arising from the sale thereof shall be applied to the purposes of the District Municipal Improvement Act.

14. No person shall, in any way, obstruct or allow to be obstructed, any of the lanes, walks, bye-ways, or other thoroughfares in any bazar by exposing for sale or accumulating or allowing to be exposed for sale or to be accumulated on any such lane, walk, bye-way or thoroughfare any package or any other materials whatever.

15. No person shall keep any cattle or conveyance of any kind standing on any public highway longer than is required for loading or unloading, or for taking up or setting down passengers, or shall clean any such cattle or conveyance on any public highway in such a manner as to be likely to cause inconvenience or danger to the public.

16. No person shall, after dark and during the night, drive any vehicle not bearing two conspicuous lanterns, provided that, for a cart or hackery, one lantern will be sufficient if raised high enough to be conspicuous on the front and rear.

17. Every owner, occupier, or farmer of any bazar shall, within fourteen days, after he shall have notice from the Municipal Commissioners so to do, provide such lanterns and urinals as in the opinion of the Commissioners may be necessary for the cleanliness and health of such bazar.

18. No person, occupier, or farmer of any bazar or shop shall sell or expose for sale, or permit to be sold, or exposed for sale, or admit into, or permit to remain in any bazar or shop any offensive meat or fish or decomposed vegetable matter, and every such owner, occupier, or farmer shall, without any delay cause any such meat, fish or vegetable matter to be at once removed to a place to be notified to him by the Municipal Commissioners. No such owner, occupier or farmer shall obstruct any person appointed by the Commissioners for that purpose from entering and inspecting any such premises at any time before sunrise and sunset.

19. No person suffering from any contagious disease shall bathe in any bathing place save in such a place as shall be set apart for that purpose by the Municipal Commissioners.

20. No person shall throw or cause to be thrown any corpse or carcass or any part of a corpse or carcass upon any ground or into any river, nullah, canal, drain or tank.

21. No person shall bury or cause to be buried any corpse in any burial ground in a grave constructed of masonry in such manner that the corpse or coffin shall be at a less depth than four feet from the surface ground.

22. No person shall bury or cause to be buried in any burial ground any corpse in a grave not constructed of masonry which shall be less than six feet deep.

23. No person shall build or dig, or cause to be built or dug any grave in any burial ground at a less distance than four feet from any other existing grave.

24. No person shall build or dig, or cause to be built or dug a grave in any burial ground in any other line than that marked out by the Municipal Commissioners.

25. No grave once used shall be opened for burial of another body without the premission of the Municipal Commissioners.

26. No person, when burning or causing to be burnt any corpse or part of a corpse in any burning ground, shall permit the same or any part thereof to remain without being completely reduced to ashes, or shall permit the clothes or other articles connected with the burning of such corpse to remain at or near such burning ground, unless the same be completely reduced to ashes.

27. Every person who shall bring or convey or cause to be brought or conveyed any corpse or part thereof to any burning ground, shall burn or cause the same to be burnt within four hours after its arrival at the said burning ground.

28. No person shall committ any nuisance by easing himself on or near any road or public thoroughfare.

29. Every servant employed by the Municipal Commissioners shall be liable for any neglect of duty to fine or dismisal by order of the Chairman or a meeting of the Municipal Commissioners.

30. Every person who shall commit an infringement of any of the foregoing Bye-laws by doing an act prohibited by any such bye-law shall be liable to a fine not exceeding the limits laid down in the scale hereto annexed :—

BURDWAN,
The 14th October 1865.

G. TAYLOR,
Chairman of the Municipal Commissioners of Burdwan.

Darjeeling Municipality.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal having, under the provisions of Section 85, Act III. (B.C.) of 1864, approved and confirmed the following Bye-Laws proposed by the Municipal Commissioners for the Town of Darjeeling they are hereby published for general information : —

RULES for regulating the time and mode of collecting the rate and taxes mentioned in the Act.

1. Each quarterly instalment of the rate and taxes mentioned in the Act shall be considered to have become due at the commencement of the quarter on account of which such instalment is payable and may be levied at any time after the commencement of such quarter, that is to say,—

The instalment payable on account of the quarter ending		May be levied on and after
	31st July		1st May.
	31st Oct. ..		1st Aug.
	31st Jan. ...		1st Nov
	30th April ..		1st Feb.

2. The collection of the rate and taxes mentioned in the Act shall be superintended by an Officer appointed for the purpose by the Municipal Commissioners in the manner hereinafter described; such Officer shall be remunerated either by salary or commission according as the Commissioners shall direct. In case of remuneration by salary the Commissioners shall fix the amount of such salary and they shall provide and maintain at their own expense a Subordinate Establishment sufficient for the purpose of making the collections. In case of remuneration by commission such commission shall be payable on all sums collected on account of the aforesaid rate and taxes and paid into the hands of the Officer appointed to receive the same and shall be calculated at such rate per cent on such sums as the Commissioners may from time to time fix in consideration of such payment, the collecting Officer shall provide and maintain at his own expense an Establishment sufficient for the purpose of making the collections, and shall be responsible for all sums collected and received by any person on that Establishment; he shall, moreover, give security for the due performance of the duties of his office to such an amount as the Commissioners may from time to time fix and determine; and he shall be in all respects bound by, and amenable to, the Laws hereinafter enacted, and to all other such Laws and Rules as may from time to time be duly enacted and made for the regulation of the conduct of persons employed by the Commissioners in the same manner as if he were remunerated by salary.

3. The collecting Officer shall be furnished by the Commissioners with copies of the lists described in Sections 29 and 39 of the Act.

From these lists he shall cause to be prepared the bills prescribed by Section 41 of the Act in the Form A. contained in the Schedule hereto annexed and shall sign the same, the bills so prepared and signed shall be issued to the subordinate Officers on the collecting Establishment, and shall be by them presented to the persons named therein in the manner hereinafter described.

4. The collecting Officer shall keep separate Registers of all bills issued by him for sums due on account of the rate and on account of each of the different descriptions of taxes leviable under the Act; in these Registers he shall enter the date of each bill, the name of the person liable, the period for which the sum is due, the amount of that sum, and the name of the subordinate Officer to whom the bill was issued. On receipt of the amount of any bill the entry in the Register referring thereto shall be scored through.

5. Every bill for any sum due on account of the rate or taxes leviable under the Act shall always, when possible, be presented to the individual named therein in person; but if such personal presentation be found impossible the bill shall be left at his place of ordinary residence in the hands of some male member of his family, or of one of his servants, and a bill so left shall be deemed to have been presented within the meaning of the Act.

6. Should presentation of any such bill in any of the Forms above described be found impossible, the subordinate Officer to whom the bill shall have been issued shall return it to the collecting Officer with a certificate endorsed thereon to the effect that presentation has been found impossible.

7. The subordinate Officer to whom a bill may be issued for presentation shall receive the amount of such bill at the time of presentation, or at any time within ten days from the date on which the bill shall have been first presented by him, and shall pay the amount so received to the collecting Officer without delay.

8. If the amount of any bill issued by the collecting Officer shall not have been received by him, or if such bill shall not have been returned with the certificate above described duly endorsed thereon within fifteen days after issue, he shall call upon the subordinate Officer to whom it was issued for an explanation of the cause of delay in realizing the amount or in returning the bill, and if it shall appear from such explanation that the bill has been presented in any of the modes above described, and that the amount has not been paid within ten days after presentation, or that presentation in any of those modes has been found impossible the collecting Officer shall then make application to the Municipal Commissioners with a view to the recovery of the amount in the manner prescribed by the 45th and following Sections of the Act.

9. The collecting Officer shall pay daily into the hands of the Cashier of the Magistrate and Collector's Office, or such other person as may from time to time be nominated by the Commissioners for the purpose of receiving them, all sums collected in the course of the day and shall take his receipt for the same.

10. In addition to the Registers above described the collecting Officer shall keep such other books, and he shall make such reports and furnish such returns as may from time to time be prescribed by the Commissioners.

Rules for the regulation of the conduct of persons employed by the Commissioners.

11. All persons appointed to any office under the Municipal Commissioners shall, in the absence of any specific engagement to the contrary by accepting such appointment, be held to have acknowledged themselves to be amenable to the Rules hereinafter contained and to all such Rules as may from time to time be passed by the Commissioners for the regulation of the conduct of persons employed by them.

12. All persons employed by the Commissioners on their fixed establishment whose services may be no longer required shall be at all times liable to discharge after receipt of previous notice for the period of one month, and no such person shall withdraw from the duties of his office without having given previous notice for the period of one month.

13 All persons now holding, or who may hereafter be appointed to, any office under the Municipal Commissioners shall, when requested so to do, furnish security to such amount as the Commissioners may from time to time fix, and any person failing to furnish such security within reasonable time, or within such time as the Commissioners may appoint, shall be held to have thereby forfeited his appointment and may be removed from office.

14. Whenever it shall be proved to the satisfaction of the Commissioners that any person in their employ has been guilty of any violation of duty, or wilful breach or neglect of any rule, regulation, or order made or given by competent authority, or has withdrawn from the duties of his office without permission, or without having given previous notice for the period of one month, or has done any act by the performance of which, or has omitted to do any act by the non-performance of which, the Commissioners shall have suffered, or may have incurred the risk of suffering loss or injury, or has failed to perform any duty with all due diligence, or has been guilty of any act of insubordination towards any superior Officer, or has accepted or obtained, or agreed to accept or attempted to obtain, from any person, for himself, or for any other person, any gratification whatever other than authorized remuneration in respect of any official act, or has, in his official capacity, given any information which he knows or believes to be false, or has committed any offence punishable under the Indian Penal Code, such person shall be liable to punishment by fine not exceeding three months' pay, or by suspension from office for such period as the Commissioners may fix, or by summary dismissal from his situation, in addition to any penalty to which he may be liable under the provisions of the Penal Code. Any person so dismissed shall forfeit all pay and allowances which may be due to him at the time of such dismissal.

15. Nothing herein contained shall be held to debar the Commissioners from instituting proceedings in any Civil Court having jurisdiction against any person being or having been in their employ with a view to the recovery of damages for any loss or injury which they may consider themselves to have sustained in consequence of any act done or omitted to be done by such person.

Rules for the management of matters connected with Conservancy.

16. Every owner, farmer, or occupier of a market or shop for the sale of butcher's meat, fish, fruit, or vegetables shall keep the same in a clean and proper state, and no food shall be sold or exposed for sale which is in such a state as to be unfit for consumption.

17. Every owner, farmer, or occupier of any such market or shop shall admit, at all reasonable hours, any person authorized by the Commissioners to enter and inspect the same.

18. No person shall throw, or cause to be thrown, any corpse or any part thereof into any river, nullah, or ravine, or into any forest or other waste land, or shall dispose or cause to be disposed of any corpse or any part thereof, otherwise than by burning or burying the same at or in some lawful burning or burying ground.

19. Every person who shall bring or convey, or cause to be brought or conveyed to any burying or burning ground, any corpse or any part thereof shall bury or burn it, or cause it to be burried or burnt, within four hours after arrival at the said burying or burning ground.

20. No person who may burn, or cause to be burnt at any burning ground, any corpse, or part of a corpse shall permit the same or any part thereof to remain without being completely reduced to ashes, or to be removed before it shall have been so reduced.

21. No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, any corpse, or any part of a corpse, in any grave constructed of masonry in such manner that the top of coffin, or body where there is no coffin used, shall be at a depth less than three feet from the surface ground.

22. No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, any corpse, or part of a corpse in a grave not constructed of masonry the depth of which grave shall be less than six feet from the surface ground.

23. No person shall dig or construct a grave at a distance less than two feet from any other existing grave.

25. Every person within whose premises any animal may die shall, within two hours of its death, either remove the carcass at his own expense to such place as may be appointed by the Commissioners for the reception of such carcasses, or report its death to the Conservancy Overseer of the Division within which those premises may be situated, and in the latter case shall pay to the said Overseer the expense of removing the carcass at such rate as the Commissioners may from time to time determine.

26. Every person to whom a license for keeping a necessary for public accommodation may be granted by the Commissioners under the 69th Section of the Act shall construct such necessary in such manner and such out-offices and appurtenances as the Commissioners may, from time to time, prescribe; any such person refusing or neglecting so to construct such necessary, or to make such alterations in and additions to it as the Commissioners may at any time direct within a reasonable time, or within such time as the Commissioners may appoint, shall be held to have forfeited his license and such license may be withdrawn.

27. Every license granted by the Commissioners under the 69th Section of the Act shall contain a specification of the boundaries of the Section of the Town for the use of the inhabitants of which the necessary referred to in such license shall be constructed, and the person to whom such license may be granted shall be required to provide such accommodation as the Commissioners may consider sufficient for the use of the inhabitants of such Section.

28. All persons to whom license for keeping public necessaries may be granted shall dispose of therefrom in such manner as the Commissioners may from time to time direct and not otherwise.

29. All persons to whom such license may be granted shall be bound to obey such orders and to be guided by such Rules as may from time to time be made and promulgated by the Commissioners under penalty of the forfeiture of their licenses.

30 All dust, dirt, and rubbish of every kind intended for removal by the conservancy carts shall be deposited by the side of the road near the entrance of the premises from which it may have been conveyed between the hours of 4 and 8 A. M. on every day in the week except Sunday, on which day no rubbish shall be so deposited.

31. The external walls and roofs of huts or other buildings about to be erected or renewed in or near any public highway shall not be made of grass, leaves, mats, or any other such inflammable materials; any person doing or causing to be done any act in contravention of this rule shall be liable to the penalty prescribed for offences against the Bye-Laws passed by the Commissioners.

32 No person shall put on any wall, or on any roof of a house, or on any bank or tree, or on any other place or thing facing any road or public place any preparation of dung to be used as fuel or for any other purpose.

33. No person shall build, or cause to be built, or keep any tattee, privy, or urinal within twenty yards of any public road or street except with the special permission of the Commissioners.

34. No person shall put, or cause to be put, on any house or other building any spout or other thing intended for the conveyance and discharge of water which shall be so placed that the water discharged therefrom shall be thrown or fall upon any public road or thoroughfare.

35. No person shall let loose, or allow to be let loose any diseased or worn-out animal into any public place or into any place from which such animal can escape into any public place.

36. No person shall allow any pigs to be at large, or shall keep them otherwise than in closed styes within certain boundaries defined by the Municipal Commissioners.

37. No person shall deposit, or cause to be deposited, or allow to remain in or by the side of any public drain, any substance, article, or thing whereby the said drain is, or may be, in any way obstructed.

38. No person shall construct or place over or by the side of any public drain any bridge, platform, building, or structure of any kind except by and with the written permission of the Commissioners and in such manner as they shall direct.

39 No person shall suffer cattle to stray on any public road, or drive them loose upon any such road except when travelling from place to place.

40. No person shall quarry stone or make any excavation within twenty yards of any public road without the sanction in writing of the Municipal Commissioners.

41. No person shall keep a slaughter or piggery or cow house or stable in any place considered by the Commissioners to be objectionable, and all people killing cattle for public consumption shall be compelled to use the slaughter-house unless they obtain exemption from the Municipal Commissioners.

42. No person shall beg on or near any public road, or expose sores for the purpose of exciting charity.

43. No person shall gamble with cards, dice, counters, money, or other instruments of gaming in any shop where spirituous or fermented liquors or intoxicating drugs are sold, or in any house, room or place kept as a common gaming house, or in any public street, place or thoroughfare, or keep any house, room or place as a common gaming house.

44. With a view to provide a fund for paying the cost of conserving the Goom range, a fee of four annas a month will be charged, from the 1st August 1865, on each wood-cutter, and one Rupee on each charcoal burner carrying on his business in the station of Darjeeling each person on payment of the above sum to be furnished with a badge.

45. Every person who shall commit within the limits of the station of Darjeeling an offence against any of the foregoing Bye-Laws by doing any act prohibited, or by neglecting to do any act directed to be done by such Bye-Laws, shall be punished by fine not exceeding twenty Rupees, and in case of his continuing such offence after notice from the Commissioners such person shall be liable to a further penalty not exceeding five Rupees for every day after such notice during which such offence is continued.

(Sd.) B T Reid, Major,
Chairman, Municipal Committee,
Darjeeling.

Bye-Laws for the Town of Jessore proposed to be adopted under Section 84 of Act III. (B. C.) of 1864.

I.—Regarding servants and others employed by the Commissioners.

Rule 1.—All persons appointed in writing or otherwise to any office under the Municipal Commissioners, whether payable by salary or commission, shall, by accepting such appointment, be held to have acknowledged themselves to be amenable to the Rules hereinafter contained, and to all such Rules as may from time to time be passed by the Commissioners for the Regulation of the conduct of persons employed by them.

Rule 2.—All persons employed by the Commissioners whose services may be no longer required shall at all times be liable to discharge after receipt of previous notice for the period of one month, or of one month's salary, and no such person shall withdraw from the duties of his office without having given previous notice for the period of one month, or forfeiture of one month's salary.

Rule 3.—All persons now holding, or who may hereafter be appointed to, any office under the Commissioners shall, when required so to do, furnish security to such amount as the Commissioners may from time to time fix, and any person failing to furnish such security within reasonable time, or within such time as the Commissioners may appoint, shall be held to have thereby forfeited his appointment and may be removed from office.

Rule 4.—Breach or any neglect of duty on the part of any persons employed under the Commissioners may be punished as described in classified List of offences which will hereafter be published as an annexure to these Bye-Laws irrespectively of any penalty to which such person may be liable under any Law. Provided that no fine inflicted under this Rule shall exceed one month's salary, or commission of the person so fined.

Rule 5.—Nothing herein contained shall be held to debar the Commissioners from instituting proceedings in any Civil Court having jurisdiction against any such person being, or having been, in their employ, with a view to the recovery of damages for any loss or injury which they may consider themselves to have sustained in consequence of any act done, or intended to be done, by such person.

II.—Collection of Tax.

Rule 6.—The House Tax shall be held to be due on the first day of each quarter and may be levied at any time after such date. That is, the Tax for the 1st Quarter is due on the 1st of May; for the 2nd Quarter is due on the 1st of August; for the 3rd Quarter is due on the 1st of November; for the 4th Quarter is due on the 1st of February.

Rule 7.—When the name of any owner is not known it shall be sufficient to designate him in any notice or other proceeding under the Act as "the owner" of the property on which the rate is assessed without further description.

Rule 8. The provisions of Section 81 of the District Municipal Improvement Act shall apply to bills presented for payment.

Rule 9.—Every person upon whom a notice has been served to furnish any such return as that provided in Section 29 of the District Municipal Improvement Act shall furnish and send such return to the Office of the Commissioners within fifteen days from the day on which the said notice has been served, as prescribed in Section 81 of the said Act.

III.—Rules regarding Conservancy.

Rule 10.—No person shall tether or graze cattle, goats, or other animals, or cause them to be tethered, or cause or allow them to stray on any public highway, except with the permission of the Commissioners.

Rule 11.—No one shall erect any tatee, privy or urinal within ten feet of any public highway.

Rule 12.—No one shall keep any tatee, privy or urinal within ten feet of any public highway for more than ten days after notice to remove it shall have been given by the Commissioners.

Rule 13.—No one shall cause any water-spouts to throw any water on any public highway.

Rule 14.—No one shall perform any office of nature in any other place, not being privies in private premises, than such as may have been appointed by the Commissioners, provided that such places have been set apart by the Commissioners.

Rule 15.—No one shall expose for sale for the purpose of being used as food or drink any article unfit for such purpose.

Rule 16.—No one shall keep a smith's forge, slaughter-house, piggery, butcher's shop, or conduct any of the trades mentioned in Section 77 of Act III. of 1864 in any place prohibited by the Commissioners.

Rule 17.—Every owner, occupier, or farmer of any market shall, within fourteen days after he shall have received notice from the Commissioners so to do, provide such places of retirement for the purposes of nature as, in the opinion of the Commissioners, may be necessary for cleanliness and health of the said market.

Rule 18.—No owner, occupier, or farmer of any such market shall sell or expose, or permit to be exposed for sale, or admit into, or permit to remain in, any such market any offensive meat, or fish, or decomposed vegetable matter but such owner, occupier, or farmer must, without any delay, cause any such meat, fish, or vegetable matter to be at once removed to a place to be notified to him by the Commissioners.

Rule 19.—Every person within whose premises any animal may die shall, within three hours of its death, or if death occurs at night, within three hours after daylight, either remove at his own expense the carcass to such a place as may be set apart by the Commissioners for the reception of carcasses, or report its death to the Conservancy Overseer of the Division within which such premises may be situated, and in such latter case shall pay to the said Overseer the expense of removing the carcasses at such rate as the Commissioners may from time to time determine.

Rule 20.—After the issue of thirty days' notice by the Commissioners no person shall erect or renew external roofs or walls of huts or other buildings in or near any public highway of, or with grass, leaves, mats, or other inflammable materials.

Rule 21.—No person shall make, within the limits defined under Section 3 of Act III of 1864, any excavation of more than three feet in depth (excepting graves, water-courses, or wells) without the written permission of the Commissioners, who shall have power to prescribe the place and manner of making such excavations.

RULE 22.—With reference to Section 55 of Act III. of 1864 the following Bye-Laws are prescribed. All rubbish, dirt, &c., intended for removal must be deposited daily on the side of the road between midnight and 8 A. M.

RULE 23.—No one shall burn or bury any corpse within the precincts of the town at any other place than those fixed under Act III. of 1864.

RULE 24.—No one shall throw any corpse into the river within the precincts of the town as defined under Section 3, Act III. of 1864.

RULE 25.—No one shall throw, or cause to be thrown, any corpse or carcass, or any part of a corpse or carcass, upon any ground or into any river, nullah, canal, drain or tank.

RULE 26.—No one shall carry a corpse, or part of a corpse, through any highway unless it be decently covered and totally concealed from public view.

RULE 27.—No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, any corpse in any burial ground in the town of Jessore in a grave constructed of masonry except in such manner that coffin shall not be at a less depth than four feet from the surface of the ground.

RULE 28.—No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, in any such burial ground any corpse in a grave not constructed of masonry which shall be less than six feet deep.

RULE 29.—No person shall build, or cause to be built, a grave of masonry in any such burial ground at a less distance than two feet from any other existing grave.

RULE 30.—No person shall build or dig, or cause to be built or dug, a grave in any burial place in the said town in any other line than that especially marked out by the Commissioners for the purpose.

RULE 31.—No person when burning, or causing to be burnt, any corpse, or part of a corpse, in any burning ground within the said town shall permit the same, or any part thereof, to remain without being completely reduced to ashes, or to be removed until the same be so reduced.

RULE 32.—Any person who dies of small-pox shall be removed from the place in an hour after his death and all his clothes be burnt to ashes.

RULE 33.—Every person who shall bring or convey, or cause to be brought or conveyed, any corpse, or part thereof, to any burning ground within the said town, shall burn, or cause to be burnt, the same within six hours after its arrival at the said burning ground.

RULE 34.—No person shall, while carrying any corpse through the precincts laid down in Act III. of 1861, deposit the same on or near any public highway for the purpose of resting, or for any purpose.

RULE 35.—No one shall drive a vehicle, or carry or cause to be carried on darknights, without a light, such things as may do bodily injury to any person who may come in contact with them.

RULE 36.—The words "near any public highway," used in Act III. of 1864 and in these Bye-Laws, shall mean within ten yards from any boundary of highway.

RULE 37.—Every person who shall commit an infringement of any of the foregoing Bye-Laws by doing any act prohibited by any such Bye-Laws, or by neglecting to do any act directed to be done by such Bye-Laws, shall be liable to fine according to the scale laid down in the subjoined Table.

IV.—Miscellaneous.

RULE 38.—Any person who has any suggestion or complaint to make on any subject within the scope or authority of the Commissioners, may do so in writing on unstamped paper, to be presented at the Office of the Commissioners on any day between the hours of 12 and 4.

RULE 39.—The accounts of receipts and disbursements of each month shall be submitted to the Commissioners at the first meeting of the following month and a progress statement of works in hand shall be submitted to the Commissioners once a quarter.

RULE 40.—If any person is disposed to give a donation or periodical contribution for any purpose of public improvement within the scope of the Commissioners' authority, the same shall be received and carried to the credit of the Town Municipal Fund and appropriated at the discretion of the Commissioners according to the wish of the donor.

RULE 41.—Any person applying for the written permission of the Commissioners for any of the purposes specified in these Bye-Laws, shall have to pay a certain amount of fees, to be determined by the Commissioners, for every such permission not exceeding Rupees 20.

Ditto	6.	Paper.

N. B.—Prizes in this Department will be awarded according to the excellence of the articles exhibited.

It is requested that intending competitors inform the Secretary to the Central Committee at Berhampore, or the Secretary to one of the District Committees, (which have been formed at Rampore Bauleah, Rungpore, Dinagepore, Maldah, Pubna and Bogra,) of their intention on or before January 1st 1866, giving a general description of the animals and articles which they propose to exhibit.

Printed cards, after having been filled in and signed by the Secretary, or a member of the Central or of one of the District Committees, will be given to intending Exhibitors; and without these cards no animal or article will be admitted into the Show-yard.

Information as to means of transport, &c., will be furnished by the Committees, and bonâ fide expenses of Exhibitors will be given at the discretion of the Committees.

To the Committees is reserved a right of rejection of animals and articles which do not appear worthy of exhibition, and there is also reserved a right of withholding prizes in those cases in which the best specimen exhibited does not appear worthy of a prize.

In many cases in which prizes are given open to competitors from the whole Division, and others to competitors from each District of the Division, it will happen that two prizes, viz., one Divisional and one District prize, will be adjudged to one specimen. In these cases one prize only may be taken, the owner of the specimen shall have his option, and the prize which he elects to decline shall be given to the Exhibitor of the specimen next in merit.

Arrangements will be made for the supply of fodder, &c. The Show-yard being in the immediate vicinity of the Gora Bazaar, no difficulty in regard to the supply of provisions can possibly be experienced.

Ground in the immediate vicinity of the Show-yard has been reserved for the encampment of those Native gentlemen who may desire it.

Extra prizes will be awarded to animals and aricles not enumerated in this list in all cases of extraordinary merit.

The latest dates for receipt in the Show-yard of specimens in the various Departments are detailed below :—

RULES.

1. Applications for Dawks should be addressed to Baboo Umirto Laul Banerjee, Head Clerk, Magistrate's Office, and should be dispatched so as to reach Purneah at least five days before the date on which the Dawk is required.

2. The amount due for the Dawk should be remitted in full in Bank Notes or by Money Order or Transfer Receipt with the Application, with 20 per cent. added for demurrage. This latter sum will be returned if no demurrage becomes due.

3. The Bearers will wait for a Dawk 24 hours from the time fixed. After which they will be available for other Dawks.

4. Travellers are particularly requested to write their names legibly.

5. Each Banghy Bearer will carry 30 seers of luggage; if more is given him, he will probably fail to keep up with the Palkee and the Traveller will be put to inconvenience.

6. Palkies can be supplied. It should be mentioned in the application whether they will be required or not. The charge for a Palkee is 10 Rupees for the whole journey.

7. Only three Dawks can be laid each day, Travellers may therefore be unable to proceed on the day they fix. Timely notice will be given in such cases and the Dawk will be laid on the day following.

8. Travellers are particularly requested to state the day and date on, and hour at, which they intend to leave to principal stages on the line.

No Applications will be attended to which do not comply with the above instructions.

THIRD APPENDIX TO

The Calcutta Gazette.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1865.

NOTICE

Is hereby given that the sale of the Proprietary right of Government to the Estates enumerated in the following Advertisements of Sale will be made subject to these

CONDITIONS OF SALE.

1*st*.—The Estates to be sold, subject to the Government Revenue against each, to the highest bidder above the upset price.

2*nd*.—The sale to be subject to existing leases and to the rights conferred by the settlement proceedings and laws in force, and Purchasers to be bound to respect the rights of resident cultivators who have signed the Schedule of Assessment made by the Revenue Authorities.

3*rd*.—If the amount of purchase money do not exceed Rupees 100, the whole amount to be paid down at once.

4*th*.—If the amount of purchase money exceed Rupees 100, one-fourth of the amount bid to be immediately deposited. If the balance be not paid by noon of the fifteenth day after the sale, reckoning the day of sale as one, or if that day be a close holiday, then by noon of the first succeeding Office day, the sale to be cancelled, the sum deposited being forfeited to Government, and the Estate to be again put up for sale at the risk of the defaulting Purchaser after issue of advertisement as in the case of original sale.

5*th*.—In addition to the ordinary Government Revenue fixed on the Estates the Purchasers shall be bound to pay for the construction of roads and improvement of communications one per cent. on the Government Revenue assessed from the date of entry upon the purchase. This sum will be leviable in the same manner as other arrears of Revenue.

By Order of the Board of Revenue,

R. B. CHAPMAN,
Secretary.

Report regarding the Medical College Hospital and Eye Infirmary for 1864.

From DR. J. MCCLELLAND, Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 87, dated the 26th May 1865.)

I HAVE the honor to forward, for submission to the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, the Report and Returns of the Medical College Hospital for the year 1864, and those of the Eye Infirmary for the last nine months of that year, and beg leave to state that these papers are highly satisfactory as shewing the progressive advancement of the largest and most important Hospital in the Bengal Presidency.

2. I trust that one defect now complained of, namely, the want of separate Wards for Surgical and Medical cases, may receive the attention which its importance requires. The proposal made by Dr. Chevers with a view to securing this object is to appropriate the present Midwifery Wards for one of the classes of patients above adverted to. This would entail the necessity of providing a new Lying-in-Hospital; but as regards the expense, I believe the time has come when the public would freely contribute towards the erection of a suitable building.

3. The Superintendent of the Eye Infirmary complained in his last Annual Report of the dark ill-ventilated rooms in the basement story of the College Hospital assigned to the use of his patients. His Honor will be glad to know that more airy and better lighted apartments have now been made available for Opthalmic cases.

Dr. Macnamara, however, still reports that his efforts are paralysed for want of a room affording the necessary light and space for the performance of delicate operations on the eye. Under these circumstances I beg to suggest that the Executive Engineer may be directed to meet the Inspector-General of Hospitals, Lower Provinces, Dr. Green, and the Superintendent of the Eye Infirmary, with a view, if possible, to provide, at a moderate expense, an appropriate place at the College premises for the purpose in question.

4. With regard to the distribution of Opthalmoscopes recommended by Dr. Macnamara, I would state, for His Honor's information, that Medical Officers may now have the temporary use of them on application to the Deputy Inspectors General of Hospitals of their respective Circles.

From NORMAN CHEVERS, ESQ., M. D., Principal, Medical College, to H. M. MACPHERSON, ESQ., M. D., Secretary, Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department,—(No. 4A., dated the 2nd May 1865.)

I HAVE the honor to forward, for submission to the Principal Inspector-General and Government, the Returns* of the Medical College Hospital for the year 1864, and those of the Eye Infirmary for the last nine months of that year.

The total number of In-patients was 6,131.

During the year under report the total number of In-patients treated in the Medical, Surgical, and Midwifery Wards has been 5,692 against 5,296 treated in 1863, 4,385 in 1862, and 4,423 in 1861.

* Returns of the Medical College Hospital.

Annual Return of Christain, male and female, patients.

Annual Return of Native, male and female, patients.

Annual Return of Surgical operations performed in the Hospital.

Annual Return of Midwifery cases treated in the Lying in-Ward.

Annual Return of Diseases treated in the Out-door Dispensaries.

Annual Return of Operations performed in the Surgical Dispensary.

Table of admissions and deaths in the Medical College for the year 1864.

* Returns of the Eye Infirmary.

Return of House-patients treated from 1st April to 31st Dec. 1864.

Return of Out-patients treated from 1st April to 31st December 1864.

Statement of expenditure from 1st April to 31st December 1864.

Abstract of the monthly supplies from 1st April to 31st December 1864.

Of these 5,692 patients treated, 2,650 were Christians (under which head are included all patients of Christian habits) and 3,042 Natives.

The number of In-patients treated in the Eye Infirmary during the nine months, April to December, of the year under report, was 439.

Among the Christian In-patients treated in the general Wards of the Hospital 238 deaths occurred, or 8·60 per cent. of treated. The number of deaths among the Native In-patients was 940, or 30·90 per cent.

Percentage of deaths to be treated.

	Christians.	Natives.
1861 ...	10·05	26 01
1862 ...	9·69	28 33
1863 ...	9 20	26 78
1864 ...	8·60	30·90

It will be perceived that our mortuary statistics among Christian patients shew a steady annual improvement, but that during the year under report an unusually high death-rate obtained among our Native patients.

This is, I think, mainly attributable to the following facts:—

1st.—Cholera was unusually prevalent, the treated and deaths having been—

Native Patients.

	Treated.	Deaths.
1864 ..	524	309

2nd.—Fevers were also of unusual prevalence and destructiveness among the Native poor of Calcutta and its environs during this year. Many of our worst cases were those brought in almost in a dying state from the outskirts of those Districts, Baraset, Hooghly, &c., in which Fever of a remarkably deadly type has long prevailed.

3rd.—The great Cyclone of the 5th of October must have been, both directly and indirectly, a cause of very heavy sickness among the poorest classes, and it is remarkable that in the autumn a disease very closely approximating to, if not absolutely identical with, true Typhus Fever made its appearance in the city and was followed by a distinct and rather severe outburst of unmistakable Enteric or Typhoid form of fever.

The treated and deaths from fever were—

Natives.

	Treated	Deaths.
1863 ...	382	88
1864 ...	534	139

The number of Native patients who were admitted in a moribund and positively hopeless condition was, as usual, very large.

It has been arranged that in future years our Returns shall shew what proportion of our fatal cases are admitted in a dying condition, as it is in every way unadvisable that our statistics should make no distinction between those cases which are admitted when absolutely beyond remedy and those which sink despite of systematic treatment.

The above Returns include 810 cases of women and children treated in the Midwifery Wards. Here the deaths were 42.

There were confined in these Wards 161 (including 30 abortions) against 201 in 1863, 169 in 1862, and 131 in 1861.

The total number of patients treated in the Dental Dispensary was 1,203.

In the Out-door Dispensary for women and children the number of cases treated was 11,403 against 12,744 in 1863 and 10,137 in 1862.

In the Medical and Surgical Out-door Dispensaries 14,541 male patients obtained relief against 17,746 in the previous year.

Thus the total number of persons who received Medical aid in the Institution during the year (excluding three months' statistics of the Eye Infirmary) amounted to 33,279.

During the year under report the number of important Surgical operations performed upon In-door patients was as follows compared with those of the three preceding years:—

	Operations.	Recoveries and Relieved.	Deaths.	Ratio of deaths.
1861 ..	103	103	15	11·53
1862 ..	198	152	35	17·69
1863 ...	175	116	28	1·69
1864 ...	195	129	38	19·43

With the exception of one the whole of the thirty-eight instances in which death followed operation were cases of capital operations of the most important and serious character.

The principal immediate causes of death in these cases were Pyœmia and Osteo-Myelitis.

Remarkable success has, however, attended some of the most severe operations, especially in one case where recovery has followed amputation at the hip-joint, this being only the second case recorded in the Bengal Presidency in which life has been saved by this operation.

The alterations which have been in progress during the year were not sufficiently advanced to produce any very material improvement in the Hospital atmosphere.

The floor of the Council Room Ward has been laid with asphalt and the privies have been fitted with spring doors, but this last improvement was effected after the close of the year under report.

With regard to certain causes of disease which have been noticed in previous Reports as existing in the close vicinity of the Hospital, I may mention that the extremely offensive privy for the Native Establishment which stood due south of the building has been entirely cleared away, and that the space to the north (formerly occupied by Native buildings) has been railed in, thoroughly levelled and converted into a smooth lawn on which Convalescent patients are enabled to take air and exercise.

The cess-pool sewer to the south of the Hospital grounds is still a source of great offence. The removal of this serious nuisance is, however, attended with several difficulties.*

* Vide Lieutenant-Colonel Beadle's, to the address of the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, letter No. 413, dated 20th August last.

The structural arrangements needful for the proposed Cholera and Accident Wards were not completed within the year.

One of the worst defects of the Hospital building is its ill-adaptation for that classification of patients, and for that segregation of special cases which have long been recognised as among the most vitally important desiderata in Hospital construction. Thus the whole of the European male patients virtually occupy one vast apartment and actually breathed a common atmosphere. My colleagues and I are confidently of opinion that to secure the safety of those suffering from severe injuries and Surgical operations, it is indispensably necessary that the Medical Wards should be entirely separate and apart from the Surgical.

I was to effect this object that the Hospital was originally built, but the intentions of the proposer, Sir J. R. Martin, who was then Surgeon to the Native Hospital, have been entirely overlooked.

We are all earnest in wishing that the present Midwifery Wards, which form an entirely separate portion of the Hospital, may be given up for the reception of important Surgical cases.

We submit that the time has arrived at which this City ought to maintain a separate Lying-in-Hospital like that which has for many years past flourished at Madras. A General Hospital is not, either upon sanitary or social grounds, a proper place for the reception of Midwifery cases. It has long been believed that a separate Lying-in-Hospital would rapidly obtain a success which our Obstetric Wards can never enjoy, and I feel confident that the arrangement which I now respectfully urge upon the attention of Government would soon be followed by a material improvement in our Surgical statistics, while it would gives us the means of affording relief to a very large number of additional patients.

The Hospital debt has risen considerably within the year. In January last it amounted to Rupees 2,723-15-7½. A Committee of the Physicians and Surgeons have lately, at my request, investigated this matter, and it has been shewn that, under the annually increasing influx of patients, the present monthly allowance for bazaar medicines and contingent expenses is quite inadequate to meet our indispensible wants.

A separate detailed report on this subject will be submitted in a few days.

The Hospital Establishment has now been placed upon an efficient footing.

A great improvement has been effected by the removal of the Ophthalmic patients from the ground floor of the Hospital to an upper-storied building within the College compound. This building was originally constructed as a Hospital and it has been adapted at a moderate outlay to its present purpose.

It is, however, understood and hoped that this arrangement is only to be temporary, and that the patients will be removed as soon as an Ophthalmic Hospital can be erected

Medical College,
The 1st January 1865.

Charles Hayes,
House-Surgeon, Medical College Hospital.

Norman Chevers, M. D.,
Principal, Medical College.

From N. C. Macnamara, Esq., M. D., Superintendent of the Eye Infirmary, to Norman Chevers, Esq., M. D., Principal of the Medical College,—(No. 82, dated the 1st January 1865.)

In compliance with an order from Government lately received, I beg to enclose a Return of the In and Out-patients treated in the Calcutta Eye Infirmary during the past nine months. In future my Annual Return will correspond with those of the other Departments of the Hospital, commencing on the 1st of January and ending on the 31st of December.

During the past nine months I have introduced a new system of registration and made other changes which seemed to me to be necessary in order to assimilate, as far as practicable, the general arrangement and nomenclature used in the Calcutta Eye Infirmary with that of similar Hospitals in Europe. I hope this system may ultimately be useful in a statistical point of view, accuracy in the various details having been strictly attended to, and the greatest care having been taken to simplify the nomenclature as far as possible; useless names are very apt to creep into our Returns and puzzle the Student, without affording him the slightest insight into the differences which characterize the various forms of disease. There is one point remaining, however, which requires amendment, and that is as regards "the result of treatment" as given in the "Out-patients' Register." In all the other Departments of the Hospital the heading shewing the result of the Out-patient practice has of late years been omitted, simply because it was found impossible to arrive at any accurate data upon this point. The majority of the Out-patients seek advice on account of some trivial affection of the eye and having got a few bottles of lotion they are cured; but they do not take the trouble to report the fact to us, and consequently the result of such cases should not be entered in the Returns. It has been the practice to fill up this heading by guess, but there can be no doubt that this is a very objectionable proceeding, and as we cannot ascertain the actual results, it is far better, I think, to leave them out altogether. I beg, therefore, to recommend that in future the number of Out-patients attending the Hospital may be entered in the books, together with the nature of the disease from which the patients are suffering, but not the result of the treatment. This remark applies only to the Out-door patients, the In-door patients will continue to have their cases carefully kept and the results of our treatment recorded. I find it a better plan to bind up the head tickets of the various patients into convenient sized books rather than trust to cases copied subsequently into a separate book either by the Sub-Assistant Surgeon or any one else. These head tickets contain the remarks and prescriptions as ordered at the bedside of the patients from day to day, and if a careful and full index is kept of them they must in time become a valuable set of records, though probably not so neat as if copied into separate books at a subsequent period.

I am very sorry to have to report again this year that my patients are still kept in the dark cellars under the College Hospital; it is utterly useless attempting to effect any material good in the Department under my charge until some improvement is made in this respect. As soon as the present Inspector-General, Dr. Bruce, arrived in Calcutta, I called on him and explained to him the nature of the Wards at my disposal. He at once most kindly said he would come and inspect the place himself, and after seeing them he utterly condemned them, as every one else has done who knows any thing about the matter. Dr. Bruce requested me to try and devise some scheme, not involving great expense, by means of which my patients could have better accommodation, and fortunately I discovered that there were a set of rooms in the College occupied by some six Ceylon Students. Dr. Bruce again came to the College and agreed with me that, as a temporary arrangement, these would hold my Ophthalmic patients, being better suited for the purpose than the place they are now in, and I hope to be able to move them into these quarters before long. This arrangement can only be considered as a temporary one, the set of rooms being by no means a proper place for an Ophthalmic Hospital, though much better than the present Wards. I shall still have no operating or receiving room. This has now become a chronic complaint. The Surgeon in charge of this large Ophthalmic Hospital asserts that he is actually unable at times to exercise the power he possesses of relieving the blind, simply because he cannot command a sufficiency of light in his Hospital to enable him to operate, and there seems to me to be no end to the difficulty. Two years ago an order was issued by Government to erect an operating and receiving room, but as yet nothing has been done; in the meantime I do not exaggerate the evil when I say that many poor creatures remain blind simply because we have no proper accommodation for them in this Hospital, either preceding, during, or after an operation for cataract, or any other form of disease of the eye.

I commenced raising a subscription for a new Ophthalmic Hospital, and the Raja of Burdwan, Raja Radhakanto Deb, Prosunno Coomar Thacoor, and Heralal Seal promised to form themselves into a Committee and to help in this work, but the difficulty then arose as to the site of the Hospital; it was objected on the one hand that it could not be removed from the Medical College, and on the other that there was no available place to build it on near the Hospital, and consequently for the present the Ceylon Students' quarters will be occupied by my patients as soon as they are ready to receive them, and I trust that nothing will occur to delay the repairs and the removal of the Ceylon Students into the Apothecaries' quarters, which have been vacated for them. I do not propose, in this Report, entering upon a detailed account of any particular class of cases, for in the first place it only extends over nine months out of the twelve; and secondly, the effects of treatment cannot be fairly judged of when the patients are kept in dark and foul apartments like our present Ophthalmic Wards.

Much of my time has been employed at the Hospital in teaching my Assistant and the Students attending my class the use of the Ophthalmoscope; not one of them appeared to be certain if they had ever seen the Optic disc with this Instrument, the Sub-Assistant Surgeon in office when I took charge of this Hospital being incredulous regarding the use of the Ophthalmoscope. This instrument has, however, completely altered the practice of Ophthalmic Medicine and Surgery within the last few years, and in mentioning the changes I had attempted to introduce in the nomenclature, I attended to the general obliteration of the word amaurosis, i. e., unknown causes of blindness, from our Returns and the substitution of the real name of the disease as revealed to us by means of the Ophthalmoscope. Several of the Students have mastered the rudiments of this branch of medicine, and I hope their combined researches may be made available through means of their Annual Reports towards the advancement of this branch of Science. I would beg to suggest that a small "Coccinisis" Ophthalmoscope should be supplied to the Medical Officer at the various Civil Stations throughout Bengal. The cost price of the Instrument is only a few Rupees, and it would be of the greatest use to Civil Surgeons, often enabling them not only to combat effectually deep-seated disease of the eye, but also to give a positive opinion in medico-legal cases as to the existence or otherwise of feigned, as contrasted with real, blindness and other defects of vision among prisoners and the like.

I believe the advantages to be derived from well authenticated details regarding the spread of the various forms of conjunctivitis throughout this part of India would tend to elucidate some very interesting facts regarding the progress of this form of disease among the Natives; it is remarkable how these diseases alternate in waves of increase and decrease for a month or two. We see a vast number of cases of catarrhal conjunctivitis, this dies away and during a similar period pustular conjunctivitis takes its place, which perhaps gives way to the purulent form. These changes are so constant that accurate data bearing on the subject could not but be interesting and might add to our knowledge regarding the course which atmospherical influences follow. No doubt, considering the enormous extent of country over which Medical Officers are spread in this Presidency, that if their combined experience were carefully recorded it would tend to increase our knowledge upon these points and materially advance the case of Science.

NORMAN CHEVERS,
Principal, Medical College.

N. C. MACNAMARA,
Supdt. of the Eye Infirmary.

Resolution by the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,—(dated the 6th September 1865.)

READ letter No. 87, dated the 26th May last, from the Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, submitting the Report and Returns of the Medical College Hospital for the year 1864 and those of the Eye Infirmary for the last nine months of that year.

2. The Lieutenant-Governor observes that the want of separate wards for Surgical and Medical cases in the College Hospital is represented still to exist, and that to obviate the inconvenience experienced from this cause, Dr. Chevers proposes the appropriation of the Midwifery Wards for the reception of important Surgical cases and the construction of a new Lying-in-Hospital.

3. The necessity for the separation of Surgical and Medical cases was first urged in the Report for 1862, when the Lieutenant-Governor directed that the practice of treating Cholera patients in the presence of patients of the General Wards should be immediately stopped, and that the proposals then made for a Casualty Ward and for a Cholera Ward should be at once carried out. From the Report for the year 1863 it appeared that nothing had been done to effect this object. But shortly after the receipt of that Report a plan and estimate for the work were submitted and, under the Lieutenant-Governor's order, were immediately transmitted to the Public Works Department of this Government to be dealt with. His Honor regrets to learn that the arrangements then sanctioned for the separation of the Cholera and Accident Wards have not yet been completed, although instructions were at once issued to the Executive Engineer, not only to carry out the design here adverted to, but also other important provisions which were considered necessary for the sanitary improvement of the Hospital.

4. The Lieutenant-Governor will be glad to receive, on an early date, a more explicit Report than that now given by Dr. Chevers on his proposals in regard to the appropriation of the Midwifery Wards, and in the meantime the subject will be referred to the Public Works Department.

5. The total number of In-patients treated in the Medical, Surgical, and Midwifery Wards during the year was 5,692 against 5,296 in 1863, 4,885 in 1862, and 4,423 in 1861. This result is satisfactory as shewing the appreciation in which the Institution is held by the people.

6. It appears that among the Christian In-patients treated in General Wards of the Hospital 238 deaths occurred, or 8·60 of treated, whilst the number of deaths among the Native patients was 940, or 30·90 per cent. On this subject the attention of the Principal Inspector-General should be directed to the remarks contained in the 3rd paragraph of the Resolution of last year. The Lieutenant-Governor regrets that, though the Mortuary Returns of Christians steadily improve, those of the Native patients deteriorate scarcely less steadily. This year's great increase is doubtless attributable partly to the causes assigned, viz., the unusual prevalence of Cholera and of Fevers of a malignant type aggravated by the effects of the Cyclone. His Honor cannot, however, but think that the mortality among the Native In-patients is considerably higher than it ought to be, and his conviction is strengthened by comparing it with the percentage of deaths among a similiar class of patients for the years 1863 and 1864 treated in the Calcutta Native Hospital, and even with the Returns of the Calcutta Police Hospital, over which the Medical College Hospital should have apparently every advantage. The result of the comparison is exhibited in the margin.

Medical College Hospital.	Calcutta Native Hospital.
1863 . 26·78	17·29
1864 ... 30·90	23·31

Police Hospital for 1864 = 28·23.

7. The Lieutenant-Governor entirely approves of the proposal for shewing, in future Returns, what proportion of fatal cases are admitted in a dying condition, and thinks it advisable that the statistics of the Hospital should clearly distinguish between those cases which are admitted when absolutely beyond remedy and those which sink despite of systematic treatment. The subject of the disposal of moribund patients has been fully discussed and the question of transferring any of them to the Police Hospital has, after much correspondence, been referred to the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, who has been instructed to draw up, in communication with the Deputy Inspector-General of Hospitals, Presidency Circle, a set of Rules defining the class of patients to be received at that Institution.

8. The Lieutenant-Governor observes that out of 1,017 patients treated in the Midwifery Wards during the year 1863 there were 34 deaths, whilst out of the 810 cases treated during the year under review there were 42 deaths. His Honor regrets to observe that these numbers are in both directions retrogressive.

9. It is very satisfactory to see that, after excluding three months' statistics of the Eye Infirmary, the benefits of the two Institutions have been extended to no less than 33,279 persons during the year.

10 The number of persons (19 43 per cent.) who succumb under the performance of important Surgical operations is still, the Lieutenant-Governor thinks, very heavy, and the fact that one of the principal immediate causes of death in these cases is said to be Pyæmia, appears to point to an unsatisfactory state of the Hospital arrangements.

11. The Lieutenant-Governor will await the promised Report on the subject of the Hospital debt.

12. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to be informed what steps have been taken towards the erection of an Opthalmic Hospital.

13. The suggestion of Dr. Macnamara, that the result of the treatment of such Out-door patients as fail to report whether they have been cured or not should not be omitted from the Returns of the Eye Infirmary, meets with the Lieutenant Governor's approval

14. His Honor is glad to learn that more airy and better lighted apartments have now been made available for Opthalmic cases. The Public Works Department of this Government will be desired to direct the Executive Engineer to meet the Inspector-General of Hospitals, Lower Provinces, Dr Green, and the Superintendent o the Eye Infirmary for the purpose of discussing with them the question of providing, at a moderate expense an appropriate place on the College premises for the performance of delicate operations on the eye, which Dr. Macnamara still reports to be much desired.

15. The alteration in the date of submiting the Returns of the Eye Infirmary renders its useless to compare the results of the period under review with those of the previous year, but the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that this will be done in future.

16. In conclusion, the Lieutenant-Governor desires that the acknowledgments of Government should be conveyed to Dr. Chevers and to the Medical Staff of the Hospital for their careful management of the Institution under their charge.

Ordered, that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, for information and guidance.

Ordered also, that a copy of this Resolution and of extract from Dr. Chevers' Report, relating to the question of the Midwifery Wards, be forwarded to the Public Works Department of this Government for information and guidance.

Ordered also, that the Reports and Resolution be published in the Supplement, to the Calcutta Gazette.

The following Order issued by the Government of India in the Financial Department is republished for information :—

No. 3138

Simla, the 25th October 1865.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India in the Financial Department.

Read again the following correspondence relative to revised Forms of Trade and Navigation Returns and to a proposed series of Financial Statistics, viz. :—

A letter from the Statistical Committee, dated 24th March 1864, proposing revised Forms of Trade and Navigation Returns and a series of Financial Statistics.

The Financial Resolution No. 1637, dated 22nd April 1863, inviting the opinions of the Local Governments on the Forms of Trade and Navigation Returns.

The Home Department's endorsement No. 7735 of 12th December 1863, forwarding a letter from the Government of Bombay, No. 13, dated 30th October 1863, with the opinion of the Commissioner of Customs, Bombay.

The Financial Resolution No. 2189, dated 20th April 1865, settling the details which are to be given in the annual accounts under the new system of accounts.

A letter from Mr. M. H. Foster, dated 29th August 1865, detailing the procedure in the Central Office of Accounts for consolidating the monthly and annual accounts of Revenue and Charge.

Read also the following documents on the subject, viz. :—

A letter No 185, dated 12th January 1864, from the Government of Bengal, forwarding a series of monthly Returns of Trade and Navigation which the Board of Revenue, the Chamber of Commerce, and the Collector of Customs, Calcutta, propose in substitution of those recommended by the Statistical Committee.

A letter from the Statistical Committee, dated 17th August 1864, in which they abide by forms proposed by them, but modifying the forms in some minor particulars, so as to meet certain objections of the Commissioner of Customs, Bombay, and of the Revenue Authorities, and the Chamber of Commerce, Calcutta.

The Home Department's endorsement No. 469 of 26th July 1865, forwarding the opinion of the Government of Madras on the forms proposed for the Trade and Navigation Returns and for Statistics for the Administration Reports of the Local Governments.

Resolution.—The Governor General in Council observes that at present the Governments of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay, and the Administration of British Burmah, publish Annual Returns of Trade and Navigation for the teritories under their control. It is not intended to dispense with these Annual Returns, or to abridge the detail in them, or to interfere with their compilation under the orders of the Local Governments.

2. Inasmuch, however, as the information in these volumes is not brought together, so as to shew the Foreign Frade of India in one view, and as their appearance after the close of the year deprives them of much practical value, it is desirable that a set of Monthly Returns of Trade and Navigation should be superadded in such form as will admit of their consolidation by a Central Office of the Government of India into Monthly and Annual Retruns shewing the Foreign Trade of India.

3. To this end the Governor General in Council is pleased to decide, conformably with the recommendation of the Statistical Committee, that the several Custom Houses should submit to the Chief Customs Authority in each Presidency or Province Monthly Returns of the sea-borne Trade and Navigation for their respective Ports for consolidation in a Monthly Return for that Presidency or Province.

4. This consolidated Monthly Return will, doubtless, be published by the Local Government in its own Gazette; but a copy of it should be forwarded as soon as possible, and not later than the second month after that to which it relates, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Financial Department, for further consolidation in a General Monthly Return of Trade and Navigation for India which will be published for general information in the Gazette of India.

5. It is essential to the accuracy of the consolidated Return for India that the primary Returns from the Custom Houses in the several Presidencies to their Chief Customs Authority should be framed on precisely the same principle and in the same form, and the Statistical Committee have shaped their recommendations accordingly.

6. For the Returns to be furnished by each Custom House, in a Presidency or Province, to its Chief Customs Authority, in supersession of those now in use, the Statistical Committee propose, the following series. The Returns, as appended to this Resolution, are numbered 1 to 9, viz.:—

No.
1.	Imports, Foreign, Duty-free.	Articles.	Quantity landed.	Declared real value.
2.	Imports and consumption, Foreign Dutiable ...	„	„	„ Fixed Tariff value.
3.	Exports, Foreign, Duty-free..	„	„	„
4.	„ „ Dutiable ..	„	„	„ „
5.	Foreign Trade, vessels employed in the—distinguished according to nationality ...	Nationality ... / Vessels ... / Tonnage ...	Shewing separately	Entered. / Cleared.
6.	Foreign Trade vessels employed in—shewing countries whence arrived, whither bound ...	Countries whence arrived and whither bound ... / Vessels .. / Tonnage ...	Shewing separately	Entered. / Cleared.

Entered for Home consumption including goods from Bond.

SUPPLEMENTAL.

8. Imports, Coasting Trade, Duty-free, shewing articles, quantity, Declared real value.
Exports „ „ „ „ „ „ „ „
9. Vessels employed in the Coasting Trade, British, Foreign, Country Craft { Entered. / Cleared.

7. These forms are approved of with the following modifications, viz.:—

I.—In the Returns Nos 2 and 4 of Dutiable Imports and of Exports, the Committee propose two columns for the Tariff and the declared real values of the articles; but for tariffed goods, the value which is declared at the Custom House is the Tariff value. It will suffice, therefore, to retain merely one column for the declared real value, it being understood that, for tariffed goods, the Tariff value will be expressed as the declared real value.

II.—In the same Returns, 2 and 4, a column should be added for the amount of duty collected on each article, for, as pointed out by the Government of Madras, the information exists in the books of every Custom House, and its entry in the Returns will involve very trifling labour.

III.—The Returns 3 and 4 would shew the exports of Indian produce and manufactures, but would not distinguish them from foreign merchandise or re-exports. Accordingly the Returns, instead of being devoted respectively to duty-free and dutiable exports, will be allotted to Indian produce and manufactures and foreign merchandise.

IV.—Articles should be entered in the several forms according to the classification which will be settled in subsequent paragraphs of this Resolution.

V.—The three Returns, Nos. 7 to 9, of the Coasting Trade of India, are classed as Supplemental, in order to distinguish them from the preceding six, which are devoted to the Foreign Trade of India, or that with Ports not Indian. Hence the Committee did not (in the supplemental Forms Nos. 7 to 9, which accompanied their first Report) distinguish between the trade with Indian Ports which are British, and that with Indian Ports which are not British. In their subsequent letter, however, of 17th August 1864, they have adopted for the consolidated Return from each Presidency Mr. Inverarity's suggestion, that the distinction should be maintained in the portion relating to the coasting trade in India. Corresponding amendments must be made, therefore, in the supplemental Returns from each Custom House, Nos. 7 to 9, that is, the word "duty-free" will be omitted from the heading of the Returns 7 and 8, and when exports or imports of any article occur in any month, under both classes of Indian Ports, (viz., British Indian and Ports not British,) the entries for British Indian Ports will be shewn in one total, and those for Ports not British will next be brought forward in detail for each Port, with the amount of duty which may have been collected on the articles. The same course will be observed in the supplemental Return, No. 9, of vessels employed in the Coasting Trade. In that Return also British Indian Vessels will be distinguished from British Vessels.

8. The foregoing amendments have been made in the Forms Nos. 1 to 9, which are attached to this Resolution.

9. It is necessary to repeat the caution of the Statistical Committee that the supplemental consolidated monthly Returns of the Coasting or Interportal Trade of India are not to shew the trade between any two Ports of the same Presidency, but only that between different Presidencies. Or to use the words of the Committee, "The Returns* of Interportal Trade from each Presidency will include the Imports into every Port belonging to such Presidency from Indian Ports forming part of another Presidency, and, similarly, the Exports from every Port in such Presidency to Indian Ports subject to another Presidency, but will not include the Coasting Trade inter se of Ports belonging to the same Presidency; the object of such Returns being to shew, not the amount of trade conveyed by sea between one Port and another of the same Government, but the aggregate Coasting Trade of each Government with other Divisions of British India." The words "Government and Presidency" in this quotation include each Presidency or Administration which has a sea-borne trade, and, as subordinate thereto, all the native Foreign States whose Ports are connected with it.

* i. e.—The consolidated monthly Returns from the Chief Customs Authority in each Presidency.

10. If any Local Government desire to obtain Monthly Returns from its subordinate Custom Houses or Ports of the trade with each other, the information should be supplied in a series distinct from the Returns Nos. 1 to 9 above prescribed.

11. With respect to weights and measures, the Committee observe that "In these subsidiary Returns (1 to 9) from the subordinate Custom Houses, as also in those to be furnished by the Chief Customs Authority of each Presidency to the Financial Department in Calcutta, quantities will be entered in the (Tariff) weights, measures, and currency according to which the several Custom Houses charge duty. The Financial Department will, when necessary, reduce all weights and measures to the English standard." The Governor General in Council considers that the expression of quantities in English weights and measures may be made preferably in the Returns from the Chief Customs Authority of each Presidency.

12. It will be observed that the Returns prescribed for Custom Houses do not include one for articles remaining in Bond. A Return of this nature in the Form No. 16, attached to this Resolution, will probably be required from only the Custom House at the chief town of each Presidency. The Chief Customs Authority will arrange accordingly.

13. For the Returns to be furnished to the Financial Department by the Chief Customs Authority of each Presidency, the Statistical Committee propose the following series; the Returns, as appended to this Resolution, are numbered 10 to 22 as follows, viz.—

FOREIGN TRADE.

No.
10.	Imports and consumption,
1.	Articles free of duty,	Articles.	Quantities landed.
2.	Articles subject to duty,	"	"	Quantities entered for Home consumption.
11.	Declared real value of articles imported.	"	Declared real value.
12.	Exports, Foreign Merchandise.	"	Quantities.	Declared real value.
13.	" Indian Produce and Manufactures.	"	"	"
14.	Vessels employed in the Foreign Trade, distinguishing their nationality.	Nationality. Vessels. Tons.	shewing separately	Entered, For the month, cleared. also total of British and Foreign entered and cleared, in each expired month of the year.
15.	Vessels employed in the Foreign Trade classed according to the countries whence arriving and whither bound.	Countries. Vessels. Tons.	shewing separately	Entered. Cleared. in two groups of British Possessions and Foreign countries.
16.	Bonded Warehouse account of certain principal articles remaining in Bond.	Principal. Articles.	Quantities remaining in Bond.
17.	Treasure. An account of the computed real value of the Imports and Exports of Gold and Silver.	Shewing	Gold. Silver. Total of Gold and Silver.	Countries. Imports. Exports. " " " " " "

SUPPLEMENTAL.

Coasting or Interportal Trade.

18.	Imports	Principal Articles, Quantities Imported, Declared value.
19.	Exports	" Quantities Exported " "
20.	Goods transhipped under Bond to Ports in other Presidencies.
21.	Treasure.	Imports and Exports.
22.	Shipping, British, Foreign, Country craft.	Entered. Cleared.

14. In all the foregoing Returns quantities and values will be shewn in appropriate sub-divisions or columns, 1stly, for the month for which the Returns may be made up, and for the corresponding month in each of the two preceding years; and 2ndly, for all the expired months of the current year, and for the corresponding period in the two preceding years.

15. The Returns Nos. 10 to 17 are the same as the Monthly Returns of Trade and Navigation for the United Kingdom, which are published by the Board of Trade in London, and the Governor General in Council is pleased to direct their adoption, the articles being re-arranged, however, according to the classification which will be presently prescribed.

16. In the original series of Forms Nos. 10 to 17, the Statistical Committee omitted to provide for the exhibition of the details of Trade with each foreign country. This omission having been noticed by the Chamber of Commerce, Calcutta, it has been rectified in the amended Forms proposed by the Statistical Committee in their letter dated 17th August 1864; these amended Forms are approved, subject to remarks which will presently follow for guidance in exhibiting the details of the trade with some Foreign countries individually, and with other countries of minor importance in certain groups of Foreign Ports.

17. The foregoing amendments have been embodied in the Returns Nos. 10 to 22, which are appended to this Resolution.

18. To the Forms Nos. 10 to 22, which have thus been adopted from those of the Statistical Committee, exception has been taken by the Chamber of Commerce and the Revenue Authorities, Calcutta. The Statistical Committee have replied in the remarks quoted in the margin. The answer of the Committee is valid, regard being had to the object for which the monthly Returns of Trade are required by the Financial Department, viz., to shew the Foreign Trade of India. The Forms which the Chamber of Commerce prefer are not adapted to that object, though doubtless they may be more useful for those concerned in the trade of Calcutta. In this view it is perfectly discretional with the Government of Bengal to authorise the publication of monthly Returns of the trade of Calcutta in the Forms proposed by the Chamber of Commerce and Mr. Crawford, while the monthly Returns required by the Financial Department will be submitted in the Forms approved of in this Resolution.

The Bengal Chamber of Commerce, supported by the Board of Revenue, have proposed to dispense with our separate Return No. 7, Bonded Warehouse Account, the necessary particulars for which they would provide for in our Import Forms, Nos. 1 and 2. This proposal involves numerous additional columns to these last Forms, which would thus lose their present character of compactness. There is some carelessness, too, in the Chamber's bearing; a place being given for British Indian Ports under duty paid, and bonded, though no articles from such Ports pay duty or are bonded. Space too, is wasted; two columns for declared and Tariff values, respectively, being given to each article in each division, though only one such value can apply to any one article. Moreover, their Import Forms would fail to shew the quantity of goods landed during the month. The duty paid columns of the Forms would, of course, include payments on goods bonded in different months.

"The Committee's Returns, on the other hand, provide for—

"1st.—The total quantity landed or imported.

"2nd.—The total quantities (made up partly of the current month's and partly of the previous month's importations) which are passed into consumption direct from the Custom House, and from bond respectively.

"3rd.—The quantity remaining in bond, not only of the present, but of all past months' importations as well.

"The third head of information, which is useful if not indispensable, for any intelligent study of the other two heads, is not given at all by the Chamber."

The Chamber further suggests that Form No. 7 should shew the declared value of goods remaining in bond. In suggesting this, the Chamber have not perhaps considered the varying values of the goods according to the months in which they were imported. The Committee are not prepared to adopt this suggestion. While it is perfectly easy to shew the quantities remaining in bond, an attempt to shew their declared values would involve the keeping of accounts far more elaborate than the subject would appear to deserve.

19. The foregoing orders provide for the Returns which are to be submitted by Custom Houses to the Chief Customs Authority in their own Presidency and for those which are to be furnished by the latter to the Financial Department. It has now to be determined whether the General Return of the Trade of India, to be prepared by that Department, should be a partially condensed abstract or a mere consolidation, in extenso, in imperial totals, of the monthly Returns of each Presidency.

20. On this point the Statistical Committee observe in their letter, dated 17th August 1864, that "the object which our Committee had in view "was to present a clear view of the trade of all "India without any unnecessary distinction of "Presidencies or Provinces. The mode of attaining this object, therefore, is not by re-producing details from the separate Local Trade "Returns, which can advantageously be studied in detail in those Returns only, but to combine the results and large aggregates of the several Local Returns in one general or consolidated Return for all India, so that a monthly Return, and an annual volume, may give results ready to hand, and worked out for all India, on all heads of information which an enquiry into our Foreign Trade must embrace."

21. Accordingly, the details in the Returns from each Presidency, of the countries with which there is a trade, and of the principal articles of merchandise, will be condensed in the monthly and annual Returns of the trade of India to be prepared by the Financial Department.

22. The annexed Return No. 23 contains a list of the foreign countries with which India has a trade, also of the Indian Ports. An alphabetical arrangement of the foreign countries has, on Mr. Crawford's suggestion, been discarded for a geographical one, which will facilitate a view of the course of trade and be otherwise useful.

23. In that list the countries entered in italics are those for which the particulars of export, import, and navigation must be given separately in the Return to the Financial Department, because the trade, &c., of each of them will be shewn in the annual volume. But the Chief Customs Authority will consult his own convenience and that of the Custom Houses in giving the Returns of those places which are shewn in ordinary type, either under the head of "other countries," in lump under that head, or separately for each country, and he will use the like discretion with respect to those countries, shewn in italics, which are grouped together, e. g., the exports to Hamburg, Bremen, Trieste may be given, for the article exported, either collectively for all those countries, under the head Germany, or separately for each.

24. By this arrangement of countries, and of the entries appertaining to them, the Returns from the Chief Customs Authority at each Presidency will be cleared, in the abstracts of the Financial Department, of so much of the detail of countries as is not necessary for a view of the Foreign Trade of India regarded as a whole. But the condensation, thus far, will not be of much avail, and the principal abbreviation of details must be sought in a revised classification of the articles of Import and Export,

25. Such a classification has been made, for a different purpose, by Mr. Crawford, the Collector of Customs at Calcutta. Though it differs from the arrangement followed by the Statistical Committee in their Forms of the Returns to be furnished by the several Custom Houses, the Committee has not given any opinion on Mr. Crawford's list. It may be open to amendments which it will receive when brought into use, and meanwhile it can very well serve as the basis of a revised classification of the articles of Indian trade. It is accordingly adopted, with some minor alterations, in Return No. 24, as the prescribed classification of articles of merchandise.

26. In that Return articles are variously shewn in large or small capital letters, in italics, or in ordinary type. Those in ordinary type are subordinate to some general head which is shewn in capital letters. In the Returns by the Financial Department of the Trade for India the totals of the sub-heads in small capital letters or in italics, and of the major heads in capital letters, will be shewn, while the details of the articles in ordinary type, i. e., of items under major heads or sub-heads, will not be required.

27. Thus, the following kinds of entries occur in the classified List :—

DYEING AND COLORING MATERIALS, viz.—
a Cochineal	50
b Galls	100
c Gamboge	50
d Munjeet or Madder	100
e Orchilla	50
f Quercitron Bark	50
g Roseine and other coloring substances from Coal Tar	100
h Red or Sanders wood	100
i Saffron	50
j Sapan wood	50
k All other sorts unenumerated	50
	750
SEEDS, viz.—
Oil—
Linseed	100
Mustard	100
Poppy	100
Rape	100
Mahoo	50
Niger	50
Teel	50
Other kinds.	50
Essential—
Anise	100
Coriander	100

The Abstracts of the Trade for India would shew Rs. 750 under Dyeing and Coloring materials, omitting the details a to k. Under Seeds, the Abstract would shew the following :—

SEEDS.
Oil—
Linseed	100
Mustard	100
Poppy	100
Rape	100
Other kinds	200
Total of Oil Seeds ...	600
Essential	200

The Chief Customs Authority may consult his convenience in entering in the monthly Returns for the Financial Department either the full details given in the first part, or merely the condensed details shewn in the second part of the preceding example. But whether the full or the condensed details be given, they should be shewn separately for each country, according to the instructions in paragraph 23 of this Resolution.

28. These abbreviations of details will occur in the consolidated monthly Returns for the Financial Department—not in the Returns to be furnished by each Custom House in a Presidency to its Chief Customs Authority. In these latter Returns the trade in all the articles entered in the classified list whether in capital letters, italics, or ordinary Roman letters, will be shewn separately for each country or port, except that the several varieties of piece goods, under the sub-heads of Cotton, Flax, and Silk Manufactures, or of Wines under the sub-heads of Liquors, or of Iron, Lead, Steel, Tin, &c., under those heads subordinate to Metals, need not be detailed by every Custom House unless the Local Government desires it. The details are not needed by the Financial Department, and they are entered in the Classified List merely because they are of local interest to the trade at the chief ports.

29. The articles, whether forming major heads, sub-heads, or item, have been inserted in the Classified List with reference to their present importance, so far as that can be ascertained from the Trade Returns; all others are included in the entry "other kinds" under each or Head Division It is desirable that when the trade in any one of the articles which are unenumerated amounts in annual value to Rupees 5,000 in any one Presidency, it should be brought on the List of principal articles under its proper general head or sub-head, and notice of the circumstance be communicated, through the proper channel, to all the other Chief Customs Authorities, and to the Financial Department by the Chief Customs Authority who may bring it on the List.

30. It will be well to note that the Classified List provides for the inclusion of unenumerated articles, of any kind, under the general head or sub-head of that kind, in an entry of "other kinds", or "all others." By this means, the separate entry of "unenumerated articles" which in the Returns now in use closes the detail of principal articles will disappear.

31. The Governor General in Council believes that there will not be any difficulty in preparing the monthly Returns according to the revised classification of articles, and it is accordingly directed that this classification be strictly adhered to by the Chief Customs Authority in each Presidency. Should an article appear to be wrongly classified, it should nevertheless be entered in the Return for the Financial Department according to the arrangement in the List, and at the same time a separate memorandum of the exports or imports of it should be submitted, with a note of the head under which the Chief Customs Authority and the Local Government would prefer to shew the articles, and with a statement of reasons. With the help of this memorandum the Financial Department will make such alterations in the consolidated Return as may be necessary.

32. In one other respect, too, the Revised List of principal articles now authorised is to be regarded as provisional. Tariffed and untariffed goods are entered in it promiscuously. But the Statistical Committee concurs with the Chamber of Commerce, Calcutta, in recommending that Tariff values should be distinguished in the Trade Returns from other values, and the Committee considers that this should be done by shewing tariffed goods by themselves, alphabetically arranged, and next those not tariffed in the same order. The Governor General in Council approves of this suggestion in the Abstract, but, to carry it out consistently with the revised classification of principal articles, it is necessary that, (with one exception, viz., Cotton Goods,) each division or head in the Classified List should, as far as practicable, consist exclusively of tariffed or of untariffed goods. This is not the case at present.

33. In the accompanying Return No. 25, the principal articles forming divisions and heads in the Revised List, No. 24, are arranged in classes of tariffed and not tariffed, with an entry in italics of those heads under tariffed which include some articles not tariffed, and of those heads under not tariffed which include some that are tariffed. The preponderance of tariffed or not tariffed articles under a head or division has guided the insertion of such head in the tariffed or not tariffed column.

34. The numerous entries in italics shew that, without bringing more articles on the Tariff under certain divisions or heads where some are already tariffed, or, on the other hand, of removing from the Tariff some articles now on the list which are of no importance, the two classes of goods cannot be conveniently separated in the Trade Returns, and the Government of India will await any suggestions of the Local Governments and of the Chief Commissioner, British Burmah, on this subject.

35. On receipt of these suggestions, the revised list of principal articles, No. 24, will be rearranged, if necessary, under tariffed and not tariffed; and meanwhile its present arrangement is to be observed by the Chief Customs Authority at each Presidency in the Returns for the Financial Department.

36. Besides the monthly Returns prescribed in paragraphs 4 and 13 to 15 for submission to the Financial Department within the time prescribed in paragraph 4 of this Resolution, the Chief Customs Authority in each Presidency or Province should forward to the Financial Department, through the proper channel, a Return of the duty collected monthly on each article of export or import at each Port of such Presidency. The countries from which the articles are imported or whither they are exported need not be specified, the total duty collected on each article in the month need only be given; and with regard to articles which are grouped in the Classified List, under divisions, heads and sub-heads, the duty need be given only in the totals corresponding to those prescribed in paragraph 27 of this Resolution for shewing the trade in those articles.

37. A Return in the accompanying Form No. 26 of the refunds and drawbacks paid monthly at each Port in a Presidency, and of the description and value of the goods on which they were paid, should also be furnished to the Financial Department.

38. The Local Governments administering Territories that have a sea-borne Trade are also requested to cause the Financial Department to be supplied with the Price Curent which may be generally accepted as the standard authority or as a reliable authority for prices in the chief Port or Ports under their control.

39. From the monthly Returns of Trade and Navigation, of duty realised, and of refunds and drawbacks paid the Financial Department will prepare and publish an Annual Return of the Trade and Navigation of British India. The arrangement of the Volume will be similar to that of the Annual Return of the Trade and Navigation of the United Kingdom, and it will contain the Tables of information detailed in Appendix A. attached to this Resolution.

40. The monthly Returns now prescribed are to be furnished from the 1st May 1866. With regard to the comparison which they prescribe between the figures for each current year and for the two preceding years, the Governor General in Council is aware that the existing compilations of the Custom Houses must be re-cast if the comparison is to embrace any periods before the introduction of the Rreturns now ordered. The Local Governments and the Chief Commissioner, British Burmah, are requested to consider whether this can be done gradually without much expense or inconvenience.

41. For Financial Statistics, the Committee propose the publication of an Annual Volume of Statistics for several years, and of other Monthly, Quarterly, and Annual Returns relating to the estimates and accounts of the current year, or of that last completed. In the Annual Volume and the Quarterly Return the Committee would include statistics of the Railways in India under heads of information which are set forth in an Appendix to their Report. Orders on this point will be issued separately, it being left for decision in the Public Works Department what statistics of Railways may be conveniently published quarterly, and what others may be usefully included in the Annual Volume of Financial Statistics.

42. The Committee propose that the following Annual, Quarterly, and Monthly Returns of current Financial Statistics should be published or be otherwise made available for the public, viz :—

ANNUAL.

1.—Budget Estimate of Revenues and Charges,

A.—In the Abstract Form appended to the Annual Financial Statements, shewing Revenues and Charges of India, in totals for India only, and giving a detail of the Estimate of Home Charges.

B.—In detail of Presidencies and Provinces, as now prepared for submission to Parliament.

2.—The Regular Estimate of the Receipts and Charges of the current year, as prepared for transmission to the Secretary of State.

3.—The annual Receipts and Disbursements of the year last completed, forming the Finance and Revenue accounts which are submitted to Parliament.

QUARTERLY.

4.—Comparative Statement of Income and Expenditure for the expired Quarters of the current year, and for corresponding Quarters of the previous year, giving totals for India only.

5.—Similar Returns comparing the receipts from Stamps for the same periods in each Presidency and Province.

MONTHLY.

6.—Cash Balance in each Presidency and Province at the end of the month last expired and on the same date in the two preceding years.

7.—A Statement of Silver received and coined in the Mints of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay.

8.—A Statement of the Note circulation, and the reserve, in the Currency Department, in the several Circles in the Presidencies of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay.

43. As observed by the Committee, the Returns Nos. 5 to 8 and 1 A are already published in India in the Gazette. The Annual Returns, 1 B, 2, and 3 are also published by Parliament; but, as recommended by the Committee, arrangements will be made for supplying copies of them to the Press, and to the Chambers of Commerce and their office bearers, and for the sale of other copies at cost price.

44. The Quarterly Statement No. 4 has not been published hitherto owing to defects in the system of Indian accounts; but as they have now been removed by the adoption of the recommendations of the English Commissioners of Inquiry into those accounts, the Governor General in Council is pleased to direct that a Quarterly account of the Revenues and Rreceipts, and of the Charges and Payments in India, be published by the Central Office of Accounts.

45. The heads of information on the following subjects, viz :—

1.—Revenues and Charges of India, and of the several Presidencies and Provinces.

2.—Cash Requirements.

3.—Local Funds.

which are proposed by the Committee for the Annual volume of Financial statistics, are approved, and the arrangement of them, which is set forth in Appendix B., will be followed in the Annual volume. The Forms of the Tables are adapted for any number of years' statistics, but it is not necessary to state at present how many years' statistics should be given in each volume.

46. The Governor General in Council desires to thank the Statistical Committee for the excellent service they have performed in settling the Forms of the Trade and Navigation Returns and the series of Financial Statistics.

ORDER.—Ordered, that a copy of this Resolution and its Appendices, and copies of the Forms of Trade and Navigation Returns mentioned in it, be sent to Governments of Madras, Bombay, Bengal, and the Chief Commissioner, British Burmah, also to each present and former member of the Statistical Committee.

Also that a copy of this Resolution and its Appendices be sent to the other Local Governments and Administrations.

Also that a copy be sent to the Public Works Department for information and with reference to paragraph 41 of the Resolution.

Also that a copy be sent to the Foreign, Home, and Military Departments.

Also that the Resolution and its Appendices be published in the Gazette of India.

The following Memorandum received from the Government of India in the Financial Department is published for general information :—

Office Memorandum from the Financial Department, No. 1921, dated Simla, the 16*th August* 1865.

Referring to Memorandum from this Department, No. 618, dated 3rd June 1865, the undersigned is directed to observe that in a communication* from the Punjab Government, No. 1490, dated 20th July, that Government agreed to pay the Chowkeydar for the Cemetery at Murdan from Local Funds, and stated that the pay of the two Chowkeydars at Goojerat and Chilhanwalla will be charged to Local Funds from 1866-67.

* Vide copy annexed.

Subsequent to the receipt of this communication a Resolution was passed in the Public Works Department, No. 658A., dated 22nd July 1865, laying down (see paragraphs 7 and 8 of the copy herewith sent) that Local Funds should not be employed in the construction or improvement of churches, or in works which only concern a small portion of the community amongst whom the Local Funds are raised.

The above appears to this Department to be a correct and sound principle, and, in conformity therewith, the Imperial Revenues should bear the cost of all cemeteries in actual use, and also the cost of the preservation, in decent order, of all burial grounds like Goojerat and Chillianwalla. These may be said to be national monuments, the care of which may be properly borne by the State. Single graves, or the few graves on encamping grounds, may be conveniently made over to the nearest village authorities without any additional expense to Government.

Local and Municipal Funds should only be employed for those purposes in which the general body of the persons from whom they have been collected will benefit. The cost of objects for the use or advantage of particular sections of the community should be raised by voluntary subscription, or, if the Government see fit, by a grant from the Imperial Revenues.

In accordance with these views, it is requested that the necessary instructions may be issued from the Home Department for rescinding the orders sanctioning the payment of a Chowkeydar for the Murdan Cemetery out of Local Funds and for the charge being undertaken by the State.

Secretary to the Government of India.

and so on, Rs 100 being added to the deposit for every additional Rs 400 bid.

6. The Promissory Notes taken on the day of sale under the last mentioned condition, if remaining unredeemed at 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be placed in the hands of the Solicitor to the Government for realization in such manner as to him shall seem fit.

7. No tender of money, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Public Securities on account of Opium, upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be afterwards accepted.

8. The Opium now advertised for sale shall be paid for within fifteen clear days from the day of sale, and in case any lots of such Opium shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the Cash Deposit made under the fifth condition, or any Public Securities that may have been deposited on account of such lots or Chests, shall be forfeited, and the Opium shall be disposed of on account of Government at such time, and in such manner, as the Board of Revenue shall think fit, and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the Opium was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale.

9. Purchasers taking out Certificates or Orders for the delivery of Opium after making full payment as above prescribed, shall have the option of naming the number of lots of their purchase, which they may desire to be included in each Certificate or Order, and it is to be clearly understood that the Certificates or Orders so taken out shall be considered final, and not afterwards changeable for other Certificates or Orders authorizing the delivery of single lots or of a different number of lots or Chests, whether in more or less than the number of lots or Chests originally required to be included in each Certificate or Order.

10. No deposit of Public Securities under the fifth of the present condition will be received in this Office, except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the Sale Book, or his authorized Agent. The Receipt for deposit of Public Securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the Securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

11. The Officer superintending the sale on the part of the Board of Revenue is empowered to reject, at his discretion, the bid of any individual unless such individual shall, on demand, tender at the time a deposit either in Government of India Notes, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Government Securities a sum equal to the amount, for which a Promissory Note would otherwise be taken under the fifth of these conditions.

12. With a view to prevent fictitious bidings designed to obstruct the sale, it is hereby notified that the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall be competent, at any time during the sale, to withdraw any unsold lot and immediately to put it up again for sale at a maximum upset price, diminishing the same gradually until a bid is obtained, and the first bonâ fide bidder for a lot after it has been offered for sale in the mode here described, shall be held and declared to be the purchaser of the said lot, and the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall also be competent to dispose in the same manner of as many of the subsequent lots as he may think proper, provided always that no lot shall be sold below the minimum price of 800 Rupees specified in the second of these conditions.

13. The purchaser of any lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession at the same price and under the same conditions any number of lots of the same Agency Opium not exceeding altogether twenty-five lots; provided always that there remain a sufficient number of lots of the Opium to complete the said twenty-five.

14. In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the Opium included in this Notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall and may be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

15. The following papers will be exhibited for inspection on the day of sale, or may be seen previously to that date by application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue:—

No. 1.—Certificate of the Opium advertized for sale.

No. 2.—Report of the examination of such Opium.

16. The Public are hereby informed that, in providing the investment of the Behar and Benares Opium for the year 1864-65, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years, to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the Cakes, and to have the due proportion of Opium put into each Cake. An account of the weight of the drug when packed at Behar and Benares, and a Statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken for the purpose of comparison from the dispatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue.

17. Any further information respecting weight or quality of the Opium advertized for sale that may be desired by parties connected with the trade will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on application at the Office of the Board of Revenue, but, in accordance with established usage, under no circumstances will the Board entertain or recognize any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of Opium, or adulteration of the drug which may be preferred on reference to chests after the sale and delivery of the Opium for shipment.

18. It is hereby further notified that, under the 6th Article of the Convention between Great Britain and France, dated the 7th March 1815, quoted below, the Agents in India of the French Government, or persons duly appointed by them, are entitled to demand that, out of the quantities of Behar and Benares Opium declared as above for sale at the twelve sales of the year 1866, there shall be delivered to them at the average of the particular sale or sales to which the Opium so applied for may belong, a quantity not exceeding in the aggregate 300 chests, and the Agents of the French Government must make requisition specifying the quantity of Opium required by them at any particular sale within thirty days from the advertisement of such intended sale, provided, however, that the Agents of the French Government may make such requisition for the whole quantity within thirty days from the publication of this Notification. If the Agents of the French Government shall not make the requisition for Opium within the time above-mentioned the entire quantity of about 40,000 Chests of Behar and Banares, as above estimated, will be brought to sale in the usual manner, and if they shall make application for quantity of Opium to be delivered to them out of the quantity advertised for sale at each or any of the twelve sales above-mentioned, but shall not pay for it within the prescribed period of payment, the Government of Bengal reserves to itself the right of disposing of the Opium which the French authorities may so fail to pay for, either by increasing the quantity reserved at the sale next ensuing the date of payment, or by selling it at a sale to be held expressly for the purpose.

Behar ...	24,000
Benares ...	16,000
	40,000

Article of the Convention above referred to.—

Article 6th.—"With regard to the Trade in "Opium, it is agreed between the high contracting parties that each of the periodical sales of "that article, there shall be reserved for the "French Government, and delivered upon requisition duly made by the Agents of His Most "Christian Majesty, or by the persons duly "appointed by them, the number of Chests so "applied for, provided that such supply shall not "exceed three hundred Chests in each year, and "the price for the same shall be determined by "the average rate at which Opium shall have "been sold at every such periodical sale, it being "understood that, if the quantity of Opium "applied for at any one time shall not be taken "on account of the French Government by the "Agents of His Most Christian Majesty within "the usual period of delivery, the quantity so "applied for shall nevertheless be considered as so "much in reduction of the three hundred Chests "herein-before-mentioned. The requisitions for "Opium as aforesaid are to be addressed to the "Governor General at Calcutta within thirty "days after notice of the intended sales shall "have been published in the Government Gazette."

Dhappa;
Toll Collector's Office,
The 1*st November* 1865.

J. F. Galiffe,
Collector of Tolls and Supervisor of Canals.

The following series of Bye-Laws proposed for the Municipality of Chittagong is published for general information.

1. The Municipal Commissioners may assign to any highway the name by which such highway is to be known, and may cause such name to be put up or painted on a conspicuous part of any house, wall, or building or other place in such highway, and no person shall destroy, pull down, or efface such name, or put up any name different from that put up by order of the Commissioners.

2. The Municipal Commissioners may cause a number to be affixed on a conspicuous place on the outer side of any house or building, or at the entrance of the enclosure thereof fronting any highway, and no person shall destroy, efface, or pull down such number, or put up a different number.

3. No person shall tether, or cause to be tethered, or allow to stray, on any public highway any cattle, goats, or other animals, nor shall any person let loose, or allow to get loose, any diseased or worn-out animal in any place whence it can escape into any highway or other public place. No elephant shall, between the hours of 4 and 8 in the evening, be taken along the thoroughfares ordinarily used for driving and which the Commissioners shall, for the purpose of this rule, from time to time notify, and no pigs shall be let loose or kept otherwise than in closed pens.

4. No person shall, within the limit of the Municipality, dig any tank, pond, or other excavation whatever, excepting graves, watercourses, and wells, without the permission, in writing, of the Commissioners, who shall have power to prescribe the place and manner of making such excavations.

5. No person shall, without the permission of the Commissioners, set up any obstruction in any nullah or watercourse which it may be necessary to keep clear and unobstructed for purposes of public drainage and conservancy; and the Municipal Commissioners shall have power to remove any such obstruction, and the expense of such removal shall be paid by the person erecting the same, and shall be recoverable as a debt due to the Commissioners.

6. The owner or occupier of any part of the bank of any such nullah or water course shall be bound to keep it free from filth, dense vegetation, or other nuisance or obstruction, and shall at all times allow the Commissioners, or any of their servants duly authorised, to have access to such nullah or watercourse for any purpose of public conservancy.

Bye-Laws proposed by the Municipal Commissioner appointed for the Town of Burdwan and its Suburbs under Section 84 of Act III. of 1864.

1. Each quarterly instalment of the rate and taxes mentioned in the Act shall be considered to have become due at the commencement of the quarter on account of which each instalment is payable, and may be levied at any time after the commencement of each quarter, that is to say—

The instalment payable on account of the quarter ending ...	31st July ...	May be levied on and after...	1st May
	„ Oct. ...		1st Aug.
	„ Jan. ...		1st Nov.
	30th April...		1st Feb.

2. The external roofs and walls of any hut or any other building whatever about to be erected or renewed on or near any public highway, shall not be made of grass, leaves, mats or any other inflammable material, unless with express permission of Municipal Commissioners.

3. No person shall dig or make or cause to be dug or made in any place within the Burdwan Municipal Circle, any tank, pond, ditch, hole, or other excavation without the sanction of the Municipal Commissioners, and any person so offending shall within seven days from date of receiving an order from any Municipal Commissioner, fill or cause to be filled, any tank, pond, ditch, hole, or other excavation dug or made by him.

4. The Municipal Commissioners may cause to be put up or pointed on a conspicuous part of any house, building, wall, or place in any highway the name by which such highway is to be known, and no person shall destroy, pull down, or deface any such name or put up any name different from that put up by order of the Commissioners.

5. The Municipal Commissioners may fix a number on a conspicuous place on the outer side of any house or building, or at the entrance of the enclosure thereof fronting any highway, and no person shall destroy, pull down, or deface any such number.

6. No person shall cut grass on any public highway, being the property of the Municipal Commissioners.

7. No person shall tether cattle, goats or other animals or cause them to be tethered or cause or allow any cattle to stray for the purpose of grazing on the side of any public highway.

8. Every person within whose premises any animal may die, shall within two hours after its death either remove at his own expense the carcass to such place as may be set apart by the Municipal Commissioners for the reception of such carcass, or report its death to the Conservancy Overseer and in such latter case shall pay to the said Overseer the expense of removing the carcass at such rate as the Commissioners may determine, and in cases where the said person is not the owner of the animal, and the owner is known, the owner shall alone be responsible for the payment of such expense, and such expense shall be recoverable as a debt due to the Commissioners.

9. No person (after warning from any of the Municipal Commissioners) shall allow any pigs to be at large or keep them otherwise than in closed pens.

10. No person shall suffer any offensive matter from any manufactory or place of business, or cooking-house, or stable to flow into any river, nullah, canal, tank or surface drain.

11. All dust, dirt and rubbish of any kind, the removal of which is undertaken by the Municipal Commissioners, shall be deposited on the side of the road, and not more than five yards from the entrance of the premises from which it has come, every morning between the hours of 4 A. M. and 7 A. M.

12. No refuse resulting from any business, trade, or profession shall be removed by the Municipal Commissioners except on payment for removal at such rate as the Commissioners may determine, and any expense incurred on this account shall be recoverable as a debt due to the Municipal Commissioners. No such refuse shall be deposited on any highway without permission from the Commissioners.

13. All dirt, dust, ashes, rubbish, sewerage, soil, dung and filth collected from the highways, houses, premises, sewers and cesspools by the Municipal Commissioners shall be the property of the Municipal Commissioners who shall have power to sell or dispose of the same as they may think proper, and the money arising from the sale thereof shall be applied to the purposes of the District Municipal Improvement Act.

14. No person shall, in any way, obstruct or allow to be obstructed, any of the lanes, walks, bye-ways, or other thoroughfares in any bazar by exposing for sale or accumulating or allowing to be exposed for sale or to be accumulated on any such lane, walk, bye-way or thoroughfare any package or any other materials whatever.

15. No person shall keep any cattle or conveyance of any kind standing on any public highway longer than is required for loading or unloading, or for taking up or setting down passengers, or shall clean any such cattle or conveyance on any public highway in such a manner as to be likely to cause inconvenience or danger to the public.

16. No person shall, after dark and during the night, drive any vehicle not bearing two conspicuous lanterns, provided that, for a cart or hackery, one lantern will be sufficient if raised high enough to be conspicuous on the front and rear.

17. Every owner, occupier, or farmer of any bazar shall, within fourteen days, after he shall have notice from the Municipal Commissioners so to do, provide such lanterns and urinals as in the opinion of the Commissioners may be necessary for the cleanliness and health of such bazar.

18. No person, occupier, or farmer of any bazar or shop shall sell or expose for sale, or permit to be sold, or exposed for sale, or admit into, or permit to remain in any bazar or shop any offensive meat or fish or decomposed vegetable matter, and every such owner, occupier, or farmer shall, without any delay cause any such meat, fish or vegetable matter to be at once removed to a place to be notified to him by the Municipal Commissioners. No such owner, occupier or farmer shall obstruct any person appointed by the Commissioners for that purpose from entering and inspecting any such premises at any time before sunrise and sunset.

19. No person suffering from any contagious disease shall bathe in any bathing place save in such a place as shall be set apart for that purpose by the Municipal Commissioners.

20. No person shall throw or cause to be thrown any corpse or carcass or any part of a corpse or carcass upon any ground or into any river, nullah, canal, drain or tank.

21. No person shall bury or cause to be buried any corpse in any burial ground in a grave constructed of masonry in such manner that the corpse or coffin shall be at a less depth than four feet from the surface ground.

22. No person shall bury or cause to be buried in any burial ground any corpse in a grave not constructed of masonry which shall be less than six feet deep.

23. No person shall build or dig, or cause to be built or dug any grave in any burial ground at a less distance than four feet from any other existing grave.

24. No person shall build or dig, or cause to be built or dug a grave in any burial ground in any other line than that marked out by the Municipal Commissioners.

25. No grave once used shall be opened for burial of another body without the premission of the Municipal Commissioners

26. No person, when burning or causing to be burnt any corpse or part of a corpse in any burning ground, shall permit the same or any part thereof to remain without being completely reduced to ashes, or shall permit the clothes or other articles connected with the burning of such corpse to remain at or near such burning ground, unless the same be completely reduced to ashes.

27. Every person who shall bring or convey or cause to be brought or conveyed any corpse or part thereof to any burning ground, shall burn or cause the same to be burnt within four hours after its arrival at the said burning ground

28. No person shall committ any nuisance by easing himself on or near any road or public thoroughfare.

29. Every servant employed by the Municipal Commissioners shall be liable for any neglect of duty to fine or dismisal by order of the Chairman or a meeting of the Municipal Commissioners.

30. Every person who shall commit an infringement of any of the foregoing Bye-laws by doing an act prohibited by any such bye-law shall be liable to a fine not exceeding the limits laid down in the scale hereto annexed :—

BURDWAN,
The 14th October 1865.

G. TAYLOR,
Chairman of the Municipal Commissioners of Burdwan.

Darjeeling Municipality.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal having, under the provisions of Section 85, Act III. (B.C.) of 1864, approved and confirmed the following Bye-Laws proposed by the Municipal Commissioners for the Town of Darjeeling they are hereby published for general information : —

RULES for regulating the time and mode of collecting the rate and taxes mentioned in the Act.

1. Each quarterly instalment of the rate and taxes mentioned in the Act shall be considered to have become due at the commencement of the quarter on account of which such instalment is payable and may be levied at any time after the commencement of such quarter, that is to say,—

The instalment payable on account of the quarter ending		May be levied on and after
	31st July		1st May
	31st Oct.		1st Aug
	31st Jan		1st Nov
	30th April		1st Feb.

2 The collection of the rate and taxes mentioned in the Act shall be superintended by an Officer appointed for the purpose by the Municipal Commissioners in the manner hereinafter described; such Officer shall be remunerated either by salary or commission according as the Commissioners shall direct. In case of remuneration by salary the Commissioners shall fix the amount of such salary and they shall provide and maintain at their own expense a Subordinate Establishment sufficient for the purpose of making the collections. In case of remuneration by commission such commission shall be payable on all sums collected on account of the aforesaid rate and taxes and paid into the hands of the Officer appointed to receive the same and shall be calculated at such rate per cent. on such sums as the Commissioners may from time to time fix in consideration of such payment, the collecting Officer shall provide and maintain at his own expense an Establishment sufficient for the purpose of making the collections, and shall be responsible for all sums collected and received by any person on that Establishment; he shall, moreover, give security for the due performance of the duties of his office to such an amount as the Commissioners may from time to time fix and determine; and he shall be in all respects bound by, and amenable to, the Laws hereinafter enacted, and to all other such Laws and Rules as may from time to time be duly enacted and made for the regulation of the conduct of persons employed by the Commissioners in the same manner as if he were remunerated by salary.

3. The collecting Officer shall be furnished by the Commissioners with copies of the lists described in Sections 29 and 39 of the Act.

From these lists he shall cause to be prepared the bills prescribed by Section 44 of the Act in the Form A. contained in the Schedule hereto annexed and shall sign the same, the bills so prepared and signed shall be issued to the subordinate Officers on the collecting Establishment, and shall be by them presented to the persons named therein in the manner hereinafter described.

4. The collecting Officer shall keep separate Registers of all bills issued by him for sums due on account of the rate and on account of each of the different descriptions of taxes leviable under the Act; in these Registers he shall enter the date of each bill, the name of the person liable, the period for which the sum is due, the amount of that sum, and the name of the subordinate Officer to whom the bill was issued. On receipt of the amount of any bill the entry in the Register referring thereto shall be scored through.

5. Every bill for any sum due on account of the rate or taxes leviable under the Act shall always, when possible, be presented to the individual named therein in person; but if such personal presentation be found impossible the bill shall be left at his place of ordinary residence in the hands of some male member of his family, or of one of his servants, and a bill so left shall be deemed to have been presented within the meaning of the Act.

6. Should presentation of any such bill in any of the Forms above described be found impossible, the subordinate Officer to whom the bill shall have been issued shall return it to the collecting Officer with a certificate endorsed thereon to the effect that presentation has been found impossible.

7. The subordinate Officer to whom a bill may be issued for presentation shall receive the amount of such bill at the time of presentation, or at any time within ten days from the date on which the bill shall have been first presented by him, and shall pay the amount so received to the collecting Officer without delay.

8. If the amount of any bill issued by the collecting Officer shall not have been received by him, or if such bill shall not have been returned with the certificate above described duly endorsed thereon within fifteen days after issue, he shall call upon the subordinate Officer to whom it was issued for an explanation of the cause of delay in realizing the amount or in returning the bill, and if it shall appear from such explanation that the bill has been presented in any of the modes above described, and that the amount has not been paid within ten days after presentation, or that presentation in any of those modes has been found impossible the collecting Officer shall then make application to the Municipal Commissioners with a view to the recovery of the amount in the manner prescribed by the 45th and following Sections of the Act.

9. The collecting Officer shall pay daily into the hands of the Cashier of the Magistrate and Collector's Office, or such other person as may from time to time be nominated by the Commissioners for the purpose of receiving them, all sums collected in the course of the day and shall take his receipt for the same.

10. In addition to the Registers above described the collecting Officer shall keep such other books, and he shall make such reports and furnish such returns as may from time to time be prescribed by the Commissioners.

Rules for the regulation of the conduct of persons employed by the Commissioners.

11. All persons appointed to any office under the Municipal Commissioners shall, in the absence of any specific engagement to the contrary by accepting such appointment, be held to have acknowledged themselves to be amenable to the Rules hereinafter contained and to all such Rules as may from time to time be passed by the Commissioners for the regulation of the conduct of persons employed by them.

12. All persons employed by the Commissioners on their fixed establishment whose services may be no longer required shall be at all times liable to discharge after receipt of previous notice for the period of one month, and no such person shall withdraw from the duties of his office without having given previous notice for the period of one month.

13. All persons now holding, or who may hereafter be appointed to, any office under the Municipal Commissioners shall, when requested so to do, furnish security to such amount as the Commissioners may from time to time fix, and any person failing to furnish such security within reasonable time, or within such time as the Commissioners may appoint, shall be held to have thereby forfeited his appointment and may be removed from office.

14. Whenever it shall be proved to the satisfaction of the Commissioners that any person in their employ has been guilty of any violation of duty, or wilful breach or neglect of any rule, regulation, or order made or given by competent authority, or has withdrawn from the duties of his office without permission, or without having given previous notice for the period of one month, or has done any act by the performance of which, or has omitted to do any act by the non-performance of which, the Commissioners shall have suffered, or may have incurred the risk of suffering loss or injury, or has failed to perform any duty with all due diligence, or has been guilty of any act of insubordination towards any superior Officer, or has accepted or obtained, or agreed to accept or attempted to obtain, from any person, for himself, or for any other person, any gratification whatever other than authorized remuneration in respect of any official act, or has, in his official capacity, given any information which he knows or believes to be false, or has committed any offence punishable under the Indian Penal Code, such person shall be liable to punishment by fine not exceeding three months' pay, or by suspension from office for such period as the Commissioners may fix, or by summary dismissal from his situation, in addition to any penalty to which he may be liable under the provisions of the Penal Code. Any person so dismissed shall forfeit all pay and allowances which may be due to him at the time of such dismissal.

15. Nothing herein contained shall be held to debar the Commissioners from instituting proceedings in any Civil Court having jurisdiction against any person being or having been in their employ with a view to the recovery of damages for any loss or injury which they may consider themselves to have sustained in consequence of any act done or omitted to be done by such person.

Rules for the management of matters connected with Conservancy.

16. Every owner, farmer, or occupier of a market or shop for the sale of butcher's meat, fish, fruit, or vegetables shall keep the same in a clean and proper state, and no food shall be sold or exposed for sale which is in such a state as to be unfit for consumption.

17. Every owner, farmer, or occupier of any such market or shop shall admit, at all reasonable hours, any person authorized by the Commissioners to enter and inspect the same.

18. No person shall throw, or cause to be thrown, any corpse or any part thereof into any river, nullah, or ravine, or into any forest or other waste land, or shall dispose or cause to be disposed of any corpse or any part thereof, otherwise than by burning or burying the same at or in some lawful burning or burying ground.

19. Every person who shall bring or convey, or cause to be brought or conveyed to any burying or burning ground, any corpse or any part thereof shall bury or burn it, or cause it to be buried or burnt, within four hours after arrival at the said burying or burning ground.

20. No person who may burn, or cause to be burnt at any burning ground, any corpse, or part of a corpse shall permit the same or any part thereof to remain without being completely reduced to ashes, or to be removed before it shall have been so reduced.

21. No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, any corpse, or any part of a corpse, in any grave constructed of masonry in such manner that the top of coffin, or body where there is no coffin used, shall be at a depth less than three feet from the surface ground.

22. No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, any corpse, or part of a corpse in a grave not constructed of masonry the depth of which grave shall be less than six feet from the surface ground.

23. No person shall dig or construct a grave at a distance less than two feet from any other existing grave.

24. No person shall throw, or cause to be thrown, any carcass, or any part thereof into any river, nullah, or ravine, or on any forest or other waste land within certain defined limits, or on any place other than such places as may, from time to time, be appointed by the Commissioners for the purpose of receiving such carcasses.

25. Every person within whose premises any animal may die shall, within two hours of its death, either remove the carcass at his own expense to such place as may be appointed by the Commissioners for the reception of such carcasses, or report its death to the Conservancy Overseer of the Division within which those premises may be situated, and in the latter case shall pay to the said Overseer the expense of removing the carcass at such rate as the Commissioners may from time to time determine.

26. Every person to whom a license for keeping a necessary for public accommodation may be granted by the Commissioners under the 69th Section of the Act shall construct such necessary in such manner and such out-offices and appurtenances as the Commissioners may, from time to time, prescribe; any such person refusing or neglecting so to construct such necessary, or to make such alterations in and additions to it as the Commissioners may at any time direct within a reasonable time, or within such time as the Commissioners may appoint, shall be held to have forfeited his license and such license may be withdrawn.

27. Every license granted by the Commissioners under the 69th Section of the Act shall contain a specification of the boundaries of the Section of the Town for the use of the inhabitants of which the necessary referred to in such license shall be constructed, and the person to whom such license may be granted shall be required to provide such accommodation as the Commissioners may consider sufficient for the use of the inhabitants of such Section.

28. All persons to whom license for keeping public necessaries may be granted shall dispose of therefrom in such manner as the Commissioners may from time to time direct and not otherwise.

29. All persons to whom such license may be granted shall be bound to obey such orders and to be guided by such Rules as may from time to time be made and promulgated by the Commissioners under penalty of the forfeiture of their licenses.

30. All dust, dirt, and rubbish of every kind intended for removal by the conservancy carts shall be deposited by the side of the road near the entrance of the premises from which it may have been conveyed between the hours of 4 and 8 A. M. on every day in the week except Sunday, on which day no rubbish shall be so deposited.

31. The external walls and roofs of huts or other buildings about to be erected or renewed in or near any public highway shall not be made of grass, leaves, mats, or any other such inflammable materials; any person doing or causing to be done any act in contravention of this rule shall be liable to the penalty prescribed for offences against the Bye-Laws passed by the Commissioners.

32. No person shall put on any wall, or on any roof of a house, or on any bank or tree, or on any other place or thing facing any road or public place any preparation of dung to be used as fuel or for any other purpose.

33. No person shall build, or cause to be built, or keep any tattee, privy, or urinal within twenty yards of any public road or street except with the special permission of the Commissioners.

34. No person shall put, or cause to be put, on any house or other building any spout or other thing intended for the conveyance and discharge of water which shall be so placed that the water discharged therefrom shall be thrown or fall upon any public road or thoroughfare.

35. No person shall let loose, or allow to be let loose, any diseased or worn-out animal into any public place or into any place from which such animal can escape into any public place.

36. No person shall allow any pigs to be at large, or shall keep them otherwise than in closed styes within certain boundaries defined by the Municipal Commissioners.

37. No person shall deposit, or cause to be deposited, or allow to remain in or by the side of any public drain, any substance, article, or thing whereby the said drain is, or may be, in any way obstructed.

38. No person shall construct or place over or by the side of any public drain any bridge, platform, building, or structure of any kind except by and with the written permission of the Commissioners and in such manner as they shall direct.

39. No person shall suffer cattle to stray on any public road, or drive them loose upon any such road except when travelling from place to place.

40. No person shall quarry stone or make any excavation within twenty yards of any public road without the sanction in writing of the Municipal Commissioners.

41. No person shall keep a slaughter or piggery or cow house or stable in any place considered by the Commissioners to be objectionable, and all people killing cattle for public consumption shall be compelled to use the slaughter-house unless they obtain exemption from the Municipal Commissioners.

42. No person shall beg on or near any public road, or expose sores for the purpose of exciting charity.

43. No person shall gamble with cards, dice, counters, money, or other instruments of gaming in any shop where spirituous or fermented liquors or intoxicating drugs are sold, or in any house, room or place kept as a common gaming house, or in any public street, place or thoroughfare, or keep any house, room or place as a common gaming house.

44. With a view to provide a fund for paying the cost of conserving the Goom range, a fee of four annas a month will be charged, from the 1st August 1865, on each wood-cutter, and one Rupee on each charcoal burner carrying on his business in the station of Darjeeling, each person on payment of the above sum to be furnished with a badge.

45. Every person who shall commit within the limits of the station of Darjeeling an offence against any of the foregoing Bye-Laws by doing any act prohibited, or by neglecting to do any act directed to be done by such Bye-Laws, shall be punished by fine not exceeding twenty Rupees, and in case of his continuing such offence after notice from the Commissioners such person shall be liable to a further penalty not exceeding five Rupees for every day after such notice during which such offence is continued.

(Sd.) B. T. REID, Major,
Chairman, Municipal Committee,
Darjeeling.

Bye-Laws for the Town of Jessore proposed to be adopted under Section 84 of Act III. (B. C.) of 1864.

I.—Regarding servants and others employed by the Commissioners.

RULE 1.—ALL persons appointed in writing or otherwise to any office under the Municipal Commissioners, whether payable by salary or commission, shall, by accepting such appointment, be held to have acknowledged themselves to be amenable to the Rules hereinafter contained, and to all such Rules as may from time to time be passed by the Commissioners for the Regulation of the conduct of persons employed by them.

RULE 2.—All persons employed by the Commissioners whose services may be no longer required shall at all times be liable to discharge after receipt of previous notice for the period of one month, or of one month's salary, and no such person shall withdraw from the duties of his office without having given previous notice for the period of one month, or forfeiture of one month's salary.

RULE 3.—All persons now holding, or who may hereafter be appointed to, any office under the Commissioners shall, when required so to do, furnish security to such amount as the Commissioners may from time to time fix, and any person failing to furnish such security within reasonable time, or within such time as the Commissioners may appoint, shall be held to have thereby forfeited his appointment and may be removed from office.

RULE 4.—Breach or any neglect of duty on the part of any persons employed under the Commissioners may be punished as described in classified List of offences which will hereafter be published as an annexure to these Bye-Laws irrespectively of any penalty to which such person may be liable under any Law. Provided that no fine inflicted under this Rule shall exceed one month's salary, or commission of the person so fined.

RULE 5.—Nothing herein contained shall be held to debar the Commissioners from instituting proceedings in any Civil Court having jurisdiction against any such person being, or having been, in their employ, with a view to the recovery of damages for any loss or injury which they may consider themselves to have sustained in consequence of any act done, or intended to be done, by such person.

II.—Collection of Tax.

RULE 6.—The House Tax shall be held to be due on the first day of each quarter and may be levied at any time after such date. That is, the Tax for the 1st Quarter is due on the 1st of May; for the 2nd Quarter is due on the 1st of August; for the 3rd Quarter is due on the 1st of November; for the 4th Quarter is due on the 1st of February.

RULE 7.—When the name of any owner is not known it shall be sufficient to designate him in any notice or other proceeding under the Act as "the owner" of the property on which the rate is assessed without further description.

RULE 8.—The provisions of Section 81 of the District Municipal Improvement Act shall apply to bills presented for payment.

RULE 9.—Every person upon whom a notice has been served to furnish any such return as that provided in Section 29 of the District Municipal Improvement Act, shall furnish and send such return to the Office of the Commissioners within fifteen days from the day on which the said notice has been served, as prescribed in Section 81 of the said Act.

III.—Rules regarding Conservancy.

RULE 10.—No person shall tether or graze cattle, goats, or other animals, or cause them to be tethered, or cause or allow them to stray on any public highway, except with the permission of the Commissioners.

RULE 11.—No one shall erect any tatee, privy or urinal within ten feet of any public highway.

RULE 12.—No one shall keep any tatee, privy or urinal within ten feet of any public highway for more than ten days after notice to remove it shall have been given by the Commissioners.

RULE 13.—No one shall cause any water-spouts to throw any water on any public highway.

RULE 14.—No one shall perform any office of nature in any other place, not being privies in private premises, than such as may have been appointed by the Commissioners, provided that such places have been set apart by the Commissioners.

RULE 15.—No one shall expose for sale for the purpose of being used as food or drink any article unfit for such purpose.

RULE 16.—No one shall keep a smith's forge, slaughter-house, piggery, butcher's shop, or conduct any of the trades mentioned in Section 77 of Act III. of 1864 in any place prohibited by the Commissioners.

RULE 17.—Every owner, occupier, or farmer of any market shall, within fourteen days after he shall have received notice from the Commissioners so to do, provide such places of retirement for the purposes of nature as, in the opinion of the Commissioners, may be necessary for cleanliness and health of the said market.

RULE 18.—No owner, occupier, or farmer of any such market shall sell or expose, or permit to be exposed for sale, or admit into, or permit to remain in, any such market any offensive meat, or fish, or decomposed vegetable matter, but such owner, occupier, or farmer must, without any delay, cause any such meat, fish, or vegetable matter to be at once removed to a place to be notified to him by the Commissioners.

RULE 19.—Every person within whose premises any animal may die shall, within three hours of its death, or if death occurs at night, within three hours after daylight, either remove at his own expense the carcass to such a place as may be set apart by the Commissioners for the reception of carcasses, or report its death to the Conservancy Overseer of the Division within which such premises may be situated, and in such latter case shall pay to the said Overseer the expense of removing the carcasses at such rate as the Commissioners may from time to time determine.

RULE 20.—After the issue of thirty days' notice by the Commissioners no person shall erect or renew external roofs or walls of huts or other buildings in or near any public highway of, or with grass, leaves, mats, or other inflammable materials.

RULE 21.—No person shall make, within the limits defined under Section 3 of Act III. of 1864, any excavation of more than three feet in depth (excepting graves, water-courses, or wells) without the written permission of the Commissioners, who shall have power to prescribe the place and manner of making such excavations.

RULE 22.—With reference to Section 55 of Act III. of 1864 the following Bye-Laws are prescribed. All rubbish, dirt, &c., intended for removal must be deposited daily on the side of the road between midnight and 8 A. M.

RULE 23.—No one shall burn or bury any corpse within the precincts of the town at any other place than those fixed under Act III. of 1864.

RULE 24. No one shall throw any corpse into the river within the precincts of the town as defined under Section 3, Act III. of 1864.

RULE 25.—No one shall throw, or cause to be thrown, any corpse or carcass, or any part of a corpse or carcass, upon any ground or into any river, nullah, canal, drain or tank.

RULE 26.—No one shall carry a corpse, or part of a corpse, through any highway unless it be decently covered and totally concealed from public view.

RULE 27.—No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, any corpse in any burial ground in the town of Jessore in a grave constructed of masonry except in such manner that coffin shall not be at a less depth than four feet from the surface of the ground.

RULE 28.—No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, in any such burial ground any corpse in a grave not constructed of masonry which shall be less than six feet deep.

RULE 29.—No person shall build, or cause to be built, a grave of masonry in any such burial ground at a less distance than two feet from any other existing grave.

RULE 30.—No person shall build or dig, or cause to be built or dug, a grave in any burial place in the said town in any other line than that especially marked out by the Commissioners for the purpose.

RULE 31.— No person when burning, or causing to be burnt, any corpse, or part of a corpse, in any burning ground within the said town shall permit the same, or any part thereof, to remain without being completely reduced to ashes, or to be removed until the same be so reduced.

RULE 32.—Any person who dies of small-pox shall be removed from the place in an hour after his death and all his clothes be burnt to ashes.

RULE 33 —Every person who shall bring or convey, or cause to be brought or conveyed, any corpse, or part thereof, to any burning ground within the said town, shall burn, or cause to be burnt, the same within six hours after its arrival at the said burning ground.

RULE 34.—No person shall, while carrying any corpse through the precincts laid down in Act III. of 1864, deposit the same on or near any public highway for the purpose of resting, or for any purpose.

RULE 35.—No one shall drive a vehicle, or carry or cause to be carried on darknights, without a light, such things as may do bodily injury to any person who may come in contact with them.

RULE 36.—The words "near any public highway," used in Act III. of 1864 and in these Bye-Laws, shall mean within ten yards from any boundary of highway.

RULE 37.—Every person who shall commit an infringement of any of the foregoing Bye-Laws by doing any act prohibited by any such Bye-Laws, or by neglecting to do any act directed to be done by such Bye-Laws, shall be liable to fine according to the scale laid down in the subjoined Table.

RULE 38.—Any person who has any suggestion or complaint to make on any subject within the scope or authority of the Commissioners, may do so in writing on unstamped paper, to be presented at the Office of the Commissioners on any day between the hours of 12 and 4.

IV.—Miscellaneous.

RULE 39.—The accounts of receipts and disbursements of each month shall be submitted to the Commissioners at the first meeting of the following month and a progress statement of works in hand shall be submitted to the Commissioners once a quarter.

RULE 40.—If any person is disposed to give a donation or periodical contribution for any purpose of public improvement within the scope of the Commissioners' authority, the same shall be received and carried to the credit of the Town Municipal Fund and appropriated at the discretion of the Commissioners according to the wish of the donor.

RULE 41.—Any person applying for the written permission of the Commissioners for any of the purposes specified in these Bye-Laws, shall have to pay a certain amount of fees, to be determined by the Commissioners, for every such permission not exceeding Rupees 20.

N. B.—Prizes in this Department will be awarded according to the excellence of the articles exhibited.

It is requested that intending competitors inform the Secretary to the Central Committee at Berhampore, or the Secretary to one of the District Committees, (which have been formed at Rampore Bauleah, Rungpore, Dinagepore, Maldah, Pubna and Bogra,) of their intention on or before January 1st 1866, giving a general description of the animals and articles which they propose to exhibit.

Printed cards, after having been filled in and signed by the Secretary, or a member of the Central or of one of the District Committees, will be given to intending Exhibitors; and without these cards no animal or article will be admitted into the Show-yard.

Information as to means of transport, &c., will be furnished by the Committees, and bond fide expenses of Exhibitors will be given at the discretion of the Committees.

To the Committees is reserved a right of rejection of animals and articles which do not appear worthy of exhibition, and there is also reserved a right of withholding prizes in those cases in which the best specimen exhibited does not appear worthy of a prize.

In many cases in which prizes are given open to competitors from the whole Division, and others to competitors from each District of the Division, it will happen that two prizes, viz., one Divisional and one District prize, will be adjudged to one specimen. In these cases one prize only may be taken, the owner of the specimen shall have his option, and the prize which he elects to decline shall be given to the Exhibitor of the specimen next in merit.

Arrangements will be made for the supply of fodder, &c. The Show-yard being in the immediate vicinity of the Gora Bazaar, no difficulty in regard to the supply of provisions can possibly be experienced.

Ground in the immediate vicinity of the Show-yard has been reserved for the encampment of those Native gentlemen who may desire it.

Extra prizes will be awarded to animals and aricles not enumerated in this list in all cases of extraordinary merit.

The latest dates for receipt in the Show-yard of specimens in the various Departments are detailed below:—

RULES.

1. Applications for Dawks should be addressed to Baboo Umirto Laul Banerjee, Head Clerk, Magistrate's Office, and should be dispatched so as to reach Purneah at least five days before the date on which the Dawk is required.

2. The amount due for the Dawk should be remitted in full in Bank Notes or by Money Order or Transfer Receipt with the Application, with 20 per cent. added for demurrage. This latter sum will be returned if no demurrage becomes due.

3. The Bearers will wait for a Dawk 24 hours from the time fixed. After which they will be available for other Dawks.

4. Travellers are particularly requested to write their names legibly.

5. Each Banghy Bearer will carry 30 seers of luggage; if more is given him, he will probably fail to keep up with the Palkee and the Traveller will be put to inconvenience.

6. Palkies can be supplied. It should be mentioned in the application whether they will be required or not. The charge for a Palkee is 10 Rupees for the whole journey.

7. Only three Dawks can be laid each day. Travellers may therefore be unable to proceed on the day they fix. Timely notice will be given in such cases and the Dawk will be laid on the day following.

8. Travellers are particularly requested to state the day and date on, and hour at, which they intend to leave to principal stages on the line.

No Applications will be attended to which do not comply with the above instructions.

SUPPLEMENT TO

The Calcutta Gazette.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1865.

OFFICIAL PAPERS.

A Supplement to the Gazette will henceforward be published, containing such Official Papers and Information as the Government of Bengal may deem to be of interest to the Public, and such as may usefully be made known.

Non-Subscribers to the Gazette may receive the Supplement separately on a payment of six Rupees per annum if delivered in Calcutta, or twelve Rupees if sent by Post.

No Official Orders or Notifications, the publication of which in the Gazette is required by Law, or which it has been customary to publish in the Gazette, will be included in the Supplement. For such Orders and Notifications the body of the Gazette must be looked to as heretofore.

Papers relative to the Trade and Port of Chittagong

From W. Gordon Young, Esq., Commissioner of the Chittagong Division, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No 45, dated the 8th September 1865.)

I have the honor to forward, for the Lieutenant-Governor's perusal, copy of a recent Report* from the Conservator of the Port of Chittagong on the trade and state of the Port during the year ending with the 30th April last.

* No. 61, dated 31st ultimo.

2. Perhaps His Honor may be pleased to cause the Report to be published in the Calcutta Gazette Supplement as on the last occasion.

3. With reference to paragraph 10 of the Report, I would suggest that the Marine Department be urged to carry out at once the proposed survey† of the channels leading to the Port, a work which is very necessary and which ought to have been effected last cold season. I have myself several times called attention to the subject, but as yet without apparent effect.

† See your endorsement No. 4991, dated 14th November 1864.

From H. J. Bamber, Esq., Collector of Customs and Conservator of the Port of Chittagong, to the Commissioner of the Chittagong Division —(No. 61, dated the 31st August 1865.)

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 34 of the 21st instant on the subject of the state and prospects of the trade of this Port, and in reply to make the following observations.

2. The principal articles of export during the year have been grain and cotton. The quantity of grain has exceeded the shipments of 1863-64 by 27,115 maunds, and there has been a very large increase in the Cotton Trade.

	1862-63	1863-64	1864-65
	Mds.	Mds.	Mds.
Grain	840,926	905,683	932,799
Cotton	4,369	7,887	12,070

3. The gross receipts on account of Customs duties are marginally noted, which shew a slight falling off in the Revenue, but this is only nominal, for several of the vessels of the year reported on, which cleared for Home Ports have returned from Foreign or External Ports and have paid duty on their arrival; the duty thus collected actually belongs to the year under review.

	Import.	Export	Total.
1862-63	9,547	54,627	64,174
1863-64	8,106	82,144	90,252
1864-65	6,168	82,428	88,596

4. The collections from Port Dues have considerably increased, and I am glad to be able to state that the current expenses of the Port have been less than the amount collected.

	Port Dues.	Mis.	Total.
1862-63	12,616	1,186	13,7 0
1863-64	12,995	984	13,979
1864-65	14,553	147	14,700

5. The gross Tonnage of the Port, inclusive of vessels to Narrainguge, has been 64,451 Tons, which is an improvement on former years. Out of these vessels forty-five did not belong to the Port, 26 of them were European Ships; this also is an increase on last year, when we had twenty-five vessels belonging to other Ports, sixteen of which were vessels from Europe.

	Square rigged Vessels and Steamers.	Country craft above 10 Tons.	Total number.	Tonnage.
1862-63 ..	300	324	624	54,999
1863-64 ..	290	486	776	56,093
1864-65 ...	307	632	939	64,451

6. The price of grain varied considerably during the season; the trade opened at rice from 1 Rupee 4 as. to 1 Rupee 10 as. per maund. The highest prices paid were from Rupees 2-4 to 3-0 per maund, and the last ships of the season got rice at a little lower rates: the price of paddy varied according to the price of rice. Four of the European Ships only partly loaded, having been called away to Akyab by Telegram. Rice was dear all over the country, which accounts for the rates at Chittagong being so much higher than the average of former years.

7. It may perhaps not be generally known that several Vessels are built at Chittagong yearly. I have therefore given a note in the margin. The Native Shipwrights are considered able workmen and would improve much under European superintendence. Jarrool wood at times is plentiful, but the Natives work it up before it is properly seasoned.

Number of Vessels built.

	Vessels.	Tons.
1862-63 ...	19	3,177
1863-64 ...	27	4,519

8. Iron buoys were substituted for the temporary wooden marks which were used last season. During the very strong currents some of the small buoys were carried under water, but before the busy season arrives all the inner buoys will be in position, of course the buoys on the bar are always kept in order.

9. There has always been some danger in Native boats coming round Potunga Point, more specially during the South-West Monsoon. To obviate this, I suggested to you the opening out of the Moiskhall Nullah which, having been sanctioned by Government, was opened on the 1st of June. It is very generally used and is considered most advantageous, and will prove, I believe, useful to boats bringing rice for sale. The Toll charge is very trifling, one anna up to 99 maunds, but the collections are at present sufficient. The number of boats which passed through the Nullah is marginally noted.

July	362
August	494
Total ...	1,184

10. During the busy season the three Pilots were fully employed and gave satisfaction. The Channel has remained much the same as to depth of water, but the passage across the bar had somewhat altered and the buoys were shifted accordingly. We had three groundings during the year, which were reported to me. One vessel, a country Barque, was stranded to the north of the red buoys, she was loaded with rice, but had wilfully left without a Pilot. The other two vessels floated without receiving any injury. The Steamer Orissa grounded to the north of Koolubdia, but received no damage. Before concluding this subject, I would beg to urge on you the necessity there is to fulfil the promised survey of the Channels leading to Chittagong, which was to have been done last season.

11. It is almost impossible in the roughest way to judge of the future prospects of the Port. Our grain crops up to date have been excellent, and we have a fine salt trade opening out to the Public, which will require at least 700 Tons of shipping to supply.

12. This may tempt merchants to import Europe salt, as the Natives of Chittagong prefer boiled salt to Madras Kurkutch, and I see no reason why Liverpool Salt will not be liked equally well as Chittagong Pungah and command a price 35 Rupees above Madras Kurkutch. By March or April our Government supplies will be exhausted and our consumption will have to be met by private enterprise.

Papers on the subject of the extension of the limits of the Port of Calcutta.

From Captain John G. Reddie, Master Attendant, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 470, dated the 14th February 1865.)

As I could lay some thirty Moorings, if the limit of the Port were extended to the South, may I request that His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor will be pleased to pass a Bill extending the Port to a point called Patchparah on the West, and a Creek called Nardical on the East.

From S. C. Bayley, Esq., Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces,—(No. 1384, dated the 27th February 1865.)

I am directed to forward, herewith, a copy of a letter* from the Master Attendant soliciting that the Port of Calcutta may be extended to a point called Patchparah on the West, and a Creek called Nardical on the East, and to request that the Board will, after consulting the Collector of Customs, be good enough to state whether there is any objection to Captain Reddie's request being complied with. Should there be nothing in the way, the proposal can be carried out under Section 5, Act XXII. of 1855, without resort to special legislation.

* No. 470, dated the 14th instant.

From T. Bruce Lane, Esq., Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 414, dated the 21th March 1865.)

I am directed by the Board of Revenue to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 1384, dated the 27th ultimo, with its enclosure, from the Master Attendant, relative to the proposal for extending the present limits of the Port of Calcutta to the southward to Patchparah on the West, and Nardical Creek on the East.

2. In reply I am desired to state that, from a report on the subject received from the Collector of Customs, there appears to be no objection to the proposal being carried out, provided an addition is made to the staff of Inspectors, an additional Officer of this class being considered indispensable to the proper supervision of Preventive Officers who may be posted within the limits of the proposed extension.

3. Instead, however, of incurring the heavy expense of entertaining an additional Inspector on Rupees 400 per month, Mr. Crawford proposes to employ a First Grade Preventive Officer, and to give him a personal allowance of Rupees 100 per month, as in the case of the Officers in charge of the Mutlah and Diamond Harbour Stations.

4. The total expense, exclusive of Rupees 1,500 set down for the cost of a Boat, involves a permanent monthly increase of Rupees 177-2, which is as reasonable and little expensive as could be devised. The Board accordingly recommend that the Collector's proposal be sanctioned.

5. A Proposition Statement in the prescribed form is herewith forwarded, together with the Collector's Report, in original, dated the 17th instant, No. 90.

6. In the event of the proposal now submitted being sanctioned, an application in the usual form will be submitted for an additional grant to the extent of the entire expenditure, including the cost of a Boat, regarding which latter item the Master Attandant will be addressed.

P. S.—The return of the original enclosures is requested when no longer required.

From J. A. CRAWFORD, Esq., Collector of Customs, Calcutta, to T. BRUCE LANE, Esq., Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces,—(No. 90, dated the 17th March 1865.)

I HAVE the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your Memorandum No. 311, dated 6th March 1865, with enclosures, on the subject of extending the limits of the Port of Calcutta to the southward to Patchparah on the West, and Nardical Creek on the East.

2. I have the honor to report that there would be no objection to the extension of the Port if there is an addition to the staff of Inspectors. The Board will doubtless recollect that an additional Inspector will be entertained from the 1st May next. The services of this Officer were granted with reference to the present limits of the Port and the necessity of extra supervision within those limits. The Inspector in charge of the F. Division, which extends from Kidderpore, or rather Hastings' Bridge to the Garden House, and to whose beat the proposed extension would ordinarily be attached, has already the most difficult Division to handle, and any additional ground for him to supervise would interfere most seriously with the proper discharge of his duties. As it is, during the rains he is constantly unable to return to Town the same day, but when he has arrived at the end of his beat, he has to await the turn of the tide, which, at that season of the year, runs fully seven hours out of each twelve down, if not more than that time. Its distance from the Custom House also calls for a more careful supervision of the Division than nearer off town, when, in the event of an Inspector having gone his rounds, an Officer never knows whether he may or may not fall in with another Inspector either going to, or coming off, duty from his own Division.

3. To supervise properly the Officers posted between the Garden House and the line from Patchparah to Nardical Creek, another Inspector or Officer with the powers of an Inspector will be required. The entertainment of an Inspector would involve an extra expense of Rupees 400 per mensem, or Rupees 4,800 per annum, exclusive of the cost* of a Boat and the entertainment† of its Crew. The purchase of a Boat and the pay of a Crew cannot be dispensed with, but the cost of entertaining an Officer discharging all the duties of an Inspector might be greatly reduced. The plan I would propose is to give one of the First Grade Officers the post and give him a personal allowance of Rupees 100 a month, the same as is drawn by the Officer in charge of the Mutlah and the Officer in charge of Diamond Harbour Station.

† Crew per annum „ 925-8-0

4. I would oblige the Officer so posted to live down at the southern end of Kidderpore or at Garden Reach so as to be handy to his work.

5. Some such arrangement as this is positively necessary, for I believe it is intended to treat Salt like any other imported article by removing a great portion of the checks now existing with regard to the sale and transportation of Salt, and by looking to the supervision over Salt passing out of the ship as the main check. The additional Inspector that I am to entertain from the 1st of May will have his hands full of work ready cut and dried to start with, and I am not at all sure that I shall not be obliged to ask for a second Officer, to act on the same terms as now proposed to take up the duties I had intended the new Inspector to perform, which was chiefly night work.

6. An additional Budget grant will be required for the proposition now submitted, and a Proposition Statement for which accompanies. This granted, there is no objection to the extension.

Calcutta Custom House,
The 17th March 1865.

J. A. CRAWFORD,
Collector of Customs.

From S. C. BAYLEY, Esq., Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Master Attendant,—(No. 2718, dated the 10th April 1865.)

WITH reference to your letter No. 470, dated the 14th February last, I am directed to observe, that it does not appear to the Lieutenant-Governor to be necessary that measures should just now be taken for extending the limits of the Port, in order to enable you to lay down the additional Moorings proposed. The river will be comparatively empty till October next, and by that time the new Screw-pile Moorings will be out. I am therefore to enquire whether it would not be better to wait till then.

From CAPTAIN JOHN G. REDDIE, Master Attendant, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 1074, dated the 13th April 1865.)

WITH reference to Mr. Junior Secretary S. C. Bayley's letter No. 2718, dated 10th instant, I have the honor to state that we had last year a greater amount of tonnage than ever came to this Port before, and as we have only 184 Moorings, and I think there is every probability of there being more ships this year, I think it very desirable to put as many ships in Moorings as possible. I therefore hope that the Lieutenant-Governor will be pleased to extend the limits of the Port before the South-West Monsoon, for as soon as the Moorings are laid in Port I shall like to extend them. No extra expense is involved in extending the Port this season than would be if delayed for a time.

From the HON'BLE A. EDEN, Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,—(No. 3172, dated the 3rd May 1865.)

I AM directed to forward, for the orders of His Excellency the Governor General in Council, a copy of the correspondence noted in the margin, on the subject of the extension of the limits of the Port of Calcutta to the South, and to request that His Excellency in Council may be moved to sanction, under Act XXII. of 1855, the accompanying public Notification of the changes proposed by Captain Reddie.

From the Master Attendant, No 470, dated the 14th February 1865.
To the Board of Revenue, No. 1384, dated the 27th February 1865.
From the Board of Revenue, No. 414, dated the 24th March 1865.
To the Master Attendant, No. 2718, dated the 10th April 1865.
From the Master Attendant, No. 1074, dated the 13th April 1865.

From A. M. MONTEATH Esq., Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department, to the HON'BLE A. EDEN, Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 531, dated the 20th May 1865.)

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 3172, dated the 3rd instant, and to enquire, with reference to the communication from the Sudder Board of Revenue, No. 414, dated the 24th March last, a copy of which forms one of the enclosures of your letter, whether it is to be understood that the proposed extension of the limits of the Port of Calcutta to the South is to be attended by an application from the Bengal Government for the increased expenditure recommended by the Board. If this is the case, the Governor General in Counil observes that it should have been explicitly so stated in your letter.

2. Pending a reply to this question, the Governor General in Council will withhold the publication of the proposed Notification, and if the aditional expenditure in question is considered necessary by the Lieutenant-Governor, the extension of the Port, I am directed to state, cannot take effect until the aditional expenditure consequent upon such extension has been formally applied for in the usual manner and sanction given to it in the Financial Department.

From S. C. BAYLEY, Esq., Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,—(No. 3996, dated the 13th June 1865.)

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 531, dated the 20th ultimo, and in reply to state that the Lieutenant-Governor purposely abstained from asking for the Establishment that will be necessary for the protection of the Customs Revenue until the question of extending the Port of Calcutta was settled. No doubt an extra Inspector will be required for the reasons stated by the Collector of Customs; but the question of extending the Port seemed to the Lieutenant-Governor to rest on grounds altogether unconnected with the increase of Establishment.

2. As, however, the Government of India wish the two questions to be considered together, a Proposition Statement in the usual form is herewith submitted. In addition to the permanent additional expenditure of Rupees 177-2 per mensem an outlay of Rupees 1,500 will be required for the construction of a Boat for the Preventive Department.

From A. M. MONTEATH, Esq., Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,—(No. 510, dated Simla, the 27th July 1865.)

FORWARDED to the Government of Bengal for information with reference to letter therefrom, No. 3996, dated the 13th of June.

Report on the State of the Salt Market during the First Quarter of 1865-66.

From T. BRUCE LANE, Esq., Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 1007, dated the 16th October 1865.)

I AM directed by the Board of Revenue to submit the following report on the state of the Salt Market during the first quarter of 1865-66.

2. The quantity of Government Salt sold, irrespective of the recent auction sales under Rowanahs issued by the Board, amounted to maunds 55,730, as shewn in the margin, giving a monthly average of maunds 18,577, or about maunds 19,631 less than the monthly average of the corresponding quarter of 1864-65, and maunds 8,829 in excess of that of the last quarter. This increase over the preceding quarter's sales, caused mainly by the sales in July, may be attributed to the great increase in the price of the Liverpool Salt, which ranged throughout July between Rupees 79 and 82 against Rupees 50, the highest point that was reached in the last quarter.

3. The sales of Government Salt from the Ghoosery Golahs amounted to maunds 1,500 against maunds 1,450 in the previous quarter, and maunds 2,985 in the first quarter of 1864-65. The sales at Tumlook aggregated maunds 8,455 against maunds 11,635 in the last quarter, while those in Hidgellee amounted to maunds 15,290 against maunds 16,010 in the previous quarter, and maunds 15,775 in the corresponding quarter of 1864-65.

4. The sales of Excise Salt during the quarter under review aggregated maunds 2,055 against maunds 5,350 in the previous quarter, and maunds 11,835 in the first quarter of 1864-65.

5. The quantities of Salt which have been dispatched into the interior of the country vid the Border Chowkey of Ballikhal up the Hooghly are shewn in the following comparative Statement:—

The decline in March and following months was consequent on the fall in the price of Liverpool Salt towards the end of 1864. The September exports are expected to be still larger than those of the previous months.

9. In the beginning of April last Liverpool Salt was selling at 49 Rupees per hundred maunds. It fell gradually to Rupees 33 in the beginning of May, and after that steadily increased until it reached Rupees 85 about the middle of July. The upset price of the Government Salt brought forward at the sale of the 5th was only Rupees 70, at which comparatively few lots were sold, as has been specially reported.

10. Madras and Bombay Kurkutch, which had declined to Rupees 37 and Rupees 22 at the end of the last quarter, rose gradually to Rupees 52 and Rupees 60, respectively, at the close of July. Juddah Kurkutch, which competes well in price with the Liverpool Salt, ranged throughout the quarter between Rupees 65 and Rupees 85.

11. The total quantity of Salt available on private trade at the several Madras Depôts on the first day of each of the three months of the quarter under review, and of the corresponding quarter of the two previous years, is exhibited below:—

1st July „ ...	852,264	548,044	286,724

In explanation of the sudden reduction of the stocks in July last, the Madras Board of Revenue, in reply to a reference made by this Board, observe that the whole of the Salt (maunds 420,332) that remained at the Ports of Madras, Ennore, and Covelong was assigned in the beginning of June last to applicants, but that a fresh allotment for exportation would be made if possible.

No. 1520A. of 1865.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

Dated the 1st May 1865.

Notification.—The following Tea plantations and factories in Kumaon and the Deyrah Dhoon are offered for sale at the upset prices specified :—

1. Hawul Bagh in Kumaon, forty-six miles from the plains, and six miles from Almorah. The plantations (including the two small nurseries, viz., Kupeena and Lutchmaissur, in the immediate neighbourhood of Almorah) consist of about one hundred acres of land planted with Tea. At a short distance from the plantations there is a Cheer (Pinus longifolia) forest of about 100 acres in extent, in which the purchaser will have the right to cut timber, which is well fitted for making Tea chests, firewood, &c.

There are on the estate three large slated houses; numerous slated offices; a large slated factory; two large slated godowns; a slated barrack for Chinese Tea manufacturers; and the stock and block of the factory are complete for Tea operations and in working order.

2. Ayar Toli in Kuttyoor, Kumaon, distant about 80 miles from the plains, and about 40 miles from Almorah.

There are on the estate a slated factory and a large slated godown; slated barracks for Chinese Tea manufacturers, &c., and the stock and block of the factory are complete for the Tea operations and in working order.

This plantation consists of about 1,300 acres of land, of which about 360 acres are planted with Tea, two hundred acres of cleared land fitted for Tea-planting, and the remainder covered with pines, &c., forests, the timber of which is well adapted for making Tea chests, &c.

The yield of the two estates this season was lbs. 20,000 of Tea and 1,650 maunds of seeds.

These two estates will be sold in one lot in fee-simple, free of all demands, on account of Land Revenue, exclusive of existing local cesses, such as Road, Educational, and Postal cesses, or such as may be hereafter legally imposed, at an upset price of Rupees 2,00,000 (two lacs of Rupees.)

A small portion of the plantation of Ayar Toli named Bincolie, belonging to the temple of Nagnath, will bear an annual rental of Rupees 24 (twenty-four Rupees) per annum.

This land is leased in perpetuity from the temple of Nagnath on this rental.

3. Kowlaghir in the Deyrah Dhoon, distant two miles to the west of the Town of Deyrah. It consists of about 430 acres of land, of which about 380 acres are under cultivation with Tea, and the remainder adapted for Tea cultivation.

Through the property a branch of the Beejapore canal runs. At a short distance and to the south of the plantation there is a Forest of Syne, Jamune, &c., consisting of about 500 (five hundred) acres, in which the purchaser will have the right to cut timber for Tea chests, firewood, charcoal, &c. The timber is well fitted for making Tea chests.

There are on the estate three bungalows; an extensive pucka Tea factory; two large pucka godowns; a barrack for Chinese Tea manufacturers, &c., and the stock and block of the factory are complete and in full working order.

The yield this season was lbs. 25,099 of Tea, and 1,050 maunds of seeds.

This estate will be sold in fee-simple free of all demands on account of Land Revenue, exclusive of existing local cesses for roads, &c., or such as may hereafter be legally imposed, at an upset price of Rupees 2,00,000 (two lacs of Rupees.) The plantations will be transferred to the purchasers on the 1st April 1866, on or before which date the purchase money must be paid at the General Treasury, Calcutta.

Tenders will be received by William Jameson, Esquire, Superintendent, Botanical Gardens, North-Western Provinces, Saharunpore, until 1st March 1866, if the factories, &c., be not previously sold by private sale, and the highest offer above the upset price will be accepted.

All tenders must be made in writing.

Every tender should be superscribed—"Tender for Tea plantation," and will be registered by the Superintendent of the Botanical Gardens on the date of receipt in a book, which he will keep, together with the tenders, in his own custody under lock and key.

The highest registered tender at the time being for any lot will be communicated by the Superintendent to any enquirers up to the time of sale, but the names of the parties who have tendered shall in no case be disclosed.

The register of tenders will be examined at noon, on the 1st March 1866, by a Committee consisting of the Superintendent, Botanical Gardens, the Judge, and the Collector of Saharunpore, at the Office of the Superintendent, and in the presence of all parties who may attend; and the amount of the highest tender for each lot, or, if there be more than one tender of equal amount, the number and amount of such tenders, but not the names of the parties tendering, will be publicly declared, and the highest tender, in writing, above the upset price at 4 P. M., will be accepted on the part of Government by the Committee.

On the tender being accepted by the Committee the purchaser must deposit five per cent. of the purchase money, which will be forfeited if the amount of the purchase money be not paid in full on the date specified.

Agents must be supplied by their principals with sufficient Powers-of-Attorney.

The above particulars are believed, in good faith, to be correct, but intending purchasers must make their own enquiries, as no reclamation can be listened to after sale.

References may be made to W. Jameson, Esquire, Superintendent, Government Botanical Gardens, Saharunpore.

The Board however reserve to themselves the right of altering these dates should circumstances render it expedient to do so.

The following are the conditions of Sale :—

1*st.* The Opium will be sold for exportation by sea only, and no certificate will be granted except to cover such Export.

2*nd* The Opium will be ordinarily offered for sale at an upset price of Rupees 800 per Chest, and sold to the highest bidder above that price, except under the circumstances for which provision is made by Clause 12th of these conditions of Sale.

3*rd.* The Sale shall commence at the hour of 11 A. M. of the day fixed by previous Notification, and shall not be continued after the hour of 5 P. M., but if at that hour any of the lots advertised for sale shall remain unsold, the sale may, at the discretion of the Board of Revenue, be resumed on the next day following (not being Sunday or a Public Holiday) at the hour of 11 A. M., and so on, until the whole of the remaining lots are disposed of, or, if the whole quantity advertized shall not be sold on the day appointed, the Board may dispose of the lots which remain on hand at a future Sale.

4*th.* Each lot shall contain five Chests.

5*th.* A Promissory Note for a sum, calculated according to the scale noted in the margin, shall be taken as a deposit on each lot from the Purchaser in the Sale Room, and before the lot is registered in the Sale Book, and all such Promissory Notes shall be redeemed on the part of the Purchasers at this Office by Bank of Bengal Receipts, or by substitution of other Public Securities of the Bengal Government on or before 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the fifth day after the sale, or on the other hand, failing such redemption by the time aforesaid, then the lot or lots for which no Bank of Bengal Receipts, or deposit of other Public Securities as aforesaid shall have been delivered in, shall be re-sold at such time or times and under such conditions of re-sale as the Board of Revenue shall see fit, and all losses and expenses, whatsoever, attending such re-sale shall be borne and paid by the defaulters, whilst any profit accruing from such re-sale shall be forfeited to Government.

	Deposit.
When the amount bid is less than Rs. 1,200 per Chest	Rs. 200 per Chest.
On bids of Rs 1,200 but less than Rs. 1,600	„ 300 „
On bids of Rs. 1,600 but less than Rs. 2,000	„ 400 „

and so on, Rs. 100 being added to the deposit for every additional Rs. 400 bid.

6. The Promissory Notes taken on the day of sale under the last mentioned condition, if remaining unredeemed at 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be placed in the hands of the Solicitor to the Government for realization in such manner as to him shall seem fit.

7. No tender of money, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Public Securities on account of Opium, upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be afterwards accepted.

8. The Opium now advertised for sale shall be paid for within fifteen clear days from the day of sale, and in case any lots of such Opium shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the Cash Deposit made under the fifth condition, or any Public Securities that may have been deposited on account of such lots or Chests, shall be forfeited, and the Opium shall be disposed of on account of Government at such time, and in such manner, as the Board of Revenue shall think fit, and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the Opium was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale.

9. Purchasers taking out Certificates or Orders for the delivery of Opium after making full payment as above prescribed, shall have the option of naming the number of lots of their purchase, which they may desire to be included in each Certificate or Order, and it is to be clearly understood that the Certificates or Orders so taken out shall be considered final, and not afterwards changeable for other Certificates or Orders authorizing the delivery of single lots or of a different number of lots or Chests, whether more or less than the number of lots or Chests originally required to be included in each Certificate or Order.

10. No deposit of Public Securities under the fifth of the present condition will be received in this Office, except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the Sale Book, or his authorized Agent. The Receipt for deposit of Public Securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the Securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

11. The Officer superintending the sale on the part of the Board of Revenue is empowered to reject, at his discretion, the bid of any individual unless such individual shall, on demand, tender at the time a deposit either in Government of India Notes, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Government Securities a sum equal to the amount, for which a Promissory Note would otherwise be taken under the fifth of these conditions.

12. With a view to prevent fictitious bidings designed to obstruct the sale, it is hereby notified that the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall be competent, at any time during the sale, to withdraw any unsold lot and immediately to put it up again for sale at a maximum upset price, diminishing the same gradually until a bid is obtained, and the first bonâ fide bidder for a lot after it has been offered for sale in the mode here described, shall be held and declared to be the purchaser of the said lot, and the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall also be competent to dispose in the same manner of as many of the subsequent lots as he may think proper, provided always that no lot shall be sold below the minimum price of 800 Rupees specified in the second of these conditions.

13. The purchaser of any lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession at the same price and under the same conditions any number of lots of the same Agency Opium not exceeding altogether twenty-five lots; provided always that there remain a sufficient number of lots of the Opium to complete the said twenty-five.

14. In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the Opium included in this Notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall and may be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

15. The following papers will be exhibited for inspection on the day of sale, or may be seen previously to that date by application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue:—

No. 1.—Certificate of the Opium advertized for sale.

No. 2.—Report of the examination of such Opium.

16. The Public are hereby informed that, in providing the investment of the Behar and Benares Opium for the year 1864-65, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years, to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the Cakes, and to have the due proportion of Opium put into each Cake. An account of the weight of the drug when packed at Behar and Benares, and a Statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken for the purpose of comparison from the dispatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue.

17. Any further information respecting weight or quality of the Opium advertized for sale that may be desired by parties connected with the trade will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on application at the Office of the Board of Revenue, but, in accordance with established usage, under no circumstances will the Board entertain or recognize any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of Opium, or adulteration of the drug which may be preferred on reference to chests after the sale and delivery of the Opium for shipment.

18. It is hereby further notified that, under the 6th Article of the Convention between Great Britain and France, dated the 7th March 1815, quoted below, the Agents in India of the French Government, or persons duly appointed by them, are entitled to demand that, out of the quantities of Behar and Benares Opium declared as above for sale at the twelve sales of the year 1866, there shall be delivered to them at the average of the particular sale or sales to which the Opium so applied for may belong, a quantity not exceeding in the aggregate 300 chests, and the Agents of the French Government must make requisition specifying the quantity of Opium required by them at any particular sale within thirty days from the advertisement of such intended sale, provided, however, that the Agents of the French Government may make such requisition for the whole quantity within thirty days from the publication of this Notification. If the Agents of the French Government shall not make the requisition for Opium within the time above-mentioned the entire quantity of about 40,000 Chests of Behar and Banares, as above estimated, will be brought to sale in the usual manner, and if they shall make application for quantity of Opium to be delivered to them out of the quantity advertised for sale at each or any of the twelve sales above-mentioned, but shall not pay for it within the prescribed period of payment, the Government of Bengal reserves to itself the right of disposing of the Opium which the French authorities may so fail to pay for, either by increasing the quantity reserved at the sale next ensuing the date of payment, or by selling it at a sale to be held expressly for the purpose.

Behar ...	24,000
Benares ...	16,000
	40,000

Article of the Convention above referred to.—

Article 6th.—"With regard to the Trade in "Opium, it is agreed between the high contracting parties that each of the periodical sales of "that article, there shall be reserved for the "French Government, and delivered upon requisition duly made by the Agents of His Most "Christian Majesty, or by the persons duly "appointed by them, the number of Chests so "applied for, provided that such supply shall not "exceed three hundred Chests in each year, and "the price for the same shall be determined by "the average rate at which Opium shall have "been sold at every such periodical sale, it being "understood that, if the quantity of Opium "applied for at any one time shall not be taken "on account of the French Government by the "Agents of His Most Christian Majesty within "the usual period of delivery, the quantity so "applied for shall nevertheless be considered as so "much in reduction of the three hundred Chests "herein-before-mentioned. The requisitions for "Opium as aforesaid are to be addressed to the "Governor General at Calcutta within thirty "days after notice of the intended sales shall "have been published in the Government Gazette."

By Order of the Board of Revenue,

T. Bruce Lane,
Junior Secretary.

The following series of Bye-Laws proposed for the Municipality of Chittagong is published for general information.

1. The Municipal Commissioners may assign to any highway the name by which such highway is to be known, and may cause such name to be put up or painted on a conspicuous part of any house, wall, or building or other place in such highway, and no person shall destroy, pull down, or efface such name, or put up any name different from that put up by order of the Commissioners.

2. The Municipal Commissioners may cause a number to be affixed on a conspicuous place on the outer side of any house or building, or at the entrance of the enclosure thereof fronting any highway, and no person shall destroy, efface, or pull down such number, or put up a different number.

3. No person shall tether, or cause to be tethered, or allow to stray, on any public highway any cattle, goats, or other animals, nor shall any person let loose, or allow to get loose, any diseased or worn-out animal in any place whence it can escape into any highway or other public place. No elephant shall, between the hours of 4 and 8 in the evening, be taken along the thoroughfares ordinarily used for driving and which the Commissioners shall, for the purpose of this rule, from time to time notify, and no pigs shall be let loose or kept otherwise than in closed pens.

4. No person shall, within the limit of the Municipality, dig any tank, pond, or other excavation whatever, excepting graves, watercourses, and wells, without the permission, in writing, of the Commissioners, who shall have power to prescribe the place and manner of making such excavations.

5. No person shall, without the permission of the Commissioners, set up any obstruction in any nullah or watercourse which it may be necessary to keep clear and unobstructed for purposes of public drainage and conservancy; and the Municipal Commissioners shall have power to remove any such obstruction, and the expense of such removal shall be paid by the person erecting the same, and shall be recoverable as a debt due to the Commissioners.

6. The owner or occupier of any part of the bank of any such nullah or water course shall be bound to keep it free from filth, dense vegetation, or other nuisance or obstruction, and shall at all times allow the Commissioners, or any of their servants duly authorised, to have access to such nullah or watercourse for any purpose of public conservancy.

CACHAR,
The 1st September 1865.

Bye-Laws proposed by the Municipal Commissioners appointed for the Town of Burdwan and its Suburbs under Section 84 of Act III. of 1864.

1. EACH quarterly instalment of the rate and taxes mentioned in the Act shall be considered to have become due at the commencement of the quarter on account of which each instalment is payable, and may be levied at any time after the commencement of each quarter, that is to say—

The instalment payable on account of the quarter ending ...	31st July ...	May be levied on and after...	1st May
	„ Oct. ...		1st Aug.
	„ Jan. ...		1st Nov.
	30th April...		1st Feb.

2. The external roofs and walls of any hut or any other building whatever about to be erected or renewed on or near any public highway, shall not be made of grass, leaves, mats or any other inflammable material, unless with express permission of Municipal Commissioners.

3. No person shall dig or make or cause to be dug or made in any place within the Burdwan Municipal Circle, any tank, pond, ditch, hole, or other excavation without the sanction of the Municipal Commissioners, and any person so offending shall within seven days from date of receiving an order from any Municipal Commissioner, fill or cause to be filled, any tank, pond, ditch, hole, or other excavation dug or made by him.

4. The Municipal Commissioners may cause to be put up or pointed on a conspicuous part of any house, building, wall, or place in any highway the name by which such highway is to be known, and no person shall destroy, pull down, or deface any such name or put up any name different from that put up by order of the Commissioners.

5. The Municipal Commissioners may fix a number on a conspicuous place on the outer side of any house or building, or at the entrance of the enclosure thereof fronting any highway, and no person shall destroy, pull down, or deface any such number.

6. No person shall cut grass on any public highway, being the property of the Municipal Commissioners.

7. No person shall tether cattle, goats or other animals or cause them to be tethered or cause or allow any cattle to stray for the purpose of grazing on the side of any public highway.

8. Every person within whose premises any animal may die, shall within two hours after its death either remove at his own expense the carcass to such place as may be set apart by the Municipal Commissioners for the reception of such carcass, or report its death to the Conservancy Overseer and in such latter case shall pay to the said Overseer the expense of removing the carcass at such rate as the Commissioners may determine, and in cases where the said person is not the owner of the animal, and the owner is known, the owner shall alone be responsible for the payment of such expense, and such expense shall be recoverable as a debt due to the Commissioners.

9. No person (after warning from any of the Municipal Commissioners) shall allow any pigs to be at large or keep them otherwise than in closed pens.

10. No person shall suffer any offensive matter from any manufactory or place of business, or cooking-house, or stable to flow into any river, nullah, canal, tank or surface drain.

11. All dust, dirt and rubbish of any kind, the removal of which is undertaken by the Municipal Commissioners, shall be deposited on the side of the road, and not more than five yards from the entrance of the premises from which it has come, every morning between the hours of 4 A. M. and 7 A. M.

12. No refuse resulting from any business, trade, or profession shall be removed by the Municipal Commissioners except on payment for removal at such rate as the Commissioners may determine, and any expense incurred on this account shall be recoverable as a debt due to the Municipal Commissioners. No such refuse shall be deposited on any highway without permission from the Commissioners.

13. All dirt, dust, ashes, rubbish, sewerage, soil, dung and filth collected from the highways, houses, premises, sewers and cesspools by the Municipal Commissioners shall be the property of the Municipal Commissioners who shall have power to sell or dispose of the same as they may think proper, and the money arising from the sale thereof shall be applied to the purposes of the District Municipal Improvement Act.

14. No person shall, in any way, obstruct or allow to be obstructed, any of the lanes, walks, bye-ways, or other thoroughfares in any bazar by exposing for sale or accumulating or allowing to be exposed for sale or to be accumulated on any such lane, walk, bye-way or thoroughfare any package or any other materials whatever.

15. No person shall keep any cattle or conveyance of any kind standing on any public highway longer than is required for loading or unloading, or for taking up or setting down passengers, or shall clean any such cattle or conveyance on any public highway in such a manner as to be likely to cause inconvenience or danger to the public.

16. No person shall, after dark and during the night, drive any vehicle not bearing two conspicuous lanterns, provided that, for a cart or hackery, one lantern will be sufficient if raised high enough to be conspicuous on the front and rear.

17. Every owner, occupier, or farmer of any bazar shall, within fourteen days, after he shall have notice from the Municipal Commissioners so to do, provide such lanterns and urinals as in the opinion of the Commissioners may be necessary for the cleanliness and health of such bazar.

18. No person, occupier, or farmer of any bazar or shop shall sell or expose for sale, or permit to be sold, or exposed for sale, or admit into, or permit to remain in any bazar or shop any offensive meat or fish or decomposed vegetable matter, and every such owner, occupier, or farmer shall, without any delay cause any such meat, fish or vegetable matter to be at once removed to a place to be notified to him by the Municipal Commissioners. No such owner, occupier or farmer shall obstruct any person appointed by the Commissioners for that purpose from entering and inspecting any such premises at any time before sunrise and sunset.

19. No person suffering from any contagious disease shall bathe in any bathing place save in such a place as shall be set apart for that purpose by the Municipal Commissioners.

20. No person shall throw or cause to be thrown any corpse or carcass or any part of a corpse or carcass upon any ground or into any river, nullah, canal, drain or tank.

21. No person shall bury or cause to be buried any corpse in any burial ground in a grave constructed of masonry in such manner that the corpse or coffin shall be at a less depth than four feet from the surface ground.

22. No person shall bury or cause to be buried in any burial ground any corpse in a grave not constructed of masonry which shall be less than six feet deep.

23. No person shall build or dig, or cause to be built or dug any grave in any burial ground at a less distance than four feet from any other existing grave.

24. No person shall build or dig, or cause to be built or dug a grave in any burial ground in any other line than that marked out by the Municipal Commissioners.

25. No grave once used shall be opened for burial of another body without the premission of the Municipal Commissioners.

26. No person, when burning or causing to be burnt any corpse or part of a corpse in any burning ground, shall permit the same or any part thereof to remain without being completely reduced to ashes, or shall permit the clothes or other articles connected with the burning of such corpse to remain at or near such burning ground, unless the same be completely reduced to ashes.

27. Every person who shall bring or convey or cause to be brought or conveyed any corpse or part thereof to any burning ground, shall burn or cause the same to be burnt within four hours after its arrival at the said burning ground.

28. No person shall committ any nuisance by easing himself on or near any road or public thoroughfare.

BURDWAN,
The 14th October 1865.

G. TAYLOR,
Chairman of the Municipal Commissioners of Burdwan

Darjeeling Municipality.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal having, under the provisions of Section 85, Act III. (B.C.) of 1864, approved and confirmed the following Bye-Laws proposed by the Municipal Commissioners for the Town of Darjeeling they are hereby published for general information : —

RULES for regulating the time and mode of collecting the rate and taxes mentioned in the Act.

1. Each quarterly instalment of the rate and taxes mentioned in the Act shall be considered to have become due at the commencement of the quarter on account of which such instalment is payable and may be levied at any time after the commencement of such quarter, that is to say,—

The instalment payable on account of the quarter ending		May be levied on and after
	31st July .		1st May.
	31st Oct. ...		1st Aug.
	31st Jan. ..		1st Nov
	30th April ..		1st Feb.

2. The collection of the rate and taxes mentioned in the Act shall be superintended by an Officer appointed for the purpose by the Municipal Commissioners in the manner hereinafter described; such Officer shall be remunerated either by salary or commission according as the Commissioners shall direct. In case of remuneration by salary the Commissioners shall fix the amount of such salary and they shall provide and maintain at their own expense a Subordinate Establishment sufficient for the purpose of making the collections. In case of remuneration by commission such commission shall be payable on all sums collected on account of the aforesaid rate and taxes and paid into the hands of the Officer appointed to receive the same and shall be calculated at such rate per cent. on such sums as the Commissioners may from time to time fix in consideration of such payment, the collecting Officer shall provide and maintain at his own expense an Establishment sufficient for the purpose of making the collections, and shall be responsible for all sums collected and received by any person on that Establishment; he shall, moreover, give security for the due performance of the duties of his office to such an amount as the Commissioners may from time to time fix and determine; and he shall be in all respects bound by, and amenable to, the Laws hereinafter enacted, and to all other such Laws and Rules as may from time to time be duly enacted and made for the regulation of the conduct of persons employed by the Commissioners in the same manner as if he were remunerated by salary.

3. The collecting Officer shall be furnished by the Commissioners with copies of the lists described in Sections 29 and 39 of the Act.

From these lists he shall cause to be prepared the bills prescribed by Section 41 of the Act in the Form A. contained in the Schedule hereto annexed and shall sign the same, the bills so prepared and signed shall be issued to the subordinate Officers on the collecting Establishment, and shall be by them presented to the persons named therein in the manner hereinafter described.

4. The collecting Officer shall keep separate Registers of all bills issued by him for sums due on account of the rate and on account of each of the different descriptions of taxes leviable under the Act; in these Registers he shall enter the date of each bill, the name of the person liable, the period for which the sum is due, the amount of that sum, and the name of the subordinate Officer to whom the bill was issued. On receipt of the amount of any bill the entry in the Register referring thereto shall be scored through.

5. Every bill for any sum due on account of the rate or taxes leviable under the Act shall always, when possible, be presented to the individual named therein in person; but if such personal presentation be found impossible the bill shall be left at his place of ordinary residence in the hands of some male member of his family, or of one of his servants, and a bill so left shall be deemed to have been presented within the meaning of the Act.

6. Should presentation of any such bill in any of the Forms above described be found impossible, the subordinate Officer to whom the bill shall have been issued shall return it to the collecting Officer with a certificate endorsed thereon to the effect that presentation has been found impossible.

7. The subordinate Officer to whom a bill may be issued for presentation shall receive the amount of such bill at the time of presentation, or at any time within ten days from the date on which the bill shall have been first presented by him, and shall pay the amount so received to the collecting Officer without delay.

8. If the amount of any bill issued by the collecting Officer shall not have been received by him, or if such bill shall not have been returned with the certificate above described duly endorsed thereon within fifteen days after issue, he shall call upon the subordinate Officer to whom it was issued for an explanation of the cause of delay in realizing the amount or in returning the bill, and if it shall appear from such explanation that the bill has been presented in any of the modes above described, and that the amount has not been paid within ten days after presentation, or that presentation in any of those modes has been found impossible the collecting Officer shall then make application to the Municipal Commissioners with a view to the recovery of the amount in the manner prescribed by the 45th and following Sections of the Act.

9. The collecting Officer shall pay daily into the hands of the Cashier of the Magistrate and Collector's Office, or such other person as may from time to time be nominated by the Commissioners for the purpose of receiving them, all sums collected in the course of the day and shall take his receipt for the same.

10. In addition to the Registers above described the collecting Officer shall keep such other books, and he shall make such reports and furnish such returns as may from time to time be prescribed by the Commissioners.

Rules for the regulation of the conduct of persons employed by the Commissioners.

11. All persons appointed to any office under the Municipal Commissioners shall, in the absence of any specific engagement to the contrary by accepting such appointment, be held to have acknowledged themselves to be amenable to the Rules hereinafter contained and to all such Rules as may from time to time be passed by the Commissioners for the regulation of the conduct of persons employed by them.

12. All persons employed by the Commissioners on their fixed establishment whose services may be no longer required shall be at all times liable to discharge after receipt of previous notice for the period of one month, and no such person shall withdraw from the duties of his office without having given previous notice for the period of one month.

13. All persons now holding, or who may hereafter be appointed to, any office under the Municipal Commissioners shall, when requested so to do, furnish security to such amount as the Commissioners may from time to time fix, and any person failing to furnish such security within reasonable time, or within such time as the Commissioners may appoint, shall be held to have thereby forfeited his appointment and may be removed from office.

14. Whenever it shall be proved to the satisfaction of the Commissioners that any person in their employ has been guilty of any violation of duty, or wilful breach or neglect of any rule, regulation, or order made or given by competent authority, or has withdrawn from the duties of his office without permission, or without having given previous notice for the period of one month, or has done any act by the performance of which, or has omitted to do any act by the non-performance of which, the Commissioners shall have suffered, or may have incurred the risk of suffering loss or injury, or has failed to perform any duty with all due diligence, or has been guilty of any act of insubordination towards any superior Officer, or has accepted or obtained, or agreed to accept or attempted to obtain, from any person, for himself, or for any other person, any gratification whatever other than authorized remuneration in respect of any official act, or has, in his official capacity, given any information which he knows or believes to be false, or has committed any offence punishable under the Indian Penal Code, such person shall be liable to punishment by fine not exceeding three months' pay, or by suspension from office for such period as the Commissioners may fix, or by summary dismissal from his situation, in addition to any penalty to which he may be liable under the provisions of the Penal Code. Any person so dismissed shall forfeit all pay and allowances which may be due to him at the time of such dismissal.

15. Nothing herein contained shall be held to debar the Commissioners from instituting proceedings in any Civil Court having jurisdiction against any person being or having been in their employ with a view to the recovery of damages for any loss or injury which they may consider themselves to have sustained in consequence of any act done or omitted to be done by such person.

Rules for the management of matters connected with Conservancy.

16. Every owner, farmer, or occupier of a market or shop for the sale of butcher's meat, fish, fruit, or vegetables shall keep the same in a clean and proper state, and no food shall be sold or exposed for sale which is in such a state as to be unfit for consumption.

17. Every owner, farmer, or occupier of any such market or shop shall admit, at all reasonable hours, any person authorized by the Commissioners to enter and inspect the same.

18. No person shall throw, or cause to be thrown, any corpse or any part thereof into any river, nullah, or ravine, or into any forest or other waste land, or shall dispose or cause to be disposed of any corpse or any part thereof, otherwise than by burning or burying the same at or in some lawful burning or burying ground.

19. Every person who shall bring or convey, or cause to be brought or conveyed to any burying or burning ground, any corpse or any part thereof shall bury or burn it, or cause it to be buried or burnt, within four hours after arrival at the said burying or burning ground.

20. No person who may burn, or cause to be burnt at any burning ground, any corpse, or part of a corpse shall permit the same or any part thereof to remain without being completely reduced to ashes, or to be removed before it shall have been so reduced.

21. No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, any corpse, or any part of a corpse, in any grave constructed of masonry in such manner that the top of coffin, or body where there is no coffin used, shall be at a depth less than three feet from the surface ground.

22. No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, any corpse, or part of a corpse in a grave not constructed of masonry the depth of which grave shall be less than six feet from the surface ground.

23. No person shall dig or construct a grave at a distance less than two feet from any other existing grave.

24. No person shall throw, or cause to be thrown, any carcass, or any part thereof into any river, nullah, or ravine, or on any forest or other waste land within certain defined limits, or on any place other than such places as may, from time to time, be appointed by the Commissioners for the purpose of receiving such carcasses.

25. Every person within whose premises any animal may die shall, within two hours of its death, either remove the carcass at his own expense to such place as may be appointed by the Commissioners for the reception of such carcasses, or report its death to the Conservancy Overseer of the Division within which those premises may be situated, and in the latter case shall pay to the said Overseer the expense of removing the carcass at such rate as the Commissioners may from time to time determine.

26. Every person to whom a license for keeping a necessary for public accommodation may be granted by the Commissioners under the 69th Section of the Act shall construct such necessary in such manner and such out-offices and appurtenances as the Commissioners may, from time to time, prescribe; any such person refusing or neglecting so to construct such necessary, or to make such alterations in and additions to it as the Commissioners may at any time direct within a reasonable time, or within such time as the Commissioners may appoint, shall be held to have forfeited his license and such license may be withdrawn.

27. Every license granted by the Commissioners under the 69th Section of the Act shall contain a specification of the boundaries of the Section of the Town for the use of the inhabitants of which the necessary referred to in such license shall be constructed, and the person to whom such license may be granted shall be required to provide such accommodation as the Commissioners may consider sufficient for the use of the inhabitants of such Section.

28. All persons to whom license for keeping public necessaries may be granted shall dispose of therefrom in such manner as the Commissioners may from time to time direct and not otherwise.

29. All persons to whom such license may be granted shall be bound to obey such orders and to be guided by such Rules as may from time to time be made and promulgated by the Commissioners under penalty of the forfeiture of their licenses.

30. All dust, dirt, and rubbish of every kind intended for removal by the conservancy carts shall be deposited by the side of the road near the entrance of the premises from which it may have been conveyed between the hours of 4 and 8 A. M. on every day in the week except Sunday, on which day no rubbish shall be so deposited.

31. The external walls and roofs of huts or other buildings about to be erected or renewed in or near any public highway shall not be made of grass, leaves, mats, or any other such inflamable materials; any person doing or causing to be done any act in contravention of this rule shall be liable to the penalty prescribed for offences against the Bye-Laws passed by the Commissioners.

32. No person shall put on any wall, or on any roof of a house, or on any bank or tree, or on any other place or thing facing any road or public place any preparation of dung to be used as fuel or for any other purpose.

33. No person shall build, or cause to be built, or keep any tattee, privy, or urinal within twenty yards of any public road or street except with the special permission of the Commissioners.

34. No person shall put, or cause to be put, on any house or other building any spout or other thing intended for the conveyance and discharge of water which shall be so placed that the water discharged therefrom shall be thrown or fall upon any public road or thoroughfare.

35. No person shall let loose, or allow to be let loose, any diseased or worn-out animal into any public place or into any place from which such animal can escape into any public place.

36. No person shall allow any pigs to be at large, or shall keep them otherwise than in closed styes within certain boundaries defined by the Municipal Commissioners.

37. No person shall deposit, or cause to be deposited, or allow to remain in or by the side of any public drain, any substance, article, or thing whereby the said drain is, or may be, in any way obstructed.

38. No person shall construct or place over or by the side of any public drain any bridge, platform, building, or structure of any kind except by and with the written permission of the Commissioners and in such manner as they shall direct.

39. No person shall suffer cattle to stray on any public road, or drive them loose upon any such road except when travelling from place to place.

40. No person shall quarry stone or make any excavation within twenty yards of any public road without the sanction in writing of the Municipal Commissioners.

41. No person shall keep a slaughter or piggery or cow house or stable in any place considered by the Commissioners to be objectionable, and all people killing cattle for public consumption shall be compelled to use the slaughter-house unless they obtain exemption from the Municipal Commissioners.

42. No person shall beg on or near any public road, or expose sores for the purpose of exciting charity.

43. No person shall gamble with cards, dice, counters, money, or other instruments of gaming in any shop where spirituous or fermented liquors or intoxicating drugs are sold, or in any house, room or place kept as a common gaming house, or in any public street, place or thoroughfare, or keep any house, room or place as a common gaming house.

44. With a view to provide a fund for paying the cost of conserving the Goom range, a fee of four annas a month will be charged, from the 1st August 1865, on each wood-cutter, and one Rupee on each charcoal burner carrying on his business in the station of Darjeeling, each person on payment of the above sum to be furnished with a badge.

Chairman, Municipal Committee,
Darjeeling.

Proposed Bye-Laws for Purneah Municipality.

I. Every quarterly instalment of the rate and Taxes mentioned in the Act shall be considered to have become due at the commencement of the quarter on account of which such instalment is payable, and may be levied at any time after the commencement of such quarter.

II. Every bill for any sum due on account of the rate leviable under the Act shall always, when possible, be presented to the individual named therein in person; but if such personal presentation be found impossible, the bill shall be left at his place of ordinary residence in the hands of some male member of his family, or one of his servants, and a bill so left shall be deemed to have been presented within the meaning of the Act.

III. The Collecting Officer shall pay daily into the hands of the Cashier of the Magistrate's and Collector's Office, or such other person as may from time to time be nominated by the Commissioners for the purpose of receiving them, all sums collected in the course of the day and shall take his receipt for the same.

IV. If it shall appear to the Municipal Commissioners that any person in their employ ought to be dismissed and their Chairman or Vice-Chairman shall refuse to dismiss such person, then it will be lawful for the majority of said Commissioners, at a regular Meeting, by a written resolution, to declare that such person shall no longer draw any salary from the Municipal Fund.

V. Every person in the employ of the Municipal Commissioners shall be liable to be dismissed at any time from his employment without any cause being assigned for his dismissal, provided nevertheless that no person shall be dismissed without receiving either one month's previous notice of dismissal, or one month's extra salary, and no person shall quit the service of the Commissioners without giving either one month's previous notice, or forfeiting one month's salary.

VI. All persons now holding, or who may hereafter be appointed to any office under the Municipal Commissioners, shall, when required to do so, furnish security to such amount as the Commissioners may from time to time fix, and any person failing to furnish such security within reasonable time, or within such time as the Commissioners may appoint, shall be held to have thereby forfeited his appointment.

VII. No person shall erect or renew the external roof or wall of any hut or other building with grass, leaves, mats, or other such inflammable materials in or near any public highway where the same shall have been prohibited by proclamation issued by the Municipal Commissioners, and any person doing so shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty Rupees.

VIII. Any person who shall, after conviction of an offence under the preceding Bye-law, continue to erect or renew the external roof or wall of any hut or other building with grass, leaves, mats, or other such inflammable materials, or neglect to take down and remove the same within such time as shall be allowed him by the Municipal Commissioners, shall be liable to a further fine, not exceeding five Rupees for every day in which such erection or renewal is continued or such inflammable materials remain unremoved.

IX. The limits required for the purposes of Section 77 of the District Municipal Improvement Act shall be the entire local limits of the jurisdiction of the Municipal Commissioners, within which limits none of the offensive and dangerous trades mentioned in the said Section shall be newly set up or carried on by any person without a license from the Chairman or Vice-Chairman, which license may be at any time re-called by such Officer should he consider the discontinuance of the trade in question desirable.

X. 1.—No person shall perform the offices of nature on or near any public highway, or on the banks of the River Sowrah where it adjoins a public highway, or on the bank of any tank or jheel or pool of water within fifty yards of any public highway.

2. No person shall obstruct any public highway by exposing articles for sale thereon without having first obtained the permission of the Commissioners.

3. No person shall permit cattle, sheep, goats, or pigs to stray on any public highway, or tethering them on or near any public highway.

4. No person shall train or break horses or bullocks by means of a drag without wheels on any public highway.

5. No person shall let off fireworks or discharge fire-arms or any explosive substance on or near any public highway.

6. No person shall neglect or refuse to move an elephant or camel off an embanked road on the approach of a wheeled conveyance or horse, or on being called upon to do so by the driver or rider.

7. Any person throwing, or causing to be thrown, any corpse or any part thereof into any river, nullah, canal, tank or pool, or on the bank of any nullah, canal, tank or pool, or disposing, or causing to be disposed of, any corpse, or any part thereof, otherwise than by burning or burying the same at or in some lawful burning or burial ground.

8. Every person who shall bring or convey, or cause to be brought or conveyed, to any burning ground any corpse, or any part thereof, shall burn it, or cause it to be burnt, within four hours after its arrival at the said burning ground.

9. No person who may burn, or cause to be burnt, at any burning ground any corpse, or any part thereof, shall permit the same, or any part thereof, to remain without being completely reduced to ashes, or to be removed before it shall have been so reduced.

10. No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, any corpse, or any part of a corpse, in any grave constructed of masonry in such manner that the coffin, or body, where there is no coffin used, shall be at a depth less than four feet from the surface ground.

11. No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, any corpse, or part of a corpse, in a grave not constructed of masonry the depth of which grave shall be less than six feet from the surface ground.

12. No person shall throw, or cause to be thrown, any carcass, or any part thereof, into any river, nullah, canal, tank or pool, or on the banks of any river, canal, tank or pool, or on any place other than such places as may from time to time be appointed by the Commissioners for the purpose of receiving such carcasses.

13. Every person within whose premises any animal may die shall, within two hours of its death, either remove the carcass at its own expense to such place as may be appointed by the Commissioners for the reception of such carcass, or report its death to the Overseer of the Division within which those premises may be situated, and in the latter case shall pay to the said Overseer the expense of removing the carcass at such rate as the Commissioners may from time to time determine.

14. No person shall dig, or make or cause to be dug or made, in any place, any tank, pond, ditch, or other excavation without the sanction of the Commissioners previously obtained.

15. No person shall let loose, or cause to be let loose, any diseased or worn-out animal into any public place, or into any place from which such animal can escape into any public place.

16. No person shall allow any pigs to be at large, or shall keep them otherwise than in enclosed styes.

17. All dirt, dust, ashes, and rubbish, sewerage, soil, dung, and filth collected from the highways, houses, privies, sewers, and cesspools by the Municipal Commissioners shall be the property of the Commissioners, who shall have power to sell or dispose of the same as they may think proper, and the money arising from the sale thereof shall be applied to the purposes of the District Municipal Improvement Act.

18. Every owner, occupier, or farmer of any Bazaar shall, within fourteen days after he shall have notice from the Municipal Commissioners so to do, provide such latrines and urinals as in the opinion of the Commissioners may be necessary for the cleanliness and health of such Bazaar.

XI. Every person who shall commit, within the limits of the Station of Purneah, an offence against any of the foregoing Bye-Laws by doing any act prohibited, or by neglecting to do any act directed to be done, by such Bye-Law, shall be punished by fine not exceeding Rupees five, and in case of his continuing such offence after notice from the Commissioners, such person shall be liable to a further penalty not exceeding Rupees two for every day after such notice during which such offence is continued, and such fine may be inflicted by any of the Municipal Commissioners after such enquiry as he may think fit Subject, however, to an appeal to a Committee composed of three Commissioners.

Ditto	3.	Jewellery, real and imitation.
Ditto	4.	Pottery.	Ditto	9.	Hardware and Cutlery.
Ditto	5.	Ornamental carving in Ivory.	Ditto	10.	Miscellaneous.
Ditto	6.	Paper.

N. B.—Prizes in this Department will be awarded according to the excellence of the articles exhibited.

It is requested that intending competitors inform the Secretary to the Central Committee at Berhampore, or the Secretary to one of the District Committees, (which have been formed at Rampore Bauleah, Rungpore, Dinagepore, Maldah, Pubna and Bogra,) of their intention on or before January 1st 1866, giving a general description of the animals and articles which they propose to exhibit.

Printed cards, after having been filled in and signed by the Secretary, or a member of the Central or of one of the District Committees, will be given to intending Exhibitors; and without these cards no animal or article will be admitted into the Show-yard.

Information as to means of transport, &c., will be furnished by the Committees, and bonâ fide expenses of Exhibitors will be given at the discretion of the Committees.

To the Committees is reserved a right of rejection of animals and articles which do not appear worthy of exhibition, and there is also reserved a right of withholding prizes in those cases in which the best specimen exhibited does not appear worthy of a prize.

In many cases in which prizes are given open to competitors from the whole Division, and others to competitors from each District of the Division, it will happen that two prizes, viz., one Divisional and one District prize, will be adjudged to one specimen. In these cases one prize only may be taken, the owner of the specimen shall have his option, and the prize which he elects to decline shall be given to the Exhibitor of the specimen next in merit.

Arrangements will be made for the supply of fodder, &c. The Show-yard being in the immediate vicinity of the Gora Bazaar, no difficulty in regard to the supply of provisions can possibly be experienced.

Ground in the immediate vicinity of the Show-yard has been reserved for the encampment of those Native gentlemen who may desire it.

Extra prizes will be awarded to animals and articles not enumerated in this list in all cases of extraordinary merit.

The latest dates for receipt in the Show-yard of specimens in the various Departments are detailed below:—

Department	I.	January 20th.
Ditto	II.	Ditto 15th.
Ditto	III & IV.	Ditto 13th.

RULES.

1. Applications for Dawks should be addressed to Baboo Umirto Laul Banerjee, Head Clerk, Magistrate's Office, and should be dispatched so as to reach Purneah at least five days before the date on which the Dawk is required.

2. The amount due for the Dawk should be remitted in full in Bank Notes or by Money Order or Transfer Receipt with the Application, with 20 per cent. added for demurrage. This latter sum will be returned if no demurrage becomes due.

3. The Bearers will wait for a Dawk 24 hours from the time fixed. After which they will be available for other Dawks.

4. Travellers are particularly requested to write their names legibly.

5. Each Banghy Bearer will carry 30 seers of baggage; if more is given him, he will probably fail to keep up with the Palkee and the Traveller will be put to inconvenience.

6. Palkies can be supplied. It should be mentioned in the application whether they will be required or not. The charge for a Palkee is 10 Rupees for the whole journey.

7. Only three Dawks can be laid each day, Travellers may therefore be unable to proceed on the day they fix. Timely notice will be given in such cases and the Dawk will be laid on the day following.

8. Travellers are particularly requested to state the day and date on, and hour at, which they intend to leave to principal stages on the line.

No Applications will be attended to which do not comply with the above instructions.

Annual Report of the Howrah Municipality.

From C. F. MONTRESOR, Esq., Commissioner of the Burdwan Division, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 110, dated the 29th August 1865.)

I HAVE the honor to forward, herewith, the first annual report of the Commissioners of the Howrah Municipality, together with a statement of the receipts and disbursements for 1864-65, which has been submitted to me by their Chairman.

Report of the Commissioners of the Howrah Municipality for 1864-65.

IN submitting the first annual report to Government, with a statement of the receipts and disbursements ending 30th April 1865, the Commissioners have the honor to remark that, though it had been primarily determined, upon the extension of Act III. (B. C.) 1864 to Howrah, to introduce the municipal tax upon the 1st of August next ensuing, it was found after close investigation that the valuation which had obtained under the old chowkeedaree system was so utterly untrustworthy, that it was subsequently resolved to re-value the whole of the landed property within the municipality, and before this could be completed, in accordance with the requirements of the Act, another quarter had passed away, so that the municipal fund for 1864-65 was a loser to the extent by which the municipal exceeds the chowkeedaree tax, for the period of half a year. What that difference really is it is impossible now to say, for no system of accounts appear to have been introduced, so that there are no tangible data upon which such a calculation could be based. It may, however, be roughly estimated at Rupees 40,000, and is doubtless an amount of considerable importance at all times; and in this, the first year of the new institution, the loss of so great a sum must have had the effect of crippling the operations of the municipality very seriously, and consequently some of the propositions for 1864-65 re-appear among those for 1865-66.

The Commissioners would draw attention to the fact that the municipal fund had a balance against it at the commencement of the year of Rupees 3,115-1-3, which, from the causes already alluded to, progressively increased, until at the close of the year it had reached the large amount of Rupees 21,115-4. The grant of the revenue obtained by tolls on carts, aggregating Rupees 6,179-11-6, recommended by the Officiating Magistrate, will have the effect, when sanctioned and transferred to the municipality, of reducing its debt to the Treasury to Rupees 14,935-8-6, and this sum has been paid off. The contraction of this debt would have been nearly, if not altogether, avoided—(vide Appendix)—had it not been found necessary, on March 4th last, to stop the collections altogether, and these were not resumed until the 13th April. The consequence was that it took about three weeks more ere the collecting sircars got fully into their work again, so that nearly two months were lost in this respect.

The revisions have necessarily reduced the anticipated income, but not so much perhaps as might have been expected; the gross amount of assessment, as per lists of the Assessor, being Rupees 27,20,210, falling to Rupees 24,28,840 after the lists had been revised. These lists do not include the strip of railway line between Chandmarry and Bally, as neither the valuation of that property, nor the data on which the assessment depended, were agreed upon at the close of the year, and in fact are yet in abeyance.

The Commissioners feel that, with regard to the disbursements, they need not make much remark.

The charges of collections are somewhat heavy owing to the introduction and maintenance of an establishment greater than the exigencies of this service seems to have required, and which has been remedied by a reduction in the number of collecting sircars, though the salaries of part of those that have been retained have been increased.

The charges for conservancy include twelve carts, procured from Messrs. Craig and Co. at a cost of Rupees 160 each.

Police charges, as compared with the income of the past year, have been very great; but as this item is expected not to exceed Rupees 32,000 this year, while the income may be hoped to be not far short of Rupees 1,15,000, the Commissioners would pass on to notice the only other item that appears to call for particular remark, viz., drainage, under which head shews the amount paid on account of plans which the Commissioners have submitted to Government with the view of obtaining its sanction to the scheme proposed. As the opinion of Government was not in favor of that proposed by Mr. W. Bourne, it involved the necessity of preparing another, which has been drawn up by Mr. C. H. Denham, at the Commissioners' request, and which is still before Government. Regarding its execution nothing need be said now, as it will be obvious that the municipal funds are nearly absorbed by roads, conservancy, and police, with the necessary establishment for their supervision; and the Commissioners indulge the hope that they will not be called upon to carry out expensive and unremunerative works until they are in a better financial position.

In conclusion, the Commissioners find, by a comparative review of the several items embodied in the statement now submitted, that the charges of Collection have been about .. 6½ per cent.

Papers relative to the Cultivation of Tea in Sylhet during 1864.

From C. T. Buckland, Esq., Commissioner of Dacca Division, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 152, dated the 12th July 1865.)

In continuation of my No. 124, dated the 20th ultimo, I have the honor to submit, for the information of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, the accompanying copy of a statement from the Collector of Sylhet giving the statistics of the cultivation of tea in that district in 1864 as compared with the results of the preceding year.

2. From this statement it appears that the increase in the extent of land under cultivation in 1864 is not very great, being only 518 Acres in excess of the area in 1863. The outturn, however, in 1864 shews an increase of 24,874 lbs. of tea and 241 maunds of tea seed. There is also a large increase in the number of imported labourers employed in 1864, amounting to 8,338.

3. The outturn of tea for 1865 is estimated at 109, 200 lbs. on an estimated area of 4,005 Acres. The Collector has not sent any letter to explain how these statistics have been obtained by him, but it is presumed that they must have been supplied to him by the planters themselves.

T. WALTON,

Officiating Collector.

From CAPTAIN R. STEWART, Deputy Commissioner of Cachar, to the Commissioner of the Dacca Division,—(No. 152, dated the 30th May 1865.)

As called upon by Government letter No. 1489 of the 18th April, forwarded under cover of your memorandum No. 452 of the 25th idem, I have the honor to report on the progress of tea cultivation in Cachar during the year 1864-65.

2. The number of lots of waste lands settled and applied for under the old Assam rules amounts to 194 and aggregates an area of 556,755 Acres.

3. Of these permission was given by Government for the commutation of three grants to a rent-free tenure under the Resolution of the 17th October 1861, but the necessary steps towards effecting the same have not yet been taken by the applicants.

4. One application consisting of an estimated area of 3,600 Acres was commuted to a rent-free tenure under the waste land rules as a special case, and commutation of 33 other grants and applications, aggregating 72,231 Acres, has been sought and the sum deposited towards the same amounts to Rupees 1,35,228-6-7; but the consummation of the measure awaited the receipt of the forms of conditional deeds, which have been furnished by the Board of Revenue during the present month.

5. There were 11 lots of waste land aggregating 20,400 Acres sold in fee-simple under the new rules at Rupees 2-8 per Acre and one at Rupees 2-9, fetching altogether a sum of Rupees 51,013, of which Rupees 5,101 have been realised, the balance remaining outstanding at 10 per cent. interest, and there are five applications for 6,088 Acres pending on the file, undergoing the preliminary steps to their final sale.

6. Besides these applications there are 90 other applications for tracts of waste lands under the cultivation rules recently promulgated by Government, and the settlement of these await the determination of the rates at which these leases are to be granted.

7. Of the whole number of grants applied for and settled, on 114, aggregating 297,559 Acres, has cultivation been commenced. But I am sorry that I am unable this year to give any details as to the area actually under cultivation. I append, for your information, copy of a circular and forms which I sent to the several managers in Cachar. Of these, those marginally noted have failed to furnish these returns duly filled up, and hence no statistics on these points can be furnished.

Mr. R. Belchambers.
Mr. G. G. Seller.
Messrs. Brownlow and Brothers.

8. I append a letter received from Dr. Davidson, who has the management of many of the gardens, from which no returns are forthcoming, as an explanation of the default. Dr. Davidson complains of the incorrectness of the statistics hitherto furnished; but I would beg to remark that these have been furnished by the planters themselves. Again, he complains that though locally known to be incorrect they still go forth to the public as correct. Now the incorrectness of these statistics as furnished to me may have been known to Dr Davidson, but certainly was not known to me, nor can I see any object in planters furnishing statistics known to be incorrect, and incorrect in their own disfavor, knowing, as they must have known, at thethese statistics would be published.

9. The same causes which prevent me from giving details as to area in cultivation prevent my giving details as to crop and as to labour employed

10. As regards the latter, last year's returns, however little to be trusted, shewed 14,435 imported labourers in the district. The accompanying statement shews that 16,047 started from Calcutta, 477 died, and 512 absconded on the way, 15,058 only arriving and being distributed in the district during the year. This would give us 29,493 to be accounted for. Out of this a considerable number of time-expired men have left the district, large numbers have absconded, and the mortality has also been very high; but details cannot be given except for those gardens which have furnished returns, and these are appended.

11. Up to the end of 1864 from 1st May of that year, a sum of Rupees 14,08,233 was drawn from the Treasury by tea-planters. After that date drafts were temporarily suspended and planters had for some time to obtain their remittance from other sources. The amount thus obtained cannot be estimated; but from 1st January to 30th April a sum of Rupees 2,75,727 has been taken from the Treasury, making a total of Rupees 16,83,960. Adding this to the 37 lakhs computed as having been made up to end of last year, and allowing 4 laks as having been privately imported by planters during January and February, we have a sum of 57 lakhs, as representing the entire disbursement up to date in Cachar.

From R. B. DAVIDSON, ESQ., to CAPTAIN R. STEWART, Deputy Commissioner of Cachar,—(dated the 5th May 1865.)

IN refernce to your memorandum No. 65, reminding me of your request made some time back for returns of coolies, cultivated area, &c., at the gardens under my management, I hope you will excuse my remissness in not having addressed you on this subject in proper time.

I beg to inform you that, in view of the incorrect statistics which have in previous years been in this way collected from planters in this district, I purpose not to make any return for my gardens this season.

I trust you will acquit me of any intended disrespect to Government or yourself personally in my non-compliance with your request. On the contrary, I should gladly add my quota to the statistics of the district could I be assured that other planters would do so accurately; but I decline to contribute to statistics which, though known locally to be inexact, still go forth to the public as correct.

From CAPTAIN R. STEWART, Deputy Commissioner of Cachar, to the Manager of ,—(No. , dated the .)

I HAVE the honor to request you will be so good as to fill in and return to me the accompanying forms, in order that I may be enabled to submit my annual report on the progress of tea cultivation in Cachar as soon after the close of the official year as possible.

Papers respecting the fall of an Aerolite in the Sub-Division of Sherghotty.

From J. W. DALRYMPLE, Esq., Officiating Commissioner of the Patna Division,—(No. 329, dated the 5th October 1865.)

COPIES forwarded to the Government of Bengal with reference to orders No. 1686 of 14th April last. The aerolite is forwarded separately by dâk banghy.

From W. C. COSTLEY, Esq., Deputy Magistrate of Sherghotty, to A. HOPE, Esq., Magistrate of Behar,—(dated Gya, the 29th September 1865.)

WITH reference to your memorandum No. 838, dated the 26th instant, I have the honor to submit, as requested, a circumstantial report connected with the fall of the aerolite referred to therein.

2. As stated in my demi-official note of the 23rd idem, forwarding the stone to you for your inspection, I at first doubted whether it was a true aerolite or not, in consequence of the color being different from the one that fell in the Furreedpore district in 1850, which, if I recollect right, was brown in exterior appearance and the flint or silica—of which an iron aerolites are chiefly composed—being distinctly apparent; but I find from Mr. Peppe, the Sub-Deputy Opium Agent, that there can be no doubt of its being a true aerolite, as he has already seen two that fell in this district which presented a similar structure and appearance.

3. The replies to the questions put by me in conformity with the instructions contained in the letter sent from the Trustees of the British Museum, dated 23rd January 1863, which was forwarded with your memorandum No. 207, dated 12th May 1863, have not been received; but Hanooman Singh, a resident of Mouzah Ahiherrah, in Pergunnah Bilounjah, Thannah Nubbeenuggur, who witnessed the fall of the aerolite, states that on the 25th August last, about 9 A. M., a stone fell from the heavens, accompanied by a very loud report, in some upland appertaining to Mouzah Umjhiawar, burying itself in the earth knee deep, and that at the time the sky was cloudy and of a murky color, the air calm, and no rain. He does not say what appearance the aerolite presented, whether it fell obliquely or straight down, and whether the stone was envoloped in fire or not, how soon after the stone was taken out of the earth, and if it was warm or cold; my questions have been put to elicit this information, as also the position of the beholder in relation to the aerolite at the time it was falling.

4. When examined the stone was found to be broken in two pieces, but as it reached me in three pieces, I imagine that the smaller piece must have been chipped off by some accident afterwards. This piece is in the possession of Mr. O'Connor, Assistant Superintendent of Police, who will, I have no doubt, willingly make it over to you if required.

5. The latitude and longitude of the spot where the aerolite fell can, I fancy, be approximately obtained from the knowledge of its position with reference to known localities. But this information, which I do not at present possess, together with the replies to the queries put by me and noted above, will have to be furnished hereafter, as they appear necessary to make the report more ample and can conveniently form an addendum to it.

Memorandum from A. HOPE, Esq., Magistrate of Behar,—(No. 363, dated the 30th September 1865.)

FORWARDED to the Commissioner of Patna with reference to his Circular No. 85, dated 27th April 1863.

Particulars connected with the aerolite are given in the accompanying letter, dated 29th instant, from the Deputy Magistrate of Sherghotty.

From S. C. BAYLEY, Esq., Officiating Secretary to the Government Bengal, to the Secretary to the Asiatic Society,—(No. 6081, dated the 26th October 1865.)

I AM directed by the Lieutenant-Governor to forward, for the Museum of the Asiatic Society, an aerolite which fell on the 25th August last in an upland appertaining to Mouzah Umjhiawar, in the Sub-Division of Sherghotty.

2. I am also to forward, for the information of the Society, a copy of a communication* from the Commissioner of Patna containing some particulars connected with the fall of the stone, which was witnessed by Hanooman Singh, a resident of Mouzah Ahiherrah, in Pergunnah Bilounjah, Thannah Nubbeenuggur. The further particulars promised by the Deputy Magistrate of Sherghotty will be communicated to you as soon as they are received in this office.

* No. 329, dated 5th instant, and enclosures.

3. I am to request that your Society will be good enough to cause all the particulars of interest connected with this aerolite to be communicated to the authorities of the British Museum.

Report on the Cultivation of Cinchona at Darjeeling during the Month of August 1865.

From T. ANDERSON, Esq., M. D., Superintendent of the Botanic Gardens, and in charge of the Cinchona Cultivation in Bengal, to S. C. BAYLEY, Esq., Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 15, dated the 20th September 1865.)

I HAVE the honor to submit the annexed Report on the cultivation of Cinchona at Darjeeling during the month of August 1865.

Report on the Cultivation of Cinchona at Darjeeling during August 1865.

THE growth of the plants continues to be satisfactory, and the increase by cuttings has been successfully carried on during the month. The total number of plants and partially rooted cuttings of all species on the 1st September was 92,038. The number of cuttings made during the month was 11,121.

2. The weather during the month of August has differed very little from that of June and July; there has been excessive rain, complete saturation of the atmosphere, accompanied by dense mist, and almost no sunshine, while an equable temperature has prevailed everywhere. Only on five days did no rain fall; the total fall of rain during the month at the 4th plantation was 41 inches, or 136·58 inches from the 1st of January.

The temperature at all the plantations has varied little from the temperature of the two previous months.

At the 4th plantation the mean maxium temperature was 85·51, the mean minimum 66·7, and the mean temperature 76·16.

At the 5th plantation nine observations of the minimum thermometer give a mean minimum temperature of 71·9.

3. During the month the number of plants of C. Officinalis at the 1st and 2nd plantations has been increased to 100 plants at each plantation, making the total number of specimens permanently planted out 3,436.

4. The least and greatest growth of each species at the different plantations is given in this table.

Table shewing the Maximum and Minimum growth of species of Cinchonæ during August at five different Plantations.

5. I have lately been able to correct an error which occurred in determining the height above the sea of the five plantations. The altitude of these plantations was found by observations made by a boiling point thermometer, whose readings had been compared with a standard at the Calcutta Observatory. A large bubble of air had evidently become entangled among the mercury in the bulb during the journey from Calcutta, thus completely deranging the instrument. The error in the thermometer was detected after determining the height of a place in the Teesta Valley, whose altitude had previously been found by a mercurial barometer, but it was then too late to repeat the observations at the Cinchona plantations with trustworthy instruments. During the present rainy season I found time to make a series of observations at all the plantations with two mountain barometers by Newman, and also with a boiling point thermometer. These instruments had all been compated with standards at Calcutta, and I tested them at Darjeeling at a point whose height had been determined by Dr. Hooker.

The corrections I have made are as follows:—

1st Plantation,	supposed height	5,500	feet,	true height	5,321

THE following Rules are published for general information:—

Rules under Section 4, Act VI. (B. C) of 1864, entitled an Act to provide for the periodical inspection of Steam Boilers and Prime Movers attached thereto in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta.

APPOINTMENT OF THE MEMBERS OF THE COMMISSION AND DUTIES OF INSPECTORS.

I.—There shall be opened, in some convenient part of the Town, an Office for the Commissioners for the inspection of boilers.

II.—A Boiler Commission shall be appointed for Calcutta, to consist of Commissioners as follows:—

1. The Commissioner of Police.
2. The Mint Master.
3. Such Engineers or Owners or Managers of Mills and Foundries as may be nominated Members of the Commission by the Government of Bengal.

III.—There shall be an Engineer Inspector, who shall also be Secretary to the Commission, with such Assistants as shall from time to time be found necessary.

IV.—The Commission shall meet periodically (at least once a month) to arrange for the inspection of boilers; to receive and consider the reports of the Engineer; to control the proceedings of the Engineer; and to settle all disputes between the Engineer and Boiler-owners, as these may arise, and to act as final referee in all cases.

V.—The Engineer shall attend at the Office and keep such records as the Commission may from time to time direct.

VI.—The Engineer shall keep in Form B1, B2, an index register and dimension sheet, in the order authorised by the Commissioners, of all boilers within the limits of the Act.

VII.—The Engineer shall inspect these boilers in the regular order laid down in this list except any deviation from this order be specially sanctioned by the Commissioners.

VIII.—There shall be three kinds of inspection of boilers:—

A. A thorough examination, once every twelve months, inside and outside, to be made by the Engineer in person, for which purpose the boilers must be emptied, cool, and clean and flues swept, and if required by the Engineer, any parts or settings removed for a complete examination of the boiler and machinery in every part.

B. An ordinary examination, once every four months, of a boiler while on work.

C. A special examination, in either Form A or B, at the request of the owner.

IX. The Engineer shall annually inspect every boiler on his list before he grants a certificate or permission to work the boiler.

This examination (A thorough) is to be inside and out. The Engineer shall give one week's notice (as per Form C.) of every such intended examination, (A thorough,) and if after that notice the boilers are not cool, clean, and ready for inspection on the date named, the Engineer shall prohibit the boilers from working and shall report the case to the Commissioners.

Further, if any request be made to remove fittings or setting, and such be not complied with, the Engineer shall in like manner stop the working of the boilers.

X.—The Engineer shall submit to the Commissioners his report on every boiler inspected in (Form D1,) which shall be recorded in the Office, and a report (Form D2) sent to the owner of the boiler, and the certificate granted in Form E.

XI.—The Engineer or his Assistants shall examine (B, ordinary) every boiler and apparatus once every four months, submitting a report to the Commissioners in Form D, on which the Certificate will be endorsed by the Engineer.

These examinations will be conducted while the boiler is at work, and without giving any notice to the owner.

XII.—The Engineer shall be provided with boiler testing pump, indicator, and guages and, shall under the following rules, test and indicate boilers:—

a. Whenever any owner of a boiler may wish to have a boiler tested, or to have his engine indicated, if he make application to the Commissioners, the Engineer shall test the boiler or indicate the engines on payment of the fees laid down.

b. These reports and diagrams, Form F,* shall be sent in original to boiler-owners and copy filed in Office.

* Form of Diagrams not yet ready.

XIII.—The Engineer shall report weekly or monthly to the Commissioners as per Form H, and the Assistant Inspector shall report daily to the Engineer in Form G.

Table of Fees payable for Certificates granted under the Act.

The following scale of fees shall for the present be charged:—

	Rs.
A. Thorough examination of boiler, with certificate	30 for one boiler. 50 for two. 10 for each additional.
	Rs.
B. Ordinary examination of boiler with endorsement of certificate ...	10
C. Special examination, if thorough ...	30
,, if ordinary ...	10

On bids of Rs. 1,600 but less than Rs. 2,000	„ 400 „
and so on, Rs 100 being added to the deposit for every additional Rs. 400 bid.

6. The Promissory Notes taken on the day of sale under the last mentioned condition, if remaining unredeemed at 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be placed in the hands of the Solicitor to the Government for realization in such manner as to him shall seem fit.

7. No tender of money, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Public Securities on account of Opium, upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be afterwards accepted.

8. The Opium now advertised for sale shall be paid for within fifteen clear days from the day of sale, and in case any lots of such Opium shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the Cash Deposit made under the fifth condition, or any Public Securities that may have been deposited on account of such lots or Chests, shall be forfeited, and the Opium shall be disposed of on account of Government at such time, and in such manner, as the Board of Revenue shall think fit, and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the Opium was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale.

9. Purchasers taking out Certificates or Orders for the delivery of Opium after making full payment as above prescribed, shall have the option of naming the number of lots of their purchase, which they may desire to be included in each Certificate or Order, and it is to be clearly understood that the Certificates or Orders so taken out shall be considered final, and not afterwards changeable for other Certificates or Orders authorizing the delivery of single lots or of a different number of lots or Chests, whether more or less than the number of lots or Chests originally required to be included in each Certificate or Order.

10. No deposit of Public Securities under the fifth of the present condition will be received in this Office, except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the Sale Book, or his authorized Agent. The Receipt for deposit of Public Securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the Securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

11. The Officer superintending the sale on the part of the Board of Revenue is empowered to reject, at his discretion, the bid of any individual unless such individual shall, on demand, tender at the time a deposit either in Government of India Notes, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Government Securities a sum equal to the amount, for which a Promissory Note would otherwise be taken under the fifth of these conditions.

12. With a view to prevent fictitious bidings designed to obstruct the sale, it is hereby notified that the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall be competent, at any time during the sale, to withdraw any unsold lot and immediately to put it up again for sale at a maximum upset price, diminishing the same gradually until a bid is obtained, and the first bonâ fide bidder for a lot after it has been offered for sale in the mode here described, shall be held and declared to be the purchaser of the said lot and the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall also be competent to dispose in the same manner of as many of the subsequent lots as he may think proper, provided always that no lot shall be sold below the minimum price of 800 Rupees specified in the second of these conditions.

13. The purchaser of any lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession at the same price and under the same conditions any number of lots of the same Agency Opium not exceeding altogether twenty-five lots; provided always that there remain a sufficient number of lots of the Opium to complete the said twenty-five.

14. In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the Opium included in this Notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall and may be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

15. The following papers will be exhibited for inspection on the day of sale, or may be seen previously to that date by application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue:—

No. 1.—Certificate of the Opium advertized for sale.

No. 2.—Report of the examination of such Opium.

16. The Public are hereby informed that, in providing the investment of the Behar and Benares Opium for the year 1864-65, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years, to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the Cakes, and to have the due proportion of Opium put into each Cake. An account of the weight of the drug when packed at Behar and Benares, and a Statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken for the purpose of comparison from the dispatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue.

17. Any further information respecting weight or quality of the Opium advertized for sale that may be desired by parties connected with the trade will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on application at the Office of the Board of Revenue, but, in accordance with established usage, under no circumstances will the Board entertain or recognize any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of Opium, or adulteration of the drug which may be preferred on reference to chests after the sale and delivery of the Opium for shipment.

18. It is hereby further notified that, under the 6th Article of the Convention between Great Britain and France, dated the 7th March 1815, quoted below, the Agents in India of the French Government, or persons duly appointed by them, are entitled to demand that, out of the quantities of Behar and Benares Opium declared as above for sale at the twelve sales of the year 1866, there shall be delivered to them at the average of the particular sale or sales to which the Opium so applied for may belong, a quantity not exceeding in the aggregate 300 chests, and the Agents of the French Government must make requisition specifying the quantity of Opium required by them at any particular sale within thirty days from the advertisement of such intended sale, provided, however, that the Agents of the French Government may make such requisition for the whole quantity within thirty days from the publication of this Notification. If the Agents of the French Government shall not make the requisition for Opium within the time above-mentioned the entire quantity of about 40,000 Chests of Behar and Benares, as above estimated, will be brought to sale in the usual manner, and if they shall make application for quantity of Opium to be delivered to them out of the quantity advertised for sale at each or any of the twelve sales above-mentioned, but shall not pay for it within the prescribed period of payment, the Government of Bengal reserves to itself the right of disposing of the Opium which the French authorities may so fail to pay for, either by increasing the quantity reserved at the sale next ensuing the date of payment, or by selling it at a sale to be held expressly for the purpose.

Behar	24 000
Benares	16,000
	40,000

Article of the Convention above referred to.—

Article 6th—"With regard to the Trade in "Opium, it is agreed between the high contracting parties that each of the periodical sales of "that article, there shall be reserved for the "French Government, and delivered upon requisition duly made by the Agents of His Most "Christian Majesty, or by the persons duly "appointed by them, the number of Chests so "applied for, provided that such supply shall not "exceed three hundred Chests in each year, and "the price for the same shall be determined by "the average rate at which Opium shall have "been sold at every such periodical sale, it being "understood that, if the quantity of Opium "applied for at any one time shall not be taken "on account of the French Government by the "Agents of His Most Christian Majesty within "the usual period of delivery, the quantity so "applied for shall nevertheless be considered as so "much in reduction of the three hundred Chests "herein before-mentioned. The requisitions for "Opium as aforesaid are to be addressed to the "Governor General at Calcutta within thirty "days after notice of the intended sales shall "have been published in the Government Gazette."

[2035]

The following series of Bye-Laws proposed for the Municipality of Chittagong is published for general information.

1. The Municipal Commissioners may assign to any highway the name by which such highway is to be known, and may cause such name to be put up or painted on a conspicuous part of any house, wall, or building or other place in such highway, and no person shall destroy, pull down, or efface such name, or put up any name different from that put up by order of the Commissioners.

2. The Municipal Commissioners may cause a number to be affixed on a conspicuous place on the outer side of any house or building, or at the entrance of the enclosure thereof fronting any highway, and no person shall destroy, efface, or pull down such number, or put up a different number.

3. No person shall tether, or cause to be tethered, or allow to stray, on any public highway any cattle, goats, or other animals, nor shall any person let loose, or allow to get loose, any diseased or worn-out animal in any place whence it can escape into any highway or other public place. No elephant shall, between the hours of 4 and 8 in the evening, be taken along the thoroughfares ordinarily used for driving and which the Commissioners shall, for the purpose of this rule, from time to time notify, and no pigs shall be let loose or kept otherwise than in closed pens.

4. No person shall, within the limit of the Municipality, dig any tank, pond, or other excavation whatever, excepting graves, watercourses, and wells, without the permission, in writing, of the Commissioners, who shall have power to prescribe the place and manner of making such excavations.

5. No person shall, without the permission of the Commissioners, set up any obstruction in any nullah or watercourse which it may be necessary to keep clear and unobstructed for purposes of public drainage and conservancy; and the Municipal Commissioners shall have power to remove any such obstruction, and the expense of such removal shall be paid by the person erecting the same, and shall be recoverable as a debt due to the Commissioners.

6. The owner or occupier of any part of the bank of any such nullah or watercourse shall be bound to keep it free from filth, dense vegetation, or other nuisance or obstruction, and shall at all times allow the Commissioners, or any of their servants duly authorised, to have access to such nullah or watercourse for any purpose of public conservancy.

No owner, occupier, or farmer of any market shall knowingly permit the commission of any nuisance within such market, but shall keep the same in a clean and proper state, and shall, within fourteen days after receipt of notice from Commissioners so to do, provide such latrines or public necessaries as may, in the opinion of the Commissioners, be necessary for the cleanliness and health of the said market.

11. No owner, occupier, or farmer of any market shall admit or permit to remain any article of food which has become unfit for human consumption, and any person authorised by the Commissioners may at any time between sunrise and sunset enter upon and inspect the premises of the said market.

12. No corpse shall be carried through any public highway unless it be decently covered and totally concealed from public view.

13. No owner shall throw, or cause to be thrown, any corpse or carcass, or any part thereof, into any nullah, tank or watercourse.

14. No person shall dispose, or cause to be disposed off, any corpse, or any part thereof, otherwise than by burning or burying the same at or in some lawful public burning or burial ground.

15. Every person who shall bring, or cause to be brought or conveyed to any burning ground any corpse or part of a corpse, shall burn, or cause it to be burnt, within six hours after arrival at the burning ground, and he shall not permit the same to remain or to be removed without being completely reduced to ashes.

16. No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, any corpse, or part of a corpse, in any grave so that the body shall be at a less depth than four feet from the surface of the ground, nor shall any grave be dug at a distance of less than two feet from any existing grave.

17. Every person within whose premises any animal may die shall, within three hours of its death, or if the death shall occur at night, then within three hours after daylight, remove the carcass at his own expense to such place as

DARJEELING,
The 7th November 1865.

Darjeeling Municipality.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal having, under the provisions of Section 85, Act III. (B.C.) of 1864, approved and confirmed the following Bye-laws proposed by the Municipal Commissioners for the Town of Darjeeling, they are hereby published for general information:—

RULES for regulating the time and mode of collecting the rate and taxes mentioned in the Act.

1. Each quarterly instalment of the rate and taxes mentioned in the Act shall be considered to have become due at the commencement of the quarter on account of which such instalment is payable and may be levied at any time after the commencement of such quarter, that is to say,—

The instalment payable on account of the quarter ending	May be levied on and after
31st July	1st May.
31st Oct. ...	1st Aug.
31st Jan. ...	1st Nov.
30th April...	1st Feb.

2. The collection of the rate and taxes mentioned in the Act shall be superintended by an Officer appointed for the purpose by the Municipal Commissioners in the manner hereinafter described; such Officer shall be remunerated either by salary or commission according as the Commissioners shall direct. In case of remuneration by salary the Commissioners shall fix the amount of such salary and they shall provide and maintain at their own expense a Subordinate Establishment sufficient for the purpose of making the collections. In case of remuneration by commission such commission shall be payable on all sums collected on account of the aforesaid rate and taxes and paid into the hands of the Officer appointed to receive the same and shall be calculated at such rate per cent. on such sums as the Commissioners may from time to time fix in consideration of such payment, the collecting Officer shall provide and maintain at his own expense an Establishment sufficient for the purpose of making the collections, and shall be responsible for all sums collected and received by any person on that Establishment; he shall, moreover, give security for the due performance of the duties of his office to such an amount as the Commissioners may from time to time fix and determine; and he shall be in all respects bound by, and amenable to, the Laws hereinafter enacted, and to all other such Laws and Rules as may from time to time be duly enacted and made for the regulation of the conduct of persons employed by the Commissioners in the same manner as if he were remunerated by salary.

3. The collecting Officer shall be furnished by the Commissioners with copies of the lists described in Sections 29 and 39 of the Act.

From these lists he shall cause to be prepared the bills prescribed by Section 41 of the Act in the Form A. contained in the Schedule hereto annexed and shall sign the same, the bills so prepared and signed shall be issued to the subordinate Officers on the collecting Establishment, and shall be by them presented to the persons named therein in the manner hereinafter described.

4. The collecting Officer shall keep separate Registers of all bills issued by him for sums due on account of the rate and on account of each of the different descriptions of taxes leviable under the Act; in these Registers he shall enter the date of each bill, the name of the person liable, the period for which the sum is due, the amount of that sum, and the name of the subordinate Officer to whom the bill was issued. On receipt of the amount of any bill the entry in the Register referring thereto shall be scored through.

5. Every bill for any sum due on account of the rate or taxes leviable under the Act shall always, when possible, be presented to the individual named therein in person; but if such personal presentation be found impossible the bill shall be left at his place of ordinary residence in the hands of some male member of his family, or of one of his servants, and a bill so left shall be deemed to have been presented within the meaning of the Act.

6. Should presentation of any such bill in any of the Forms above described be found impossible, the subordinate Officer to whom the bill shall have been issued shall return it to the collecting Officer with a certificate endorsed thereon to the effect that presentation has been found impossible.

7. The subordinate Officer to whom a bill may be issued for presentation shall receive the amount of such bill at the time of presentation, or at any time within ten days from the date on which the bill shall have been first presented by him, and shall pay the amount so received to the collecting Officer without delay.

8. If the amount of any bill issued by the collecting Officer shall not have been received by him, or if such bill shall not have been returned with the certificate above described duly endorsed thereon within fifteen days after issue, he shall call upon the subordinate Officer to whom it was issued for an explanation of the cause of delay in realizing the amount or in returning the bill, and if it shall appear from such explanation that the bill has been presented in any of the modes above described, and that the amount has not been paid within ten days after presentation, or that presentation in any of those modes has been found impossible the collecting Officer shall then make application to the Municipal Commissioners with a view to the recovery of the amount in the manner prescribed by the 45th and following Sections of the Act.

9. The collecting Officer shall pay daily into the hands of the Cashier of the Magistrate and Collector's Office, or such other person as may from time to time be nominated by the Commissioners for the purpose of receiving them, all sums collected in the course of the day and shall take his receipt for the same.

10. In addition to the Registers above described the collecting Officer shall keep such other books, and he shall make such reports and furnish such returns as may from time to time be prescribed by the Commissioners.

Rules for the regulation of the conduct of persons employed by the Commissioners.

11. All persons appointed to any office under the Municipal Commissioners shall, in the absence of any specific engagement to the contrary by accepting such appointment, be held to have acknowledged themselves to be amenable to the Rules hereinafter contained and to all such Rules as may from time to time be passed by the Commissioners for the regulation of the conduct of persons employed by them.

12. All persons employed by the Commissioners on their fixed establishment whose services may be no longer required shall be at all times liable to discharge after receipt of previous notice for the period of one month, and no such person shall withdraw from the duties of his office without having given previous notice for the period of one month.

13. All persons now holding, or who may hereafter be appointed to, any office under the Municipal Commissioners shall, when requested so to do, furnish security to such amount as the Commissioners may from time to time fix, and any person failing to furnish such security within reasonable time, or within such time as the Commissioners may appoint, shall be held to have thereby forfeited his appointment and may be removed from office.

14. Whenever it shall be proved to the satisfaction of the Commissioners that any person in their employ has been guilty of any violation of duty, or wilful breach or neglect of any rule, regulation, or order made or given by competent authority, or has withdrawn from the duties of his office without permission, or without having given previous notice for the period of one month, or has done any act by the performance of which, or has omitted to do any act by the non-performance of which, the Commissioners shall have suffered, or may have incurred the risk of suffering loss or injury, or has failed to perform any duty with all due diligence, or has been guilty of any act of insubordination towards any superior Officer, or has accepted or obtained, or agreed to accept or attempted to obtain, from any person, for himself, or for any other person, any gratification whatever other than authorized remuneration in respect of any official act, or has, in his official capacity, given any information which he knows or believes to be false, or has committed any offence punishable under the Indian Penal Code, such person shall be liable to punishment by fine not exceeding three months' pay, or by suspension from office for such period as the Commissioners may fix, or by summary dismissal from his situation, in addition to any penalty to which he may be liable under the provisions of the Penal Code. Any person so dismissed shall forfeit all pay and allowances which may be due to him at the time of such dismissal.

15. Nothing herein contained shall be held to debar the Commissioners from instituting proceedings in any Civil Court having jurisdiction gainst any person being or having been in their employ with a view to the recovery of damages for any loss or injury which they may consider themselves to have sustained in consequence of any act done or omitted to be done by such person.

Rules for the management of matters connected with Conservancy.

16. Every owner, farmer, or occupier of a market or shop for the sale of butcher's meat, fish, fruit, or vegetables shall keep the same in a clean and proper state, and no food shall be sold or exposed for sale which is in such a state as to be unfit for consumption.

17. Every owner, farmer, or occupier of any such market or shop shall admit, at all reasonable hours, any person authorized by the Commissioners to enter and inspect the same.

18. No person shall throw, or cause to be thrown, any corpse or any part thereof into any river, nullah, or ravine, or into any forest or other waste land, or shall dispose or cause to be disposed of any corpse or any part thereof, otherwise than by burning or burying the same at or in some lawful burning or burying ground.

19. Every person who shall bring or convey, or cause to be brought or conveyed to any burying or burning ground, any corpse or any part thereof shall bury or burn it, or cause it to be buried or burnt, within four hours after arrival at the said burying or burning ground.

20. No person who may burn, or cause to be burnt at any burning ground, any corpse, or part of a corpse shall permit the same or any part thereof to remain without being completely reduced to ashes, or to be removed before it shall have been so reduced.

21. No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, any corpse, or any part of a corpse, in any grave constructed of masonry in such manner that the top of coffin, or body where there is no coffin used, shall be at a depth less than three feet from the surface ground.

22. No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, any corpse, or part of a corpse in a grave not constructed of masonry the depth of which grave shall be less than six feet from the surface ground.

23. No person shall dig or construct a grave at a distance less than two feet from any other existing grave.

24. No person shall throw, or cause to be thrown, any carcass, or any part thereof into any river, nullah, or ravine, or on any forest or other waste land within certain defined limits, or on any place other than such places as may, from time to time, be appointed by the Commissioners for the purpose of receiving such carcasses.

25. Every person within whose premises any animal may die shall, within two hours of its death, either remove the carcass at his own expense to such place as may be appointed by the Commissioners for the reception of such carcasses, or report its death to the Conservancy Overseer of the Division within which those premises may be situated, and in the latter case shall pay to the said Overseer the expense of removing the carcass at such rate as the Commissioners may from time to time determine.

26. Every person to whom a license for keeping a necessary for public accommodation may be granted by the Commissioners under the 69th Section of the Act shall construct such necessary in such manner and such out-offices and appurtenances as the Commissioners may, from time to time, prescribe; any such person refusing or neglecting so to construct such necessary, or to make such alterations in and additions to it as the Commissioners may at any time direct within a reasonable time, or within such time as the Commissioners may appoint, shall be held to have forfeited his license and such license may be withdrawn.

27. Every license granted by the Commissioners under the 69th Section of the Act shall contain a specification of the boundaries of the Section of the Town for the use of the inhabitants of which the necessary referred to in such license shall be constructed, and the person to whom such license may be granted shall be required to provide such accommodation as the Commissioners may consider sufficient for the use of the inhabitants of such Section.

28. All persons to whom license for keeping public necessaries may be granted shall dispose of therefrom in such manner as the Commissioners may from time to time direct and not otherwise.

29. All persons to whom such license may be granted shall be bound to obey such orders and to be guided by such Rules as may from time to time be made and promulgated by the Commissioners under penalty of the forfeiture of their licenses.

30. All dust, dirt, and rubbish of every kind intended for removal by the conservancy carts shall be deposited by the side of the road near the entrance of the premises from which it may have been conveyed between the hours of 4 and 8 A. M. on every day in the week except Sunday, on which day no rubbish shall be so deposited.

31. The external walls and roofs of huts or other buildings about to be erected or renewed in or near any public highway shall not be made of grass, leaves, mats, or any other such inflamable materials; any person doing or causing to be done any act in contravention of this rule shall be liable to the penalty prescribed for offences against the Bye-Laws passed by the Commissioners.

32. No person shall put on any wall, or on any roof of a house, or on any bank or tree, or on any other place or thing facing any road or public place any preparation of dung to be used as fuel or for any other purpose.

33. No person shall build, or cause to be built, or keep any tattee, privy, or urinal within twenty yards of any public road or street except with the special permission of the Commissioners.

34. No person shall put, or cause to be put, on any house or other building any spout or other thing intended for the conveyance and discharge of water which shall be so placed that the water discharged therefrom shall be thrown or fall upon any public road or thoroughfare.

35. No person shall let loose, or allow to be let loose, any diseased or worn-out animal into any public place or into any place from which such animal can escape into any public place.

36. No person shall allow any pigs to be at large, or shall keep them otherwise than in closed styes within certain boundaries defined by the Municipal Commissioners.

37. No person shall deposit, or cause to be deposited, or allow to remain in or by the side of any public drain, any substance, article, or thing whereby the said drain is, or may be, in any way obstructed.

38. No person shall construct or place over or by the side of any public drain any bridge, platform, building, or structure of any kind except by and with the written permission of the Commissioners and in such manner as they shall direct.

39. No person shall suffer cattle to stray on any public road, or drive them loose upon any such road except when travelling from place to place.

40. No person shall quarry stone or make any excavation within twenty yards of any public road without the sanction in writing of the Municipal Commissioners.

41. No person shall keep a slaughter or piggery or cow house or stable in any place considered by the Commissioners to be objectionable, and all people killing cattle for public consumption shall be compelled to use the slaughter-house unless they obtain exemption from the Municipal Commissioners.

42. No person shall beg on or near any public road, or expose sores for the purpose of exciting charity.

43. No person shall gamble with cards, dice, counters, money, or other instruments of gaming in any shop where spirituous or fermented liquors or intoxicating drugs are sold, or in any house, room or place kept as a common gaming house, or in any public street, place or thoroughfare, or keep any house, room or place as a common gaming house.

44. With a view to provide a fund for paying the cost of conserving the Goom range, a fee of four annas a month will be charged, from the 1st August 1865, on each wood-cutter, and one Rupee on each charcoal burner carrying on his business in the station of Darjeeling. each person on payment of the above sum to be furnished with a badge.

Proposed Bye-Laws for Purneah Municipality.

I. Every quarterly instalment of the rate and Taxes mentioned in the Act shall be considered to have become due at the commencement of the quarter on account of which such instalment is payable, and may be levied at any time after the commencement of such quarter.

II. Every bill for any sum due on account of the rate leviable under the Act shall always, when possible, be presented to the individual named therein in person; but if such personal presentation be found impossible, the bill shall be left at his place of ordinary residence in the hands of some male member of his family, or one of his servants, and a bill so left shall be deemed to have been presented within the meaning of the Act.

III. The Collecting Officer shall pay daily into the hands of the Cashier of the Magistrate's and Collector's Office, or such other person as may from time to time be nominated by the Commissioners for the purpose of receiving them, all sums collected in the course of the day and shall take his receipt for the same.

IV. If it shall appear to the Municipal Commissioners that any person in their employ ought to be dismissed and their Chairman or Vice-Chairman shall refuse to dismiss such person, then it will be lawful for the majority of said Commissioners, at a regular Meeting, by a written resolution, to declare that such person shall no longer draw any salary from the Municipal Fund.

V. Every person in the employ of the Municipal Commissioners shall be liable to be dismissed at any time from his employment without any cause being assigned for his dismissal, provided nevertheless that no person shall be dismissed without receiving either one month's previous notice of dismissal, or one month's extra salary, and no person shall quit the service of the Commissioners without giving either one month's previous notice, or forfeiting one month's salary.

VI. All persons now holding, or who may hereafter be appointed to any office under the Municipal Commissioners, shall, when required to do so, furnish security to such amount as the Commissioners may from time to time fix, and any person failing to furnish such security within reasonable time, or within such time as the Commissioners may appoint, shall be held to have thereby forfeited his appointment.

VII. No person shall erect or renew the external roof or wall of any hut or other building with grass, leaves, mats, or other such inflammable materials in or near any public highway where the same shall have been prohibited by proclamation issued by the Municipal Commissioners, and any person doing so shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty Rupees.

VIII. Any person who shall, after conviction of an offence under the preceding Bye-law, continue to erect or renew the external roof or wall of any hut or other building with grass, leaves, mats, or other such inflammable materials, or neglect to take down and remove the same within such time as shall be allowed him by the Municipal Commissioners, shall be liable to a further fine, not exceeding five Rupees for every day in which such erection or renewal is continued or such inflammable materials remain unremoved.

IX. The limits required for the purposes of Section 77 of the District Municipal Improvement Act shall be the entire local limits of the jurisdiction of the Municipal Commissioners, within which limits none of the offensive and dangerous trades mentioned in the said Section shall be newly set up or carried on by any person without a license from the Chairman or Vice-Chairman, which license may be at any time re-called by such Officer should he consider the discontinuance of the trade in question desirable.

X. 1.—No person shall perform the offices of nature on or near any public highway, or on the banks of the River Sowrah where it adjoins a public highway, or on the bank of any tank or jheel or pool of water within fifty yards of any public highway.

2. No person shall obstruct any public highway by exposing articles for sale thereon without having first obtained the permission of the Commissioners.

3. No person shall permit cattle, sheep, goats, or pigs to stray on any public highway, or tethering them on or near any public highway.

4. No person shall train or break horses or bullocks by means of a drag without wheels on any public highway.

5. No person shall let off fireworks or discharge fire-arms or any explosive substance on or near any public highway.

6. No person shall neglect or refuse to move an elephant or camel off an enbanked road on the approach of a wheeled conveyance or horse, or on being called upon to do so by the driver or rider.

7. Any person throwing, or causing to be thrown, any corpse or any part thereof into any river, nullah, canal, tank or pool, or on the bank of any nullah, canal, tank or pool, or disposing, or causing to be disposed of, any corpse, or any part thereof, otherwise than by burning or burying the same at or in some lawful burningor burial ground.

8. Every person who shall bring or convey, or cause to be brought or conveyed, to any burning ground any corpse, or any part thereof, shall burn it, or cause it to be burnt, within four hours after its arrival at the said burning ground.

9. No person who may burn, or cause to be burnt, at any burning ground any corpse, or any part thereof, shall permit the same, or any part thereof, to remain without being completely reduced to ashes, or to be removed before it shall have been so reduced.

10. No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, any corpse, or any part of a corpse, in any grave constructed of masonry in such manner that the coffin, or body, where there is no coffin used, shall be at a depth less than four feet from the surface ground.

11. No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, any corpse, or part of a corpse, in a grave not constructed of masonry the depth of which grave shall be less than six feet from the surface ground.

12. No person shall throw, or cause to be thrown, any carcass, or any part thereof, into any river, nullah, canal, tank or pool, or on the banks of any river, canal, tank or pool, or on any place other than such places as may from time to time be appointed by the Commissioners for the purpose of receiving such carcasses.

13. Every person within whose premises any animal may die shall, within two hours of its death, either remove the carcass at its own expense to such place as may be appointed by the Commissioners for the reception of such carcass, or report its death to the Overseer of the Division within which those premises may be situated, and in the latter case shall pay to the said Overseer the expense of removing the carcass at such rate as the Commissioners may from time to time determine.

14. No person shall dig, or make or cause to be dug or made, in any place, any tank, pond, ditch, or other excavation without the sanction of the Commissioners previously obtained.

15. No person shall let loose, or cause to be let loose, any diseased or worn-out animal into any public place, or into any place from which such animal can escape into any public place.

16. No person shall allow any pigs to be at large, or shall keep them otherwise than in enclosed styes.

17. All dirt, dust, ashes, and rubbish sewerage, soil, dung, and filth collected from the highways, houses, privies, sewers, and cesspools by the Municipal Commissioners shall be the property of the Commissioners, who shall have power to sell or dispose of the same as they may think proper, and the money arising from the sale thereof shall be applied to the purposes of the District Municipal Improvement Act.

18. Every owner, occupier, or farmer of any Bazaar shall, within fourteen days after he shall have notice from the Municipal Commissioners so to do, provide such latrines and urinals as in the opinion of the Commissioners may be necessary for the cleanliness and health of such Bazaar.

XI. Every person who shall commit, within the limits of the Station of Purneah, an offence against any of the foregoing Bye-Laws by doing any act prohibited, or by neglecting to do any act directed to be done, by such Bye-Law, shall be punished by fine not exceeding Rupees five, and in case of his continuing such offence after notice from the Commissioners, such person shall be liable to a further penalty not exceeding Rupees two for every day after such notice during which such offence is continued, and such fine may be inflicted by any of the Municipal Commissioners after such enquiry as he may think fit. Subject, however, to an appeal to a Committee composed of three Commissioners.

JOHN BEAMES,
Chairman.

Municipality of the Suburbs of Calcutta.

HIS HONOR the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, in accordance with the provisions of Section 84, Act III. (B. C.) of 1864, having directed the publication of the following Bye-Laws for the Suburbs of Calcutta in the Calcutta and Bengallee Gazettes, they are hereby published for general information.

25. Each quarterly instalment of the rate and Taxes mentioned in the Act shall be considered to have become due at the commencement of the quarter on account of which such instalment is payable, and may be levied at any time after the commencement of such quarter, that is to say—

Collection of Taxes.

The instalment payable on account of the quarters ending 31st July, 31st October, 31st January, and 30th April may be levied on or after the 1st May, the 1st August, the 1st November, and the 1st February respectively.

26. When the name of the owner is not known, it shall be sufficient to designate him in any notice or other proceeding under the Act as "the owner" of the property on which the rate is assessed without further description.

27. Every person required in writing to furnish any return which the Commissioners may lawfully require him to furnish, shall produce such return at the Office of the Commissioners within one week from the date of the service of the said requisition, and in default thereof shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Rupees 5, and to a fine not exceeding Rupees 2 for every day during which the offence shall be continued

Correspondence relative to the introduction of Agricultural education in Bengal.

From BABOO JOYKISSEN MOOKERJEE, Zemindar, Ooterparah, to F. R. COCKERELL, ESQ., Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(dated the 15th March 1864.)

A collegiate institution for imparting to native youths education of a more practical nature than is at present given in Government schools has been long a desideratum. The present system of education has no doubt awakened the national mind to the benefits derivable from the cultivation of literature and science; but it has at the same time left many things undone which are essentially required by the exigencies of the country. The current of youthful ambition, and all their ideas of greatness, wealth, and power have hitherto been directed towards attaining some office of emolument in the Government service; but it still remains to infuse into their minds a desire to chalk out for themselves an honorable and independent career by the cultivation and practical application of those arts and sciences to which the nations of the West owe their present wealth and prosperity. Foremost among these in the country stands agriculture, the importance of which as a branch of study in the Indian colleges it is scarcely possible to exaggerate. The last Agricultural Exhibition, so happily and successfully inaugurated by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, has shewn to demonstration the advantages that might be derived from an improved and scientific mode of agriculture. In a country whose revenue and national wealth depend mainly on the produce of its soil, the indifference shewn to the cause of agriculture by the upper and middle classes is very generally regretted. Men of education here, unlike those of other countries, take no part in improving the agricultural produce of the land, an office invariably left in the hands of ignorant and illiterate peasants who are too poor, superstitious, and credulous of success to lay aside the time-honored customs of the country, and too timid to avail themselves of the benefits of any salutary innovation. To remedy this evil, at least to a certain extent, a collegiate institution might be established, where, in addition to the subjects taught in other colleges, the students may systematically receive lectures on the principles, and be trained in the practice, of agriculture. It is needless to dwell on the necessity of imparting to students a good English education preparatory to their receiving lectures on agriculture, as, without a competent knowledge of literature and science, they can hardly be expected fully to comprehend and appreciate the principles of the art. Such a combination of theoretical knowledge with practical training would give them an opportunity of competing for the University honors as well as of obtaining an insight into the practical workings of the art. This is the more desirable in the present state of the country, as people can now be hardly persuaded to send their sons to an institution which professes exclusively to teach them agriculture without imparting to them that education which has hitherto secured to the recipients a position in society and considerable encouragement at the hands Government. A combination of the two systems would, therefore, not only be highly attractive, but would at the same time confer lasting benefits on the community. The Presidency and the Hooghly Colleges, though so near to the metropolis, do not pretend to impart these benefits to any the slightest extent, not to speak of the difficulties, inconveniences, and expense which a large number of families of the higher and middle classes feel in sending their boys far from their homes, even for the sort of education given in them. Besides the distance and other inconveniences, the people of the mofussil are afraid of keeping young boys in Calcutta on more than one account. The Hooghly College is moreover not capable of educating more boys than it does at present. These inconveniences are not only felt by the middle classes, but also by the large mass of comparatively wealthy population inhabiting several large and thriving villages, of which Bally and Ooterparah, may be called the centre. Fully entering into the spirit and appreciating the policy of Government embodied in the last Education despatch, I am humbly of opinion that in the present state of the country what is required most is to give a large number of the high and middle classes thoroughly good education simultaneously with imparting elementary knowledge to the masses. Experience has shewn that the idea of Government educating the masses to any extent without being materially aided by the people is a delusion, and which can only be brought within the sphere of rigid reality when there is a sufficient number of educated men in the upper and middle classes who are now, generally speaking, as ignorant of literature and science as their progenitors, and whose education in the absence of a central collegiate institution would terminate at a point at which little real good can accrue to the recipients.

Some years ago Baboo Rajkissen Mookerjee and myself applied to Government, on two different occasions, for placing, within the reach of this community, a central collegiate institution by raising the status of the Ooterparah Government school into a college. I beg to re-submit, for ready reference, copies of the said two applications, as well as copy of the answer given by Government on our last application. The answer to the first application has been missing, but it will be found in the records of Government. Since our last application I have not been inattentive to the increasing wants of the community, as I submitted personally a plan almost analogous to the one now proposed to Sir J. P. Grant in 1861 in an audience with His Honor, when he was pleased to promise his cordial support of the scheme. Permit me to state that these papers do away with the necessity of recapitulating here the extensive demand for sound liberal education that exists in this locality and the extent of population that would be benefitted by the establishment of a college at Ooterparah. They further set forth the reasons, which I hope will be deemed irrefragable, as regards the supposed injury to the interests of the Presidency and Hooghly Colleges referred to in the answer to our said last application.

Relying on the above facts and reasons regarding the necessity of imparting to the rising generation the blessings of a sound education based upon principles of practical utility, I take the liberty of re-submitting, in a modified form, the proposal for the conversion of the Ooterparah school into a collegiate institution. In support of the school Government contributes at present Rupees 100 a month, and myself and Baboo Rajkissen Mookerjee contribute an equal sum, the remaining expenses being defrayed by schooling fees. To maintain the proposed college in an efficient and creditable state it will be necessary to ensure a monthly income of about Rupees 2,300 in addition to the Rupees 200 now contributed. To raise this sum I beg respectfully to submit the two following proposals for the favorable consideration of Government: First,—That with reference to the observations contained in Mr. Junior Secretary Buckland's letter, paragraphs 4 and 5, above alluded to, I would increase the additional sum then offered from Rupees 200 to 500 per month, to be paid by me for a period extending to ten years, when it is believed the college will be self-supporting. I shall pledge one of my estates of an equivalent income to ensure the payment of the grant, provided Government be pleased to supply the residue of the expenses, which, it is believed, will be less than half of aggregate sum, Rupees 2,500, required at present. It will be optional both with Government and myself to reduce our grants proportionately as the amount of schooling fees rises gradually. Second.—The other alternative is, that if Government consents to pay one-half, Rupees 1,150 per month, I am ready to guarantee for the payment of the other half, to be raised by schooling fees, any deficit being made up by myself for a period of ten years, and for the security of which I shall pledge one of my estates as above-mentioned. This latter proposal is in conformity with the recent orders of Government relating to Vernacular schools, whereby Government vouchsafes to grant half the expenses of a school should the other half be raised by private subscription and schooling fees; but it need scarcely be said how incalculably superior will be the benefit conferred on the community by a grant made on the above principle on the present occasion. If the proposed measure be carried into effect, the cost to Government, I beg to submit, would be about Rupees 2 a month for each of the lads under education,—a sum not much above the cost incurred by the State for the low elementary education imparted in the grant-in-aid schools scattered over the country.

With regard to the status of the proposed college, I would beg to suggest that there should be in it a sufficient staff of Professors to enable the students to compete for the B. A. degree conferred by the Calcutta University, and that there should be a distinct chair for practical agriculture and the industrial arts. The aim of the proposed college should, in this respect, be distinct from that of the existing colleges, in which the mere theoretical knowledge now imparted to our youths already shews symptoms of the failure of a system which entails vast expenditure without producing adequate results. The importance of a chair for practical agriculture amongst the staff of Professors can scarcely be overrated. His appointment will not only enable the students of the college to obtain an insight into the principles of botany, agriculture, and some of the physical sciences, and to apply those principles practically, but his services may occasionally also be available (travelling expenses being paid) for delivering lectures to the boys of the grant-in-aid schools maintained by myself and other individuals jointly with Government in the Howrah, Hooghly, and Burdwan districts. The boys may also be invited from these schools to attend the college by rotation to hear the lectures and take part in working out the system practically. A model farm may be attached to the proposed institution, where improved modes of cultivation and breeding of cattle on a moderate scale may be made familiar to the sudents and the community in general. I beg leave to propose the following establishment, subject to such alterations and modifications as the educational authorities may deem proper.

College Department.

Should the Government be graciously pleased to comply with this application, the sum of about Rupees 25,000 will be necessary to make some additions to the present school building and to build three houses for the Principal and Professors, as well as for making a small model farm and for purchasing furnitures, instruments, &c. If half of this be paid from the educational funds, the other half will be made up by me, including the existing surplus funds of the school.

As collateral circumstances, I beg leave to submit that the advantages accruing from the existence of a public library on an extensive scale and a public dispensary at this place should not be overlooked in taking the present proposal into consideration.

Having explained my views and wishes at length, I beg you will be so good as to lay this before His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor for his favorable consideration. I need not say how grateful myself and the native community would be for your supporting this application.

From Baboo Hurry Mohun Mookerjee, Seebpore, to F. R. Cockerell, Esq., Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(dated the 11th May 1864.)

Believing, as I do, that the Agricultural Exhibition lately held at Alipore has well served the purpose of drawing the attention of the people to our deficiencies in awakening their curiosity and rousing the national mind from the torpor of ages, I think the time has come for the Government to make an organised effort for teaching them agriculture; I do myself the honor, therefore, most respectfully, to submit the following suggestions for the consideration and orders of his Honor the Lieutenant-Governor:—

1*st*.—I beg to propose the formation of agricultural classes in connection with the zillah aided schools. These classes to be taught by men of experience versed in the science connected with the cultivation of the soil.

2*nd*.—The establishment of model farms to be attached to schools for the purpose of giving practical lessons on agriculture. In these farms foreign seeds may be acclimatised, soils analysed, and the native agriculturists helped with information relating to their vocation.

3*rd*.—That means be furnished to every model farm to carry on experiments in breeding and rearing of farm-yard stock and acclimatising useful foreign animals.

As agriculture has lately received great assistance from chemistry, and it is of the utmost importance that Indian agriculturists should possess some knowledge of the principles of that science, it is desirable that means should be adopted to teach the elements of chemistry in every zillah school.

The greatest drawback to carrying out this scheme at present is the difficulty of procuring competent tutors, I would therefore propose that, in the first instance, agricultural classes be opened in the Normal schools of Hooghly, Burdwan, and Dacca, in order to train up a body of teachers, and when they shall be available the plan may be extended to zillah schools. Such a class has already been established in the normal school of Calcutta and found to answer well.

The cost of such a scheme of agricultural tuition will not, it is believed, be great, while the advantages which it is likely to confer on the people will be immense, and will in every way justify and repay the outlay.

The country is essentially agricultural, and the people are employed in the production and preparation of different agricultural articles. Now efficiency in the process depends on a knowledge of scientific agriculture; I therefore earnestly trust that His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, who projected the late exhibition and carried it through with great energy, tact, and judgment, may be pleased to take my proposal for the establishment of agricultural classes into his favorable consideration.

I crave leave to state that I have for many years devoted myself to the study of agriculture. I have published a treatise on agriculture, called the Krishee Durpun, for which the Agricultural Society was pleased to confer on me a pecuniary reward. I shall be happy and proud to render any assistance in my power to the furtherance of the scheme now propounded.

From W. S. Atkinson, Esq., M. A., Director of Public Instruction,—(No. 259T., dated Darjeeling, the 20th September 1864.)

Copy forwarded to the Junior Secretary, Government of Bengal, for information with reference to his office Nos. 1743 and 2360, dated the 6th April and 18th May respectively.

From W. S. Atkinson, Esq., M. A., Director of Public Instruction, to the Secretary to the Agricultural and Horticultural Society,—(No. 2770, dated Darjeeling, the 25th August 1864.)

I have the honor to forward the accompanying papers,* which I beg may be laid before the Council of the Agricultural and Horticultural Society, with a request that they will favor me with their opinion on the subject of (agricultural education with reference to the capabilities and requirements of the Lower Provinces of Bengal.)

* Letter from Baboo Joykissen Mookerjee, to the Officiating Secretary, Government of Bengal, dated 15th March 1864.
Letter from Baboo Hurry Mohun Mookerjee, to the Officiating Secretary to Government of Bengal, dated 11th May 1864.
Letter from the Inspector of Schools, Central Division, to the Director of Public Instruction, No. 658, dated 8th July 1864.

2. The main questions to be considered at the outset appear to be these:

Is there any probability that theoretical instruction in the scientific principles of the farmer's art will be of any advantage, under present circumstances, to the people of this country?

Is there any existing class possessed of the requisite preliminary education who would seriously take up agriculture as a practical science with the view of turning their knowledge to account, either for the improvement of their own property, or in the pursuit of farming as a profession?

And again, supposing that there is such a class, is the theoretical instruction, which alone can be imparted in the lecture-room, the kind of training which is likely to prove of practical advantage to them?

3. It will be remembered that it is only within recent years that agricultural schools have been established in England, and these are attended almost exclusively by a class of students who intend to make farming on a large scale the business of their lives, and who leave the class rooms to enter on an apprenticeship to some practical agriculturist, from whom they learn those necessary practical details without which their theoretical knowledge, however sound, would not only be valueless, but often mischievous.

4. It appears doubtful whether any corresponding class can be found in this country who would systematically attend an agricultural lecture-room. Indeed the land system of the country would appear to make the existence of such a class impossible, and if this is the case, it is difficult to perceive what would be gained by engrafting on a college connected with the University a professional agricultural department such as is contemplated by Baboo Joykissen Mookerjee. A few students of the general department might no doubt cursorily attend the agricultural lectures from motives of curiosity; but it may be doubted whether the knowledge they would carry away would be of much value in itself, or would be ever applied to any useful purpose.

5. If anything is to be effected for agriculture and the improvement of cattle through the agency of schools, more might possibly be done by introducing these subjects in a popular form into the course of instruction provided in the normal schools for the training of village schoolmasters, than by the more ambitious attempt to indoctrinate college students with the theoretical principles of agriculture, depending on the applications of various allied branches of the physical and natural sciences. Through the normal schools improved ideas about agricultural arrangements and the management of cattle may be gradually diffused throughout the country amongst the actual cultivators of the soil, and in this way some good may be effected; but it seems doubtful whether anything more than this can be done with advantage by the direct agency of schools or colleges.

6. If, however, the Council should be of opinion that an attempt to convey systematic professional instruction in agriculture may be made at the present time with fair prospects of success, I would, in that case, beg to be favored with a general outline of the course and nature of the instruction which they would think most suitable for the people for whom it is designed, and which could be handled with reasonable effect by such teachers as are here procurable.

7. On the other hand, if they are of opinion that little good is to be anticipated from the adoption of such a course under the existing circumstances of the country, I shall then be glad to be informed whether there is any other mode by which, in their opinion, the Education Department can aid in promoting those improvements which are on all hands acknowledged to be of vast importance, no less to the country at large, than to those who are more directly interested in the cultivation of the soil.

P. S.—A copy of this letter, and its enclosures, will be sent to the Landholders' Association and the British Indian Association, with a request that they will express their opinion on the questions herein raised.

From H. Woodrow, Esq., M. A., Inspector of Schools, Central Division, to W. S. Atkinson, Esq., M. A., Director of Public Instruction,—(No. 658, dated the 8th July 1864.)

With reference to your endorsement dated 8th June 1864, forwarding, for my opinion, certain proposals made by Baboo Hurry Mohun Mookerjee for the establishment of agricultural schools, I have the honor to submit the following remarks for your consideration:—

2. I quite agree with Baboo Hurry Mohun Mookerjee that it is desirable "to make an organised effort for teaching agriculture." He recommends "the formation of agricultural classes in connection with the zillah aided schools;" probably he means the zillah and aided schools. I believe that with neither institution can the scheme be worked unless Government makes it advantageous to the pupils. Aided schools are theoretically under adequate local management, and though the Inspector's advice is attended to in ordinary matters, I am perfectly satisfied that scarcely one out of the 337 aided and rewarded schools for boys in my division would consent to aid in bearing the additional expense of agricultural classes. In zillah schools the object presented to the Educational Department has been to give a good general education which should be valuable in any line of life, and the course prescribed by the University for the entrance examination, and formerly by the Council of Education for the junior scholarship examination, has mainly determined the extent and character of the studies of the pupils. An effort was made to introduce the study of agriculture into the course of the Barasat Government School, but the result has been discouraging. The study does not pay, and therefore is rejected. You will see from former correspondence in your office that I strongly pressed this fact on the attention of your predecessor, and earnestly pleaded that marks for a knowledge of agriculture should tell in the award of scholarships. Mr. Gordon Young consulted on the matter Mr. Lodge and others, and eventually decided that scholarships could not be awarded on the results of different and independent examinations. The creation of the scholarship fund has increased the difficulty, for the pupils of Baraset do not contend, as formerly, with one another only, but with all the entrance students of the Lower Provinces of Bengal. It is not, therefore, to be supposed that entrance candidates will jeopardize their chance of scholarship by devoting time to an extraneous study. The only way of getting the subject attended to in zillah schools would be to award in each school two or more scholarships of about Rupees 4 a month, tenable for one year, to the students who answered the best in a written examination. The lectures and the examination should be in Bengalee and all boys below the entrance class should be eligible for the competition. I recommend that the answers be given in Bengalee, as it may happen that a boy in the lower forms may take up agriculture, and such a boy would have no chance, if the examination were in English, from his inability to express his knowledge in a foreign language. If there is any difficulty in obtaining the money for a scholarship, a free studentship in the school would be an object of competition for many poor students. Boys who are willing to compete for the prize should have a little plot of ground allotted to them, and the state and culture of this little garden should bear marks. They should not be compelled to do all the work themselves, but yet should not be allowed to employ the school servants. If the state of the garden does not count towards the scholarship, it will be neglected and will become an untidy tangled mass of weeds. There is always the danger that the prizes may be carried off by boys who have no land to cultivate, and who do not intend to be agriculturists, and who would take up the Chinese language just as readily as agriculture if it shewed the way to a small scholarship without spoiling the chance for a big one.

3. The most that can be expected from the Government zillah schools is to lead some twenty or thirty boys to learn something of the subject. There is some hope that among this number some four or five may have a piece of land, and of these few perhaps one may be found adventurous enough to attempt to put in practice what he has been taught.

4. In the examination marks should be given for the papers; for the state of the boys' note books of the Bengalee lectures on the subject; and for the state of their gardens.

5. It is absolutely certain that nothing whatever will be done unless Government makes it pay. This is a sine qua non. Baboo Hurry Mohun Mookerjee has, during the last nine months, been employed as a Teacher in the Calcutta Patshala, and has given seventy-three lectures in Bengalee during this time to the normal school students on such subjects as—the profit from improved agriculture; the use of manures; the best modes of cultivation; the qualilities of different kinds of soil, &c.

6. I recommend that Baboo Hurry Mohun Mookerjee be requested to prepare two courses of about twenty-four lectures each on the different branches of agriculture; that a sum of Rupees 50 for each set of lectures be allowed him to get them translated into English; that the translation be submitted to Mr. Stalkartt or some other member of the Horticultural Society, who would advise you whether the lectures were likely to do good. If a competent judge should decide that the lectures would be likely to do good, then they might be delivered for two months at Howrah, Ooterparah, Baraset, and Barrackpore schools, and at Hooghly and Calcutta. These places are, excepting Baraset, all on the Railways. He might have his travelling expenses paid by the school at which the lectures were given, and might continue to draw his fixed salary from the Calcutta Patshala, it being assumed that, as long as the experiment lasts, he is employed on deputation. In the course of six or eight months we could judge if the plan were likely to succeed. It will not succeed without some rewards being established. At first free studentships might be of use. Perhaps you might yourself try an experiment with free studentships as the prize, and if anything seemed likely to come of it, you could go up to Government for the scholarships. I shall be happy to draw out a scheme arranging for the delivery of the lectures if you see fit to send me instructions to do so.

From W. S ATKINSON, Esq., Director of Public Instruction, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 2353, dated the 27th May 1865.)

In continuation of my No. 259T, dated 20th September 1864, relating to measures proposed for the promotion of agricultural education in Bengal, I have the honor to submit, for the consideration of Government, the papers noted in the margin conveying the views of the several associations interested in agriculture whose opinions have been consulted on this important subject.

Letter dated 21st October 1864, from Secretary, Landholders' and Commercial Association.
Letter dated 16th February 1865, from Secretary, Agricultural and Horticultural Society.
Letter dated 24th March 1865, from Honorary Secretary, British Indian Association.

2. His Honor will perceive that the measures recommended by the Landholders' and Commercial Association are in the main directed to the same object as those proposed by Baboo Joykissen Mookerjee, who advocates the formation of an agricultural department in connection with a new college for general education to be established at Ooterparah, towards the maintenance of which he has offered a handsome contribution. The advocates of this course of action propose that arrangements should be made in connection with some one or more of our colleges for general education to provide systematic lectures on agriculture and the sciences which bear upon it, for the instruction of the more wealthy classes of Native society who are the owners of landed property, and have a direct interest in its profitable management, in the hope that some of them may apply the teaching they receive to the improvement of their crops.

3. It cannot be doubted that if there were a reasonable chance of obtaining a hold on these classes of the community and influencing them in such a manner as to lead to the practical results contemplated by the Landholders' Association, it would be well worth while to try the experiment recommended. I much fear, however, that the prospect of success from this plan of operations must be regarded as exceedingly remote. My own acquaintance with the arrangements for the management of landed property in this country is necessarily very limited; but, from what I know of the students who frequent our colleges and pursue a University course of study, I think it extremely doubtful whether any of them would be found to take a practical interest in a course of agricultural lectures; while their time is necessarily so fully occupied with the general subjects of study that even were their interest excited by such lectures they would still be unable, from want of leisure, to make a profitable use of them. The probable success of such instruction must, I believe, depend on the probability of its attracting a special class of students unconnected with the general classes of the college, consisting of young men who have either already completed their University course, or who have abandoned that course in order to follow what will generally be considered the bye-path of agricultural study. I do not believe that such a class of students will be easily found or formed, and it will be seen that in this opinion I am to a great extent, if not entirely, supported by the Agricultural and Horticultural Society of Bengal and the British Indian Association.

4. The latter body is indeed of opinion that much good might be done by making more complete provision than heretofore for teaching the natural and physical sciences in the Government colleges with an especial view to their bearing upon practical agriculture. I should be one of the last to throw a doubt on the high value claimed for scientific training; but to be of value such training must be real and thorough, and in considering the extent to which it can be carried in ordinary schools and colleges, it must never be forgotten that the first thing to be provided in these Institutions is a good general education, in which the different branches of study universally recognised as essential for informing and disciplining the mind are suitably combined and kept in due proportion. It is only by those who have completed their general education that a special course of scientific study having a professional bias can generally be pursued with advantage; and till there is at least a probability of some demand in this direction, it would seem premature to provide the means of instruction which such a course of study would necessarily require, for it must be remembered that this could only be done at a very heavy outlay, inasmuch as competent teachers are not to be found in India, and are not easily procurable even in England.

5 For these reasons, after the fullest consideration I have been able to give to the subject, I cannot recomend that any attempt be made at present either to combine scientific agricultural education with the University education, for which the colleges are specially designed, or to engraft on any of them a separate professional department for the training of a hoped for, but as yet non-existent, class of practical agriculturalists.

6. Nor do I anticipate much advantage from an attempt to give lessons on agriculture in a more popular form to the pupils of the zillah schools. These schools are attended by the same classes of the community as the colleges and for the same objects, and though no doubt the students might be induced, as suggested by Mr. Woodrow, to read certain books or attend certain lectures on agricultural subjects by the offer of scholarships, it seems very doubtful whether the effect produced would be any equivalent for the requisite outlay.

7. If, however, a competent lecturer could be found, it might be worth while to try the experiment of deputing him in rotation to the different schools and colleges to deliver short courses of popular lectures, not as a part of the school business, but for the benefit of the general public, with the view of arousing attention and disseminating the idea that there is at least a possibility of increasing agricultural profits by improved methods of cultivation and by the exercise of greater care and discrimination in the breeding of cattle. In this way public interest may perhaps be excited and the people led to discuss the suggestions made to them, and even prevailed on by degrees to bring them to the test of experiment.

8. I am still, however, inclined to adhere to the opinion expressed in the 5th paragraph of my circular letter that, as far as regards the action of the Education Department, the manner in which most good is likely to be effected is by disseminating information in a very humble way through the agency of the normal schools for the training of village school masters. The pupils in these schools are drawn from the country villages and are destined to return to them as teachers, and it seems possible that, by giving them simple instruction as to the objects aimed at by agricultural improvements and the gains to be anticipated from them, useful hints may be widely spread among the actual cultivators of the soil and gradually influence them in a right direction.

9. Of the proposal to establish model farms, I shall only say that all experience seems to be against them as examples for imitation. In practise they always prove costly experiments and are never worked to a profit. It is therefore hardly likely that they can be usefully employed in India as means of instruction.

10. It seems somewhat out of place on the present occasion to discuss the desirableness of establishing a new college for general education at Ooterparah; but as the question has been raised in the papers before me, I think it necessary to state that nothing will give me greater pleasure than to promote the foundation of such an Institution if the requisite funds are provided by private liberality, but that I am not pepared to recommend a grant of public money for this object. There is no pressing demand for additional colleges in the neighbourhood of Calcutta, and whenever Government may be willing to provide funds for the establishment of new institutions of this class. the wants of several remote districts have a strong prior claim to consideration.

From J. Beckwith, Esq., Secretary, Landholders' and Commercial Association, to W. S. Atkinson, Esq., Director of Public Instruction,—(dated the 21st October 1864.)

I have to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 13th ultimo, forwarding copy of letter (with enclosures) addressed to the Secretary of the Agricultural Society, and requesting the opinion of this Association on the subject discussed.

The question of the present state of the agricultural skill applied to the cultivation of the soil in Lower Bengal, and particularly in Nuddea, where the lands are generally above the level of the highest inundation, came under the consideration of the Committee some time since, and the means of teaching the agricultural population to apply the system of rotation of crops was partly considered in a letter addressed to the Government of Bengal under date the 18th June last.

In that letter I was directed to suggest the formation of an agricultural class in some one or more of the educational establishments supported by Government under a professor or instructor well grounded in the principles of agriculture and of agricultural chemistry.

The Committee, in making this recommendation, did not profess to expect any early results. They are aware of the extreme difficulty of introducing improvements amongst an agricultural population holding under such tenures as are usual in Lower Bengal, and generally removed from such influence as is, in other countries, exercised over their tenants by landlords.

This difficulty is further greatly increased by the prejudice which exists against agriculture as a pursuit for educated men, and which leads men of all castes to consider it a disgrace for a person who can read and write, however imperfectly, to engage in agricultural labour.

Notwithstanding these difficulties, the Committee consider that some effort at improvement should be made and should be persevered in notwithstanding the apparent absence of good results for some considerable time, and as they consider that there is a very great want of information on agricultural subjects in all classes in India, from the officers of Government downwards, there would be no small advantage in having some recognised authority to whom Government and individuals would apply on doubtful points.

The best method of commencing to give agricultural instruction will depend greatly upon the class it is intended to influence, and the Committee do not think that there is at present much hope of advancing the existing race of cultivators by direct teaching. The unfortunate feeling, that agricultural labour is degrading to any one who can read and write, must be got rid of before any good can be done in village schools attended by the sons of ryots, because the very fact of imparting education diverts these boys from agricultural to quite other pursuits.

The class from which the Committee have the greatest hopes is that of the talookdars and the sons of traders and artisans, whose fathers have acquired moderate wealth and have invested it in the purchase of land. Many of the smaller talookdars are resident on their properties, and many are understood to have portions of their land in their own possession, or at least under their own control, and if these men had the opportunity of attending an agricultural class when at school or college, it may be hoped that some of them would apply the teaching they had received to the improvement of their crops.

This seems to the Committee the most likely means of introducing improved modes of cultivation and of gradually breaking down the prejudice which separates practical agriculture from education, and if a certain number of these small talookdars and sons of tradesmen and artisans should take to improvement and succeed, the most intelligent of the royts would adopt the system which they saw to pay, and would learn, from observation and practical experience, what they never could have been taught from theoretical education in the schools.

It follows naturally from this that the Committee would have the agricultural class or classes wherever the young men referred to receive their education, and they consider that it will be better to have, to begin with, one or two professors or teachers of undoubted knowledge and authority than to have a more numerous staff of men of inferior qualifications.

With regard to the establishment of model farms, the Committee do not recomend anything of the kind at present. They do not expect much from young men specially trained for farming, but rather from a certain number of men, probably later in life, applying the knowledge they obtained as part of their general education to the improvement of their property, and the probability of this is greatly increased by the steps Government are taking for the introduction and continuance of Agricultral Exhibitions in each of the districts of Bengal.

The farms proposed would entail very considerable expense and would not, in the opinion of the Committee, prove of much advantage. In the absence of young men seeking an education as practical agriculturists the chief use of the farm would be for experiments in introducing new crops, especially green crops, for rotation with grain crops and for food for cattle and the more general use of manures; and it is not doubted that any new grasses or green crops recommended by the professor could be tried through the means of individuals anxious to compete for the prizes offered at the exhibitions alluded to, or under the influence of those gentlemen whose interest in agriculture is certain to be stimulated by taking part in the management of such exhibitions.

From A. H. Blechynden, Esq., Secretary, Agricultural and Horticultural Society, to W. S. Atkinson, Esq., M. A., Director of Public Instruction,—(dated the 16th February 1865.)

I have now the honor to acknowledge receipt of your letter No. 2770 of the 25th August 1864, forwarding certain papers from Baboo Joykissen Mookerjee and others regarding agricultural education, and requesting the opinion of the Council of this Society on the subject with reference to the capabilities and requirements of the Lower Provinces of Bengal.

In reply I am desired by the Council to intimate that, having duly and carefully considered the subject in all its bearings, they are of opinion that the time has not yet arrived for the appreciation of the importance of an agricultural education as a speciality, and that the Society could not properly recommend an outlay of public money in attempts to promote it. To all the three questions submitted in the 2nd paragraph of your letter the Council are disposed to answer in the negative. From what they can learn, the village schools do not appear to be largely frequented by the sons of the "chasa," or agricultural classes. One of the members (Mr. Sawers) remarks to the following effect on this point:—

"During a long residence in the mofussil I have had opportunities of visiting many schools and have myself been instrumental in the establishment of schools and have always found that the class of boys who attend those schools was not such as required, or would benefit by, an agricultural education, and if among the boys there might be some of the sons of the chasa class, they were not sent there for the purpose of education to enable them by enlightenment to improve upon the system of husbandry and tillage, which had raised their fathers to comparative opulence, but they were sent for the purpose of being fitted to enter a different sphere of life altogether."

3. Dr. Anderson also (another member) gives the result of the attempt made for some years in the Botanical Garden on the establishment of a school for educating the sons of mallees in the simplest principles of horticulture: "The education imparted"—he observes—"had reference solely to horticulture, and it was supposed that the parents would highly prize the privilege of having their children educated in their own calling. Instead of this, however, the small amount of English and writing necessarily taught were looked to as the sole advantage to be obtained, and the boys, as soon as they considered themselves proficients in these acquirements, gave up gardening for what they considered more lucrative employment.

"At the same period an attempt was made to explain to the mallees orally in the vernacular a few of the simplest laws regulating the growth and propagating of plants naturally and artificially, as well as the effects produced on plants by the changes of the seasons. This was also a complete failure, as appeared by an examination of some of the more intelligent men. They had learned nothing, but they seemed fully impressed with the notion that they were expected to do their duty in some way or other different from what they had been accustomed to."

4. The Council would observe that the result of the Society's attempts towards meeting the wants of its members for a superior class of gardeners was equally unsuccessful. After an existence of nine years, during six of which about sixty boys entered their school, and the expenditure of Rupees 3,500 for wages to scholars and masters, only two lads, so far as can be traced, have followed the profession of gardening. "The failure thus recorded," observe the Garden Committee, "has not arisen from want of encouragement. Due notice was given to the lads on entering the school, and frequently reiterated, that when sufficiently acquainted with their work they would receive good situations in the garden, and that as applications were made to the Society they would obtain situations with wages ranging from Rupees 8 to 16 a month according to their ability. The failure may rather be attributed, the Committee think, to the desire which a little knowledge of reading and writing has imparted to them of following occupations which are not only considered more respectable, but which probably give a more immediate profitable return in the shape of wages; thus a lad would rather take employment as a sircar at Rupees 7 and 8 a month, than as a mallee at 6, though he might, in the course of a few years, obtain double that sum in fact, the one is more tangible than the other, consequently more prized."

5. Nor has the move made by the Society ten years ago to infuse a taste for agricultural and horticultural improvements among the adult population of Bengal been encouraging. In the year 1854 the Translation Committee issued the first number of a work called the "Indian Agricultural Miscellany," and published five numbers subsequently to complete a volume. The majority of these papers are translations from the Society's transactions and journals; the rest are original communications prepared expressly for the Miscellany. In the introductory paper to the first number the Committee earnestly invited the co-operation of the members of the Society, and the public generally, in the undertaking. They add in the last number an expression of their regret at being obliged to announce that very little assistance had been accorded to them by those to whom they naturally looked for aid, namely, native zemindars and other wealthy members of the community. Up to the present time, though sold at prime cost, not more than Rupees 152 have been realised on account of this publication, so limited has been the demand for it, notwithstanding that it has been acknowledged by communications received from several gentlemen possessing considerable knowledge of the country and people that the language employed in these pages is such as is intelligible to the meanest capacity. Of another little work compiled by a zealous native member of the Society, Baboo Peary Chand Mittra, and published in 1861 under its auspicies, entitled the "Krishi Patta," or agricultural readings, only eighty-one copies have been sold up to the present time.

6. But while not disposed to recommend, for present adoption, the project advanced by Baboo Joykissen Mookerjee, the Council are quite willing to allow that the move emanates from the right quarter. If other landholders will come forward and shew themselves equally ready, by purse as well as by exhortations, to promote an improved system of agriculture on their estates, there may be, some years hence, the Council hope, candidates for an agricultural education, and the Society would then be quite prepared to recommend Government to provide for this demand in their schools and colleges. The Council are of opinion that meanwhile the Education Department may be advantageously preparing itself for such a demand by introducing the subject of agriculture in its normal schools, as proposed in the 5th paragraph of your letter under acknowledgment.

7. I am directed, in conclusion, to take this opportunity of expressing the acknowledgments of the Society for the evidence afforded by your letter of the interest which the Lieutenant-Governor takes in the promotion of agriculture and of the good results likely to be rendered to the objects of the Society from the system so happily inaugurated by His Honor of annual Agricultural Exhibitions and competitions through the different divisions of the country.

From BABOO JOTEENDRO MOHUN TAGORE, Honorary Secretary, British Indian Association, to W. S. ATKINSON, ESQ., M. A., Director of Public Instruction, &c., &c., &c.,—(dated the 24th March 1865.)

I AM desired by the Committee of the British Indian Association to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 13th September last, together with annexures, requesting the opinion of the Association on the subject of agricultural education with reference to the capabilities and requirements of the Lower Provinces of Bengal.

In reply I am desired to state that, in the opinion of the Committee, there does not exist at the present moment a class of men in Bengal possessed of the requisite preliminary education who would at once take up the science of agriculture and follow it as a profession. There is every prospect, however, of such a class soon springing up in the country. The immense rise in the prices of agricultural produce, coupled with the highly remunerative returns which investment of capital in the development of the resources of the soil generally finds, has considerably stimulated enterprising spirit and opened new prospects for agricultural pursuits. Persons who live on salaried incomes, and who necessarily consider the present increase in prices most annoying to themselves personally, literally envy the lot of the peasantry, whose profession they used once to regard as mean and low. It would be easy, and the present is the most fitting opportunity, to direct the taste of this section of the population to the study of scientific and practical agriculture. This taste, the Committee have no doubt, will be rapidly developed if it is properly encouraged. As the blessings of education will be diffused among the people of this country, they will find that they cannot depend for their livelihood on salaried situations. They must look to professional employment or independent enterprise for the decent maintenance of their families and the gratification of tastes which an enlarged mind superinduces, and what could be more profitable to them than to take advantage of the natural fertility of their native land and develop its exhaustless resources?

Entertaining this opinion, the Committee deem it highly desirable that some arrangements should be made for rendering instruction in agriculture a part of the general scheme of education in this country. They admit that it would be premature to establish an agricultural college. The maintenance of such an institution would be attended with an expense which would not be justified in the present position of things. But the Committee think the object aimed at may be attained by the establishment of agricultural teacherships in vernacular village schools in the way suggested by Baboo Harimohun Banerjee, as it will bring knowledge of improved agriculture within easy reach of that class of the community who are directly engaged in the cultivation of the soil, and to whom it is likely to prove of the greatest use and importance.

By way of supplement to the above arrangement the Committee would recommend that greater attention may be directed to the study of physical sciences in the collegiate institutions of the country, particularly to the study of those branches of science which are allied to practical agriculture. That alone can effectually remove the deep-rooted prejudices which now prevail in the country against agriculture and the industrial arts generally. Chairs for some of the sciences already exist, and the professorial staff may be strengthened in such proportion as may be deemed advisable. Each of the Colleges ought further to be supplied with a well-furnished laboratory, which, the Committee are informed, none of the Mofussil colleges now possess to the desired extent. The professors will then have opportunities to introduce practical experiments in illustration of the theories they teach.

The Committee need hardly remark that it is highly necessary, for purposes of real improvement, to imbue the sons of the higher classes with a taste for scientific study. They alone will have the leisure and means to carry out in practice the lessons learnt in the lecture-room. When persons owning landed properties possess the necessary knowledge to apply scientific principles to the improvement of those estates, they will naturally adopt improvements, not from amateur love of science, but from motives of self-interest. If such improvements prove remunerative, as they are sure to do, a spirit of generous rivalry will be created, and it need hardly be added that the general community will profit in the end.

It may be contended that the soil of Bengal is naturally so fertile that no aid of science is needed in the cultivation of its principal produce. But the Committee do not advocate instruction in scientific agriculture simply for the sake of a larger outturn of produce than a given quantity of land now yields. Scientific education will not only assist in the alternation of the crops and the renovation of the soil, but it will aid materially in the development of the general resources of the country. Hence it is that the Committee urge the extension of the present arrangements for instruction in science and the direction of the attention of our students in the colleges to those branches of it which are allied to practical agriculture.

With a view to rear up a body of qualified teachers it would be necessary, in the first instance, to provide for their instruction in the normal schools, which are now maintained for the training of village school masters. A manual of practical agriculture in Bengallee may also be prepared, giving a description of the soils of Bengal, their peculiarities, the means of their improvement, of the preservation of their vitality, the crops adapted to the soils, the advantages of drainage and irrigation, leading principles of practical chemistry; in short, such ideas about agricultural arrangements and the management of cattle as may be easily comprehensible to the masses, and the practical application of which may be beneficial to the country.

By thus working at the two ends, that is, with the English colleges at one end, and the vernacular schools at the other, some good, the Committee have reason to believe, may be effected, though they can conceive that improvement to the desired extent must be the work of time. A good beginning will, however, be made. Both the higher and middle classes will doubtless feel an interest in agriculture, which has not been hitherto experienced, but which is likely to be sustained in a great measure by the periodical agricultural exhibitions contemplated by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor.

The model farm is another source of instruction. If the Government were disposed to establish model farms experimentally in some of the principal districts in the country, for instance in those districts where collegiate institutions are now maintained, and the people, as well as the students of both the English and vernacular schools, were invited to see with their own eyes what they may learn in the lecture-rooms, a great facility would be offered to the acquisition of practical knowledge.

The proposal for the establishment of a college at Ooterparah is quite independent of the question of agricultural education, although the author of it aims at combining general education with the study of agricultural science by means of the institution proposed by him. The thirst for English education, particularly of a high order, is now so great that the Committee believe were half a dozen colleges to be established immediately between Calcutta and Hooghly none of them would languish for want of support. It is a matter of general complaint, the Committee may mention, that while elementary anglo-vernacular schools are being rapidly multiplied under the provisions of the Education despatch of 1854, there has not been one additional college opened for instruction in higher studies beyond those founded by the late Council of Education. The Committee fully agree with Baboo Joykissen

Mookerjee in the arguments which he has advanced in support of his project, and when he offers to contribute Rupees 500 a month towards the defrayal of the expenses of the institution, or, in case the Government consent to pay one-half of the expenses, to guarantee the payment of the other half, they need hardly observe that such a laudable proposal is entitled to the support of the Government.

In conclusion, the Committee have to apologise for the unavoidable delay which has occurred in the transmission of this letter.

From the HON'BLE A. EDEN, Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,—(No 440T., dated on board the Yacht Rhotas, the 18th July 1865.)

I AM directed to submit, for the consideration of the Government of India, and for such instructions as His Excellency the Governor General in Council may think proper to give, the accompanying correspondence, as noted on the margin, relative to the important subject of agricultural education in Bengal.

Letter from Baboo Joykissen Mookerjee, Ooterparah, dated 15th March 1864.
Letter from Baboo Hurry Mohun Mookerjee, Seebpore, dated 11th May 1864.
Letter from Director of Public Instruction, No. 259T., dated 20th September 1864, and No. 2353, dated 27th May 1865.

2. Anxious as the Lieutenant-Governor is to encourage the zemindars and other landholders of Bengal in acquiring a scientific knowledge of agriculture, and in taking an active and personal interest in its practical application, His Honor does not find, in the papers submitted, any clue to guide him to a satisfactory solution of the question as to how this end can at present be accomplished by means of direct teaching either in the existing Government colleges and schools, or in a special college to be established for the purpose.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor does not think that instruction in practical agriculture can properly form any part of our course of general education, though it might be as well that the college lectures on natural and physical science should embrace a more distinct notice of agricultural chemistry, and that the Calcutta University should require, especially from candidates for honors in that branch, some special knowledge of the application of chemistry to agricultural purposes. If chemistry, as applied to agriculture and the rotation of crops, were made a subject of the B. A. examination, and if a knowlege of it were specially insisted on in the examination for honors in the natural and physical sciences, this would influence the course of lectures and might have the effect of inducing some of the candidates for University honors to turn their attention to the subject. The attention of the Syndicate of the University might be drawn to this matter. The effect, however, of any such change, if thought desirable, would probably for some time be limited, as the natural sciences are not a favorite branch of study with native youths, and it is believed that as yet honors in that branch have been taken only by one candidate.

4. The Lieutenant-Governor is inclined to think that the only effectual way of systematically teaching agriculture as an art, is by the establishment of a special institution with a model farm and a competent staff of instructors. But he is not aware that there are any persons in this country, whether Europeans or Natives, capable of managing such an instituion, or of giving instruction in practical agriculture; and, if such persons could be obtained from Europe, they must not only make themselves acquainted with the language of Bengal, but acquire a knowledge of the various crops, modes of tillage, and conditions of soil and climate peculiar to this part of India before they could impart much useful instruction to their pupils. The expenses of such an establishment would be far greater than the Government could properly undertake without some definite prospect that it would be to a great extent self-supporting. In the absence of an effective demand for this kind of education at something like its actual cost, the action of the Government could only follow the manifestation of enlightend individual munificence on a scale much beyond any thing that has yet been suggested.

5. An agricultural college combined with a model farm of moderate, but sufficient extent, would probably require an outlay of some £25,000 in the first instance for land and suitable buildings, and an annual expenditure of some £2,500. The former must be provided from private sources. Of the latter a portion, under good management, might be recovered by the sale of produce; and the remainder would have to be made good by the contributions of pupils and, if necessary, by subscriptions, supplemented perhaps by a moderate grant-in-aid from the State.

6. Though His Honor quite agrees with the Director of Public Instruction that the combination of instruction in practical agriculture with the general instruction given in the present public colleges and schools is out of the question, yet if an agricultural college were founded, it would probably be expedient to admit pupils of every class without much regard to their proficiency in school studies, and to afford them some means of acquiring a moderate amount of general knowledge while engaged in learning the business of an agriculturist.

7. The Lieutenant-Governor is also of opinion that, although the establishment of colleges, whenever they are self-supporting, is a most desirable object and one to be heartily encouraged, it would not be a legitimate application of the funds at the disposal of the Government to aid the establishment of a college for general education at a place so near to Calcutta and Hooghly as Ooterparah, even though instruction in agriculture were to be superadded to the usual course. Ooterparah, however, is not an unsuitable locality for an agricultural college; and if the liberal and public spirited proposal of Baboo Joykissen Mookerjee were backed by corresponding offers of assistance from other wealthy zemindars of Western Bengal, His Honor would not despair of seeing the design carried out on the footing described. Everything, however, would depend on the probablity of finding a gentleman thoroughly competent to manage such an establishment, and this presents a difficulty which might prove to be even greater than that of providing the necessary funds. It would indeed not be easy to find even a competent lecturer for the purpose of being deputed in rotation to the different schools and colleges, as suggested in the 7th paragraph of Mr. Atkinson's letter; and if such a person were to be found, it seems very doubtful whether his lectures, especially if attendance at them had to be paid for, would command an audience, and whether, if they did, the result would be of much practical use.

8. His Honor sees no objection to the plan suggested by the Director of giving the pupils of the normal schools for the training of village school-masters some simple instruction in the elements of agricultural science. It would at least tend to familiarise the common people with the idea that improvement on their hereditary habits of cultivation is possible, and that they may learn from books and instructors much that will be useful to them in the pursuit of their daily occupation. A manual for the use of these schools could doubtless be prepared under the direction of the Agricultural Society and supplied at prime cost to the pupils through the agency of the School Book Society.

9. Much good will doubtless arise from the discussion of a subject of such vital importance to the agricultural community, and the Government is under great obligation to the Agricultural Society and the two Associations who have obligingly responded to the call made upon them and contributed valuable remarks and suggestions. When the Lieutenant-Governor is favored with an expression of the views of His Excellency the Governor General in Council as to the extent to which instruction in agriculture may be aided by grants of public money, he proposes to publish the correspondence in the supplement to the Calcutta Gazette for general information.

10. In the meanwhile His Honor is glad to be assured that the Agricultural Shows which have been held during the last two years, and will be continued annually, are regarded by those most competent to judge of their effects as likely to answer the object for which they were instituted and to sustain, as they have created, among the higher and middle classes of native society, an interest in agriculture which before was unfelt.

From E. C. BAYLEY, ESQ., Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 2581, dated Simla, the 6th October 1865.)

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 440T., dated the 18th July last, forwarding a copy of a correspondence relative to the subject of agricultural education in Bengal.

2. In reply I am directed to state that the Government of India will ask the consideration of the University Syndicate to the suggestion* contained in the 3rd paragraph of your letter; but that, until some precise measure or plan of proceeding is proposed, the Governor General in Council is not prepared to pronounce definitively "as to the extent to which instruction in agricul-"ture may be aided by grants of public money."

* To make chemistry as applied to agriculture and the rotation of crops a subject of the B. A. examination, and specially to insist on a knowledge of it in the examination for honors in the natural and physical sciences, the college lectures on those subjects being, in this view, made to embrace a more distinct notice of agricultural chemistry.

Supplementary Commissions of the Peace for Bengal, Behar, and Orissa were issued by the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal on the 16th instant, directed to the under-mentioned gentlemen, viz.:—

Mr. John Blessington Roberts, Calcutta.
„ Alan Pendleton, Calcutta.

NOTIFICATION.—The 20th November 1865.—The Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to notify, under the authority of the Government of India, that the following scheme for registering copyrights of vernacular publications will be brought into operation experimentally from the 1st December next:—

I. The fee chargeable under Section 5 of Act XX. of 1847 for registering a copyright will be returned to any person who will fullfil the following conditions:—

(a.) He shall deposit a memorandum legibly written in English and in the language in which the book is written, in the Form given below, at the Office of the Secretary to the Local Government:—

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
Time of making original entry of proprietorship.	Title of Book.	Name of publisher and place of publication.	Name and place of abode of the proprietor of the copyright.	Date of first publication.	Retail price of the book.	The Press where the book was first printed.	The shop or place where the book can be bought.	General nature of the subject of the book.	Whether the book is mainly in verse or not.

(b.) The information contained in this Memorandum will be forwarded to the Secretary to the Government of India in the Home Department, and if no legal objection exist to the registry, the copyright will be registered accordingly.

II. When registered the information contained in this memorandum will be published in three successive issues of the Supplement to the Gazette of India, and of the Calcutta, the Bengallee, or Oordoo Gazettes of the Lower Provinces.

III. If it be desired to repeat the publication in the Gazette Supplement more than three times, this may be done by payment of a reasonable charge for each re-publication beyond three times.

The 24th November 1865.—The Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India has intimated, in his Despatch No. 221, dated 30th September 1865, the grant to Mr. W. C. Bruton, an Uncovenanted Officer under this Government, of an extension of leave for six months on sick certificate.

NOTIFICATION.—The 28th November 1865.—Under the provisions of Section XIV., Act VI. of 1863, the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to declare Koushtea to be a Warehousing place for the purposes of that Act.

The following Rules are published for general information:—

Rules under Section 4, Act VI. (B. C.) of 1864, entitled an Act to provide for the periodical inspection of Steam Boilers and Prime Movers attached thereto in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta.

APPOINTMENT OF THE MEMBERS OF THE COMMISSION AND DUTIES OF INSPECTORS.

I.—There shall be opened, in some convenient part of the Town, an Office for the Commissioners for the inspection of boilers.

II.—A Boiler Commission shall be appointed for Calcutta, to consist of Commissioners as follows:—

1. The Commissioner of Police.
2. The Mint Master.
3. Such Engineers or Owners or Managers of Mills and Foundries as may be nominated Members of the Commission by the Government of Bengal.

III.—There shall be an Engineer Inspector, who shall also be Secretary to the Commission, with such Assistants as shall from time to time be found necessary.

IV.—The Commission shall meet periodically (at least once a month) to arrange for the inspection of boilers; to receive and consider the reports of the Engineer; to control the proceedings of the Engineer; and to settle all disputes between the Engineer and Boiler-owners, as these may arise, and to act as final referee in all cases.

V.—The Engineer shall attend at the Office and keep such records as the Commission may from time to time direct.

VI.—The Engineer shall keep in Form B1, B2, an index register and dintension sheet, in the order authorised by he Commissioners, of all boilers within the limits of the Act.

VII.—The Engineer shall inspect these boilers in the regular order laid down in this list except any deviation from this order be specially sanctioned by the Commissioners.

VIII.—There shall be three kinds of inspection of boilers:—

A. A thorough examination, once every twelve months, inside and outside, to be made by the Engineer in person, for which purpose the boilers must be emptied, cool, and clean and flues swept, and if required by the Engineer, any parts or settings removed for a complete examination of the boiler and machinery in every part.

B. An ordinary examination, once every four months, of a boiler while on work.

C. A special examination, in either Form A or B, at the request of the owner.

IX. The Engineer shall annually inspect every boiler on his list before he grants a certificate or permission to work the boiler.

This examination (A thorough)is to be inside and out. The Engineer shall give one week's notice (as per Form C.) of every such intended examination, (A thorough,) and if after that notice the boilers are not cool, clean, and ready for inspection on the date named, the Engineer shall prohibit the boilers from working and shall report the case to the Commissioners.

Further, if any request be made to remove fittings or setting, and such be not complied with, the Engineer shall in like manner stop the working of the boilers.

X.—The Engineer shall submit to the Commissioners his report on every boiler inspected in (Form D1,) which shall be recorded in the Office, and a report (Form D2) sent to the owner of the boiler, and the certificate granted in Form E.

XI.—The Engineer or his Assistants shall examine (B, ordinary) every boiler and apparatus once every four months, submitting a report to the Commissioners in Form D, on which the Certificate will be endorsed by the Engineer.

These examinations will be conducted while the boiler is at work, and without giving any notice to the owner.

XII.—The Engineer shall be provided with boiler testing pump, indicator, and guages and shall, under the following rules, test and indicate boilers:—

a. Whenever any owner of a boiler may wish to have a boiler tested, or to have his engine indicated, if he make application to the Commissioners, the Engineer shall test the boiler or indicate the engines on payment of the fees laid down.

b. These reports and diagrams, Form F,* shall be sent in original to boiler-owners and copy filed in Office.

* Form of Diagrams not yet ready.

XIII.—The Engineer shall report weekly or monthly to the Commissioners as per Form H, and the Assistant Inspector shall report daily to the Engineeer in Form G.

The following Orders issued by the Government of India in the Home Department are re-published for information :—

The following Notification is published in supersession of Notification No. 1331, dated Simla, the 25th August last, published in the Gazette of India of the 26th idem, page 940 :—

JUDICIAL.

No. 4366.—Fort William, the 22*nd November* 1865.—Until the Governor General in Council shall otherwise provide, under the powers conferred by the Act XXVIII. Vic., Cap. 15, all jurisdiction formerly exercised by the Supreme Courts of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay, respectively, over the inhabitants of such parts of India as may not be comprised within the local limits of the Letters Patent issued under the Act XXIV. and XXV. Vic., Cap. 104, establishing High Courts at Fort William, Madras, and Bombay, shall, subject to the provisions of the said Letters Patent, be exercised by such High Courts respectively, to the intent that the jurisdictions exercised by the said High Courts respectively at the time of the coming into operation of the said first-mentioned Act shall thenceforth, until such other provision as aforesaid, continue and be maintained.

No. 4386.—Fort William, the 20*th November* 1865.—Notification.—In continuation of Notification No. 2714, dated the 24th March, the following Circular is published for general information :—

The "list of Medals" mentioned in paragraph 1 is that which was published in the above-mentioned Notification.

ROYAL HORTICUTURAL SOCIETY

SOUTH KENSINGTON, W.

September 1865.

SIR,—I beg to call your attention to the annexed list of Medals to be awarded at the International Exhibition of Fruit and Vegetables, to be held in these Gardens, from the 9th December to the 16th December next, inclusive.

Several questions have been asked with regard to the manner in which fruits that will not bear a journey are to be exhibited; in answer, I am desired to say, that such fruits may be preserved in sugar spirits, vinegar, or in such other manner as, in the opinion of the exhibitor, will will be most convenient.

Wild fruits and vegetables will be admissible as representative collections of the country from which they come. All packages must be addressed to the care of the Garden Superintendent, Royal Horticultural Society, South Kensington, London.

I am desired especially to request, that intending Exhibitors will make known their intentions as early as possible to the Assistant Secretary, forwarding full particulars of the object they desire to exhibit.

I have the honor to be,
SIR,
Yours obediently,

J. COCKERELL,
Assistant Secretary.

The Board however reserve to themselves the right of altering these dates should circumstances render it expedient to do so.

The following are the conditions of Sale :—

1*st*. The Opium will be sold for exportation by sea only, and no certificate will be granted except to cover such Export.

2*nd* The Opium will be ordinarily offered for sale at an upset price of Rupees 800 per Chest, and sold to the highest bidder above that price, except under the circumstances for which provision is made by Clause 12th of these conditions of Sale.

3*rd*. The Sale shall commence at the hour of 11 A. M. of the day fixed by previous Notification, and shall not be continued after the hour of 5 P. M., but if at that hour any of the lots advertised for sale shall remain unsold, the sale may, at the discretion of the Board of Revenue, be resumed on the next day following (not being Sunday or a Public Holiday) at the hour of 11 A. M., and so on, until the whole of the remaining lots are disposed of, or, if the whole quantity advertized shall not be sold on the day appointed, the Board may dispose of the lots which remain on hand at a future Sale.

4*th*. Each lot shall contain five Chests.

5*th*. A Promissory Note for a sum, calculated according to the scale noted in the margin, shall be taken as a deposit on each lot from the Purchaser in the Sale Room, and before the lot is registered in the Sale Book, and all such Promissory Notes shall be redeemed on the part of the Purchasers at this Office by Bank of Bengal Receipts, or by substitution of other Public Securities of the Bengal Government on or before 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the fifth day after the sale, or on the other hand, failing such redemption by the time aforesaid, then the lot or lots for which no Bank of Bengal Receipts, or deposit of other Public Securities as aforesaid shall have been delivered in, shall be re-sold at such time or times and under such conditions of re-sale as the Board of Revenue shall see fit, and all losses and expenses, whatsoever, attending such re-sale shall be borne and paid by the defaulters, whilst any profit accruing from such re-sale shall be forfeited to Government.

	Deposit.
When the amount bid is less than Rs. 1,200 per Chest	Rs. 200 per Chest.
On bids of Rs 1,200 but less than Rs. 1,600	„ 300 „
On bids of Rs. 1,600 but less than Rs. 2,000	„ 400 „
and so on, Rs. 100 being added to the deposit for every additional Rs. 400 bid.

6. The Promissory Notes taken on the day of sale under the last mentioned condition, if remaining unredeemed at 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be placed in the hands of the Solicitor to the Government for realization in such manner as to him shall seem fit.

7. No tender of money, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Public Securities on account of Opium, upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be afterwards accepted.

8. The Opium now advertised for sale shall be paid for within fifteen clear days from the day of sale, and in case any lots of such Opium shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the Cash Deposit made under the fifth condition, or any Public Securities that may have been deposited on account of such lots or Chests, shall be forfeited, and the Opium shall be disposed of on account of Government at such time, and in such manner, as the Board of Revenue shall think fit, and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the Opium was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale.

9. Purchasers taking out Certificates or Orders for the delivery of Opium after making full payment as above prescribed, shall have the option of naming the number of lots of their purchase, which they may desire to be included in each Certificate or Order, and it is to be clearly understood that the Certificates or Orders so taken out shall be considered final, and not afterwards changeable for other Certificates or Orders authorizing the delivery of single lots or of a different number of lots or Chests, whether more or less than the number of lots or Chests originally required to be included in each Certificate or Order.

10. No deposit of Public Securities under the fifth of the present condition will be received in this Office, except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the Sale Book, or his authorized Agent. The Receipt for deposit of Public Securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the Securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

11. The Officer superintending the sale on the part of the Board of Revenue is empowered to reject, at his discretion, the bid of any individual unless such individual shall, on demand, tender at the time a deposit either in Government of India Notes, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Government Securities a sum equal to the amount, for which a Promissory Note would otherwise be taken under the fifth of these conditions.

12. With a view to prevent fictitious bidings designed to obstruct the sale, it is hereby notified that the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall be competent, at any time during the sale, to withdraw any unsold lot and immediately to put it up again for sale at a maximum upset price, diminishing the same gradually until a bid is obtained, and the first bonâ fide bidder for a lot after it has been offered for sale in the mode here described, shall be held and declared to be the purchaser of the said lot and the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall also be competent to dispose in the same manner of as many of the subsequent lots as he may think proper, provided always that no lot shall be sold below the minimum price of 800 Rupees specified in the second of these conditions.

13. The purchaser of any lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession at the same price and under the same conditions any number of lots of the same Agency Opium not exceeding altogether twenty-five lots; provided always that there remain a sufficient number of lots of the Opium to complete the said twenty-five.

14. In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the Opium included in this Notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall and may be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

15. The following papers will be exhibited for inspection on the day of sale, or may be seen previously to that date by application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue:—

No. 1.—Certificate of the Opium advertized for sale.

No. 2.—Report of the examination of such Opium.

16. The Public are hereby informed that, in providing the investment of the Behar and Benares Opium for the year 1864-65, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years, to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the Cakes, and to have the due proportion of Opium put into each Cake. An account of the weight of the drug when packed at Behar and Benares, and a Statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken for the purpose of comparison from the dispatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue.

17. Any further information respecting weight or quality of the Opium advertized for sale that may be desired by parties connected with the trade will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on application at the Office of the Board of Revenue, but, in accordance with established usage, under no circumstances will the Board entertain or recognize any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of Opium, or adulteration of the drug which may be preferred on reference to chests after the sale and delivery of the Opium for shipment.

18. It is hereby further notified that, under the 6th Article of the Convention between Great Britain and France, dated the 7th March 1815, quoted below, the Agents in India of the French Government, or persons duly appointed by them, are entitled to demand that, out of the quantities of Behar and Benares Opium declared as above for sale at the twelve sales of the year 1866, there shall be delivered to them at the average of the particular sale or sales to which the Opium so applied for may belong, a quantity not exceeding in the aggregate 300 chests, and the Agents of the French Government must make requisition specifying the quantity of Opium required by them at any particular sale within thirty days from the advertisement of such intended sale, provided, however, that the Agents of the French Government may make such requisition for the whole quantity within thirty days from the publication of this Notification. If the Agents of the French Government shall not make the requisition for Opium within the time above-mentioned the entire quantity of about 40,000 Chests of Behar and Benares, as above estimated, will be brought to sale in the usual manner, and if they shall make application for quantity of Opium to be delivered to them out of the quantity advertised for sale at each or any of the twelve sales above-mentioned, but shall not pay for it within the prescribed period of payment, the Government of Bengal reserves to itself the right of disposing of the Opium which the French authorities may so fail to pay for, either by increasing the quantity reserved at the sale next ensuing the date of payment, or by selling it at a sale to be held expressly for the purpose.

Article of the Convention above referred to.—

Article 6th.—"With regard to the Trade in "Opium, it is agreed between the high contracting parties that each of the periodical sales of "that article, there shall be reserved for the "French Government, and delivered upon requisition duly made by the Agents of His Most "Christian Majesty, or by the persons duly "appointed by them, the number of Chests so "applied for, provided that such supply shall not "exceed three hundred Chests in each year, and "the price for the same shall be determined by "the average rate at which Opium shall have "been sold at every such periodical sale, it being "understood that, if the quantity of Opium "applied for at any one time shall not be taken "on account of the French Government by the "Agents of His Most Christian Majesty within "the usual period of delivery, the quantity so "applied for shall nevertheless be considered as so "much in reduction of the three hundred Chests "herein before-mentioned. The requisitions for "Opium as aforesaid are to be addressed to the "Governor General at Calcutta within thirty "days after notice of the intended sales shall "have been published in the Government Gazette."

CALCUTTA CUSTOMS,
The 28th November 1865.

J. A. CRAWFORD,
Collector of Customs.

Proposed Bye-Laws for Purneah Municipality.

I. Every quarterly instalment of the rate and Taxes mentioned in the Act shall be considered to have become due at the commencement of the quarter on account of which such instalment is payable, and may be levied at any time after the commencement of such quarter.

II. Every bill for any sum due on account of the rate leviable under the Act shall always, when possible, be presented to the individual named therein in person; but if such personal presentation be found impossible, the bill shall be left at his place of ordinary residence in the hands of some male member of his family, or one of his servants, and a bill so left shall be deemed to have been presented within the meaning of the Act.

III. The Collecting Officer shall pay daily into the hands of the Cashier of the Magistrate's and Collector's Office, or such other person as may from time to time be nominated by the Commissioners for the purpose of receiving them, all sums collected in the course of the day and shall take his receipt for the same.

IV. If it shall appear to the Municipal Commissioners that any person in their employ ought to be dismissed and their Chairman or Vice-Chairman shall refuse to dismiss such person, then it will be lawful for the majority of said Commissioners, at a regular Meeting, by a written resolution, to declare that such person shall no longer draw any salary from the Municipal Fund.

V. Every person in the employ of the Municipal Commissioners shall be liable to be dismissed at any time from his employment without any cause being assigned for his dismissal, provided nevertheless that no person shall be dismissed without receiving either one month's previous notice of dismissal, or one month's extra salary, and no person shall quit the service of the Commissioners without giving either one month's previous notice, or forfeiting one month's salary.

VI. All persons now holding, or who may hereafter be appointed to any office under the Municipal Commissioners, shall, when required to do so, furnish security to such amount as the Commissioners may from time to time fix, and any person failing to furnish such security within reasonable time, or within such time as the Commissioners may appoint, shall be held to have thereby forfeited his appointment.

VII. No person shall erect or renew the external roof or wall of any hut or other building with grass, leaves, mats, or other such inflammable materials in or near any public highway where the same shall have been prohibited by proclamation issued by the Municipal Commissioners, and any person doing so shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty Rupees.

VIII. Any person who shall, after conviction of an offence under the preceding Bye-law, continue to erect or renew the external roof or wall of any hut or other building with grass, leaves, mats, or other such inflammable materials, or neglect to take down and remove the same within such time as shall be allowed him by the Municipal Commissioners, shall be liable to a further fine, not exceeding five Rupees for every day in which such erection or renewal is continued or such inflammable materials remain unremoved.

IX. The limits required for the purposes of Section 77 of the District Municipal Improvement Act shall be the entire local limits of the jurisdiction of the Municipal Commissioners, within which limits none of the offensive and dangerous trades mentioned in the said Section shall be newly set up or carried on by any person without a license from the Chairman or Vice-Chairman, which license may be at any time re-called by such Officer should he consider the discontinuance of the trade in question desirable.

X. 1.—No person shall perform the offices of nature on or near any public highway, or on the banks of the River Sowrah where it adjoins a public highway, or on the bank of any tank or jheel or pool of water within fifty yards of any public highway.

2. No person shall obstruct any public highway by exposing articles for sale thereon without having first obtained the permission of the Commissioners.

3. No person shall permit cattle, sheep, goats, or pigs to stray on any public highway, or tethering them on or near any public highway.

4. No person shall train or break horses or bullocks by means of a drag without wheels on any public highway.

5. No person shall let off fireworks or discharge fire-arms or any explosive substance on or near any public highway.

6. No person shall neglect or refuse to move an elephant or camel off an enbanked road on the approach of a wheeled conveyance or horse, or on being called upon to do so by the driver or rider.

7. Any person throwing, or causing to be thrown, any corpse or any part thereof into any river, nullah, canal, tank or pool, or on the bank of any nullah, canal, tank or pool, or disposing, or causing to be disposed of, any corpse, or any part thereof, otherwise than by burning or burying the same at or in some lawful burning or burial ground.

8. Every person who shall bring or convey, or cause to be brought or conveyed, to any burning ground any corpse, or any part thereof, shall burn it, or cause it to be burnt, within four hours after its arrival at the said burning ground.

9. No person who may burn, or cause to be burnt, at any burning ground any corpse, or any part thereof, shall permit the same, or any part thereof, to remain without being completely reduced to ashes, or to be removed before it shall have been so reduced.

10. No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, any corpse, or any part of a corpse, in any grave constructed of masonry in such manner that the coffin, or body, where there is no coffin used, shall be at a depth less than four feet from the surface ground.

11. No person shall bury, or cause to be buried, any corpse, or part of a corpse, in a grave not constructed of masonry the depth of which grave shall be less than six feet from the surface ground.

12. No person shall throw, or cause to be thrown, any carcass, or any part thereof, into any river, nullah, canal, tank or pool, or on the banks of any river, canal, tank or pool, or on any place other than such places as may from time to time be appointed by the Commissioners for the purpose of receiving such carcasses.

13. Every person within whose premises any animal may die shall, within two hours of its death, either remove the carcass as its own expense to such place as may be appointed by the Commissioners for the reception of such carcass, or report its death to the Overseer of the Division within which those premises may be situated, and in the latter case shall pay to the said Overseer the expense of removing the carcass at such rate as the Commissioners may from time to time determine.

14. No person shall dig, or make or cause to be dug or made, in any place, any tank, pond, ditch, or other excavation without the sanction of the Commissioners previously obtained.

15. No person shall let loose, or cause to be let loose, any diseased or worn-out animal into any public place, or into any place from which such animal can escape into any public place.

16. No person shall allow any pigs to be at large, or shall keep them otherwise than in enclosed styes.

17. All dirt, dust, ashes, and rubbish, sewerage, soil, dung, and filth collected from the highways, houses, privies, sewers, and cesspools by the Municipal Commissioners shall be the property of the Commissioners, who shall have power to sell or dispose of the same as they may think proper, and the money arising from the sale thereof shall be applied to the purposes of the District Municipal Improvement Act.

18. Every owner, occupier, or farmer of any Bazaar shall, within fourteen days after he shall have notice from the Municipal Commissioners so to do, provide such latrines and urinals as in the opinion of the Commissioners may be necessary for the cleanliness and health of such Bazaar.

XI. Every person who shall commit, within the limits of the Station of Purneah, an offence against any of the foregoing Bye-Laws by doing any act prohibited, or by neglecting to do any act directed to be done, by such Bye-Law, shall be punished by fine not exceeding Rupees five, and in case of his continuing such offence after notice from the Commissioners, such person shall be liable to a further penalty not exceeding Rupees two for every day after such notice during which such offence is continued, and such fine may be inflicted by any of the Municipal Commissioners after such enquiry as he may think fit. Subject, however, to an appeal to a Committee composed of three Commissioners.

JOHN BEAMES,
Chairman.

Municipality of the Suburbs of Calcutta.

HIS HONOR the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, in accordance with the provisions of Section 84, Act III. (B. C.) of 1864, having directed the publication of the following Bye-Laws for the Suburbs of Calcutta in the Calcutta and Bengallee Gazettes, they are hereby published for general information.

23. Each quarterly instalment of the rate and Taxes mentioned in the Act shall be considered to have become due at the commencement of the quarter on account of which such instalment is payable, and may be levied at any time after the commencement of such quarter, that is to say—

Collection of Taxes.

The instalment payable on account of the quarters ending 31st July, 31st October, 31st January, and 30th April may be levied on or after the 1st May, the 1st August, the 1st November, and the 1st February respectively.

26. When the name of the owner is not known, it shall be sufficient to designate him in any notice or other proceeding under the Act as "the owner" of the property on which the rate is assessed without further description.

27. Every person required in writing to furnish any return which the Commissioners may lawfully require him to furnish, shall produce such return at the Office of the Commissioners within one week from the date of the service of the said requisition, and in default thereof shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Rupees 5, and to a fine not exceeding Rupees 2 for every day during which the offence shall be continued

Port Canning Municipality.

NOTICE TO LOT-HOLDERS

THE Municipal Commissioners give notice that all lots upon which the sum stipulated in the lease shall not have been expended either in raising such lots or in the erection of buildings thereon before the 31st December 1865 will be resumed.

Lots which have been, or may be, redeemed in freehold prior to the above date, are of course exempted from resumption.

Freehold titles can only be obtained by exchanging Port Canning Municipal Debentures at the rate of 600 Rupees Debentures for each beegah of land.

The lessee of two or more lots will be allowed the option of spending on any one lot the aggregate amount required under the terms of the leases to be expended on each separate lot.

By Order of the Commissioners,

THOMAS F. KILBY,
Secretary.

Statement of the Accounts of the Calcutta Port Fund for 1864-65.

From CAPTAIN JOHN G. REDDIE, Master Attendant, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 2203, dated the 21st August 1865.)

IN accordance with the provisions of Section 44, Act XXII. of 1855, I have the honor to submit, for the information and orders of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, the accompanying abstract statements shewing the Accounts of the Calcutta Port Fund for the year ending the 30th April 1865.

2. To effect a separation between the accounts of this fund and the general revenue a scheme was proposed by Mr. E. F. Harrison, the Officiating Deputy Auditor and Accountant-General, Bengal, which obtained the sanction of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and came into operation on the 1st of May 1864. On that date an account was opened at the Bank of Bengal called the "Calcutta Port Fund Account," and from that time all receipts of the fund have been paid into this account, while all the disbursements have been made by cheques drawn upon it. The accounts have been kept entirely at this office.

3. After a year's trial I have found that the new system has worked well, claims have been met with promptitude, the accounts have been effectually concentrated and adjusted, and I am now enabled to present a statement shewing accurately the accounts of the year 1864-65. The responsibility which rested upon me as the disbursing officer of the fund has been relieved by the audit of the Auditor-General, Bengal.

4. In consequence of the accounts of previous years being in arrears no statement of the assets and liabilities of the fund was obtainable when the new account was opened, and therefore the accounts for the current year, which I now submit, are simply accounts of the year's revenue. Until the arrears are brought up it will be impossible to state exactly the position which the fund occupies in relation to Government with respect to its assets and liabilities, and I would beg leave to submit that some measures should be taken to ascertain this position. Such accounts as exist already are, in a great measure, defective, partly from the fact that for some time it was not clearly ascertained what were and what were not true debits of the fund, and partly from the fact of their having been compiled from unaudited charges.

5. In submitting the accounts for the year ending 30th April 1865 there are some points of interest which I would beg leave to bring to the notice of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor.

6. The Cyclone of the 5th October 1864, as a matter of course, interfered most materially with the prosperity of the fund, adding very largely to the expenditure, and diminishing, in a great measure, the receipts.

7. With respect to the receipts, the revenue derived from moorings, which, in the first half of the year, averaged Rupees 22,257 per mensem, fell in the second-half to an average of Rupees 8,212.

8. In the Wreck and Anchor Department, during the corresponding periods, the average of of receipts fell from Rupees 1,848 to Rupees 463 per mensem.

9. The water-tank boat, which earns on an average Rupees 350 or Rupees 400 per mensem, was for four months and a half under repairs and earned nothing. The loss in the receipts of the Harbour Master's Department, though not so great in proportion to the other departments quoted, was still considerable, amounting to about Rupees 10,000.

10. The effects of the Cyclone upon the charges against the fund are most apparent in the bills for work done and stores supplied by the Dock-yard.

11. In the first-half of the year the whole of such expenditure amounted to Rupees 81,814-5-11, in the second-half year it came to Rupees 4,14,636-1-6, thus shewing an increase of Rupees 3,32,821-11-7, almost the whole of which might, in my opinion, be fairly set down as extra expenditure on account of the Cyclone. In the cash account there is an item, Rupees 9,812-12-6, for "charges general," debitable to Cyclone account current. This amount is made up principally of direct cash payments for expenses incurred in emergent cases by my order with the general permission of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor. The statement is submitted in detail, and I have now to request the favor of His Honor's sanction for such amounts as have not been previously sanctioned—in all Rupees 4,246-14-3.

12. Notwithstanding the great increase in the expenditure and the decrease in the receipts, the net loss for the year only amounts to Rupees 2,85,648-9-7.

13. As no block account was made over to the fund on the 1st of May 1864, I have not alluded here to loss incurred by the foundering of the Floating Light Vessel Hope, the stranding of the Surveying Brig Salween, the Hulk Matabangha, and many boats attached to the fund. Their places were supplied by other vessels which, except in the case of new boats, were made over by the Government without charge. A statement of the actual loss to the fund in block could be prepared only from an accurate account of its real value when first handed over.

14. Much of the extra expenditure has been covered by the ordinary estimates, but an extra grant has enabled me to keep the whole annual expenditure wihthin the amount sanctioned by Government. It is satisfactory for me to be able to point out that, notwithstanding the great falling off in receipts, to which I alluded in paragraph 6, the total income for the year amounted to within Rupees 9,000 of the estimated receipts. This is accounted for by the great increase to the trade of the port during the year.

15. The port dues have been levied in accordance whith the provisions of Act XXX. of 1857, and the amount realised from each class of vessels provided for in the Act is shewn in the following table :—

Rate per Ton.	Number of Vessels.	Gross Tonnage.	Gross Income.
			Rupees.
At 4 annas ...	892	720,964	1,80,241
„ 3 „ ...	342	277,904	52,107
„ 2 „ ...	199	19,571	2,446
Total ...	1,433	1,018,439	2,34,794

16. The third class of vessels or dhoonies contribute nothing to the fund beyond the amount of the port dues at 2 annas per ton, and omitting this contribution altogether, the subjoined table will shew the average rate per ton paid by all other vessels entering the port :—

Gross Tonnage.	Amount contributed as Port Dues.	Amount paid for occupation of Moorings.	Amount of Harbour Master Fees.	Total.	Average per Ton.
	Rupees.	Rupees.	Rupees.	Rupees.	Rupees.
998,868	2,32,348	2,10,891	1,04,291	5,47,530	0 8 9

17. It will therefore appear that upon an average a consideration of 8 annas and 9 pie per ton is paid to the Calcutta Port Fund by vessels entering the port, and for this consideration they have the advantage of the light-houses and light-vessels; the services connected with the survey and buoyage of the river; the service of the Harbour Master's Department, and the occupation of moorings.

18. In a letter No. 1430, dated 21st March 1864, from Mr. Junior Secretary S. C. Bayley, the propriety of continuing the establishment of a water-tank boat was questioned, and it was ordered that a separate account of the expenditure and income of the boat should be kept and presented to Government. This account is appended, and although it shews a loss of Rupees 1,076-3-6 on the whole year's working, the loss is entirely owing to the Cyclone. During the first half-year it was worked very profitably, as will be seen from the accounts, and there can be no doubt that, under ordinary circumstances, besides the saving effected in supplying water to the vessels under Government, the earnings are sufficient to pay all expenses and leave a decided profit to credit of the fund.

19. I think it advisable to look at the position of the entire fund at the end of the first-half year. The receipts and charges during that period were unaffected by the Cylone, and an examination of the appended statement will shew what chance the port has of becoming independent of Government aid. From the submitted accounts it will be seen that at the close of the half-year there was a balance of Rupees 78,892 6-6 to the credit of the fund. Taking the original cost of all the floating stock, light-houses, and other buildings debitable to the fund, the amount of capital invested is Rupees 20,80,080, and the return for the half-year would therefore represent more than 7 per cent. per annum. After deducting a fair amount (say 5 per cent.) for depreciation of floating stock, this would still shew a profit for the half-year.

20. The general balance sheet shews that the liabilities to creditors amount in all to Rupees 5,56,165, and it becomes now my duty to consider how these liabilities can be best met. In Section 44 of Act XXII. of 1855 it is provided that when the liabilities of the fund exceed the available assests, application should be made to Government for a loan to meet the deficit. But in this case the General Treasury being the principal creditor, I would suggest, in the interest of the fund, that, after paying off as much of the debt as possible, time be given to the fund to pay the remainder. I have this day paid into the Treasury Rupees 3,00,000 on account of the debt, and from time to time as the receipts accumulate any surplus above the amount required to meet the current expenses may be paid in towards the liquidation of the debt.

As the damage done by the Cyclone gets repaired the receipts will increase, and it may be reasonably expected that, in the absence of any extraordinary circumstances, the fund will get out of debt in the course of a few years.

21. Should the proposed scheme of transferring the management of the fund to a river trust be carried into effect, it will be necessary to ascertain the true income and expenditure since Act XXII. of 1855 came into operation, so that the account as between Government and the Port Fund might be closed. It should also be determined—whether the management is transferred or not—in what manner the pensions now paid by Government to certain old servants of the port should be recovered. It would not be fair to debit the fund with the entire pension of an officer whose services had been employed while the revenues of the port were considered a part of the Government revenues; nor is it fair to Government, on the other hand, that the fund should be relieved altogether from the payments of the pensions incurred since that time.

22. There are also some doubts as to the fairness of the arrangements which make the entire expense of the light house at False Point a debit of the fund. The whole of the vessels employed in the Coasting trade use the light, and it seems reasonable that the Port Funds of Balasore and other ports, deriving an income from this trade, should contribute a moiety of the expenses of the light house.

23. The expenditure in connection with the port establishment at Kedgeree is really a contribution to the Post Office. Whatever may have been the necessity for port officials in former years, the officers employed there now are appointed by the Post Office Authorities and are engaged entirely in duties of that office. Under these circumstances, I am of opinion that the whole of the expenditure at the Kedgeree Post Office should be debited to their account and the Calcutta Port Fund be relieved from contributing.

24. The balance sheet shews, on the 30th April 1865, a balance of Rupees 2,72,733, which has since increasd to Rupees 3,20,000. In the event of the management of the fund being continued under Government as at present, it would perhaps be worth while to consider whether some modification of existing arrangements could not be made so as to make the credits at the Bank a part of the Treasury balances.

Report of the Proceedings of the Committee appointed to enquire into the causes of the loss of the Ship "Eagle Speed."

From Captain H. Howe, Deputy Master Attendant, to the Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(dated the 27th September 1865.)

Sir,

With reference to your letter No. 5265 of the 2nd instant, I have the honor to submit, herewith, the report of the Commissioners appointed under Section C., Act I. of 1859, to enquire into the causes of and circumstances attending the loss of the Ship Eagle Speed off the Roy-Mutlah Sands.

P. S.—Appendix will follow.

INVESTIGATION into the loss of the Ship "Eagle Speed" in the outer Channels of the Mutlah, and into the attendant circumstances connected therewith on the 21st and 22nd August 1865.

Present:

A. J. R. Bainbridge, Esq., Offg. Magte., 24-Perghs.
Captain H. Howe, Depy. Master Attendant.

The following witnesses were examined by the Commissioners:—

Schedule.—G.

1. The Eagle Speed, a ship of 1,237 tons burden, was chartered in July last by the Emigration Agent for British Guiana to convey emigrants to Demerara.

2. Having been previously surveyed and passed by the Surveyor to Lloyd's as a good insurance risk for cargo, she was, on being tendered for emigrants specially surveyed by Captain Boon, the Government Surveyor, for this particular service, and pronounced sound, stanch, and seaworthy, and in every way adapted for the conveyance of emigrants. The number, size, capacity and condition of the boats were specially examined and reported on, and an additional boat making up the number to six, was ordered by the Surveyor, and provided by the captain of the ship.

3. It should be remarked here that the Eagle Speed came to this port from Auckland, New Zealand, to which place she had, under the inspection of the Emigration Commissioners, conveyed passengers from England, and that upon the evidence, there is not the smallest doubt regarding her sea-worthiness, and the soundness and efficiency of the boats.

4. The Eagle Speed had a European crew of twenty-eight, exclusive of four topases, all seafaring men, four cooks, a doctor, and compounder.

5. The Eagle Speed embarked the emigrants, 487 in number, including women and children, on the 19th August, between 9 and 10 A. M., but did not leave

Port Canning until the following morning the 20th, when she proceeded down the river at a light draught of 17 ft. 6 in. in tow of the tug steamer Lady Elgin, and in charge of Mr. Pilot Vardy, who had been specially applied for by the captain, and by the Firm of Messrs. Borradaile, Schiller and Company.

Schedule B.—(Note of application.)

App. p. 9, l. 23.

6. Mr. Hoskins, the Port Master, and Dr. O'Sullivan, the Civil Surgeon of Port Canning, were on board the Eagle Speed. The former by the desire of the Marine Authorities to assist by his presence and advice, and the latter to aid the doctor of the ship who was indisposed. There were also six gentlemen passengers on board the Lady Elgin.

7. The ship reached Halliday Island the same evening, and anchored for the night. The next morning, at 7 A. M. she was got under weigh, and proceeded seawards in tow of the tug, by the eastern channel, with the wind at N. E. and smooth water, expecting to make the floating light at about 3 P. M.

60, l. 11.

8. At about 2 to 2-30 P. M. the wind shifted to the southward and the sea increased. The ship made little or no headway with the ebb, and it became apparent that the Lady Elgin had not power to tow the ship out.

" 58, l. 5.

At about 4 P. M. the ship being about one mile and a half distant from the outer or R. R. buoy, fourteen from the floating light, and twenty-five from Halliday Island, one of the towing hawsers parted. The Lady Elgin was unable with the remaining hawser to keep the ship's head to the southward, and owing to the sea that was running and to the ship lying in an awkward position right across the tide and sea, great delay took place in passing the hawser afresh.

App. p. 17, l. 2.

" 46, l. 20.

9. At about 6-30 P. M., just after the hawser had been passed, the ship took the ground, and continued to bump for nearly half an hour. The anchor was immediately let go, but the ship ceasing to strike as the flood made, and the pilot finding, as he states, that the Lady Elgin was able to tow the ship against the tide, the chain was slipped, and she continued to tow to the southward until about 9-30 P. M., when the feed pipe of the steamer gave way, and both the ship and the Lady Elgin were anchored.

Schedule C.—(Pilot's Report.)

Schedule D.—(Chart.)

C. and E. See Reports by Mr. Pilot Vardy and Captain Heath, filed at the trial before the Marine Court.

App. p. 17, l. 19.

10. The ship's position at this time is shewn on the accompanying chart; that is to say she lay about 3½ to 4 miles east of the centre Bulcherry Buoy, 14½ miles from the floating light ship, and 16 miles from the nearest land.

" 47, l. 5.

11. During the night, the pumps were rigged and manned by the crew and emigrants, but as the water gained steadily on the ship, preparations were made for hoisting out the boats; at 3 A. M. the Lady Elgin was signalled, and on her boat coming alongside, information was sent that the ship was in a sinking state, and the Lady Elgin was requested to come to her assistance.

" 18, l. 14.

" 70, l. 11.

12. At daylight the Lady Elgin having repaired the feed pipe during the night, steamed to the ship; the captain of the ship hailed her to anchor close under the stern, having previously prepared a Manilla rope for the purpose of establishing communication. No distinct reply was given by the captain of the Lady Elgin, but she did not come to an anchor.

" 48, l. 14.
" 74, l. 10.
" 147, l. 25.

13. The life-boat was first lowered, and Mr. Hoskins took command. The boat was passed under the stern, and filled with women and children, (lowered into her by the captain and the store-keeper), and these were safely conveyed to the steamer. The boat was towed back towards the ship by the Lady Elgin, but after several attempts did not succeed in reaching her, owing to the Lady Elgin not towing her close enough with the wind and set prevailing. The boat continued occupied under Mr. Hoskins in picking up persons in the water and in saving life, until about 10-30 A. M., when both Mr. Hoskins and the crew being knocked up, went alongside the Lady Elgin to be relieved; after Mr. Hoskins and his crew left the boat, she remained alongside the Lady Elgin idle until about 11-30 to 12 A. M. when volunteers were called for, to go in her to fetch the captain of the ship.

" 137, l. 20.
" 21, l. 16.

" 22, l. 6.

66, l. 16.
" 122, l. 6.

The boat made a trip to the ship under the chief officer who had meantime reached the Lady Elgin in the ship's gig, and brought off the captain, a midshipman and some emigrants. On reaching the Lady Elgin the crew jumped out of the boat, she stove under the sponsons, and went down afterwards while being towed by the Lady Elgin.

App. p. 73, l. 3.
" 96, l. 10.
" 130, l. 15.

14. The second boat lowered was the starboard cutter, of which Mr. Pilot Vardy took charge. The boat took a batch of emigrants to the Lady Elgin, but arrived alongside with her bows stove in, and was sent adrift.

" 107, l. 1.

15. The longboat was got out by tackles in the usual way, lowered safely into the water, and passed astern, the second officer taking command. The boat unfortunately got foul under the stern, and was stove under the ship's quarter through the mismanagement of the second officer. The boat was still serviceable however, and conveyed a number of emigrants to the Lady Elgin. The crew would neither remain in the boat nor return, and she was made fast alongside; subsequently the Lady Elgin, steamed ahead full power, the boat's thwart carried away, she sheared under the sponsons, was smashed and went down alongside.

" 163, l. 6.
" 145, l. 10.

" 124, l. 23.

" 127 l. 10.

16. After the longboat left the ship' the gig was launched, but in getting her over the stern one of the stanchions made a hole in her bottom. The chief officer took command, and several of the European crew and some emigrants reached the Lady Elgin in her, after which she swamped alongside.

" 71, l. 20.
" 50, l. 3.

17. After getting the longboat and gig away, the captain ordered the boatswain to launch the fifth boat which was on the skids. In attempting to do this the boat got jammed, and the boatswain immediately deserted the ship and swam to the Lady Elgin.

" 81, l. 10.
" 128, l. 17.

" 82, l. 7.

18. No attempt was made to launch the sixth and last boat.

19. During the whole of the time that the boats were employed in passing to the Lady Elgin, she was either drifting, or under steam, at a distance varying from 1½ miles to half a ship's length from the ship. The same time was occupied in throwing over board all the lumber on the deck of the ship under the

The Lady Elgin, and the life-boat under Mr. Hoskins, were engaged for a considerable period in intercepting and picking up persons, both crew and emigrants so drifting from the ship, but as was to be expected under the circumstances, many were passed by and perished.

" 64, l. 5.
" 160, l. 15.

20. About mid-day the ship's life-boat came from the Lady Elgin under the ship's chief officer with a message from Captain Heath, (commander of the Lady Elgin,) to the effect that if the captain (Brinsden) did not then come off, the Lady Elgin would not wait for him.

" 157, l. 2.
" 72, l. 2.
" 89, l. 23.
" 141, l. 1.
" 95, l. 10.

Some difficulty was found in getting a crew for this boat, and the chief officer was obliged to offer a reward before the men went into her.

A crew was obtained, and among them was one of the men who had previously worked well in her under Mr. Hoskins, William Maynard.

" 54, l. 2.
" 146, l. 22.

21. The Lady Elgin had previously hailed to all hands on board the ship to jump over board, and shewed a board with writing addressed to the captain, as to the words of which there is some conflict.

" 72, l. 2.
" 84, l. 10.
" 98, l. 5.
" 148, l. 2.

22. All the Europeans at this time had left the ship except the doctor (Donaldson,) a midshipman, and a sick sailor, (Kemp.)

" 68, l. 19.

Under these circumstances, the captain after going below to see how high the water was, got into the life-boat over the stern and left the ship. The midshipman and some emigrants were also taken off in the boat, but she was not full.

" 96, l. 21.
" 151, l. 10.

23. On reaching the Lady Elgin, the captain, who had on a cork jacket, was assisted on board by two gentlemen passengers, Messrs. Carlisle and Maitland; he expressed a wish to lie down, and going below without further remark, went to sleep on the stern locker.

" 93, l. 24.
" 111, l. 25.

App. p. 22, l. 10.

24. Mr. Hoskins having by this time rested, asked Captain Heath to lend him the boat belonging to the Lady Elgin, which was in consequence, and now for the first time lowered. Some difficulty was found in getting a crew. Maynard, however, again came forward, and three others were shamed into going.

" 23, l. 5.
" 33, l. 13.

The boat started about 1 P. M., and on reaching the ship Mr. Hoskins called to the doctor to jump in, but the emigrants crowded down the ladder over his body and filled the boat before he could get into her. Mr. Hoskins transferred these emigrants to the Lady Elgin and returned to the ship.

The doctor and a number of emigrants then jumped over board, and were picked up and conveyed to the Lady Elgin.

" 23, l. 15.
" 132, l. 14.
" 109, l. 16.

In getting the doctor up the side, one of the hanging tackles was clumsily allowed to foul one of the thwarts of the boat, and tear the side out, and the boat was rendered useless in consequence.

25. When the boat left the ship on this last occasion, a number of emigrants and the sick European sailor were left hanging under the stern. The four topases were still on board.

" 100, l. 5.

One of the topases was seen to descend and fasten a line round the European, by which he was hauled on deck. The topases do not appear to have tried to get into this last boat, thinking that she would return, and relying on the doctor's promise to that effect.

" 87, l. 19.
" 109, l. 20.

26. After the boat last mentioned was stove, and had been hoisted up, the Lady Elgin steamed close to the ship, and picked up such of the emigrants as jumped over board and reached her, but the topases were not hailed to launch the ship's two remaining boats, and no attempt was made at that time to launch either of them: about an hour was occupied in this way.

" 109, l 27.
" 96, l. 20.
" 100, l. 23.

27. A consultation was then held on board the Lady Elgin, in which Mr. Hoskins, Captain Heath, the mate of the Lady Elgin, Mr. Vardy, and the six gentlemen passengers took part; the ship's officers were not present. Captain Heath said that the coal was only sufficient to take the Lady Elgin back to Canning, and that the weather looked bad; it seems doubtful whether the damaged feed pipe was mentioned, however it was agreed nem. con. to return to Port Canning and send assistance to the wreck. Mr. Hoskins took the leading part at this consultation.

28. Accordingly at about 2 P. M. the Lady Elgin left the ship, and steamed in the direction of the floating light to ascertain her position, of which no one on board was aware.

When she left, there were two large boats on her paddle boxes, these boats covered the paddles, and were either bolted down or secured by a cantpiece. No suggestion or attempt to launch these boats was made.

App. p. 67, l. 1.

28½. The masts of the floating light were shortly afterwards sighted, and the Lady Elgin's head being put about, she passed the ship in going up channel at about three miles distance, and anchored at Halliday Island at 6-30 P. M.

29. When the Lady Elgin was abreast of the ship on the way up channel, the ship's captain was about on deck; he made no formal protest to Captain Heath against leaving the ship.

30. On her way up the river the next morning the Lady Elgin overtook a boat proceeding up. This boat turned out to be the fifth boat of the ship before described as having got jammed in the attempt to launch her; the boat contained the four topases, the sick European sailor, (Kemp) thirty-two male, and one female emigrant; she had no rudder, mast or sails, but there were three oars, two of which were broken, she was proceeding up under a blanket rigged as a sail on one of the oars, and was steered with another. This boat was 22 feet long and clinker built. The topases launched her without difficulty after the Lady Elgin left the ship; in lowering her the after-tackle carried away and she partially filled, but the topases baled her out alongside, and she was passed safely under the stern; whilst fast astern the rope broke, and she

" 52, l. 6.

" 76, l. 3.
" 100, l. 21.
" 78, l. 10.

went adrift with two topases (Mills and Alsun) and some emigrants in her; there were no appliances in the boat except a broken oar. The topases rigged an emigrant's wrapper on this oar by way of shift for a sail, and with this and a piece of the stern sheets, torn from the bottom and used as a rudder, the boat regained the ship in about an hour; the boat was brought alongside under the mizen chains, two more oars (one of them broken) two blankets, a compass, lantern, cigars and some salt-meat were put into her, and after taking in the other two topases and the emigrants, she shoved off. With this load and with these appliances, the boat weathered the night, and some hours after leaving the ship having made out a light (probably a light from the Lady Elgin anchored at Halliday Island) she got fairly into the river.

App. p. 79, l. 3.
" 103, l. 8.

31. This boat left the ship at about 6 P. M., and at that time the water was up to the combings of the hatchways. It is in evidence that the ship did not founder until about 8 A. M. the following morning. This depends on the statement of one of three emigrants, two men and one woman, who floated ashore on a plank, and were recently found in the jungle, some 50 miles in land, well nigh starved.

" 76, l. 28

32. The ship was totally lost; some emigrants who floated ashore on pieces of wreck after the ship foundered, have been found in the jungle and rescued; the total loss of life has been 262 souls, none of the Europeans are missing.

33. These being the facts of the case as they are proved in evidence, we now proceed to point out what, in our opinion was the cause of the catastrophe, and wherein the responsible persons connected with the ship, failed in their duty.

34. Mr. Pilot Vardy having already stood his trial before the proper tribunal, and been condemned for the actual loss of the ship, which was under his pilotage charge, will not be noticed in the remarks to follow, except incidentally.

35. The first two subjects which require our notice, are the numerical and physical strength of the crew, and the competency of the tug employed to take the ship out.

36. There appears to be no regulation prescribing the number of the crew which emigrant ships shall carry.

The practice appears to be regulated by instructions issued by the Government Transport Agent, dated 10th December 1864, to the effect that such ships shall have as many men on their articles as they had when they cleared from England.

Schedule.—F. (Vide instructions.)

In this case the crew list handed in by the captain, shews a complement of 28, exclusive of four topases, all seafaring men, and four cooks, who are not borne on the ship's articles, besides the doctor and a compounder.

Schedule G. List.

On the point of their physical condition, there is some conflict of evidence, Dr. Donaldson says four or five appeared to be unhealthy and sick.

App. p. 34, l. 20.

Dr. O'Sullivan, who for the time was more directly in charge, and who saw and prescribed for the sick, says there was nothing the matter with any of them which a few days at sea would not remedy, and that with the exception of one or two who required trifling medical treatment, the whole crew was sound, though most of them were recovering from the effects of too much liquor.

„ 40, l. 13.

The crew were mustered by the chief officer after leaving Halliday Island. He says every man came aft, and that only two or three looked weakly. On the other hand, it seems pretty clear that the captain, although well, was not strong, having but recently recovered from sickness.

„ 75, l. 7.

„ 11, l. 20.
„ 36, l 1.

The chief officer was altogether incapacitated by sickness. The doctor was sick with pleurisy and a broken rib, and there is little doubt that on leaving Halliday Island not more than half the able seamen were at work.

„ 38, l. 11.

„ 45, l. 7.
„ 75, l. 14.
„ 92, l. 18.

It will be well to say at once here, that we consider the ship's crew was numerically sufficient, and that we are not of opinion that the loss of the ship is in any way attributable to their physical condition; neither do we think that, had the ship got to sea, she would, in ordinary circumstances, have been thereby endangered. But it is obvious that under extraordinary circumstances the lives of the emigrants were grievously imperilled by the physical condition of the men on whom those lives depended. In the emergency which happened, failing the captain and chief officer, (said to be a first rate man when well) the emigrants were lost men.

App. p. 51, l. 9.

37. In this case the officers and crew were not mustered and inspected before the emigrants embarked, or the ship hauled out of moorings.

The question of course arises on whom the responsibility of seeing that the crew is efficient, lies.

The responsibility of the captain and pilot cannot be contested.

The Emigration Agent and the Protector of Emigrants both repudiate any responsibility in the matter. The Emigration Agent says—"I had nothing to do with the crew. I thought they were all correct and right"; the Protector says, "I don't understand that my duties include any responsibility as to the number and capacity of the crew; there is a rule No. 19, providing for that duty; I received the list No. 6, ordered by the above rule from the commander; I will put in the return. It is not part of my duty to muster the crew and see that the provisions of rule 19 are complied with; I knew that there were twenty-six men on board, but I did not know their rating or condition, with the exception that the captain informed me that he had the same number he came out from England with, under engagement with the Emigration Commissioners;" and again further on, "the captain gave me to understand that he meant the same strength."

App. K.

On referring to the rules for the guidance of all persons concerned in emigration, we find it laid down in rules 14 and 15, that commanders are required to have crew lists prepared according to a given form and to lodge them three days before the embarkation of the emigrants in the Protector's office, and in rule 19—"That commanders are required to muster their crew in the presence of the pilot previous to the embarkation of the emigrants, in order that their efficiency may be ascertained;" and again in the charter party or agreement executed by the Emigration Agent, clause 5, provides as follows:—"The master, officers and crew shall be approved by the said Emigration Agent." Under these circumstances when the Emigration Agent, Mr. Hunt Marriott, inspected the ship on the 19th, we think he failed in his duty in not seeing that the provisions of rule 19 were duly complied with.

The charter party, in clauses 5, 17, 14 and 18, provides further, that three life-buoys shall be provided; that the Emigration Agent shall have every facility to inspect the fitments, &c.; that one topas or mehter at the least shall be provided for every hundred or fractional portion of a hundred emigrants, and that the ship shall be towed to sea by a competent steam-tug.

App. p. 149, l. 28.

Five life-buoys were provided in this case, but it is in evidence that these buoys were badly covered, and that owing to the water penetrating, they after a time soaked and went to pieces. The number of emigrants embarked was equal to 425 adults, there ought, therefore, to have been five in place of four topases. The steam-tug is shewn in evidence to have been incompetent to tow a ship of the size of the Eagle Speed under the circumstances in which she was placed, but as the question of her employment appears to have been referred to, and decided by, the Government of Bengal in the affirmative, no remark is necessary, further, than that Mr. Pilot Vardy certified that he considered her a first class steamer for the Mutlah, and that he preferred her to any other on account of the experience of her commander.

Schedule F.

Protector of Emigrants.

38. We now pass on to the Protector of Emigrants.

In the rules provided for the guidance of the Protector of Emigrants, we find it laid down in Rule 5, that it is his duty to see "that the ship is supplied with all necessaries for the voyage," in rule 6, that the ship is "in every way qualified to carry emigrants," and in rules 14, 15 and 19 which are general rules,), as already stated above. Reading the above rules, together with Act XIII. of 1864, section 46, clause 5, and sections 53 and 55, we are of opinion that it was also the duty of the Protector (Captain Burbank) to see that the pilot and commander duly complied with the provisions of rule 19.

We may add that section 3 of the standing rules for the guidance of pilots in the Hooghly and Mutlah, of which both the Emigration Agent and Protector must be taken to be officially cognizant, directs a pilot to decline moving any ship if he has reason to think that her crew is so weak or otherwise so inefficient as to be likely to cause unusual detention in taking her to sea.

Schedule, Rules for Pilots, Section 3.—(Vide Annexure.)

We therefore think the Protector quite in error as to the scope of his duty in considering it not incumbent upon him to assure himself of the efficiency, physical as well as numerical, of the crew.

We also think it right to observe that the Protector by his own showing, took the captain's bare word for the fact that the number of the crew was up to the required standard, which appears to us hardly to argue a correct appreciation of the grave responsibility which attaches to the careful discharge of his office.

39. The next point in the narrative, which it appears to us necessary to notice, occurred at 4 P. M. on Monday, the 21st, when one of the towing hawsers parted.

It had been for some time apparent that the Lady Elgin, even with the ebb, was barely able to tow the ship against the wind and sea, the flood was about to make, and this, coupled with the above circumstance, was sufficient reason for turning back.

App. p. 60, l. 13.

After the hawser parted, there were two courses open, either to run back into smoother water and anchor for the night, or to anchor on the spot rather than drift on the sand.

The captain proposed to anchor, but yielded his judgment to the greater local knowledge of the pilot. The reason assigned for not running back was, that there was not sufficient daylight. This was contrary to the fact, the distance to Halliday Island was only 25 miles, and to safe anchorage at the middle ground buoy less than 15, while the distance to the ring buoy where the anchorage is declared to be as good as at Halliday Island, was only 18½ miles. There was a fair wind, a spring flood tide, and 2½ hours of daylight. The truth appears to have been that the pilot hoped to get to sea, and elected to run the risk. The ship was about a mile to a mile and a half from the Roy Mutlah sand, and she was allowed to lie broadside on in the trough of the sea for two hours, with a set driving on to the sand. The inevitable consequence of that was, that she must go on the sand if no counteracting manœuvre was had recourse to; she did go on the sand in consequence, and we entertain no doubt that the loss of the ship is attributable to the inattention and neglect exhibited on this point, and to this only.

Captain Butler's evidence before the Marine Court.

40. While the ship was drifting in this position, there was no one in the chains, and the lead was not kept going. This was a grievous omission, and one for which the captain as well as the pilot is gravely responsible, for although he did not know the poximity of the shoal and the existence of the set, still the breakers had been seen all the way down, and it is the duty of the captain to see that the leadsman is at his post. "The bottom throughout the channels of the Mutlah is mud, the sands exceedingly hard, and the lead an excellent and safe guide towards them;" had the lead been carefully kept going and watched, the approach of the ship towards the Roy Mutlah sand would have been at once discovered.

App. p. 46, l. 16.

Vide sailing directions annexure.

41. After the ship took the ground, the course adopted was perhaps the only one possible under the circumstances; and during the night all that could be done to keep the leak under, and to get the boats ready, was done on board the ship.

42. We pass on to daylight on Tuesday the 22nd, when the Lady Elgin got up her anchor and steamed to the ship in answer to her signals and message of distress. The captain of the Lady Elgin was hailed to anchor under the ship's stern. And here we must express our decided opinion that it was the obvious and bounden duty of the captain of the Lady Elgin at once to anchor, either under the quarter or the stern of the ship, as close as was consistent with safety. There was no valid reason why he should not do so, he does not himself assert that there was: In his evidence before the Marine Court he only says—"I did not anchor near the Eagle Speed on the morning of the 22nd, but kept steaming backwards and forwards, I don't think lines could have been passed to the steamer from the ship, even if the latter had anchored at a safe distance from her bows, as both vessels were rolling heavily."

App. p. 108, l. 1.
„ 69, l. 4.
„ 71, l. 7.
„ 123, l. 7.

The consequence of this steaming backwards and forwards was, that the Lady Elgin, as already stated, was sometimes a mile and a half from the ship, and on one occasion not near her for an hour and a half. The life-boat could not fetch the ship, and eventually made but one trip; fuel was needlessly expended, and above all the precious hours of daylight slipped away, until the question became possible whether the Lady Elgin could remain out. The results on board the ship were as might be expected, deplorable. Panic, hurry, lumber thrown over board, and the crew and emigrants jumping into the sea and drifting in every direction, all of whom it was of course vain for the Lady Elgin and the life-boat, to hope to pick up.

There is abundant evidence both in the facts and the sworn depositions to shew beyond doubt, that it was not only possible and safe, but incumbent upon the Lady Elgin to anchor close to the ship.

Chief Officer's evidence before Marine Court.

In the first place she had but just purchased her anchor without difficulty, and come from her night's anchorage. There was no sea on in which even a fair weather boat, e. g. the gig, could not live, and have continued to pass to and fro had she not been stove; and none in which, as was subsequently proved, a ship's cutter heavily laden, could not live without proper rudder, oars, or sails. The captain of the ship, the chief officer, Mr. Hoskins, the chief mate of the Lady Elgin and those of the crew whose opinion has been asked, are unanimous that it was feasible and proper; and most of them swear that had the Lady Elgin remained stationary but three hours close to the ship, every soul could have been saved. We are entirely of the same opinion; we think that boats might have been pulled to and fro by a line between the vessels, or failing boats, that the emigrants who could not swim might even have been swung on board from the yards with ease if the Lady Elgin had anchored within proper distance alongside; at any rate whether she had anchored alongside or astern, the boats could have gone more easily between the vessels, if she had only anchored. The fact of the Lady Elgin being close by, and stationary, would have inspired confidence on board the ship, and gone far to obviate, if not entirely to prevent the panic and confusion which took place.

We attribute the deplorable loss of life which occurred, mainly to the practical refusal of Captain Heath to anchor close to the ship in a proper position.

43. We must point out also that Captain Heath during this time shewed himself deplorably deficient as a commander in other respects. (1.) In allowing people on board his vessel to hail those on the ship to jump over board, and a board to be shewn, he, Captain Heath, not knowing, [if in fact he did not know,] what was written on it: (2) in sending the message which he did to the captain of the ship, (3) in the want of management, due care, and non-use of the boats.

" 128, l. 27.

" 64, l. 5.

While the Lady Elgin and the ship's life-boat were picking up emigrants from floating wreck, the Lady Elgin's boat was not apparently thought of, much less lowered, though on one occasion, fourteen emigrants passed by on a hencoop, while the Lady Elgin and the boat, it is presumed, were occupied with others; again the ship's life-boat was suffered to lie idle alongside the Lady Elgin from about 10-30 to 12 A. M.

" 66. l. 16.
" 122, l. 6.

The long boat after coming alongside and being made fast to the Lady Elgin, was towed under by her while still in serviceable condition, and the life-boat after being stove, was towed astern until she went down, though it is in evidence that she might have been repaired in a quarter of an hour. Eventually the Lady Elgin's boat was lowered only when expressly asked for by Mr. Hoskins, and no attempt was made to launch the paddle box boats at all; these boats were each 29-6 long, with 10 feet beam, and built of mahogany. They were offered for sale to the Marine Department by Messrs. Borradaile, Schiller and Co., in December 1861, on the part of Captain Heath, they were in serviceable condition, and it is in evidence that it was possible to launch them by pitching them over board.

Schedule. G. & H.—Offer of sale of paddle box boats.
App. p. 67, l. 15. and Certificate.

44. We now pass on to notice the conduct of the ship's officers. The captain was placed no doubt in a difficult and trying position by the behaviour of the Lady Elgin, and the uselessness of his chief officer, by reason of sickness; but we think he shewed throughout this stage of the occurrence, a deplorable want of the cool judgment and resources of a commander.

Captain Brinsden.

As soon as it was resolved to have recourse to the boats to save the emigrants, the crew and officers ought to have been mustered.

App. p. 68, l. 6.

The captain was aware, or ought to have been so, that the ship was not likely to sink for hours. The crew should have been told this, the captain's intention to stand by the ship announced, their posts and duties assigned, and arrangements made with Mr. Hoskins to use all his authority and power of pursuasion to make Captain Heath take up his proper station.

" 95, l. 23.
" 91, l. 9.

In place of all this the captain worked with his own hands, thereby frightening others, ordered lumber to be thrown over board and the emigrants to save themselves upon it, put on a cork jacket himself and allowed his chief officer and the European crew to do the like, and to appropriate the life buoys provided for the emigrants; and after being deserted by the european part of his crew and officers, except the doctor (Donaldson) and a midshipman, he left the ship under the circumstances before stated.

It is due to the captain to give his explanation in his own words.

" 55, l. 21.
" 56, l. 19.

"Under these circumstances I got into the boat, believing that the steamer would leave, but with the intention of speaking to the captain when I got on board; but as soon as I got on board I felt so exhausted from exposure and from previous fever, five times, that I found myself totally incapable of speaking to any one on any subject at the time; I had no strength to protest against the desertion by the steamer; I was nearly senseless. Mr. Carlisle and Lieutenant Maitland, and Mr. Vardy, saw the state I was in; the two former helped me on board. I remained in this state about an hour and a half as near as I can remember, and recovered my senses and came on deck."

On the 13th September being re-called, he again stated as follows:—

"If I had remained in the ship I should of course have cut away the masts to form rafts, but I had made up my mind that the steamer would remain until all hands were saved Had the steamer left me on board and deserted me, I could have cut away the masts, watching when she came broadside to the swell; I could have cut away the upper ones at any rate. I could have cut away also the laniards of the lower rigging, and of course the lower masts would have gone of themselves in the roll of the sea."

After making every allowance, we regret to say we are of opinion that the captain failed in his duty, especially in leaving the ship.

App p. 88, l. 19

At the time he believed, and rightly believed, that the ship would live 4 or 5 hours, every resource had not been exhausted. There were still two boats on board, and four topases to launch them, not to speak of the crew in the boat which came for him, who might have been ordered on board to assist.

„ 88, l. 16

The masts might have been cut away, and would have at once formed rafts sufficient to have supported all the emigrants, whence the Lady Elgin might have picked them off, or left them while she called up the floating light ship. It is not the fact that the captain was so prostrated when he reached the Lady Elgin that he was incapable of expressing his wishes. He did not, however, protest against Captain Heath's leaving the ship, or seek an interview with him.

The Chief Officer.

45. The chief officer of the ship did little or nothing, but he is stated by all to have been very sick and weak, and he did rouse himself to save the captain.

Dr. Donaldson.

46. The doctor did nothing. He was sick with an attack of pleurisy, and had a broken rib, and had been immersed in the sea; there can be no doubt, however, that he ought to have made a formal and strenuous protest against leaving the emigrants, and that the explanation which he offers for omitting to do so, viz., that it was no use protesting when he knew it was predetermined to go, is altogether unsatisfactory.

See Dr. Donaldson's evidence before the Marine Court.

Second Officer.
App. p. 31, l. 12.
„ 10, l. 16.

47. The second officer was sober, though suffering from the effects of liquor; there appears to be no palliation for the conduct of this man. After reaching the Lady Elgin in the long boat, which was partially stove through his mismanagement, as abovementioned, he and the crew jumped out of and abandoned her, though still serviceable, on the plea of exhaustion, and would not return. It is in evidence that he wanted to go up the Lady Elgin's side before the emigrants, He remained on board the Lady Elgin all the morning until volunteers were called for to fetch the captain, and then instead of coming forward, set the men an example of skulking. Eventually he went in the boat, but not until a reward had been offered by the chief officer.

48. The boatswain: This man had jammed his finger in giving the ship chain, and was on the day previous in a great measure, off duty.

The captain of the ship has sworn that he ordered this man to launch the fifth boat of the ship (which got jammed,) and that he deserted the ship contrary to his orders and swam to the Lady Elgin. After saving his own life, he did nothing. We think there is primâ facie a case against this man, and also against the second officer under section 79 of Act I. of 1859.

„ 52, l. 16.

Crew

49. The European crew generally, with the exception of William Maynard and William Wilson, behaved disgracefully, but it must be remembered that where there is no method or discipline, and the officers do not act like officers and seamen, the mass of the men are not likely to do their duty. The chief officer deposes that

App. p. 72, l. 13.
" 89, l. 20.
" 94, l. 19.

the crew generally, refused point blank, to obey his order to man the life-boat for the captain, but the weight of evidence is against any order, as such, having been given; they appear to have been only asked to go. Where there is no order, there cannot, as a matter of discipline, be disobedience, consequently we think the Act will not touch the crew.

60. It only remains to make a few short observations on what took place when the Lady Elgin left the ship, and on the conduct of Mr. Hoskins.

We feel bound to say at the outset that the calling in the aid of the passengers at the consultation was a farce, and, in our opinion very like an attempt to bolster up what the seamen felt to be unjustifiable by the support of those who were not competent to form a just opinion, and to whom no feasible alternatives were suggested. That no officer of the ship was consulted, and that a decision was come to and acted on without express inquiry from the captain as to the real condition of the ship. was highly culpable; it is a matter of some surprise that the impropriety of this did not strike some of the passengers. The reasons that were then, or which have been afterwards, mooted for leaving the ship are—(1) short coal; (2) threatening weather; (3) an injured feed pipe; (4) the prudence of securing the lives of those on board.

These reasons, in our opinion, were groundless. The Lady Elgin would have had ample coal to take her to the nearest land, whence she could have sent for assistance. The fact of the ship's cutter, in her wretched plight and laden condition, having weathered the night without difficulty, disposes in our opinion of the objection of weather in and above the position of the wreck, and offers a significant commentary on the conduct of those who urged it: If further evidence be necessary, the captain of the floating light ship has deposed that with the wind and sea there were at the sandheads during the night in question, the Lady Elgin might have ridden at anchor without jeopardy. The feed pipe was shewn to demonstration to have been in serviceable order by the subsequent action of the Lady Elgin. She had room for all the emigrants; she was originally a man-of-war, and an ocean-going vessel, and is known, in that capacity, to have been a good sea-boat and to have ridden out many a gale.

App. p. 104, l 19.

See Captain Brinsden's evidence before the Marine Court.

We are informed that she fomerly carried 4 guns on her deck, 18-pounders, and that she has often carried 260 European supernumeraries for the fleet, &c., about the English Channel in safety in all weathers. If so, we think this an amount of top weight fully equal to 400 native emigrants.

That being so, we can only attribute the decision arrived at, and carried out, to a want of judgment, resource, and ability to meet emergency, amounting to incompetency to command, on the part of all the seafaring men in authority who endorsed it. We are confirmed in this conclusion by the additional facts that, whereas it was known that the floating light must be within the visual range of a blue light efficiently burnt, no one suggested burning such blue lights continuously throughout the night to attract her attention; nor when she was actually ascertained by the Lady Elgin to be within 14 to 15 miles, did it occur to any one to give the alarm and call her up. No expedient beyond working in the boats and returning to Canning seems to have suggested itself to any one. The chief mate of the Lady Elgin by the way states that, on one occasion he (late in the day) proposed to Mr. Vardy trying to run the ship up under sail, but desisted, contrary to his own opinion, on Mr. Vardy saying that it was impossible, the ship being water-logged.

There can be no question that the ship might have been run up and beached on Halliday Island if the cable had been slipped at daylight on the 22nd; it was then spring flood tide, with a strong fair wind, plenty of water in the channel, and the ship's draught was not more than 19 feet, for when the captain left her 6½ hours afterward, she drew, according to his evidence, 22 feet; running before the wind and sea, there would have been but little scend, and the ship could with ease have been run up under all sail in 4 or 5 hours, when every soul would have been saved. It would appear that no look-out, with a view to ascertain the ship's position was kept during the night, for though it is in evidence that the floating light, distant 14 to 15 miles, was seen, it was not reported; and so the next day also, although the centre Bulcherry buoy was distant 3½ miles only, at which distance, it is proved in evidence, that it ought, in the then state of the atmosphere to have been easily visible, it was not picked up.

App. p 161, l. 4.

51. Briefly, the whole occurrence throughout is characterised by a deplorable absence of all controlling judgment, a want of resource, and fear of responsibility. These remarks include Mr. Hoskins; he, like the captain of the ship, worked himself, instead of effectively directing the efforts of others. In the position he held, and under the circumstances, he ought to have assumed the responsibility, insisted upon Captain Heath anchoring the Lady Elgin close to the ship, and prevented him at all hazard, from deserting her; whereas the only occasion on which he seems to have asserted his position was unfortunately at the consultation when he led in advising return to Port Canning for assistance, it being at that time generally supposed that the ship would not live two hours.

" 112, l. 12.
" 97, l. 4.

There is this to be said in excuse for Mr. Hoskins, that he had exhausted himself by previous exposure to the sun, and by great physical exertion in the boats to save life; and as he himself states, he was probably not himself from fatigue; we desire to add that, while failing in judgment and resource, we think Mr. Hoskins shewed himself, in respect of his personal exertions to save life, to be a courageous and active sailor.

52. Here we feel obliged to revert to Captain Brinsden. When the Lady Elgin was abreast the ship on her return, he was on deck and recovered from his temporary prostration; he admits that he was all along fully aware how wrong it was for the Lady Elgin to leave; he also admits that he believed the ship, at the time he left her, had still some 4 or 5 hours to live, yet what does his remonstrance—if it can be called such—amount to? We quote his own words: "About this time I said to the captain of the steamer, this is a fearful thing to leave all these poor creatures on the wreck, and he told me his reasons, viz., want of fuel, feed pipe damaged, threatening weather, want of daylight to get back to Halliday Island, and the right to save all those already on board. His reasons did not satisfy me either in my mind or my feelings, although concurred in by all on board; but I made no formal protest, and the vessel proceeded on to her anchorage under Halliday Island, where she arrived before dark. I all along considered that the steamer was wrong to go away and leave the ship, and that she was not justified in doing so by any necessity. I am sure we should have got every soul out of the Eagle Speed if the steamer had stopped another two hours." This speaks for itself: no one made any other remonstrance, and with this, 329 souls were left to perish.

See Depositions of Mr. Hoskins, Captain McMaster, and Mr. Junior Pilot Ewart.

53. Before closing this report we deem it our duty to draw attention to the evidence which we have thought it necessary to take regarding lighting and buoying the Mutlah River. Upon that evidence, and the facts before us, we have to express our very decided opinion that the Mutlah is not sufficiently lighted for the purposes of safe navigation. An inner floating light is indispensable; without such a light there is no guide to lead an inward-bound ship up to a safe anchorage after dark, and we think that if such a light is not established, the port ought not to remain open with the sanction of Government.

We are also of opinion that the outer floating light ought to burn a blue light instead of rockets only. The mouths of the Mutlah and Hooghly are 30 miles apart, east and west, and the lead is a sufficient guide to prevent any dangerous mistakes.

With regard to the present buoying of the Mutlah, we think the channel safe as at present buoyed, but susceptible of improvement. The two outer buoys should be first class buoys. The ring buoy ought to be a second class instead of a third class buoy, as it is at present, and all the third class buoys in the outer channels should be second class; an additional second class buoy is also required between the spit buoy and the lower eastern Bulcherry buoy.

There is one other important point connected with the navigation of the Mutlah which demands notice, i. e., the number and qualifications of the pilots; formerly there were six, but under orders of Government (Mr. Secretary Bayley's letter No. 1915, dated April 15th, 1864,) the number was reduced to four, and the pay increased to Rupees 150 per mensem each.

The candidate for the vacancy made by Mr. Pilot Wise, lost in the ship P. C. Kinch, is necessarily on probation, and one of the remaining three is employed at the port in hauling ships in and out of the moorings, so that practically there are but two pilots as a rule, though the port pilot, on an emergency, can be sent down the river.

The list does not provide for casualties, and taking into consideration the fact that, during the current year, there have been as many as ten ships at one time in the port, we are of opinion that the number of pilots should not be less than the original number—six—all of whom should be kept to their legitimate work, and an Assistant Harbour Master engaged to moor and unmoor ships, as provided in the budget estimate.

With regard to qualifications, we submit that the pay, reduced as it is by the deduction of mess money while on board the floating light at the sandheads, is insufficient to induce good men to enter the service. We think Government might pay the mess money while at the sandheads only. Two pilots would be constantly at the sandheads; and the average cost to Government for mess money would be Rupees 120 a month only, while the relief and encouragement to the pilots would be considerable.

54. The conclusions we arrive at are shortly—

That the Emigration Agent and the Protector failed in their duty in neglecting to see that the pilot and commander did theirs, and the former also in not providing proper life buoys and sufficient topases. It may be a question whether either of them ought to have let the ship go to sea at all with a doctor sick with pleurisy and a broken rib, a fact known to both of them.

That the ship was lost owing to her being allowed to drift helplessly broadside on in the trough of the sea with a set on the sand under her lee, distant about a mile and half, for two hours.

That Captain Brinsden erred in not keeping a man in the chains, and that he erred deplorably in exhausting himself by personal exertion instead of directing others; in not insisting upon Mr. Hoskins using his influence to make the steamer anchor, by which means the boats could have saved all the emigrants with ease; in leaving the ship as he did, and having done so in not protesting against her abandonment; in not insisting on an attempt being made to launch the paddle box boats; in not cutting away the masts, and also in not having slipped his chain and ordered the pilot to run the ship up at daylight on the 22nd, whereby she might have been beached on Halliday Island.

That Doctor Donaldson erred deplorably in not formally protesting against the abandonment of the emigrants who were under his special charge.

That the second officer and the boatswain behaved disgracefully.

That the crew generally behaved badly.

That the loss of life is mainly owing to the steamer not anchoring, for which Captain Heath is to blame.

That Captain Brinsden and Captain Heath displayed a deplorable want of the qualities of command.

That Mr. Hoskins shewed deplorable want of judgment in not using his influence to make the steamer anchor, and in proposing the abandonment of the ship.

That the Mutlah River is imperfectly lighted, the buoys capable of improvement; and that the number and remuneration of the pilots on the Mutlah is insufficient.

We beg to bring William Maynard and William Wilson, Able Seamen, and the four topases, to notice, as men who did their duty under most trying circumstances.

I, the undersigned Surveyor, duly directed by the Master Attendant, under and for the purposes of the Emigration Act No. XIII. of 1864, hereby certify that I have carefully surveyed the above-mentioned ship, and have also examined her masts, yards, rigging, sails, pumps, ground tackle, and boats. I find that her hull is sound, tight, staunch, and firm in the fastenings; that her passengers' deck is not less than one inch and a half in thickness, and properly supported by beams of adequate strength, forming part of the permanent structure of the ship; and that her boats, pumps, and other equipments are suitable and sufficient for a vessel of her tonnage, and are in a sound and efficient condition; and finally I hereby report that the said ship is, in my opinion, sea-worthy and fit in all respects for the carriage of passengers on her intended voyage to Demerara.

The 27th day of July 1865.

S. G. BOON,
Assistant Master Attendant.

* To be fitted with another boat, dimensions as above.

APPENDIX B.

To

CAPTAIN H. HOWE,
Deputy Master Attendant.

DEAR SIR,

MR. VARDY is proceeding down the river with a ship in a day or two, the Eagle Speed will leave Port Canning in 8 or 10 days, can you give him an order to return at once, as we wish him to take her down, he being so well acquainted with the river and the vessel having coolies.

We are,

APPENDIX C.

To

CAPTAIN H. HOWE,
Deputy Master Attendant.

SIR,

IT is with sincere regret that I have to report the grounding of the Ship Eagle Speed on the Roy Mutlah Sand in tow of the Steamer Lady Elgin, and eventual abandonment in the Western Channel, with 14 feet water in her hold, 4 miles East of the Centre Bulcherry Buoy.

Twenty-first instant, 6-30 A. M., started from Halliday's Island, wind light, from north-east to east north-east, and proceeded down the Eastern Channel; 11 A. M. passed the Spit Buoy; 2-30 P. M. sighted the R. R. Buoy; 3 P. M. the wind shifted to southward with a very heavy swell; finding the steamer could do very little with the ship, I consulted Captain Brinsden and the Chief Officer as to the propriety of anchoring it being too late to return to Halliday's Island, the result of which conference being that there was too much sea rendering it unsafe, and that the steamer should hold us on. At 4 P. M. the steamer's hawser parted, and it was with great difficulty and loss of time that it was made fast again owing to the heavy sea. I then ordered the steamer to tow to the south-east to stem the tide, but at 6-30 P. M. the vessel struck in 4½ fathoms. Fearing that she might fall into less water, I let go the anchor, but finding that the steamer was able to tow me against the tide. I slipt from 30 fathoms, steering to the southward At 10 P. M. the steamer hailed that she had carried away her steam-pipe; we cast off and anchored, veering to 60 fathoms in 7 fathoms water. coolies and crew at the pumps; the vessel making a great deal of water. At 2 P. M. the vessel had made 7 feet; made signals to the steamer to come and take out the women and children; 4-30 A. M. the steamer came alongside and picked up two boats; and shortly afterwards a third, the two last were stove alongside the steamer and cut adrift. The remaining boat made several trips but was stove also, when the captain of the steamer sent his boat twice, which was also stove; the vessel had then 14 feet water. A good number of coolies were picked up by the steamer, having saved themselves with hencoops and other things about the decks. The whole of the crew have been saved and 169 coolies—men, women, and children.

2 P. M. the steamer left, the captain stating that she was short of coals and it being imprudent to anchor in the channel for the night owing to the sea and threatening appearance of the weather.

The Eagle Speed was drawing 17 feet 6 inches.

I have, &c,

APPENDIX E.

To

CAPTAIN H. HOWE,
Deputy Master Attendant.

SIR,

IT is with regret that I have to report, for your information, the loss of the Ship Eagle Speed, in pilotage charge of Mr. Mate Pilot Vardy, in the Western Channel of the River Multah, about three and a half miles east of the Centre Bulcherry Buoy. Captain, crew, and part of the coolies saved.

I have, &c.,

Tug Steamer Pilot.

APPENDIX F.

Extract of a Demi-official letter from Captain Tapley to Captain Burbank, dated the 16th December 1864.

With reference to the memorandum I sent you regarding the number of crew a ship ought have, the Master Attendant has told me that if the ship takes as many men as she cleared from ngland with it will be sufficient. The Rules for transport were, when we sent them to China on ar Service, and then it was supposed they had to man boats, besides keeping a fair number of ew on board, so if coolie ships have as many men on their Articles as they had when leaving ngland, it is all that is necessary; the same with ships taking troops to England.

Captain H. HOWE,

Deputy Master Attendant.

Calcutta, 29th December 1864.

Dear Sir,

Captain Heath having told us a short time since that he had understood that you might be disposed to purchase two paddle-box boats belonging to the Steam Tug Lady Elgin, we shall be glad to know whether you would still buy them if we can agree as to the price.

The boats, which are built of mahogany, are 29 feet 6 long with 10 feet beam.

We are, Dear Sir,

Yours faithfully,

(Sd.) BORRADAILE, SCHILLER and Co.,

Agents, "Lady Elgin."

APPENDIX I.

CAPTAIN H. HOWE.

DEAR SIR,

WITH reference to our conversation of this morning regarding the paddle-box boats of the Steamer Lady Elgin, I have to state that in my opinion the boats are serviceable.

Yours faithfully,
J. CRANSTON.
Builder and Surveyor.

COPY.

Calcutta, 5th August 1865.

I HEREBY certify that I consider the Lady Elgin to be a first class steamer for the Mutlah River, and that on account of the experience of the Captain I would much prefer that she should tow the Ship Eagle Speed to sea.

Protector of Emigrants.

DEPOSITIONS.

Deposition of CHARLES BURBANK, inhabitant of Calcutta, who on solemn affirmation sayeth:—

I AM Protector of Emigrants of Calcutta. I visited the Eagle Speed before her departure from Port Canning on several occasions. I saw the coolies embark. There were 487 souls. My duties are defined in Act XIII. of 1864. There are also rules framed under Section 63 of that Act. The rule quoted does not include any responsibility as to the state of the ship, except that I have to ascertain that the ship is properly surveyed, which I do by calling upon the Government Surveyors for a report on the ship. I did so in the instance of the Eagle Speed, and received the report signed by Captain Boon. I don't understand that my duties include any responsibility as to the number or capacity of the crew. There is a rule, No. 19, providing for that duty. I received the list No. 6, ordered by the above rule, from the Commander. I will put in the return. It is not part of my duty to muster the crew and to see that the provisions of Rule 19 are complied with.

I knew that there were 26 men on board, but I did not know their rating or condition, with the exception that the Captain informed me he had the same number that he came out from England with under engagement with the Emigration Commissioners. Under the rules for my guidance, and with reference to the circumstance above stated, I believe that the crew of the Eagle Speed was sufficient in numbers. I had the authority of the Master Attendant for a vessel leaving with the same crew that she came out with. As regards their health and sobriety at the time of starting the Pilot is responsible. Had I seen anything to object to in the crew, any want of sobriety, I should decidedly have objected to the ship's departure. With the addition of the assistants, ten in number, I consider the ship was fully manned.

The usual bond of Rupees 10,000 was taken from the Commander.

It is part of my duty to see that a competent steamer is engaged. The Commander of the ship, or Agent, gives me a certificate that the steamer is a competent one, and I accept it. In this case the steamer was a second class one. I objected to her as such, but the Agents of the ship put in a certificate signed by Mr. Vardy, the Pilot of the Eagle Speed, that he considered the Lady Elgin a first class steamer for the Mutlah, and that he preferred her to any other tug steamer in consequence of the knowledge which the Commander possessed of the river. I submitted this question to the Government of Bengal, and they approved of the Lady Elgin being employed, until Commanders of first class tugs had passed for the river.

With regard to my statement as to the number of the crew and their rating, the Captain gave me to understand that he meant the same strength. I was not on board when the Eagle Speed left the following morning. When I left the vessel she was to have left then and there.

Deposition of A. CUNNINGHAM DANDO, inhabitant of Calcutta, who on solemn affirmation sayeth:—

I AM Surveyor to Lloyds and Agent and Surveyors to Veritas. I surveyed the Eagle Speed in April, not as an emigrant ship, but for cargo. I found her a very good ship indeed, sound and staunch, and gave a certificate to that effect. I should say that the complement of the Eagle Speed would be about 2¼ men to every 100 tons, that is, if I commanded her myself, I should put that number in her, but with the appliances of the present day many men would consider 2¼ sufficient. Thirty-three would be a sufficient number, and the ship well manned. In England it is usual to advertise the number of crew intended to be carried for 2 or 3 days, and then unless some of the crew object to it, that is, the recognized number, and the men sign Articles accordingly; if any object that is considered a legal objection. I should say that a minimum crew for the Eagle Speed, consistent with safety going on her voyage, would be 26 working hands, exclusive of the attendants on the coolies. I did not examine the boats. I had no reason to do so; I merely survey for the cargo, unless in the case of a ship specially surveyed to carry living freight.

Deposition of SYDNEY GERALD BOON, inhabitant of Calcutta, who on solemn affirmation sayeth:—

I AM an Assistant to the Master Attendant and Agent for Transports, and I occasionally survey emigrant ships. As Agent for Transports I survey all ships tendered for troops. I surveyed the Eagle Speed for the conveyance of emigrants to Demerara. She was well found in anchors and cables and everything, and had six boats. I consider the Eagle Speed was sufficiently manned as regards the number of the crew. I considered the Eagle Speed to be perfectly sound and staunch and sea-worthy. I have had 21 years' experience in the Marine Service of Government.

Hands in the Survey Report on the Eagle Speed annexed.

Deposition of THOMAS HOSKINS, inhabitant of Calcutta, who on solemn affirmation saveth :—

I AM Port Master of Canning Town. I am not aware of any rules for my guidance with respect to the departure of emigrants from Canning. The same rules, I presume, would apply there as in Calcutta. I have no defined rules for my guidance as Port Master with reference to a ship's departure, merely I appoint the Pilot. I produce the rules for the guidance of Pilots in the River Mutlah. I went on the Eagle Speed as a passenger, not in authority. I had been suffering from fever for some time, and I thought a trip to the Sandheads would do me good, and as the Eagle Speed was going down, I thought it a very good opportunity. Captain Howe also suggested to me to go down to assist as far as I could with my assistance and advice. On the morning of the ship's departure the Captain was perfectly sober. He was four months in the Mutlah and I never saw him the worse for liquor. On that morning I was constantly in contact with him and he was perfectly sober. The Chief Officer was also sober, although complaining of being unwell. He was about the decks on duty. I had seen him for four months also, and never saw him the worse for liquor.

The Second Officer was suffering from the effects of liquor indulged in the previous evening. I can't say whether he was at work or not; he was about the deck. I can't say whether he was able or not to do his duty, because I had nothing to do with the crew and did not take particular notice of them; in this instance the general appearance of the Second Mate—want of smartness and flushed appearance—induced me to notice him.

I didn't see the Boatswain on the morning of departure. He was not on duty as far as I observed. I can't say much about the crew on that day; I didn't take particular notice. They got the anchor up. I don't know if any of them were incapacitated by drink. I heard there were some sick. I don't knew how many. I didn't notice whether the crew worked well or not going down the river. We anchored at Halliday Island for the night and started the following morning. We got underweigh about 7 A. M. Supposing everything had gone on straight, and the wind had continued as it was, we should have been out at 3 o'clock P. M.

When the ship left Halliday Island the Captain complained of being unwell, but he was on deck on duty; he was perfectly sober, and continued so until we got into difficulties. The Chief Officer was unwell too. The first part of the morning he was on duty; I don't know when he went off duty, but it was about 9 o'clock. I saw him come out of his cabin and be very sick into a bucket. He said, "Doctor, what have you given me?" I heard the Doctor (O'Sullivan) reply, "I have given you an emetic,"

I did not notice the Second Mate on leaving Halliday Island. I can't say whether he was on deck or not. I saw him in the afternoon; he came aft to bend the spanker at about 1 P. M. He was doing his duty then, and I saw nothing wrong about him all that day.

I didn't see the Boatswain on the morning of departure from Halliday Island. I heard that he had lost the top of his finger in giving the ship chain. I didn't hear that he was incapacitated partly from the effects of liquor; I didn't see him the whole of that day.

I saw very little of the Carpenter, but whenever I saw him he was sober. At 8 that night I saw him sounding the pumps, and he was perfectly sober then. I did not take notice of the crew on leaving Halliday Island, some were off duty, because the Doctor was asked to look at them. I can't say how the ship was worked, or how many men were on duty. The crew were mustered after leaving Halliday Island by the Chief Officer in the cabin. I heard the order given by the Captain to muster the crew. They were not mustered that I know of before starting from Canning, but they might have been without my knowledge. They were never mustered in my presence. On leaving Halliday Island the wind was north-east, squally, fresh breezes with showers of rain, but not threatening; barometer low, but I did not see it; the weather kept the same until 2 P. M. At 3 P. M. the steamer began to shew that she was incompetent and unable to tow the ship out. The wind shifted, and a heavy sea came on; this was about half past 2. We were not being towed more than one knot an hour, we might be going about 2 knots with the ebb tide. We sighted the outer buoy, the R. R. Buoy at about 4 P. M.; it is about 11 miles from the outer light; we were about 1½ miles distant from the buoy. At the rate we were going, I can't say how long it would have taken to tow out, because the flood came in and we lost the ebb tide. I did not see the Floating Light. We saw the buoys all the way down. I can't say whether it was prudent to go on under the circumstances, as I was not the Pilot and knew nothing of the channels. I think it was too late to run back. On reviewing it since, I certainly think it would have been safer to have run back, but I did not consider the circumstances at the time.

During the time, from 2 to 4 P. M., the Captain and Second Officer were on deck, I am not aware that anything was said by them to the Pilot, or by the Pilot to them, about the critical state of the ship. I did not observe either one way or the other, whether the Commander or Second Officer carried out the Pilot's orders. The flood came in about the same time the hawser parted. We were then about a mile off the sand, the channel being about 3 miles broad. I can't say what the drift was. We could have run back in safety at 4 P. M. with a fair wind and tide, and 2½ hours daylight. It would decidedly have been safer to have run back, under the circumstances just stated, than to remain drifting broadside on for 2 hours in the trough of the sea, with the tide setting right on to the sand under our lee. The Eagle Speed could have run up under canvas, as she did, and as all ships have to do ,or work up without steam, coming in. It was better to anchor than to drift on to the sand. She rode in safety on the sand and would have ridden in safety in the channel; such is my belief now, although it was not at the time. I did not think the vessel was going on the sand, and therefore did not draw a comparison between the prospective possible danger of anchoring, and the positive danger of going on the sand. I thought the drift was up channel. The only thing to be done was to let go the anchor or run up; no precaution was taken that I am aware of beyond passing the hawser. I am not aware whether there was a man in the chains at the time she struck; there was a man there a short time before. I heard him sing out. The vessel struck at about 6 P. M., and the anchor was let go to prevent her drifting to a more dangerous part of the sand; but finding the steamer could tow us the chain was slipped, and the steamer towed us to the southward until about half past 9 when we were obliged to anchor on account of the steamer breaking down. When the ship struck the Captain ordered the pumps to be sounded and rigged immediately, which was done. The pumps were set a going; the coolies were divided into gangs; the Store-keeper and I got them to come up out of the between decks. The Captain then was on the forecastle with the Pilot looking after giving the ship chain, and bringing her up safely; I did not see the Chief Officer at this time. I saw him during the night. He did not superintend the pumps, &c., at this time. The Second Officer was at his duty; I heard he was giving the ship chain, I didn't see him. I don't know where the Boatswain was; I did not see him all that night. The Carpenter and Engineer were there. At 3 in the morning the water had gained so much upon us that the ship was in a sinking state. We signalled the steamer, and she came to our assistance about 4 A M. There were 11 feet in her, and we all thought she would go down about 8 or 9 o'clock. I then left the pumps, and the Chief Officer being unwell, I said "I will take charge of a boat if you have no objection, or I'll stop on board." The Captain said he would be very glad if I would take charge. Mr. Vardy passed the same remark that he would take charge of a boat or remain in the ship, and the Captain's reply was to the same effect. This was about 5 A. M. when Mr. Vardy left the ship, and the Captain remained in sole charge of the ship. I got a crew of four hands and lowered the port quarter boat. Mr. Vardy lowered the starboard quarter boat. The crew of my boat were lowered in the boat some of them. I jumped into her after she was lowered by means of a rope. Finding she would have been stove in alongside, there being a heavy sea and the ship rolling a great deal, I immediately went underneath her stern, and told them to put the side ladder over the stern, which was done,—a rope ladder with wooden steps. A line was passed along by some one and we held on to it. The officers and crew were not told off systematically to the boats. The Chief Officer was sick, and the Second Officer was not on the spot; I did not see him. I got my crew from the pumps. I did not see the Boatswain. I saw the third boat in the water; she was alongside the steamer. I think the Second Officer was in charge; he was on board of her. This boat must have been launched from the skids. I don't know if any one else volunteered to take charge of a boat. When I went under the stern, the Captain placed the women on the ladder, and with the assistance of the Store-keeper and the Steward lowered the children by a rope. The coolies were under control, as far as I could see, and everything going on properly.

I saw the fourth boat, the gig, in the water; she passed me adrift whilst I was picking up some coolies, and I then went alongside the steamer; there was nobody in the gig. I heard that she had been to the steamer with the Chief Officer, and then sent adrift because she was stove in launching. I went about picking up men floating on pieces of wreck and hencoops. I went alongside twice, but missed the vessel on account of the set and the wind, and the crew, two of them, not being able to pull, not accustomed to pull in a heavy sea. They were quite sober.

There was no great difficulty, if you paid attention, in laying your boat alongside the steamer to put the coolies on board. I subsequently made two trips in the steamer's boat and reached the ship. I was obliged to give in from fatigue and exposure to the sun at about 10-30, and I laid down on the deck for about an hour and a half, when I recovered, and asked the Captain of the steamer for his boat. He consented to give it to me, but I had some trouble in getting a crew. Mr. Smith and some other gentlemen on board shaming them into it, they manned the boat. They did not refuse, but made no reply, and walked away. No Officer of the ship was present to order them. They were on board, but I don't know where.

Their own Officers being absent, I said "men, will you come with me?" Some made no answer and walked away, and some complained of sickness; at last Mr. Smith and other gentlemen passengers shamed four of them into it, and I got into the boat and went alongside of the ship. The only European I found on board was the Doctor. I said I had come for him and as many coolies as I could carry. The coolies jumped overboard and filled the boat before he could get down.

I put them aboard the steamer and returned again to the ship. The Doctor and many coolies jumped overboard, and I took him and as many coolies as I could.

In getting the coolies and Doctor up the steamer's side, my crew carelessly or wilfully allowed a hanging boat tackle to catch the thwart of the boat and tear the side out, and so made her useless, and I was obliged to go on board.

Two boats were left unlaunched on board the Eagle Speed.

I don't know how the other boats were stove; before I left the first boat I asked some one to relieve me; Mr. Vardy from the steamer promised to do so, but did not.

After we took to the boats, I saw none of the crew and officers of the Eagle Speed until the evening, when I saw the Chief Officer, who was sober, but sick; I think lying down. I saw some of the crew of the Eagle Speed when I went alongside the steamer in my trips; I saw none of them drunk that day.

I saw the Captain of the Eagle Speed exerting himself on the poop as long as I was in the first boat I used. Nothing beyond taking to the boats was done on board the Eagle Speed that I know of; they might have made a raft; all the loose things, hencoops, hatches were thrown overboard, which caused great confusion and loss of time. I suppose the Captain ordered it, as he was on board. If, instead of having to pick up coolies floating on them, my boat even had been regularly and properly worked she might have saved the entire number; I took some 30 in her the first trip.

The steamer had the boat I used, a small punt and two paddle-box boats; she had an ordinary crew of Lascars; a Chief Officer, Engineer, and Captain, Europeans.

The Captain said she had only enough coal on board to take her back to Canning; I don't know whether she had coal in ballast. The steamer might have anchored near the ship; the ebb would have brought smoother water; I saw no danger in her stopping. I would have stopped if I had commanded her. Had we stopped we might have picked up swimmers, and stopped and used the fifth boat of the Eagle Speed, which was, after we left, launched by the coolies and topasses.

I know of no effort being made to launch the paddle-box boats of the steamer; I should say from their appearance that they were not seaworthy. I did'nt examine them, and the next day being ill, I did'nt leave the poop. I don't think there was any means of getting a purchase to launch them from the mast; she had no spare rope on board. Lines might have been passed from the steamer to the ship, which might have been of use. The steamer left because the Captain (Heath) stated his machinery was out of order and that he had'nt coal.

He was not urged to stop by any one that I know; he stated in my presence that he could not remain; he then steamed off to find out our position.

I think I had no authority as Port Master, under the circumstances, to order him to stop. When I saw we could steam I didn't disbelieve the Captain's (Heath) assertion about the the machinery being out of order.

The steamer might have steamed to Halliday Island, some 15 or 18 miles, whence wood might have been procured in smooth water with the punt, but that would have been a long business.

The floating light was about 15 or 18 miles from the scene of the wreck.

She is a sailing brig and has boats; well found in boats.

The steamer might have gone to her; I might have asked the Captain of the steamer to go for her. It never occurred to me. The Captain of the steamer sighted her mast head and so got his position.

No gun could have been heard by the brig if we had one on the Eagle Speed. I don't know whether there was one on the steamer or the Eagle Speed. I presume the reason of not going to the floating light ship was, that the Captain considered he had stopped by the wreck as long as he thought proper.

An inner light is very much required in the Mutlah, but it would not have saved the Eagle Speed after she struck; to a vessel caught higher up, like the P. C. Kinch, such a light would have been safety.

When we were going up the river back to Port Canning, I saw the Captain of the Eagle Speed; he complained of being unwell. There was dinner at Halliday's Island; I wasn't at table, I believe he was. I saw him a short time after I came on the steamer the last time in the cabin; he was lying down; he answered me when I spoke; the next day he was about but complaining; he did not complain of sunstroke. I saw the Chief Officer during the afternoon; he complained of being unwell; he looked unwell; I can't say whether I saw him walking about or sitting up, or what. I can't say if he was at dinner; he was carried out of the ship at Port Canning; he was assisted on shore. I know nothing of the Second Officer, Boatswain, or crew.

When they went ashore (the crew) they appeared to me all healthy and well. They all went ashore in one boat.

So far as I saw the Captain and Officers of the Eagle Speed carried out the orders of the Pilot. I heard nothing from the Pilot to the contrary. When the coolies were being passed out of the ship, he (the Captain) assisted the women on to the ladder and lowered the children by ropes.

He would have acted certainly with more judgment had he exerted his authority and experience in directing and providing means for the safety of all, instead of working with his own hands.

The Store-keeper and Steward assisted him in lowering the women.

The steamer left the wreck about 2 P. M.

Re-called.

Some luggage, one or two small portmanteaus, and a box of chronometers were put into the boat of the Eagle Speed and taken charge of by me before I got into her; some 4 or 5 packages in all. I believe the Steward put it in. I enquired whose it was, and was told by some one it was the Captain's papers.

I don't know why luggage was saved before lives; so far as I was concerned, I expected at that time to save all hands with the boats; there was no apparent reason why we should not with care.

We might have saved a great many more than we did had the steamer stopped.

Instead of lowering the boats at once we might have attempted to run up under topsails and foresails after slipping the cable, but this was not thought of to my knowledge. I saw no signs of intoxication in Dr. Donaldson, and never saw him take a drop of spirits while I was on board.

I wish to add that the Captain of the Eagle Speed was sober the whole time that he came under my observation.

12*th September* 1865.

Deposition of THOMAS HOSKINS, re-called and re-sworn.

The nearest distance that the Lady Elgin towed me in the boat was two ships' lengths of the Eagle Speed. I mean that she kept that distance off abreast. She might have towed me very close. She was sometimes very much further off in consequence of the drift whilst picking up the boats and the coolies floating about. She might have gone within 20 yards when towing the boats to the ship. After I had missed the ship the first time I was annoyed, and I hailed him and asked him why he did not tow me closer, but I was hoarse and I might not have been heard. I never saw the steamer at any time within a few feet of the ship, much less a few inches. There is a second class buoy abreast of the spot where the Eagle Speed was abandoned; the buoy is about 3¼ miles from the wreck. The buoy is there now, and ought to have been visible that distance from the Eagle Speed and the Lady Elgin too, but it was a hazy day; it continued so all day. The buoy might have been seen, I think, if it had been looked for, but we didn't know our position, and didn't know where to look for it. If we had looked abeam to the westward of us, we might have picked up the buoy. The Ring Buoy is a smaller buoy,—a third class one. The reason it was seen at a distance of four miles, as stated, may have been that there was a better look-out kept for it, and we knew the position to look for it. I think a second class buoy can be seen in smooth water a little more than four miles, but in a seaway not more than three. I saw the Lower Centre Bulcherry Buoy as we were going towards the light ship; it was about three miles off. I consider the channels of the Mutlah to be sufficiently buoyed for the purposes of safe navigation, but it would be better if the outer buoys were first class instead of second, and the third class re-placed by second.

All the buoys are in efficient condition as far as I am aware of. None have been reported by the Pilots as out of position. I found all the Eastern Channel Buoys in position when I went down in the Eagle Speed. Had there been an inner light at the Ring Buoy the steamer might have remained safely by the wreck all night. The blue light would have been seen, and if necessary to run in a course might have been shaped by the bearing to clear the Spit Buoy, and long before we should have got to the Spit Buoy the light itself would have been visible. The same remark applies to the Eagle Speed, if at midnight when it was found the leak could not be kept under, it had been desired to run up, she could have slipped and run up safely. The reason why there was so much anxiety to send a boat for the Captain was, that Captain Heath from first to last gave every one to understand that he was not going to stop out; that the steamer could not stop out. I can't say whether he directed the boat to go. I don't know if any board was stuck up with any thing written upon it. My impression was that Captain Heath said that he would not wait longer than to leave sufficient daylight for him to get back to Halliday Island. I can't say that I heard the Captain of the Eagle Speed hail the steamer to anchor. I did not hear Captain Heath say he could not anchor. I saw already stated that there would have been no difficulty in anchoring whatever. I think a more powerful steamer than the Lady Elgin might have been able to have towed the Eagle Speed with one hawser when the other parted. I think she might have been kept in the channel with a powerful channel, and have steered even without a traveller. Ships are frequently towed with one hawser. A powerful vessel would have kept steerage way. The bursting of the feed pipe disabled the Lady Elgin; she was not disabled previously, but this is a separate question from the point of her competency to tow the Eagle Speed under the circumstances when the hawser parted. I saw the Captain and Chief Officer with cork jackets on; some other Europeans were picked up, some with buoys and some jackets. I can only point out one who was the boy; he had a life belt on and was nearly gone. I wish to make a remark on the boats of the Eagle Speed. All the boats that I saw in the water, that's five, including the one launched subsequently by the topasses, were in good order. I took notice of them; I did not pay attention to the sixth boat that was not launched. I saw the long boat after she was in the water. Had she not been stove, she was most decidedly a serviceable boat to save life. At the consultation Captain Heath gave every one to understand that the steamer was not in a fit state to remain out on account of the feed pipe being out of repair. I don't know C. Wilson by name, but if he is the man who was left on board the Lady Elgin sick on our return, he was with me in the boat all the morning up to half past 10, and worked well. He and Maynard were the only two men in my boat that could pull, the others could not pull in a sea-way.

Deposition of WILLIAM DONALDSON, Surgeon on board the "Eagle Speed," in charge of Emigrants.

I WAS on board when the ship left Halliday Island. I was on duty partly, but not very well. There were some of the crew sick when we left Port Canning; I wasn't aware of it at the time; there were some of them sick when we left Halliday Island; I can't say how many; Dr. Sullivan, who was assisting me in my duty, will know. I was not aware that the Captain was unwell at the time. The Chief Officer appeared to be unwell, and did little or no duty the two days, either Sunday and Monday, he was aboard.

The Second Officer was perfectly well and sober so far as I know; I saw him.

The Boatswain had his fingers jammed and was in a great measure off duty. I can't say when his fingers were hurt.

After the ship struck, and the next morning appeared to be sinking, the Captain was sober and apparently well; the coolies were told off in gangs to the pumps all night. I believe the Captain gave orders. When it was found necessary to lower the boats to save the crew and coolies, I don't think the crew and officers were mustered and told off to this duty. I was on deck mostly all the time; I don't remember seeing the Chief Officer on deck at this time; he did not take command of a boat, or I think exert himself to save the coolies. The Second Officer had charge of a boat; he was sober and apparently well at the time; the Boatswain didn't take command of a boat; he was sober; I did not see him exert himself as an officer or more than an ordinary seamen.

There were three boats lowered; I heard the Captain give the order to lower them; a rope ladder was rigged over the stern, and all these boats I think filled in that way, the women and children first, under the superintendence of the Captain there were enough Europeans left on board, I think, to man another boat.

I don't know why another boat was not launched. About 9 A. M. the gig was got over the stern and launched. The Chief Officer and those of the European crew left went in her; they did not take any coolies; I am positive they just saved themselves.

The Captain was there on deck at the time; I can't say why he allowed this, nor can I account for his conduct.

Captain Hoskins' boat came back I know, and I think the Second Mate's boat; but really there were not a great many people saved by the boats.

The crew all this time were, I think, sober, as also the officers, and they obeyed the Captain's orders.

When the Chief Officer and the Europeans went off in the gig, the Captain did not interfere.

The Captain gave orders to pitch the hencoops and all loose lumber overboard, and the coolies, seeing a chance to cling to something and get to the steamer, jumped down the ladder and chains and got on to them, and most of them were picked up. No effort was made by the Captain to launch the other boats with the help of the coolies; there were none of the European crew left, except a sick sailor.

The Captain could speak the language a little; I think there was an Interpreter on board, a Native, and European Compounder who speak the language thoroughly. The Interpreter, after the three boats left first, tried to swim to the steamer, and got drowned; and subsequently the Compounder swam to her; I did not see him go away. I could not speak the language. The Captain did not leave the ship until all the Europeans, except myself and the sick sailor, had left; the Chief Officer came back for him and took him off in the gig. (I think it was the gig, I am not quite sure.) The Captain promised to take me, but he went over the stern while I was going to the gangway to get into her easier, and left me behind; as long as the Captain was aboard the coolies were under control, and a boat could be laid alongside.

Captain Hoskins, about an hour and half after the Captain had left, brought the steamer's boat and took me off, after failing once, owing to the coolies crowding down the ladder over me. When I got on board the steamer, I saw the Captain and the Officers of the Eagle Speed. The Captain was well to the best of my belief; he was asleep on the after-locker of the cabin; he did not complain of illness to me; I went down to change my clothes; I did not speak to him; I saw him afterwards on the deck several times during the day, apparently well; he was at dinner at the table and ate his dinner.

The steamer left the wreck about an hour after I came on board of her. I can't state positively that I saw the Captain of the Eagle Speed up and about; before the steamer left, I think he was.

The Chief Officer was sitting on the poop when I came on board the steamer; he did not appear to me to be suffering much, but he had complained to me during the two days of debility and exhaustion from previous illness, and I believe he was ill, but I dont think he was too ill to take command on such an emergency.

I am not aware that he was carried on shore at Canning; he may have been worse than I thought. I don't remember seeing him at table coming up the river.

I saw the Second Officer when I came aboard; he also appeared to be well and sober. I can't say why he didn't stick by the ship,

I saw some of the crew; I can't say how many; I think they were well. I can't say how many of the crew of the Eagle Speed were sick on the day of the wreck. Dr. O'Sullivan prescribed for those who required medical treatment. I saw four or five men on Sunday at the cuddy door, who appeared to be unhealthy and sick.

Dr. O'Sullivan was sober the whole time, and most useful during the night, after the ship struck, encouraging the coolies; he could speak the language: none of the officers could speak the language; I think the Captain could a little.

I don't recollect seeing the Boatswain standing aft on the poop of the Eagle Speed with the Captain when we were there; I didn't see how he got on board the steamer.

I saw his injured hand; I think it was seriously hurt; that would not prevent his directing means to be taken to launch boats, and efforts to be made to save life.

Deposition of Dr. Michael O'Sullivan, inhabitant of Calcutta, who on solemn affirmation sayeth:—

I am Civil Surgeon of Canning Town. I went down in the Eagle Speed. I was sent for, as I understood, by the Port Master of Canning; a boat was sent for me between 6 and 7 A. M. on Sunday, the 20th ultimo, to the Walter Morrice, on board of which I was residing, requesting me to go on board. I found the Doctor (Donaldson) who was in charge of the emigrants very ill with pleurisy, and I was obliged to apply a number of leeches to his side, and in consequence I took charge of the ship down the river.

On leaving Halliday's Island the Captain was well; the Chief Officer was well. I noticed nothing the matter with him. He did not ask me to prescribe for him, and to the best of my knowledge I gave him no medicine; I gave him an emetic about 2 days previously. I did not give him an emetic on that day. The Second Officer was well enough to do his duty. The Boatswain had received a little injury to his index finger, I think of the left hand, but he was not disabled.

When we left Halliday's Island the men were all well, with the exception of one or two who required trifling medical treatment. I considered the whole crew sound, although most of the crew were recovering from the effects of having had too much liquor.

I should not say the Captain was included in the above as recovering from, or having been, under the influence of liquor. I did not observe the Chief Officer on leaving Halliday's Island; neither illness nor anything else brought him to my notice. I could not tell whether he was suffering at the time from the effects of debility brought on by previous sickness. I did not observe anything wrong about the Second Mate on leaving Halliday's Island, he had been indulging before leaving port. When I dressed the Boatwain's finger at Halliday's Island he shewed no signs of having been under the influence of liquor. There was not a man incapacitated for work or who would not have got well at sea in a few days. If Captain Hoskins has stated that I told the Chief Mate I had given him an emetic it is a mistake. If it is the case, I can only account for it by my having become confused. It is possible, but extremely improbable. I saw the Captain of the Eagle Speed on board the Lady Elgin after he left the wreck. I did not notice him when he got on board. I was too much interested in what was passing. I did not attend him professionally.

I did not observe his physical condition until the evening. He seemed then like a man who was perfectly placid and contented; he was perfectly sober; it did not appear to me as if anything at all had occurred to disturb his serenity. I sat at dinner with him, and some time after. I am not aware whether the Chief Mate was carried on shore sick at Canning Town; I did not look upon him as a sick man. I did not hear the crew or Boatswain of the Eagle Speed refuse to go back to the ship, or to man a boat. I did not hear the Second Mate refuse. I did not hear them asked to go. With regard to the consultation above the Lady Elgin leaving the wreck, neither Dr. Donaldson nor myself nor any one most concerned in the matter were consulted, while a number of passengers who knew nothing about it were consulted.

Deposition of James Brinsden, late Commander, "Eagle Speed," inhabitant of Calcutta, who on solemn affirmation sayeth:—

I was the Commander of the late Ship Eagle Speed. My crew were twenty-eight in number, exclusive of Doctor, Compounder, four Topasses, and four Cooks. I hand in a list with the ratings taken from the Articles. My ship had come here from Auckland, New Zealand. I took private passengers. My ship was inspected by the Emigration

Commissioners. The number of my crew then was thirty-one, all told, including every one; this last time on leaving Port Canning it was thirty-eight. My crew was approved of by the Emigration Commissioners on the first occasion mentioned. On leaving Halliday Island some of my crew were laid up with fever and incapacitated from duty. Some of them could not have turned out in an emergency, but a great number did turn out after the ship struck. There were eight able seamen at work on leaving Halliday Island to the best of my belief; that left eight able seamen laid up, all the others including boys were at work. We had no great difficulty in purchasing our anchor, because the coolies helped us. A number of these men were knocked down on the way down the river the previous day. There were two cases of sunstroke. Dr. O'Sullivan saw the whole of them. Had we got out that night, I haven't the smallest doubt we could have made sail. We had double topsail yards, which facilitates labor very much. Although we had eight men sick, we could have mustered a large gang in a ship of that sort, from cooks and others, to clap on the topsail halliards, with a few men aloft. Going down the river, to the best of my knowledge, the Pilot's orders were carried out; he never made any complaint. After the ship struck, and during the night, the crew seconded my efforts in every way, working at the pumps and getting tackles up ready for the boats. There was no man in the chains before she struck. As soon as she struck a man jumped in. She was bumping for nearly half an hour. We slipped the chain after anchoring on the sand at about 7 P. M., and towed in a southerly direction up to 10 P. M., when the Captain of the steamer hailed us and told us the steam pipe had burst, and he must cast us off; we then anchored and found the water gaining on us all night. The night was passed in pumping ship and making preparations for hoisting out the boats. We got tackles up aloft for those that wanted hoisting. All the boats were bottom up, and there was no boat forward, filled with ropes, &c. We didn't prepare a raft, having a steamer with us, and expecting that she would come close to us and remain by us, so that we could have communicated by some means; and considering our own boats, six in number, ample under that circumstance.

By communication with the steamer I mean a line passed to her, and she at anchor under our stern. I got up a piece of Manillla out of the forehold for this purpose, my idea being to haul the boats backwards and forwards. I believe there was not the slightest thing in the state of the sea or the weather to prevent this. I hailed him as he came close under the quarter to do this, but he replied indistinctly that he was not in a condition to anchor there, and steamed away on the bow; this was after 9 A. M. after the boats were lowered and some of them swamped. We made up our minds to lower the boats at daylight, having at 1-30 A. M. made signals to the steamer to come to us. She came alongside about 4 A. M. I hailed him to keep close to us and be in readiness to pick up the boats. We then got the port quarter life boat, the starboard cutter, and the long boat in the water, and passed under the stern. The crews were picked out from the work at the pumps, and ordered into the boats by the Chief Officer. There were four men in each quarter boat and six in the long boat; we then lowered the women and children into them as fast as we could. There were no more men available to man the other boats. All the able seamen that were at work were in the boats except one and the Boatswain. The gig was launched by the Boatswain, the one able seaman, and by myself helping, she was launched over the stern. She was stove in launching. The Mate said there was a hole in her bottom that you might put your hand through, caused by the top of the stanchion going through the bottom of the boat. Every care and caution were used in launching her, considering the importance of preserving these boats; some 12 or 14 of us altogether had hold of her and launched her over. There was no gear to her. She was on the skids, and we had no tackles to hoist her out. We had no means of getting the boat into the water except launching her over the stern by hand. I consider that the most expeditious way under the circumstances. We broke down the front part of the poop rail to get her in on to the deck, and launch her right aft. The Engineer and Store-keeper, the Chief Officer, who was of no use on board from fever, otherwise a first rate man, then jumped overboard and got into the boat. They went neither with my orders nor against them. Thinking the ship was going right down they jumped overboard, as a matter of course, like everybody else. The Chief Officer jumped into the boat to take command of her. He went with my sanction. I was occupied in loading another boat on the other quarter, I believe Captain Hoskins' boat. The gig was as full as she could carry safely. They stopped the leak with a cap. When she reached the steamer she never came back again, and I heard that she went adrift. There was a very good boat on the skids, 22 feet long. I gave the Boatswain orders to launch her, which he partly succeeded in doing with the help of coolies and others. There was one European left, but he was sick. The boat got jammed, and immediately afterwards the Boatswain left the ship by jumping overboard, refusing to make any further efforts,—point blank. His name was Thomas Lockart. His words were "it's all very well for you to talk now, but it's too late, the ship's going down, and I must save my life as well as any one else." He deserted me contrary to my orders, just after I had given him orders in fact to renew his efforts at the boat. I was then left with only the four Topasses, and the one sick European. Several of the crew had previously jumped overboard whilst I was saving the coolies, and had saved themselves on pieces of wreck intended for the emigrants. I could not recognize them. With the exception of the Boatswain, there was no man who actually and positively disobeyed my orders. Numbers of the men left the ship without my knowledge and went swimming away. McClune, A. B., went into the gig with my leave, and came for me afterwards. The Engineer went without leave, but he would have been of no use remaining, being in a weak state.

The Store-keeper had rendered me good assistance in lowering children into the boats and promised to remain; but he left. His name was Dermott.

Just after this the steamer came up alongside, and the Captain sent my Chief Officer in the life-boat, saying that he had made up his mind to leave, and that if I did not avail myself of that opportunity he would leave and go without me. At the same time every one on board the steamer was crying out to every one in my ship to jump overboard. If the steamer had even then anchored close to the stern and waited two hours, I believe everybody could have been taken off. It was nearly top of high water, the ebb was just coming down, and the water would have been comparatively smooth. The ship rode quietly at anchor all night, and comparatively quiet the next morning, until she became uneasy from having so much water in her, and there is no reason why the steamer could not have ridden at anchor also.

Under these circumstances I got into the boat believing that the steamer would leave, but with the intention of speaking to the Captain when got on board, but as soon as I got on board I felt so exhausted from exposure and from previous fever five times, that I found myself totally incapable of speaking to any one on any subject at the time. I had no strength to protest against the desertion by the steamer. I was nearly senseless. Mr. Carlisle, Lieutenant Maitland, and Mr. Vardy saw the state I was in; the two former helped me on board. I remained in this state about an hour and a half, as near as I can remember, and recovered my senses and came on deck. The steamer had been down and sighted the light ship, and was then returning up the Western Channel, and was near the upper middle Bulcherry Buoy. The wreck was in sight abreast of us. We passed 5 miles off to the westward of her. About this time I said to the Captain of the steamer, "this is fearful to leave all these poor creatures on the wreck;" and he told me his reasons, viz., want of fuel, feed pipe damaged, threatening weather, want of daylight to get back to Halliday Island, and the right to save those already on board. His reasons did not satisfy me either in my mind or my feelings, although concurred in by all on board, but I made no formal protest, and the vessel proceeded on to her anchorage under Halliday Island, where she arrived before dark. I all along considered that the steamer was wrong to go away and leave the ship, and that she was not justified in doing so by any necessity. I am sure we should have got every soul out of the Eagle Speed if the Steamer had stopped another two hours.

4-30 P. M., 7th September 1865.

September 8th 1865.

Re-called and re-sworn.

The reason why we could'nt pass another hawser when the hawser parted was owing to the sea that was running at the time, and to the steamer and the ship lying in such an awkward position right across the tide and sea. It wasn't the want of hands. The steamer's boat was engaged in doing this.

In the position we were drifting in the trough of the sea, it was decidedly an imperative duty either to have anchored or to have made sail and run up; we should have had nothing to do but to have hoisted our topmast staysail and set the fore topsail, and made other sail as necessary going before the wind. I did suggest anchoring. I was not aware of the sand or of the set of the tide right on to it. I should not have supposed from what was done that any one on board was aware of the drift. The reason assigned for not running back was that there wasn't sufficient daylight to get back into safe anchorage, and that it was better under the circumstances to pass the hawser and hold on the steamer, the Pilot still having hopes that when the hawser was passed the steamer have been able to have towed us out. Even if there had been an inner light, I don't think they would have tried to run back at that time, as they all had hopes of getting to sea that night. The reason why I gave way on the question of anchoring was that I had no local knowledge, and supposed the Pilot to know best regarding the channel.

The shift of wind took place after leaving Halliday Island at about 2 P. M. The steamer shewed her inefficiency to tow us ahead when the shift occurred and the sea made. I think that even at that time there were sufficient reasons for putting back considering the great responsibility. There was nothing to prevent our going back then; the ship was uninjured and 4 hours daylight. We could have got back to Halliday Island easily. The hawser parted at 4 P. M. We were two hours passing the hawser, and most of this time the ship was lying with her head to the westward, rolling in the trough of the sea; the steamer was ahead of the ship with her head in the same direction. Without reckoning the set a ship generally forges ahead in a line with her keel in the direction of her head, unless there is some counteracting cause. I know a very little of the language, having sailed with a lascar for about twelve months. We had an Interpreter on leaving Canning, also a Com- was thoroughly conversant with the language, and Mr. Vardy was frequent-coolies on the way down. Captain Hoskins could also speak the language, and proved it by interpreting to the coolies a promise I had made that when we got out all the males who were not sea sick should have an extra allowance of tobacco served out, at which they were very much pleased.

After the Boatswain left, I had no one left to assist in launching the boats that were left, the two Topasses who knew the language were busily engaged under my orders in throwing everything overboard, and getting the coolies to go on them; the other two Topasses were forward. I don't think they were doing anything. They must have stowed themselves away. I called every one I could see. I think it might have been possible to have made use of the two Topasses to direct them how to launch the two remaining boats, but for the consternation that all of a sudden prevailed, caused by the steamer coming up alongside and hailing every one to jump overboard. I heard the voices of gentlemen aft singing out to jump overboard, but I couldn't identify any individual who did so; they spoke in English. Six of my crew heard me repeatedly ask the Captain of the steamer to anchor under the stern at about 10 o'clock; and I kept on hailing until he indistinctly answered me; these witnesses were—Dr. Donaldson, Mr. DeGrouchy, Chief Officer; Dermott; Wm. Booth, Carpenter; W. Ancell, Engineer; James Williams, Midshipman. I think the boats may have been stove through bad management; I can't say that they were wilfully stove. Captain Hoskins' boat was not stove. If the boats had been properly handled they should have lived in the sea, and also alongside the steamer. One boat was stove by the steamer having stern way, and the paddle wheels made a back revolution at the time she was getting alongside, and the paddle wheel and sponson struck her and knocked the stern out of her. Some coolies, as many as could be carried, went in the gig. I wish to correct my statement of yesterday that the Storekeeper went in the gig; he swam from the wreck to the steamer.

The Interpreter was one of 14 (coolies) that I saw go away on a hencoop and miss the steamer. The steamer did not go to pick them up; the hencoop passed within a quarter of a mile of the steamer; it was a very conspicuous object, and must have been seen. These men were all lost, unless they were subsequently saved in some other manner. The steamer used to come within a ship's length of us, not near enough for me to hail my crew to come back; besides I was so hoarse from continually screaming out all the morning that I could not have been heard more than a few feet off. I don't know of my own knowledge if my men were ordered to return, but the Chief Mate told me he ordered some of them, and they refused. I was not so hoarse, as I have stated, at 10 o'clock, when I hailed the steamer, but subsequently. The steamer never came whilst I was there with her bowsprit within four inches of the ship; if she had come even within 3 or 4 feet people would have jumped on board in numbers—they would have risked the rolling. I saw many of the coolies jump from the taffarel fully 20 feet to get on a piece of wreck or hencoop. I never saw the steamer nearer than a ship's length. He was very cautious. If the steamer did come closer, it must have been after I left the wreck. The boats always had to pull a long distance, and in several instances missed the ship from having to pull so far.

I fancied all the time that he was over-cautious keeping so far off. I have already stated that there was nothing to prevent him anchoring very close to us under our stern. If he couldn't have got his anchor again, he could have slipped. I didn't see any of my crew drunk. I should say that the whole of my crew were on board the steam tug by 10 A. M. The Chief and Second Mates, with James McClune and Robert Smith, A. B.'s, came back for me at 12-30 in the ship's life-boat, and took me away with a number of coolies. The sea was smoother under the stern than alongside, and as long as there was a boat the coolies could get into it. All the time that my boats were employed in conveying the coolies, the steamer's boats were unemployed. One of the steamer's boats was first employed during my temporary indisposition. I noticed the paddle-box boats when I was on the bridge after I had come round, and we were steaming back, and I asked the Mate of the steamer if those boats were made for use, and if they would swim. He said he did not know if they would swim, but in any case there was no means of getting them out, as they formed part of the paddle-boxes. They were bolted down, or at any rate there was a cant piece bolted down and securing them. I should say it was quite possible, notwithstanding this, to have pitched these boats overboard, and whether they came bottom up or not it ought to have been tried. One of these boats, even in a leaky state, could, if the steamer had anchored astern, have been hauled backwards and forwards, and every soul would have been saved. Even without a line of communication every man would have swam to the steamer had she been stationary. I considered that such of my crew as deserted the boats failed in their duty to do all in their power to save life. The officers can name these men. Nearly an hour was occupied in getting a crew for the boat that came for me. I wish to qualify the statement that I made that the Chief Mate jumped overboard, as a matter of course, as every one else did; I wish to leave out the words, "as a matter of course, like every one else," and to have recorded that he went by my orders. Before leaving the ship I went below and saw how high the water was up, it was within 18 inches of the lower deck. I considered the leak was in the scarphs of the keel and in the starboard strake. I thought she would have lived 4 or 5 hours at the time I looked at the quantity in her, that is, provided the rice did not swell and burst the ship.

The steamer on one occasion was an hour and a half from the ship, picking up men floating about, thus losing a great deal of valuable time, which would have been saved had she anchored near us.

Deposition of CAPTAIN BRINSDEN, re-called and re-sworn.

IF I had remained in the ship, I should of course have cut away the masts to form rafts, but I had made up my mind that the steamer would remain until all hands were saved. Had the steamer left me on board and deserted me, I could have cut away the masts, watching when she came broadside to the swell. I could have cut away the upper ones at any rate. I could have cut away also the lanyards of the lower rigging, and of course the lower masts would have gone of themselves in the roll of the sea. I don't remember seeing the second boat stove alongside the ship; she was a good boat, I bought her in London myself before I left.

The long boat was a first-rate boat, not more than two years old. A ship's long boat will generally last seven or eight years. The long boat was stove under the ship's quarter either by the awkwardness of the crew under the command of the Second Mate, who had no knife to cut a rope that would help her too close to the ship, or by the run of the sea. To the best of my belief the second boat went away whole. It was not a very bright day, but the sun was very powerful upon me. The sun was out every now and then with passing clouds. During the time the sun was out there was a strong breeze blowing, and the usual haze from the spray on the surface of the water, but I should not say the atmosphere was at all thick. I think if we had been looking for a buoy we might have seen it two or three miles off.

To the best of my belief the life-boat, under Captain Hoskins, made two trips between the ship and steamer before she was laid up, besides three times he missed the ship.

Deposition of THOMAS DEGROUCHY, Chief Officer of the "Eagle Speed," who on solemn affirmation sayeth:—

WHEN the ship was anchored for the night, and it was known we should have to take to the boats, the Captain gave me orders to see the boats all cleared, and I gave orders to the Second Mate to that effect, and to get tackles up to launch the boats at daylight; I was sick with fever, and I was not able to attend to the work myself. About 2 A. M. we signalled the steamer. The boat with the Chief Officer came alongside, and I believe Captain Brinsden reported our ship sinking and requested the steamer to come alongside; she did not come until daylight. The Captain was on the poop. I told off four men to go in the port life boat; there was no confusion at all at this time. The boat was lowered, and dropped under the stern. Captain Hoskins had offered to take charge of her and was in command, as I was ill; a rope was passed and a ladder let down over the stern; Captain Brinsden commenced with the aid of the Store-keeper to lower the women and children. The men coolies were afraid to go, some were lowered down by a rope by the Captain himself. During this time Mr. Vardy had volunteered to take a boat; I was asked, and being sick, the Captain requested him to do so; the boat was lowered without confusion, except for Dr. O'Sullivan jumping into her. She dropped astern. When Captain Hoskins' boat was full, she took the place of his boat at the ladder; took in a load, and went off to the steamer.

Meantime the Second Officer was getting the other boat, the long boat, ready; she was got out by the tackles from the foreyard and mainyard, and safely lowered and dropped astern with two men and the Second Mate in charge; the rest of the crew followed, and she took a load of coolies off to the steamer. The steamer was an hour and a half picking up these boats. She could scarcely steam against the wind and tide, the boats being carried off by the tide; two of them were stove alongside the steamers, I heard. The life-boat was towing astern of the steamer with the crew and Captain Hoskins, not the coolies. The boats must have been stove by bad management: the steamer came alongside within half a ship's length and hailed "all who can swim jump overboard." I am certain it was either the Pilot or Captain who sung this out.

Previous to this the gig was launched over the stern by the rest of us and the coolies; she was stove in getting her over; she got half full of water; a man jumped in, stopped the hole with his cap, and bailed her out. I asked the Captain if he was going to leave; he said "No, I can't leave these poor men behind." He told me I could go, as I was no use to him, being sick and unable to stand on my legs. I lowered myself down by a rope into the water, and got into the boat with the help of the man in her. The Carpenter, Engineer, and Cook, and several coolies followed; we shoved off and went to the steamer. We got out and let her go adrift, she was too small and useless, so damaged. This was between 10 and 11 A. M. After this I was mostly sitting down on a chair sick. Afterwards Captain Hoskins came alongside, and saying he was ill, asked for some one to relieve him, and for another crew. Previously Captain Heath had put on a board for Captain Brinsden to come on board at once, as he would not wait if he did not come; I heard him say this.

Feeling too weak myself I requested the Second Officer to go in the boat for the Captain in my place; he said he could not go, because he wasn't able. He didn't say why he was not able; I then asked Mr. Vardy, he said, yes, I will go in the boat. I then went forward amongst the men to ask them to go in the boat and they all refused, every man; I ordered them to go.

John Jefferson, August Rinston, Michael Shore, Thomas Lochart, Boatswain, Charles Wilson, James Macartny, Thomas Nutson, John Smith, Augustus Sperdel, all refused. I then offered them 10*s.* a piece to go, upon which Robert Smith and James McClune jumped into the boat, and the Second Officer also, the last mentioned, i. e., Second Officer, didn't go until I offered the money.

William Maynard did not refuse, and went in the boat without being asked.

I can't say if the men went for the bribe and not for duty; they didn't go until the money was offered. I then asked for Mr. Vardy to take command; I didn't trust her with the Second Officer; I didn't consider him smart enough to take charge of a boat.

Mr. Vardy could not be found, at least he did not come forward; I went myself in the boat astern of the ship, and took the Captain and several coolies, a boy, John Thomas, a European, on board, and put them out into the steamer; the crew got out into the steamer and left me in her, the Second Mate last, the consequence was that the boat got under the sponson and got stove; this was the ship's life boat; the sea was high, but there was no danger. If the crew had remained, I could have made more trips; I had promised the Doctor (Donaldson) and also a European sailor I saw hanging on to the stern to go back for them. The name of the Second Officer was Henry Matthews; they were out of the boat before I could stop or forbid them; I was occupied fully in fending the boat off, and singing out to the Captain of the steamer to move ahead and save my boat from being smashed; I didn't order them back because the boat was stove; her rope had been made fast to the steamer. I got on board the steamer; the boat remained fast to the steamer, and could have been repaired in less than a quarter of an hour. She was passed astern after I got out of her, and I saw her there until I went below shortly after; I was so weak I could scarcely stand. In the evening when I came on deck, I asked what became of her, the Chief Officer replied that she had gone; she filled, and I suppose the rope parted. The Captain was perfectly sober, cool, and collected when I brought him to the steamer in the boat; but he looked ill. He could speak, and had all his wits about him; he was helped on board by two gentlemen passengers, Carlisle and Maitland. I didn't take notice whether he spoke to them; I didn't see what he did after he got on board the steamer; he was able to speak when he left the boat, I think he could walk, but I didn't see. In the evening when I came up I was so weak I had to drag myself along by the rail. I don't know whether the Captain protested against the Captain of the steamer leaving the wreck, I did not as Chief Officer.

I heard the Captain ask the Captain of the steamer to anchor close under the stern and pass a line, and I did myself twice when I was on board the steamer; I thought it possible. He answered me in an off-hand way, "all right;" I didn't hear what reply he made to the Captain of the Eagle Speed; he didn't do it. If I had been in health, I would have take every soul out of the ship in two or three hours more with one boat after the tide turned; I couldn't have launched the boat of the Eagle Speed on the skids with the coolies; I could with the four Topasses only if I had been in health. The four Topasses were all on board when I left, and to the best of my belief sober; I think they were all four among the coolies at the pumps.

I don't know why the Captain couldn't do the same; all four Topasses spoke English.

If the crew had stood by their ship, we might have made a raft; but there was no need for a raft if the steamer had anchored close astern. Dr. Donaldson was sober all the time I saw him aboard the ship; I should say Dr. O'Sullivan had had some liquor from the way he behaved in the boat, he kept laughing like a man half mad.

I know nothing about the consultation on board the steamer about her leaving the wreck, and my opinion was not asked. The Captain, while he was in my boat, didn't order the crew to go back, or pass any orders about saving more lives.

Re-called.

I mustered the crew by the Captain's request after leaving Halliday Island; all hand came aft. All the crew in the list now shewn me, except the Topasses, answered to their names; this was about 11 A. M.; there were two or three that looked weakly, but all the rest were able to work. When the hawser parted, I think 12 out of the 16 able seamen were at work; all came to work when the ship struck. Had we got to sea, we could have made sail and kept the watches properly. I am quite certain she was very lightly rigged and sparred, and I am confident I could have got sail on her with eight men only.

Deposition of MR. DEGROUCHY re-called and re-sworn.

I THINK Mr. Vardy was present when the crew refused to go into the boats. I am not certain on this point. I saw the black board on which was written that the Captain should come on board at once. I don't think the words were "this boat is for the Captain only." I never saw the steamer nearer the ship than half the ship's length. Had she gone within three feet, the coolies would have jumped on board. It is possible she might have gone closer after I went below.

Deposition of THOMAS MILLS, Topass on board the "Eagle Speed," who on solemn affirmation sayeth :—

I was a Topass on board the Eagle Speed. I couldn't speak Hindoostanee.

The steamer went away about 2 P. M. and left me. Some of the Topasses and one of the European crew and a few of the coolies put the boat over the side; the after-tackle carried away. One hand was in the boat at the time. I jumped down, she fell all right in the water, but pretty nigh full of water. We went to work, put a plug in the hole, and baled her out alongside. We then dropped her astern. When she was there, two of us and a few of the coolies were in her. The line broke and we went adrift with only one oar. We stuck the oar into the mast thwart, and contrived a sail with a piece of a coolie's wrapper. We ripped a piece of the stern sheet up to make a temporary rudder, with which I steered us with a paddle, and so we got back to the ship. We took the other two Topasses and the one European and the thirty-two coolies in all. When we left the ship, we shoved off with three oars, two more having been passed down to us from the ship. We steered with the bit of board half way up, then we lost it and were obliged to take one of the oars. We never had the rudder, that was washed out before we went adrift. We went along with the sail and mast made out of the coolie's wrapper and oar. The boat ran up safe into the Mutlah River. We left the ship between 6 and 7 P. M. We saw the steamer pass the ship again after 4 o'clock. I don't know the time. We saw her again the following day; she overtook us between 9 and 10 A. M. in the river, and took the men out of the boat, which they then towed astern.

When we left the ship the water was up within three feet of the coamings; the covering board was, I should say, about three feet from the water; the ship was not set on fire by any one. The coolies when we left were all on the poop, quite, quite, not praying or crying, looking at one another.

The boat was not badly jammed. We got her out without much trouble into the water. When the Captain left I wasn't on the poop. I was there in the early part of the morning. When the Captain went, I was on the main deck keeping the coolies aft, that is, from going forward to look at the steamer. I was not ordered there. There was another Topass, James Wilson, with me on the main deck; he was doing nothing. We didn't think of launching the other boat, and didn't try. I was helping the Captain on the poop in the morning. I went away because I was tired. When the steamer left, I thought I would be drowned, and began to study what to do, and we four Topasses made up to go in the boat; the European joined and helped. All the sailors ran away from the ship. I didn't, because I didn't think of it at the time. I was not asked to go in the boat. We Topasses are all four sailors. We could have manned the boat if lowered.

Deposition of WILLIAM KEMP, sailor on board the "Eagle Speed," rating A. B.

I WAS not able to catch the life-boat the last time she came, because I was seized with the cramp. I got up over the stern as well as I could; a Topass came down and put a bowline round me, and the other Topass hauled me up. I went into the forecastle and put on dry clothes, and then when we found that the steamer was going to leave us, we five turned to and agreed for to get the boat which was on the skids launched. We capsized her and hooked the after-tackle of the boat davits on to the stern ring of the boat; then we hooked the main top-gallant halliards on forward; then we pulled on the after-tackle, and as we pulled she slid out aft, we lowered her into the water and put a plug in her, put one broken oar in her, baled her out underneath the stern, then she went adrift with two chaps in her and some coolies; she was gone three quarters of an hour. The young chaps rigged a sail on the bit of a broken oar with one of the coolies' cloths and a bit of the sheathing to steer with, and got her up alongside again, she could lie alongside by holding her off so as to let the sea come up between her and the ship's side. We three that were aboard got two more oars, one was good and the other broken at the handle, and got into her with 32 coolies, we didn't dare take more, we got into her and took the coolies in from under the mizen chains alongside, she was so low from being so deep. The coolies didn't prevent our getting in, we shoved off, when we could take no more. The water had begun to wash on her decks when we left. The coolies were quiet, some were crying, they had all got pretty well into the poop cabin and stowed themselves away.

I didn't see the steamer after she went away. We saw a light at night going up about midnight, and on seeing the steamer next morning we thought it was her light. We had some bread and meat in the boat, no water.

One of the Topasses steered most of the way; we ran up with a coolie's wrapper and an old blanket I chucked into the boat. The steamer overtook us in the river. When the Captain went, I think I was on the main deck chucking things over for the coolies. I saw the Boatswain preparing to swim away. I didn't see him go, or hear him refuse to obey the Captain's orders.

We five launched the boat by ourselves without the help of the coolies, she was clinke built and light.

September 29th 1865.

Deposition of JAMES MCCLUNE, Able Seaman of the late Ship "Eagle Speed," who on solemn affirmation, sayeth :—

I WAS an able seaman on board the Eagle Speed. I went on watch at 1 o'clock Monday morning, and never left the deck until I went in the gig. I launched the gig over the stern with the assistance of a few of the coolies and the carpenter. I went into the gig to help to man her. After I had got into the gig, I stopped the leak and picked the Mate up, and had a tight job of it, as he had on a large cork jacket which would not allow him to bend, and he was helpless from fever. After this I picked up the Carpenter, the Engineer, the Cook, and about ten coolies. The boat towing astern full of water. These men came down by the painter. The cook was unable to pull an oar from illness; the Carpenter and Engineer did pull, the Mate steered. I kept the leak under. We got alongside the steamer, and as soon as I took my foot off the leak in her bottom, into which I had stuffed a hat and a bucket, she filled, and I saw her no more. When I left the ship, the Boatswain and five or six men, besides the 4 coloured men and the 3 boys, were on Board with the Captain and Doctor. There were enough to launch the boat on the skids if orders had been given to do so. No orders were given whilst I was there. Supposing the boat had been launched, there were men enough to man her left if they could have been got into the boat; there were some Dutchmen on board that ship who would rather have gone down in her than have manned a boat. I went myself and tried to get them, they would come part of the way and then dodge me

The four Topasses were good men and could have manned the boat. Some of them were down in the 'tween decks screwing in the side scuttles, and keeping the coolies up out of the 'tween decks. I did not see two of them aft with the Captain. I say that if the steamer had come to an anchor, we could have run the boat with a hauling line backwards and forwards, and saved all we could. The long boat wasn't a good boat, even if she had not been stove I don't know anything about her being stove. I can't tell why the steamer did not anchor. I heard my Captain hail her to come close alongside. I have been to sea about five years. As a sailor, it is my opinion that there was nothing to prevent the steamer anchoring close under the stern. I didn't hear any man refuse to go into the boat. I heard them asked by the Chief Mate to go, but some of them said they were sick, and some that they could not pull an oar. I don't knew their names, but I could identify them.

I didn't hear the Second Mate asked. He went into the boat. If the Mate had sung out for a crew to save life, men would have gone, but not to go for one man only, which was written and held up on a black board that "this boat was for the Captain only." Certainly the men knew that when a crew was called for it was for the purpose of saving life generally. The Mate got a crew and without difficulty. It is not usual to offer a reward to a sailor to go and do his duty. On this occasion the reward was offered as the men were going into the boat, and they would have gone as well without the offer as with it. The only man he offered it to, that I heard, was Maynard, and he replied that he did not want any ten shillings, and went into the boat. I also went. Robert Smith, A. B., and the Second Mate completed the crew, and the Chief Mate steered. One of the oars broke. We went alongside, at first we came under the quarter davits, starboard side, and took the boy off who was hanging on to the tackle fall; he jumped in, and a lot of coolies jumped down by the gangway ladder which was triced up underneath the davits where the quarter boats hung, the fore part of the mizen chains. I am quite sure that we lay alongside between the mizen and main chains and received the coolies there. I was keeping the boat off by fending off the gangway ladder. Supposing I had wanted to have jumped on board, I could have got on board quite easily, the rope ladder was hanging over the stern, and we then dropped the boat under the stern and picked the Captain and some more coolies off. The Doctor was on the poop. I can't tell why he didn't come in our boat. He might have missed her by going to the gangway just as we dropped under the stern. The boat had a pretty good number of coolies in her, but she wasn't full, because we dropped away from the ship, having no rope to hold on by when we got under the stern. We got to the steamer safely and the coolies got out of the boat. Our boat was so badly done up that we couldn't keep her afloat, her bow was knocked out of her by a blow from either the ship or steamer. The steamer's boat then went; she made two trips with Mr. Hoskins; she brought coolies each time; she got stove also alongside the steamer, the boat was then hoisted up. The steam boat then went up as close astern as possible, and picked the coolies up as fast as they jumped overboard. There was still that boat on the skids; none of us men hailed to the Topasses to launch the boat. Those on board the ship might have launched the boat or cut away the masts So long as there is an Officer to give orders, no sailor takes upon himself to do anything without orders. Had I been left to myself, I would have cut away all three masts and made them fast astern, and there would have been rafts at once ready made. We could have insured their not falling in board by bracing the yards round, and watching the opportunity of the roll of the sea, keeping one shroud and one backstay fast till the last moment.

When I was alongside the ship in the boat, had the Captain called me to jump on board and assist to cut away the masts, I would have done so. The steamer could have steamed alongside these spars and picked the men off without difficulty. I became aware that the steamer was going away, and that we were abandoning the people to their fate. There was one man of our crew who then said that we ought to take the steamer from the Captain, and go back and save the coolies. This man is in the hospital. His name is Peter Richardson. We didn't go aft and suggest to return to the wreck, because the Officers were all there; it was their place, if any thing was to be done, to order it. I did not know that the steamer was going until she left. The Captain of the tug hailed my Captain and said "If you don't come at once, I shall not wait any longer," and "I won't be humbugged waiting like this," or words to that effect. Every one on the deck heard what he said. There was nothing in the state of the weather to have in the least prevented the steamer anchoring under the stern of the Eagle Speed, and passing lines to the Eagle Speed. Even at the time she left, lines might have been hove on board from one vessel to the other. The steamer came so close to the ship you might almost have jumped on board. The coolies did not try this, but they jumped overboard, and as long as the steamer remained they kept swimming towards her. The steamer picked up as many as she could whilst she remained. We had lines all round and life buoys, but several were drowned close alongside. I did not see any of the coolies in the water at the actual time the steamer steamed away. The poop was crowded with the coolies when we steamed away. I didn't hear any shouts of despair at our leaving. When we took the Captain in the boat, he spoke to us; he gave orders to the crew to pull away, he was all right, he had on a cork jacket too. He came down the ladder, and dropped right down into the boat. I don't know why, when he was coming away safe in the boat, he did not leave his cork jacket behind for some one else. The circumstance of the Captain and Mate knocking about with cork jackets on discouraged the crew; it was as much as to say "well, never mind what may happen, I am safe at any rate"; and this from men who ought to have shewn some life to the last. When the boat got alongside of the steam tug, the Captain got up by himself. He was not too weak to get up. It did not strike me that he was prostrate and helpless. He never spoke a word to the crew from the time he got on board the steamer, until we met him ashore, that I heard. He walked aft, I believe, but I did not see him till the evening. When we left Halliday Island the number of working men we had on deck was 7 men. These were all able seamen. The Carpenter was also there, but neither he nor the Engineer are counted above. They were working at their own proper work. The state of our crew while on board the steamer, after leaving the wreck, was generally sick. John Jefferson was sick and unable. All hands who were sick came aft to assist when the ship struck, but when these men got on board the steamer the chills struck them again from their having been in the water.

Deposition of CHARLES STUART CARLISLE.

I was on board the Steamer Lady Elgin when she was towing the Eagle Speed. I was aware that the ship Eagle Speed struck and got water into her; I saw the Chief Mate on board the steamer after he left the Eagle Speed. He wasn't well, he seemed weak and done up from fatigue and sickness, he was able to move about, but not, I should say, fit for exposure.

I saw him go forward from the poop of the steamer and call for volunteers to man a boat to bring off the Captain. They shewed great hesitation in complying. One man came forward. I don't know his name. Nobody followed. Some of them refused in words, and others tacitly; they didn't give any reason for refusing. I heard one man say "he'd be damned if he'd go."

I can't say I heard the Chief Mate order them to go. He told them they ought to be ashamed of themselves. That they ought to go to bring the Captain away. He also went up to the Second Mate and told him to go in the boat. He refused at first, that is, he demurred. I can't swear he refused. After a short time he got into the boat, followed by three other men, and the Chief Mate went in the boat and took command ill as he was. I can't recall what words passed between the Second Mate and Chief Mate. I don't know the names of the men who refused to go in the boat, and couldn't identify them.

The boat with the crew and Chief Officer in her was towed astern the steamer. The steamer went close up to the ship, and Captain Heath hailed Captain Brinsden to the effect that he must come and leave the ship, and that he was sending a boat. I can't remember that Captain Heath said he would not wait for him, if he didn't. He hailed him twice in different times. I didn't see a board put up with anything written on it that I remember.

I didn't hear Captain Heath say aloud, so that all could hear, that he would not wait if Captaid Brinsden didn't come off.

I saw Captain Brinsden when he came on board the steamer. I was close by him as he got out of the boat. I assisted to take a cork belt off him which he had on.

He appeared weak and fatigued. I heard him say I want to go and lie down for half an hour, I feel quite done, or words to that effect. Mr. Maitland and several persons were round, and I think Captain Heath.

I can't recall whether Captain Brinsden spoke to Captain Heath, Captain Brinsden appeared to me very much fatigued. I can't say he appeared completely prostrated, and he was not incapacitated from expressing his wishes.

I didn't hear Captain Brinsden hail Captain Heath to anchor near the ship or under the stern.

The boat didn't return after bringing the Captain, because she got stove against the steamer.

She stove before the crew got out. After Captain Hoskins came on board after his last trip, he said we had better take the opinion of all as to what is to be done, or words to that effect. He asked Captain Heath about his coal. Captain Heath, after enquiring, said there was only just enough to go back to Canning; then Captain Hoskins said, all our boats you see are gone; we have no means of communication, the coolies won't come off to us, can we do any good here? or words to that effect. Each was asked his opinion, that is to say, Captain Heath, the Mate of the steamer, and the six passengers; I don't recollect that any one else was there.

Captain Heath said, "you see my coals are done, and it looks bad weather coming on." I don't recollect anything said about the feed pipe.

It was unanimously acquiesced in to return, and to send immediately for assistance. Nothing was said as to consulting the Officers of the Eagle Speed. The Captain was below, and the two Doctors and the Mate I think.

At this time no one thought the ship would float through the night. The Eagle Speed's Mate, when he came on board, told me, he didn't think then that she would last more than two hours.

No other courses, except running back to Canning, were suggested as feasible to the passengers.

The way in which it was put to us, I think, by Captain Hoskins was, whether it was advisable to stay by the ship without being able to render almost no assistance, and risk the loss of the lives already saved as well as the steamer's company, or to run back to Canning. We were told the Barometer was very low, and bad weather appeared to be coming on.

I should have said that Mr. Vardy was at the consultation and took part in it.

We passed the wreck again as we came after running towards the light ship; we could just see the top of her hull as she rose to the sea.

When the hencoop with coolies on it, said to have passed the ship's steamer without her taking notice, floated by, the steamer was engaged in picking up others, off other pieces of wreck and timber. On two or three occasions the steamer went so near the wreck that her bows were within a foot; this happened when Captain Brinsden was on board the Eagle Speed.

Deposition of JOHN ALLSUM, Topass, "Eagle Speed," who on solemn affirmation, sayeth:—

I WAS a Topass on board the Eagle Speed. I was engaged by the Emigration Agent. I was one of four engaged by the Emigration Agent to look after the coolies. I was aft with the Captain passing the children down into the boats with bow lines. There was a boat on the skids. The Captain did not order me before he left to try and launch her. I did not see the Boatswain try to launch her, or any one else. I did not see the Captain when he left the ship. I was getting hatches and hencoops along to put overboard for the coolies to get to the steamer.

I saw the last boat leave the ship I was aft. I didn't go in her, because I couldn't get into her; I couldn't swim. I didn't try much to get into her, because the Doctor promised to send the boat back. The Doctor went down by the stern ladder and jumped into the boat I think. I remained to save as many coolies as I could. The boat did not come back. The steamer went away. We stood and watched her. We didn't know she was going till she went. I didn't think it was the right thing. We that were left consulted together how to save our lives, and we went to this boat on the skids. She was unlashed. She was not jammed, from this some attempt must have been previously made to get her out. We unhooked the main top-gallant halliards and hooked on to her, and looked on the after davit tackle, and the spanker throat halliards, to keep her from swinging out when the ship rolled. We got some coolies to assist us then to shove her out, they came readily. We lowered her and got her nearly in the water when the lift of the sea struck her in the bottom and unhooked the after-tackle, and she fell into the water and half filled, we let go the forward tackle, and Moses Smith and Mills jumped down into the boat, together with several coolies. We had a rope fast to her forward. These two men commenced to bale her out. I went down and Smith then came up to get the oars. We had one oar, but just then the rope broke and we went adrift and went astern. I had a sheath knife, and I tried to cut a rullock in the stern for my oar to lay in to try and scull her back to the ship, but the wood was so hard I couldn't do it. I then thought, as the boat had, I saw, a sailing thwart, that I would put the oar in that for a mast, with a sail made of a coolie's wrapper, and I ripped up a piece of the stern sheets to make a paddle to steer with, and we regained the hisp after having been away nearly an hour. When we got to the ship, we got two more oars and in the two other Topasses, and W. Kemp, the sailor, belonging to the ship. We also took a compass. William Komp put in a couple of blankets, which we rigged next morning in the river. We then took altogether 32 coolies and shoved off. We had a long line laying off the quarter, and we would watch the smooth and let her come alongside, and the coolies would jump in. When we had got as many as we could take we shoved off. When we shoved off the coolies were looking at us, they must have felt that their last hope was gone, but they didn't say anything to us. I was sorry enough to leave them.

There was another boat forward, but we didn't think of it. We did not think of cutting away the masts, nor of making rafts; we could have done this if we had thought of it. I have been 19 years at sea. I was born at Halifax, Nova Scotia, and was brought up to the sea. When we shoved off from the ship we made sail on the oar with a coolie's wrapper. The wind was right aft. We just made fast one end to the oar and struck the oar in, and held on both corners below, and sailed up all night. We had to keep her right before the sea, as the boat was very low in the water with so many people. We steered the boat by an oar. We never broached to. We shipped a little water sometimes, and then had to keep her right before the sea. Her bow was about a foot out of water and her stern about 2 feet.

We ran up North by the compass till we saw a light. We thought it was a light-house, and altered the course to North by East, and found ourselves in the river next morning. In the morning, as our sail had blown all to pieces, we had to take the blankets, and by the time we had set the blankets, we looked astern and saw the smoke of a steamer, which turned out to be the same steamer that had left us the previous afternoon. We had passed her in the night. She overtook us. We were not going on board of her, we were going on shore to get water, not wishing to have anything to say to her after her leaving us as she did. She then lowered a boat, which came alongside, took hold of our painter, and towed us alongside the steamer. When we got alongside our shipmates were very much surprised and very glad to see us. I didn't notice what sort of a boat it was that came to us. The Topasses were all sober the night preceding and the day of the wreck. I didn't know anything about the Compounder giving any of the Topasses liqour. When I saw the Compounder on the morning of the wreck he was sober. I didn't see him leave the ship, but I saw him in the Railway train coming back to Calcutta.

September 11th, 1865.

Deposition of LIEUTENANT W. G. MAITLAND, 29th Punjab Regiment, who on solemn affirmation, sayeth:—

I WAS a passenger on board the Lady Elgin tug steamer. After the Eagle Speed struck, the steamer towed her until 9 P. M. about or longer; I went down below to sleep at 9 P. M.

About 1 A. M. I was awoke, hearing that signals were being made from the Eagle Speed. I went up on the bridge. The steamer's boat meantime had gone alongside the Eagle Speed under charge of the Chief Mate, Mr. Conroy, and returned with the news that she was sinking, and that we were requested to keep close by her. Steam was ordered to be got up quickly. About 4 A. M. we weighed anchor and ran close to the Eagle Speed. About 6 A. M. the first boat came, under Captain Hoskins, with women and children.

A second boat then came under Mr. Vardy bringing Doctor O'Sullivan. Whilst taking the first boat load on board, we drifted a considerable distance, and had to tow the first boat back; the second boat was stove under the sponsons.

The third boat came in charge of the Second Officer and also got stove.

The fourth came under the Chief Officer, and didn't live long after she got alongside; I don't know what became of her.

The greatest distance the steamer was from the Eagle Speed while these boats were passing to and fro was, I should say, about a mile and half; I can't give any accurate idea as to how far, on an average, the steamer was distant from the Eagle Speed while the boat were passing. I can't say she was not sometimes within a ship's length, or that she was.

While the boats were passing, in the intervals the steamer was employed in picking up coolies off floating timber.

Captain Hoskins worked his boat for several hours until about 10 A. M. when he came on board exhausted, as were also his crew. Mr. Vardy said he would take command, but I didn't see him get into the boat at all. Subsequently, about an hour after, the Chief Mate of the Eagle Speed wanted to man a boat with a view to bringing the Captain of the Eagle Speed off, but the men shewed a great unwillingness to go. I didn't hear the Chief Mate actually order them to go. I didn't hear what he said. Eventually a crew was got together; the Second Officer of the Eagle Speed took an oar; he was decidedly unwilling to go at first. I didn't hear him speak, but he tacitly shewed his unwillingness and tried to get out of it. The Chief Officer, though very sick, took command of the boat. The Captain was brought off, and I assisted him over the rail of the steamer; he was then looking very done up. With him came also some coolies; I don't think the boat was quite full. I am not quite certain about that.

I was on board helping the Captain in. I didn't see what became of the boat and crew.

Captain Hoskins then took the steamer's boat and went to save the Doctor, who got on the ladder over the stern of the Eagle Speed, and would not move one way or the other; but a lot of coolies were brought off. The boat went a second time, and after much trouble they managed to make the Doctor jump into the water, and pulled him into the boat; some coolies were also brought this time.

In getting on board the steamer the boat got stove, partly through the crew jumping out, and partly through the awakwardness of the Doctor; the hook got under the seat and tore it out, and the side stove in hauling her in. After this we stayed about an hour, as far as I can remember, picking up people who were floating about; several times we went very close to the ship, but not so many jumped over as was to be expected.

About this time it was found that we had only enough coal to take us back to Canning. A consultation was held; I am not clear who called it; I fancy it was Captain Hoskins. The passengers were present, and Mr. Vardy, Captain Hoskins, and, I think, Captain Heath; no one else.

We were told, I can't say by whom, that we were short of coal. I know Captain Heath went and asked the Engineer about the coal. Captain Hoskins came round and asked us all what our opinion was. We were unanimous for returning and sending help down from Canning. We thought it better to place the lives saved in safety, as the water appeared unsettled. Accordingly, not knowing where we were at the time, we steamed towards the light ship; this was about 1 P. M. I fancy. We sighted her, I heard, at about 2 P. M., and then turned and steamed for the Mutlah, and anchored that night at about 6-30 P. M. at Halliday Island.

During the night it blew very heavy with rain. It seemed to me it must be worse weather at sea than when we left. Next morning, as we were steaming up the river about 7-30 A. M., we sighted a boat; we lowered one boat, the biggest boat, the one which had been stove in hauling in, and took her in tow. On getting her alongside we found she contained one European, four West Indians, and 32 coolies, and one woman; they had a kind of sail, a blanket, I think, rigged on an oar. They had no rudder, but they had provided themselves with a compass, a lantern, some clothes, junk, and cigars; I can't say as to water.

I didn't see any light or rockets from the light ship during the night of the 21st, nor did I hear that either were seen.

I did not hear the Captain of the Eagle Speed hail the Captain of the steamer in the morning to anchor alongside or near the Eagle Speed.

I heard the Captain of the Eagle Speed hailing several times; what for I could not hear. I heard Captain Heath on one occasion answer to the effect, I think, the steamer was as close as she could go, or that he couldn't go closer. I fancy she was about one ship and a half distant at the time I mention. I can't say that any of the boats were wilfully stove.

The reason why it was necessary for the Chief Officer of the Eagle Speed to get a boat to bring off the Captain was that Captain Heath was in hurry to get away. I heard him, Captain Heath, say aloud, not to any one in particular, that he was in a hurry to get away on account of the coal. I didn't hear him say that he would not wait for the Captain of the Eagle Speed.

I didn't see a board put up with anything written on it.

I can't identify the men who were unwilling to go for the Captain of the Eagle Speed.

When I helped the Captain of the Eagle Speed up, he could walk, but walked like a weak man. He was not incapaciated from expressing his wishes.

He expressed a wish to rest. I think Captain Heath was on the bridge then; I don't know.

The Captain of the Eagle Speed went below at once. I think I saw him asleep on the stern locker down below. No other course, except going back to Canning, was suggested at the consultation as feasible to my knowledge.

We passed the wreck in returning after sighting the light ship about two or three miles off.

I think the crew saved two bags. I pulled two bags up out of one of the boats, and in another boat some compasses and chronometers in their boxes came. I saw a small hand bag or valise also; no portmanteaus.

I don't know what became of the boat during the interval of about an hour which elapsed after Captain Hoskins and his crew got out of her exhausted to the time when the Chief Officer took her to the Captain. I should have seen her if employed in making trips to save life during that time.

We understood, when we resolved on returning to Canning, that the Eagle Speed had a very short time to live.

Deposition of ROBERT MCMASTER, Commander of the Buoy Vessel "Grappler," who on solemn affirmation, sayeth :—

I WAS in command of the floating light ship at the entrance of the Mutlah on the 21st August last. I saw a ship and steamer coming out at 3-30 P. M., trying to tow out, bearing N. E. and by N., distant about 16 miles. I saw them myself from the deck with a glass; they were athwart the channel at the time heading to the Eastward; they remained within sight up to 6 P. M. still with their heads to the Eastward; they had then drifted in about a mile. At the distance we could not make sure of the direction of their heads, but they were athwart the channel.

We shewed the usual lights that night, i. e., the usual yard-arm light, and a rocket at 8, 12, and 4: a rocket can be seen about 12 miles off if you are looking in the proper direction; it is only visible about 10 seconds. We don't burn blue lights, in order to distinguish the Mutlah Channel from the Hooghly. A blue light, such as used on the light ships in the Hooghly, can be seen 30 miles according to the weather, ordinarily you can see them at 20 to 25 miles. No blue lights or rockets were seen from my ship on the night of the 21st, or early in the morning of the 22nd, in the direction of the vessels mentioned.

I didn't see the Lady Elgin Steamer at all on the 22nd.

Had I been signalled, or informed by the steamer running down, that a vessel 18 miles off, up channel, was sinking with 300 lives on board, I would have slipped and run up and saved as many as I could of them. The distance was 20 to 21 miles off, as the Centre Bulcherry Buoy, abreast of which the wreck occurred, has been moved since the re-survey of the river, a mile and three-fourths to the northward.

I could have run up alongside in about three hours on the date in question.

I commanded the Despatch and the Charlotte, pilot schooner, in the Mutlah, before I commanded the floating light. I commanded the Charlotte down to the 27th January last, from the 9th August 1862, i. e., 2½ years. I cruised up and down the river frequently two or three times a month. I used to examine the channels and the buoys, and report when they were out of position.

I didn't find any difficulty in navigating the river for want of buoys.

When I last went down the river about the 6th of May last, the buoys in the Eastern Channel were all in position and in an efficient condition. The outer R. R. Buoy had the spire broken. I didn't go down the Western Channel.

I was down in the Lady Elgin after that in the Western Channel, but at night time, and couldn't see the buoys. This was in July last. The circumstances were as follows:—The Lady Elgin took two ships in tow from Halliday Island. I was a passenger on board of her. She towed all day, and got down two or three miles south of the Spit Buoy near where the Eagle Speed was abandoned. At 6 P. M. the barque Gabrielle's hawsers parted, moderate swell and wind S. S. W.

The Gabrielle made sail and proceeded by herself out to sea. Mr. Vardy was the Pilot. We continued towing the other ship all night, and reached the light vessel at 6 A. M., having made it at 3-30 A. M. The rocket was reported by the Serang at 8 P. M., or about 15 miles off, we didn't see anything, i. e., any light from 8 P. M. to 3-30 A. M.

The outer 5 buoys marking the Eastern Channel are, I consider, of sufficient size. They are second class buoys.

The Ring Buoy is a third or fourth class buoy. It ought, in my opinion, to be a second class buoy. I consider an inner light an absolute necessity for the safe navigation of the river at night. If a ship is caught about the R. R. Buoy and not able to get out with a heavy sea on and wind S. or. S. W., there is good anchorage at the anchoring buoy; not so with the wind at S. E.; with the wind at S. E. or S. S. E. she must run up to the Ring Buoy.

If you can see the anchoring buoy before dark a ship can shape a safe course to the Ring Buoy after dark; it is only about 8 miles.

If my light ship had shewn a light equal to the Hooghly Light, that is to say, a blue light, it would have been visible to the Eagle Speed where she was wrecked, and shewn them their position.

I have seen the Spit Buoy from the deck of the Charlotte, 5 miles off, with height of the eye about 10 feet, i. e., at an elevation of about 10 feet. The Centre Bulcherry Buoy, being a second class buoy, ought to have been visible from the deck of the Eagle Speed 3 miles and a half off during the daylight; it ought to have been seen at the elevation of her deck, say 20 feet, with a heavy swell on, at 6 miles off. The Spit Buoy even ought to have been visible from the wreck.

If the Eagle Speed was wrecked 3¼ miles from the Centre Bulcherry Buoy, the buoy must have been visible, or even at 6 miles distance. I see no necessity for the Lady Elgin's having to run down to sight me to know her position.

I consider the buoys in the Eastern Channel sufficiently numerous. In the Western Channel there ought to be one half-way between the Spit and the Lower Eastern Bulcherry Buoy. We found no difficulty in towing down the other ship of the two, on the occasion I mentioned at night for want of that buoy.

On examining the chart of the Mutlah of the re-survey, I find that the Centre Bulcherry Buoy is correctly laid down, and the distance from the wreck to the floating light I find by measurement on the chart from the bearings given in the report of the Captain of the Lady Elgin was 15 miles, which I could have run in 2½ hours. The distance from the wreck to the Ring Buoy will thus be nearly 12 miles; and therefore blue lights or rockets from a high ship at the Ring Buoy, if there had been one, would have been visible from the wreck; the ship could have run up easily from where the wreck was to Halliday Island after seeing the blue light. On the 22nd ultimo we had a nasty dirty night outside, wind, I think, southward at 6 P. M., and a heavy ground swell.

With the wind and sea we had the Lady Elgin as a sea-going steamer would not have been in any jeopardy if anchored for the night abreast of the wreck, and supposing the weight of 425 coolies, adults, equals 17 tons, and one-third put below, that amount of top weight, in my opinion, might not have been dangerous; I don't think it would have been dangerous for a ship of her size. I believe she had 50 tons of ballast. If danger was apprehended on that score she might have taken a hundred less.

Deposition of BOLDERO CONRY, who on solemn affirmation saveth:—

I WAS the Chief Mate of the Lady Elgin when she towed the Eagle Speed down the Mutlah. That was my first trip in her. I was only in her a few days. I left her because I am going round to Bombay, having been always in sea-going ships. My place of abode is Bombay, and I wish to get there quickly. At present I am Mate of the ship Combermere. I hold a Chief Mate's certificate for foreign service. The Lady Elgin towed the Eagle Speed after she had grounded until nearly 10 o'clock at night, on the 21st, when the feed pipe got out of order, and we had to cast off to repair this. We anchored and gave her 60 fathoms cable. There was a sea on; now and then there was a surge on the chain, and we had to stopper it—a common precaution. She rode safely, but rolled considerably. Between 1 and 2 A. M. on the 22nd, in consequence of blue lights and rockets being shewn from the ship, I was sent alongside in the boat. I went alongside and was told the ship was sinking, and to bring the steamer close alongside to discharge the coolies. I then pulled back to the steamer and reported to the Captain, who gave me orders to have short, and also ordered the Engineer to get steam up as soon as he could. I can't tell whether the fires had been let out, or were banked. We got steam up by 5 o'clock, when we steamed ahead of the ship, and told the ship's people to get the boats ready. The boats were not in the water. They answered "all right." One of the boats was then lowered, and Captain Hoskins came alongside the steamer with women and children. When we had picked this boat up and taken the people from the boat, we had drifted away astern of the ship. It was flood tide. There was no reason why the steamer should not have anchored close astern of the ship; none at all. This would have saved a great deal of time occupied in drifting and making our way back to the ship, as we had to do on such repeated occasions. Having just picked up our anchor, after having laid at anchor in safety, it could not have been on the score of any difficulty in anchoring or riding at anchor. If we had commenced at first to pass lines to the ship, the boats could have been passed to and fro without difficulty by this means; and it could have continued to be done. I never heard the Captain of the steamer asked to anchor. I didn't hear the Captain of the Eagle Speed hail to anchor.

I can't tell whether I heard Captain Heath answer any hail. After Mr. Hoskins had delivered his boat load, we towed the boat up to the ship, having been away fully an hour, during which we had only received this one boat load. Mr. Vardy then came in the second boat, he having been waiting till we came near that he might fetch us. The bows of his boat were all stove in. He came alongside with the bows stove in. When the boat came alongside the women and children were got out, and Dr. O'Sullivan who was also in the boat. The crew passed everybody up, and then came up themselves. Mr. Vardy was the last that left the boat. About five planks of the bow were stove. Mr. Vardy asked the crew to go back, but they refused on the ground of the state of the boat. She couldn't have gone back with any safety. One of the men let go the painter of the boat, and let her go adrift. I don't know the man. The third boat then came alongside in charge of the Second Mate. I can't tell what boat it was. When the Second Mate got alongside, he and the crew wanted to come up on to the steamer. I sang out "pass the coolies up first,—do you call yourself Mate of a vessel?" They then stopped and passed the people up, and they followed. I can't say whether this boat was stove or not, although I was looking over the side at her. Mr. Vardy and I told the Second Mate and men to go in the boat again. I said, "You had better go and make another trip." I pressed it upon them, and even reported to the Commander of the steamer that they would not go. He spoke to them too; I believe, to the best of my recollection, that their answer was that they were exhausted. I was certainly of opinion that the boat could go back again. The men said nothing about the boat being stove. There was some water in the boat enough to fill 5 or 6 buckets, but nothing of consequence or to prevent the boat going back again that I could see. It didn't strike me to put a crew of lascars into the boat. It could have been done if it had been thought of. I myself had pulled to and from the ship with lascars a few hours previously. The Captain sung out to make the boat fast alongside, and we steamed away to pick up coolies that were floating about on pieces of wreck. We could have manned the boat, but we couldn't have shoved off until the steamer had towed us up to the ship; we were a long way off. The boat would have carried in that sea about 20 coolies, which is a good number in one trip, compared to picking up individuals off numerous floating pieces of wreck.

This repeated drifting of the steamer caused a most serious loss of valuable time, when every moment was of importance. Still the steamer was not anchored, and I, as Chief Officer, did not suggest it to the Captain.

It was now about 10 o'clock, and all this time we had only got three boat loads alongside.

The steamer steamed ahead full power. The thwart of the boat last mentioned carried away; the boat gave one sheer out, came in under the steamer, and was smashed alongside and went down. After Mr. Hoskins had delivered his cargo, he was towed astern to go back to the ship. We towed him back to the ship, but he failed twice to reach her, and was twice towed back again, succeeding eventually in reaching near and picking up coolies in the water. Once we went abreast, and once ahead of the ship. On two occasions, instead of making fast astern, the boat went to pick up people in the water, which she brought to the steamer; whilst the life-boat was away thus, the fourth boat came to the ship, she was the gig. The Chief Mate and some Europeans were in the boat. I didn't see any coolies in the boat. I don't know whether there were coolies or not. As soon as she came alongside she swamped. This boat was in a very leaky state. I was not aware that she had a large hole made in her bottom in launching. As soon as she came alongside she went down.

Our own boat was on the davits all this time doing nothing. Seeing the want of boats, from boats swamping one after another alongside, and viewing the prospective loss of life, I never lowered this boat. I got no orders from the Captain to do so, and did not suggest it. When Mr. Hoskins returned to the ship with the load of coolies that he had picked up out of the water, he was exhausted and wanted to be relieved. He and the crew came on board. Captain Heath told some of the other men to go in the boat; many of them refused. He told me to put my own crew into the boat and go to the ship. At this time the steamer was a long way off from the ship, for about the fourth or fifth time. I called up my men to go into the boat, but the gentlemen shamed the Europeans, and they went into her. Having got my crew ready, I also might have shoved off in our own boat if I had got orders to do so. I didn't get orders, and I didn't propose to go. I was perfectly willing to go just before, but, as before said, I didn't propose to go in our boat when the Europeans had manned the ship's boat.

The Chief Mate of the Eagle Speed went in charge of this boat. He brought the Captain and some coolies. I didn't see anything written on a black board and held up. I didn't see it or hear of it. When the boat came alongside, they got her under the sponson and the stove her. The stern of the boat was to the head of the steamer when she came alongside, and the stern got caught under the sponson and was smashed. We passed her astern and towed her still she went down. The Captain came at about noon. I didn't know why there was any special reason for sending a boat for the Captain at this time. I did not hear the Captain of the steamer say anything about going away at this time. He was on the bridge. I was on the main deck. I can't tell the reason for this sudden move of the Chief Mate to take a boat for the Captain. I saw Captain Brinsden when he was going down into the cabin. He appeared rather exhausted. He spoke two or three words to one of the passengers. He walked alone and went below. He did not consult with Captain Heath that I am aware of. At this time the life-boat having been disposed of our boat was lowered by the Captain's orders. I don't know if he was asked for the boat, but Captain Hoskins went in her with four Europeans. They reached the ship and brought off some coolies and a European lad. They got safely to the steamer, and were not smashed alongside. They then went back for the Doctor and brought him and a lot of coolies. They came alongside and then smashed the boat. She was a clinker built boat; her gunwale in the bend of the bow was broke right across, three planks were stove in from the gunwale down; she couldn't make another trip in that condition. There was then a consultation below what should be done. Captain Heath said his coals were getting short. Captain Hoskins proposed the best way was to go to Canning Town, discharge the coolies, coal and come back. I can't say how far we were from the Centre Bulcherry Buoy. I didn't see it. I didn't look for any buoy—never thought of one. The Captain of the steamer went down the channel to sight the floating light to ascertain our position. Going down the man at the mast head reported the masts of a vessel, and right abreast of the steamer there was a black buoy on our starboard side about 2¼ miles off. I forget whether it was a black or a red buoy. We then turned back. I was on the bridge keeping my eyes about me. On going back we passed to the westward of the wreck about 2½ to 3 miles from her. As we passed her, she being on our starboard hand, I didn't notice any buoy on our port side. If the position of the buoy is as pointed out, we ought to have seen it at 3¼ to 4 miles distance. I did take notice of the Ring Buoy, because I was on the paddle-box at the time; I saw that about four miles off. I can't say what the size of the buoy is; it had a spire. I can't say if it had a basket. We anchored at Halliday Island at half past 6 or 7. We had a fair breeze going back, with now and then a gust, and squalls with rain. The next morning on the way up, off Peel Islands, we saw a boat, we stopped and sent our boat (being smooth water, we sent her as she was stove,) and towed her alongside; she contained 4 Topasses, 1 European sailor, and 32 coolies, who had been saved by these Topasses and the European, by launching the boat from the Eagle Speed after we had left.

At about 11 o'clock in the forenoon of the 22nd, I proposed to Mr. Vardy and Captain Hoskins to slip the Eagle Speed's chain and run her up under sail and beach her on Halliday Island. It was still flood, strong fair wind. We could have carried all sail, and I believ she might have been got up even then. The only answer I got was the ship was water logged, and would not be manageable, and they were in the expectation of the vessel breaking in pieces in two hours. Going to Canning for assistance was no use under such circumstances. We could have got on board by the channels or clambered up by ropes, and have made sail. It was worth while to try, at any rate, and run up as far as we could. The nearer the land the greater chance of more men being washed ashore when the ship should go down. It did not strike me to advise cutting away the masts at the last moment. I see the feasibility now certainly, but I did not think of it at the time. I believe the feed pipe was temporarily repaired during the night of the 21st; it carried us up all right to Canning.

Deposition of CHARLES DERMOTT, Store-keeper on board the late "Eagle Speed," sworn, sayeth:—

My duties as Store-keeper were to serve out the stores to the coolies, carry out the Doctor's orders, and to superintend the Topasses and everything connected with the coolies, their cookery, &c. I remember the first boat being lowered on the 22nd ultimo. I lowered the after-tackle myself. I saw the long boat after she was got out. I saw her under the stern. She got foul of some ropes hanging over the stern. Her painter got foul of them, so that she could not be slackened away astern, and when the sea came up she got dashed against the stern. This happened repeatedly. She received severe injuries on the port quarter before she was hauled to the starboard quarter to receive the coolies. But for these injuries I should certainly say she was a serviceable boat. She would have acted as well as the others, and would have carried a number, being the largest boat. I saw some chronometers and a small portmanteau in one of the boat's astern. The life boat was lowered in an orderly manner. I did not see where the crew was obtained from. I saw them coming aft, and two of them jumped in the boat and were lowered down in the boat. I did not see the second boat lowered. I helped to launch the gig. One of the nuts of the stanchion went through her bottom in launching. I saw no attempt made to launch the boat on the skids. I left the ship an hour and a half before the Captain. I got on board the steamer by 10 o'clock. I left because we were hailed by the steamer to jump overboard, and I saw every one providing themselves with cork jackets and life belts, and as I could not swim, I thought I had as good a right to save my life as any one else, being also very much knocked up. I asked the Engineer for one of two life buoys that he had and he gave me one, and I jumped overboard and made for the gig, but missed it. The gig was astern, and I kept paddling with my arms to her, but missed her. I had my cap, and I kept waving it over my head, and they answered me from the steamer's bridge. I was drifting down towards the steamer, and they hove me a line and I was hauled up alongside. When first the steamer came to the ship in the morning, I heard the Captain of the Eagle Speed hail the Captain of the steamer to anchor near. He made a reply, I know not what, but did not anchor.

Whilst I was on board the steamer I saw a board held up. The words on it were—"This boat is for you only." I don't know who it was held up by, but I am almost certain it was one of the passengers. I can't say why the boat was sent away in this manner to bring the Captain, unless it was that the wreck was expected to go down immediately. I did not hear Captain Heath express any impatience at remaining. Whenever I saw him picking up the coolies, he was exerting himself very much. I did not hear any positive order given by the Chief Officer to the men to go in the boat. I saw him go round amongst the men and ask them and tell them, but what I call a positive order I didn't hear. The Second Mate did not set the example of going. He made some excuse at first, but afterwards went. The Chief Mate made an offer of 10 shillings to any man who would go, but just at that time the men made a movement towards the boat. Some of the men were very poor, miserable men, but there was a number of good men amongst them and I didn't see any reason why they shouldn't have done their duty and gone back to the ship. Some of the men who laid up for sickness were not, in my opinion, really sick, and might have exerted themselves more. I speak from my experience of sailors, having frequently served out medicines to them as steward of a ship. The Chief Mate was very sick I have followed the sea for 15 years. I am a Prussian by birth, but I have been on board American and English ships the last 11 years.

The coolie life buoys were made of solah covered with their cotton cloth, not painted.

I saw one of them go to pieces; but one of them held me up for half an hour and saved me. Five people wearing life buoys jumped into the gig. I never saw a coolie with one of these life buoys specially provided for them, the people belonging to the ship appropriated them to their own use. There were eight life buoys altogether. The Captain and Mate put on cork jackets, and one Midshipman.

September 18th, 1865.

Deposition of WILLIAM MAYNARD, who on solemn affirmation sayeth:—

I was an able seaman on board the Eagle Speed. I was on duty all the time from leaving Canning until I got on board the steamer. I remember the hawser parting well. I was assisting to pass it again. There were eight men and the Second Mate on the forecastle with the Pilot at work trying to pull the hawser in. The Carpenter was sick. I never saw him after we hove up the anchor at first starting until the ship struck, when we let go the other anchor. There was no one else at work that I was aware of. One of the boys was laid up with sunstroke that day coming down. We were an hour and a half, I should say, getting the hawser passed and then we had to get the coolies to hand it in. The Captain of the steamer lowered his boat to give us a line to haul his hawser on board of us. This took twenty minutes to half an hour before we got hold of the line. After we got hold of the line, the boat went back to the steamer, we began to haul away immediately. The line did not carry away at all. It took us an hour and a half before we could get the hawser on board. The Second Mate was pulling with us, nine men in all. The reason why we could not get the hawser in was that the steamer kept away and had the hawser in the water like a rainbow, and we could'n't pull it under such circumstances; even with 20 men we couldn't have pulled the hawser in the way the hawser laid. At last we got the coolies upon it, and hauled it up. Providing the steamer had kept to the eastward ahead of us that would have kept the hawser straight, instead of that she went right round in a circle. I remember the ship taking the ground, it was about 6 or 7 P. M. The anchor was let go after she had struck the third time. She only struck once after the anchor was let go, very lightly. She struck pretty hard the first and second times, but no so hard the third time. She knocked off a piece of her false keel the second time she struck. I didn't see this, but heard so. She was towing ahead when she struck. The fourth time the ship struck lightly, and the Captain said "Never mind, boys, the tide is flowing and will be all right yet, slip the chain." The Captain sung this out from the poop. The Pilot was on the forecastle. I was standing by to give her chain on deck. The Pilot did not give the order to slip. I can't say why the Captain gave the order, except it was for safety. We slipped and towed into deeper water, until we anchored for the night. I was at the pumps until about 9 P. M. when I went to my tea, and then I went and relieved the man in the chains. I didn't turn in that night at all, never closed my eyes.

The pumps were hard at work all night with the coolies and the crew that were able to work. All hands turned out at 12 at night, sick and all, and went to the pumps. I was one of the first men called to go into the boats when it was determined to lower them. The coolies left off at the pumps at 5 o'clock. I went into the life boat between 4 and 5 A. M. I remained in the boat until nearly between 11 and 12. When Captain Hoskins gave up charge of the boat, I went out of her for a drink of water at the same time. Captain Hoskins said he wanted to be relieved, and another boat's crew, and the Mate went forward, and asked the men whether they would volunteer to go in the boat and relieve the crew that had been in her, and when I heard him ask that I stopped on board to rest.

We made first one trip from the ship to the steamer, and then made an attempt and failed twice, but picked up coolies. I went back into the boat a second time to fetch the Captain, and took him to the steamer. I was then knocked up, and went out of the boat. I can't remember whether that boat went back again, but one did go. The Captain of the steam boat said to the boat's crew when we went to fetch the Captain, "Tell the Captain from me that if he doesn't come off in this boat I won't wait any longer for him." We told the Captain that and he came off with us. When we went to the ship we fetched under the stern. I can't remember laying alongside under the quarter davits by the gangway ladder. I am not prepared to swear that we did, or did not. When we went under the stern there were some coolies and a white man hanging in the bight of a rope, and others hanging in ropes about the stern. The Captain said "put me on board the steamer before you take any more, and come back for them." We had then about eight or nine to a dozen coolies in the boat. The boat was not very deep at the time, she would have carried several more. On a previous occasion the boat could have carried more coolies, but Captain Hoskins said she was deep enough, and it would be better to shove off as we were, and return for more. We had a great many more coolies then than we had with the Captain. It was a thickish morning, but the sun turned out pretty warm through the day. It was pretty clear, but clouds passing over the sun occasionally. When Captain Hoskins and I left the life-boat on the first occasion she lay alongside the steamer for twenty minutes before she got another crew. The steamer towed us about forty or fifty fathoms a head of the ship, and then we dropped towards her with the wind and tide about two ships' lengths, sometimes a good deal further off. During the time I was on board the steamer, I saw her once pass within eight or nine fathoms of the stern. I have been at sea going on seventeen years. The steam boat could have anchored if she had liked alongside of the ship, clear of the roll of each vessel, and have saved every soul on board, because the ship had yards and lines to have swung them on board. Besides this, the boats could have gone between the two vessels easier than we did, whether she had anchored alongside or astern, if she had only anchored. Provided the masts had been ordered to be cut away, they could have been done so, and they would have formed rafts with their yards which would have served all the passengers. There were plenty of means of securing them from falling in board. There might have been many more saved, if the Captain of the steamer had stopped to pick up men floating about. This was not while engaged picking up others, but the steamer was passing on full power when he was going to the ship. He hove the life buoy to several, but they missed the buoy and he never stopped to pick them up. After leaving the wreck to go down to the light ship, I saw no more until we passed the ship on return. We passed a long distance from the ship, and I saw no coolies floating about. When getting ready to get the long boat out, between 3 and 4 in the morning, I saw what I took to be the floating light's light at the Sandheads; it was a bright light and it was visible for about two minutes. I mentioned it to some of the men, but I can't say if they saw it. I soon lost sight of it. I can't say why the men did not go in the boat when she was so long a time alongside the steamer. One of the men who had been pulling with me said to one of the Dutchmen "for God's sake go in the boat and save some of those lives." He replied I shall not go. I never knew this at the time. I think the reason why the men did not go into the boat was because they were frightened. I can't account for it otherwise; there were four or five of them well, these men were all Dutchmen.

Deposition of JAMES EWART, who on solemn affirmation sayeth :—

I AM a Junior Mate Pilot in the Hooghly on the Licensed List, but I take ships of any draught if applied for I have piloted ships of nineteen and twenty feet. I am a passed Pilot for the Mutlah. I have taken four or five ships up and down the Mutlah with and without steam. I consider the Mutlah river and channels to be sufficiently buoyed, with the exception of one additional buoy being required in the Western Channel on the eastern side of the channel between the Eastern Lower Buoy and the Spit Buoy. The outer buoys also ought to be first class buoys, four of them, and the Ring and Anchoring Buoys ought also to be first class buoys, and at least every alternate third class buoy should be a second class buoy. I think the buoys on one side should be cane buoys, and on the other spire buoys as at present. As regards the channels being safe as at present buoyed, I understood the C. P. Kinch was lost by the Pilot mistaking a buoy after seeing it in the dark, and not being able to tell whether it was a red buoy or a black one, and going on the wrong side; the difference of shape would have told him at once which side he was on. The Kinch had no business to have been navigating the channel in the dark, trusting to buoys in the absence of an inner light. In case of a ship being caught as she was, I therefore consider an inner light quite necessary. I wouldn't attempt to navigate those channels in the dark without an inner light. If there was the slightest chance of my not getting up before dark, I wouldn't enter. With an inner light about the anchoring buoy in the Eastern Channel it would be quite safe. I should add that there should be an additional smaller light at the Ring Buoy the same as in the Gasper Channel. The light at the Ring Buoy would serve also as a guide to vessels in the Western Channel bound in, the wind sometimes compelling ships to take the Western Channel. There is safe anchorage at the Anchoring Buoy, a floating light would ride there in all weathers.

It would take a ship about two hours to run up on a flood tide and with a fair wind to the Anchoring Buoy from abreast of the Bangadonee Reef Buoy, and there she could anchor in safety with the wind at South to South by East, moderate breeze, but heavy swell; she could ride safely in that locality. Supposing it blows harder, the ship must run up to the Ring Buoy before she can anchor in smooth water; having made the Ring Buoy you can run on to Halliday Island at any time by night or day. The distance between the Anchoring Buoy and the Ring Buoy is about seven or eight miles.

Supposing you are abreast of the Anchoring Buoy and see it at dusk, you can shape a course to the Ring Buoy, nothing to prevent it with a fair wind.

I have lately been anchored at the Ring Buoy.

I didn't see the lower middle ground buoy come up, although I passed near, and I have reported it to Captain Hoskins, but he says it is there. The baskets of the outer buoys also are gone, three or four of them.

A second class buoy should be seen on a fine day in a strong breeze four or five miles.

Deposition of MOXOO Coolie, who on solemn affirmation sayeth :—

I WAS one of the coolies on board the ship which sunk. The Topasses left with the last boat about 4 P. M. The steamer went at 12 noon. The night passed, and next morning at about 8 A. M. the ship sunk; the ship went on her beam ends, all the coolies sunk. I and two others got hold of a plank and got on it and got to the jungle. All that day and night went, the next day at about 6 A. M. we got to land. We got nothing but brackish water to drink for ten or eleven days; then we saw a ship passing, we beckoned and shouted and they sent a boat for us and sent us up in another boat. We saw no one else saved; we got nothing to eat all this time, but managed to catch a little rain water when it rained.

RIVER MUTLAH.

DIRECTIONS FOR APPROACHING AND ENTERING.

The channels of the River Mutlah having been re-surveyed and buoyed, and a Light-vessel placed at the entrance of the Western Channel, the following are the directions for entering that river in supersession of those dated 8th March 1856:—

The Light-vessel is in Latitude 21° 4′ 15″ North, Longitude 88° 46′ 15″ East in 13 fathoms low water, and bears from the Hooghly Eastern Channel Light-vessel about East 32 miles; she displays during the day a red flag at the Main to indicate that she can supply a Pilot, and at night shews a plain light visible about 5 or 6 miles only, and fires a rocket every four hours, namely, at 8 P. M., midnight, and 4 A. M., but shews no blue light except in extraordinary cases. She is painted red to distinguish her from the Hooghly Light-vessel. It is intended to have a Pilot Brig on the station shortly when that vessel only will display the red flag and supply Pilots, burning a maroon at night, when necessary, to direct vessels.

Ships resorting to the Mutlah during the South-West Monsoon should adopt a similar route and conform to the directions for making the Hooghly Pilot Station, passing to the Southward of the Eastern Channel Floating Light-vessel, which should be sighted in about 14 fathoms; these soundings should be gradually decreased to 13 fathoms until the Mutlah Light-vessel is made. Care should be taken not to overrun the distance, especially at night, as a vessel would thus get to leeward and lose time in regaining the Pilot Station. The Light-vessel, it should be remembered, might be driven far from her position by heavy weather, and in that case would shew no light.

During the strength of the South-West Monsoon it would not be prudent to borrow nearer the sands than 10 fathoms in crossing from the Hooghly to the Mutlah Light-vessel, as there is generally a high sea near them.

During the North-East Monsoon Commanders confident of their reckoning may work up direct for the Light-vessel, and if the weather be cloudy and thick the sounding should be a safe and sufficient guide.

It is high water on full and change about 9 hours at the Light-vessel. The tides set round as in the channels to the Hooghly, the flood making to the West round to North, the ebb to the eastward round to South, having a velocity during the springs of 2½ to 3 miles an hour, and a rise of 9 feet.

There are two channels of entrance into the Mutlah, the Western or Ward's Channel and the Eastern or Roy-Mutlah Channel. In the former there are 4 fathoms at low water spring tides, and in the latter not less than 5 fathoms. The bottom throughout the channels is mud, the sands exceedingly hard, and the lead a safeguide towards them.

The Western Channel is bounded on the West by the Bulcherry Reef or sand, extending from the island of that name, and on the East by the Roy-Mutlah sand, part of which dries at low water. The channel is from 1½ to 5 miles wide, and is marked off by eight buoys, four red or western, three black or eastern, and a ring buoy, which also marks the north extreme of the middle ground.

The outer or Reef buoy of this channel is a 2nd class spire buoy with two baskets on it, and is painted red and marked MUTLAH. It lies in 6¼ fathoms low water spring tides, about two miles South-East of the extremity of the Bulcherry Reef, and 3½ miles North 22° West from the Light-vessel. All the other Channel buoys are also spire buoys, but have one basket only; these baskets are sometimes washed off during the South-West Monsoon and in heavy weather.

From the outer red buoy marked MUTLAH, which should be passed to the eastward about half a mile, the true course through this channel is North 14° West 19 miles to the lower middle ground black buoy marked L. M. G., which must be passed to the westward. From this point the course is North to Halliday's Island, about 11 miles off the southern extremity of which a shoal extends for nearly a mile. During the South-West Monsoon vessels should borrow on the western side of this Channel, attending particularly to the set and keeping the lead going.

The Eastern or Roy-Mutlah Channel is bounded by the Roy-Mutlah sand to the westward and the Bangadoonee Reef or sand to the eastward and is marked off by eight buoys, four red or western and four black or eastern.

The outer buoy is a second class spire-buoy with one basket on it and is painted red. It is marked R. R. (Roy-Mutlah Reef) and lies in 5 fathoms low water on the South-Eastern verge of the Roy-Mutlah sand, bearing from the Light-vessel North 35° East about 11 miles. On the same bearing four miles beyond is the outer black buoy of this Channel marked B. R. (Bangadoonee Reef) with one basket.

The Roy-Mutlah mid Channel course is North 40°, West 13 miles to the anchoring buoy off the Roy-Mutlah patch, dry at low water. It is marked with an anchor (⚓): then North 43°; West 7 miles to the ring buoy beforenamed, on the North extreme of the middle ground, passing the black buoy of the Dalhousie spit, marked L. D. (Lower Dalhousie) to the Westward; care being necessary here, as a ship would be in great danger if to the eastward of this spit. From the ring buoy the course is North 3°, West 7 miles to Halliday's Island.

In passing through the Roy-Mutlah Channel great care is necessary to avoid being set on the Bangadoonee Reef, which is steep to and dangerous, as well as to the Eastward of the L. D. buoy; the red buoys, therefore, on the western side of this channel should, if practicable, be kept in sight.

There are three beacons at the entrance of the river, one at Dalhousie point and another on Bulcherry Island, which mark the termination of its right and left banks; a third stands on the southern extreme of Halliday's Island. The eastern beacon might be seen soon after passing the patch marked dry at low water on the Roy-Mutlah sand.

After passing Halliday's Island the course is North 3° East for 11 miles, which will place a vessel off Beadon's Creek; and 3 miles further, about North 29° East, she will be up to the Cuttalee Reach, where the river takes a sharp turn to the westward and the channel contracts. Here she should anchor if a Pilot be not in charge, and should not go beyond Point Rogers, up to which a Commander with Laycock's chart might, with ordinary care, conduct his ship safely without a Pilot, leaving the red buoys to the westward and the black buoys eastward of his course; attending particularly to the set of the tides, which in the seaward channels run across the sands on the first quarter flood and ebb, as in the Hooghly outer channels. But this should not be attempted by a stranger, except in cases of necessity, especially during the South-West Monsoon, as the beacons are then liable to be blown down, and the buoys to be driven from their positions by heavy weather.

CANNING TOWN;
MUTLAH RIVER,
The 21st July 1863.

GEO. J. NEBLETT,
Port Master.

The above directions are published for general information in supersession of the published instructions dated 8th March 1856.

FORT WILLIAM;
MASTER ATTENDANT'S OFFICE,
The 24th July 1863.

JOHN G. REDDIE,
Master Attendant.

RULES FOR THE GUIDANCE OF PILOTS ON THE RIVER MUTLAH.

Outward-bound Vessels.

1. ON receiving an order to take charge of a vessel the Pilot will proceed on board with all convenient dispatch and ascertain her state. It is his duty to see that her decks are clear, and to ascertain, as far as practicable, without causing unnecessary detention by hauling up cables and sails for inspection, that she is in a proper state for working, both as regards her masts, yards, rigging, sails, and also her anchors and cables. He is to ascertain that she has two bower anchors, and that if she has not a sheet or spare anchor fit for a bower over her side that she has one in such a position on deck that it can easily be brought into use in case of its being required. Should it be necessary to communicate with the Commanding Officer on these points, the Pilot is to do so in a respectful manner, and if his representations and enquiries do not meet with prompt and due attention, and he should still have reason to suppose the ship deficient in any of the above requisites, he will not take charge but immediately report the same to the Port Master. A vessel losing one of her three bower anchors after leaving Canning is not therefore to be stopped if the Commander wishes to proceed.

2. Pilots are directed to ascertain that the vessels to which they are appointed have the means of shewing two good lights during the night for the whole of the time they are likely to occupy in getting clear of Pilot's water.

3. Should any Pilot, on going on board an outward-bound ship to take charge, have reason to think that her crew is so weak or otherwise so inefficient as to be likely thereby to cause unusual detention to him in taking her to sea, he is to make his opinion known to the Commander or Commanding Officer on board decline moving the vessel, and report the circumstance to the Port Master, unless the deficiency is supplied immediately.

4. A Pilot before taking charge or an outward-bound ship is to be very particular in ascertaining her draught, and forwarding a certificate of the same to the Port Master's Office, signed by himself and the Commander or Commanding Officer of the vessel—a receipt will be granted for this cerifictae if required.

5. In the event of any difficulty being made in regard to the reception on board of any outward-bound vessel of the Post Office and Government despatches, for which receipts are to be duly signed by the Commander or Commanding Officer, the Pilot in charge is not to conduct her to sea, but wait for further instructions.

6. Should an attempt be made to put goods on board an outward-bound vessel after the port clearance has been obtained, and the Preventive Officer has left, the Pilot in charge will remonstrate against it, and if it should be still persisted in report the same and remain for orders, unless such goods are accompanied by a Custom House permit, in which case they are to be received, and the permit forwarded to the Port Master's Office.

7. In the event of a Pilot being appointed to a ship that does not leave Canning within two days after the date of his appointment, he is to report the same to the Port Master, together with the probable time of her departure, which is to be ascertained from her Commander, and any further delay is also to be reported. Pilots in charge of ships detained in any part of the river below Canning are to report and explain the cause; and every detention is in like manner to be reported.

8. A Pilot appointed to the charge of a ship within the boundary of the port, who, on going on board, shall find her at single anchor is to report the same to the Port Master, unless the Commanding Officer can shew a written permission from competent authority.

9. In case of a vessel taking in cargo at any place on her way down the river, so as perceptibly to alter the draught, the Pilot in charge is to forward a certificate of such altered draught, noting the place where the cargo was taken on board.

10. A Pilot of an outward-bound ship is not to transfer himself to one inward-bound without communicating with the Pilot Vessel unless in a case of emergency, which is to be reported to the Port Master, or unless he is certain that there is no other Pilot available.

11. Pilots are to telegraph all accidents when telegraphic communication is established along the river.

Inward-bound Vessels.

12. Pilots taking charge of vessels at sea are to be provided with copies of the following documents which they are to see carefully filled up:—

One letter addressed to the Collector of Customs.

Two ditto Post Master at Canning Town.

One ditto Port Master with a copy of the Port Regulations.

13. A Manifest is to be forwarded from all merchant ships, even although they have only ballast on board.

14. Pilots in charge of inward-bound ships are directed to receive any document tendered by the Commander as his Manifest, and append the same to the printed form.

15. The following signals must be carefully attended to:—

SIGNALS.

Custom Signals.

Ensign at Main to be hoisted on reaching Edoo Reach.	Vessel without a Preventive Officer (inwards or outwards.)
Ensign at the Fore.	Vessel with a Preventive Officer (outwards only).
	For Troop Ships.
Jack at the Mizen.	To be kept flying from Halliday's Island till the Troops are landed.
	Vessel's number to be hoisted on passing all Telegraph Station.

16. Should an attempt be made to remove goods from a vessel in the river, the Pilot in charge will remonstrate against such proceeding and report the same to the Post Master, with such description of the goods as he can obtain.

17. Pilots in charge of inward-bound vessels are to point out to Commanders the necessity of keeping a good look-out for the Custom House boat, and of affording every facility to her in getting alongside, and that nothing short of risk to the safety of the vessel is to prevent her receiving a Preventive Officer on board at the proper station.

18. In order to secure the correct insertion of the ship's tonnage in the printed form and the inward certificate, the Pilot is to request a sight of the Register, and should this be denied he will make a note of the same in the form and on the face of the certificate. He must also state in the certificate (if a Foreign vessel) if she has been measured in a British port, and the tonnage according to the certificate of measurement, and if the vessel arrive in ballast, he is to insert in the inward certificate the words "In ballast."

19. Commanders are to be informed of the necessity of having good leadsmen in the chains while proceeding up or down the river.

20. A Pilot in charge of a ship at the Sandheads, the language of whose crew he does not understand, is not to proceed in with her without a leadsman, whom he can understand and rely upon, unless the immediate safety of the vessel require it.

21. No Pilot in charge of a vessel is to quit her off Canning before she is properly moored, without being duly relieved by some other person properly authorized to take charge. Vessels within the limits of the port are to be moored, unless permission to the contrary be obtained from the Port Master.

22. Pilots are not to steam, sail, or tow with the tide amongst Shipping within the boundaries of the port, unless the channel be very clear and open.

23. No Pilot having taken charge of a vessel is on any occasion to relinquish such charge before completing the service for which he was placed in charge of her, unless in case of sickness or other unavoidable necessity.

24. Pilots are to note all official letters given to them to be posted.

25. Pilots are to report themselves daily at the Port Master's Office when they are at Canning, and are to reside within the limits of the town.

26. They are on all occasion to report the number of ships they have passed outward and inward-bound.

27. Pilots are to use their utmost diligence in completing the service on which they are ordered, and should any one be improperly impeded in his duty he will report the same to the Port Master.

28. Vessels being permitted to be underweigh during the night in all parts of the river when the buoys can be seen, to prevent as far as possible accidents occurring, the following Rules are to be observed by all vessels below Canning:—

First.—All vessels at anchor are to shew a light during the night at the starboard fore-yard arm.

Second.—Vessels underweigh at night shall shew a good light at the fore-royal or upper fore-mast-head, and when in tow of a steamer shall, in addition to the mast-head light, shew a good light at each fore-yard arm, the steamer shewing the usual light prescribed by the Admiralty Regulation.

Third.—Vessels underweigh without a steamer are to shew a light at the fore-top-gallant mast-head, and one at the jib-boom end.

29. No Pilot is to interfere with the pilotage charge of any other without his consent, except at the request of the Commander.

30. No Pilot, unless he is already employed, or proceeding on some particular service, is to pass a vessel in the river below Edoo Reach, which may have a signal for a Pilot flying, without going on board; and if the vessel is inward-bound he is to offer to take charge; should the vessel be outward-bound he is to endeavour to ascertain the cause of her being without a Pilot, and if he shall have reason to think that she has been regularly cleared, and that she had a Pilot when she left Canning, which Pilot has been obliged to quit through some legitimate cause (but not otherwise,) he is to offer to take charge and conduct her to sea, and it will be the duty of such Pilot to report the particulars of such occurrence to the Port Master by the first opportunity.

31. In the event of a ship or vessel losing an anchor or anchors, the Pilot in charge will state the same in writing to the Port Master in a separate report as soon as practicable, giving an accurate description of the place where the accident happened, and stating the description and weight of the anchor and size and description of the cable, to enable the same to be identified when recovered—the report is also to be attested by the Commander or Commanding Officer of the ship or vessel.

32. In like manner should the ship or vessel unfortunately get aground, the Pilot in charge will, on the first opportunity, forward to the Port Master a report of the accident, containing, besides the bearings of any known fixed objects in view and information usually furnished, the ship's draught of water, the time of tide, and hour of the day, when and the place, where, the ship grounded, the manœuvre that the Pilot was executing or attempting to execute at the time, the cause of the accident, the damage (if any) sustained, and the time the vessel was on shore. This report, if approved, to be attested by the Commander or Commanding Officer. Pilots in charge of steamers are to make a report of the circumstances as far as these may come within their knowledge of the grounding of any ship or vessel they may have in tow. This report, if approved of, to be signed by the Commander of the steamer.

33. Steamers meeting are to pass each other on the port side. Steamers with or without ships in tow likely to meet in a narrow passage, or when, from another vessel being in the way it may be difficult to pass, the one going against tide is to ease her steam, until the other is cleared the difficulty. Every steam vessel navigating any river or narrow channel shall keep, as far as practicable, to that side of the fairway or mid-channel of such river or channel which lies on the starboard side of such vessel, due regard being had to the tide and to the position of each vessel in such tide. Steam vessels underweigh are to be considered in the light of sailing vessels navigating with a fair wind, and are to give way to sailing vessels on a wind on either tack.

34. In order to prevent accidents from vessels crossing each other on opposite tacks, it is to be distinctly understood that the vessel on the starboard tack is to keep her wind, and that on the port tack to bear up. On such occasions at night two lights to be shewn at the weather bow and one at the lee. The same course to be pursued when a vessel is taken aback in a sudden squall during the night and other vessels near. In case of collision between ships, whether at anchor or underweigh, a full and particular report is to be made by the Pilots in charge, signed as in the case of grounding reports.

35. Every Pilot in case of sickness is to obtain a certificate from competent authority of his inability to attend to his duty, which he is to forward to the Port Master, and failing that he will be considered absent without leave and mulcted accordingly. In like manner on recovering from sickness he must furnish a certificate of his ability to resume his duties.

36. A Pilot before giving over charge of an outward-bound ship at the Sandheads is to cause the usual certificate to be filled up and signed by the Commander as well as by himself, which certificate is to be forwarded to the Port Master. A like course is to be pursued in regard to the inward certificate on arrival at Canning to secure the correctness of which latter great circumspection is enjoined.

37. The firing of guns, unless as signals of distress, is forbidden in any part of the river above Cuttalee Reach.

38. If a Pilot consider himself aggrieved by any conduct on the part of the Commanding Officer of a ship, he is to transmit his complaint in writing to the Port Master.

39. Much inconvenience and serious damage being likely to occur if a passage for vessels moving up or down be not kept clear within the boundaries of the port, it is desired that a channel of 300 yards in width be kept open, and Pilots are positively forbidden to leave ships in the channel whether moored or at single anchor; but in case of their being actually obliged to bring up therein the Pilot is not to quit her until she is removed out of the channel.

40. Vessels are not to be underweigh at night without the Commander's consent, signified in writing in the following form :—

To Mr. Pilot of the ship

Sir,—I request you will keep the ship underweigh as long as in your opinion you can do so in safety, and I hereby hold this ship responsible for any damage that she may do to any other vessel lying at anchor, shewing lights according to the rules of the Port.

41. No vessel is to be underweigh in or above Cuttalee Reach at night unless the night be clear, so that the buoys and marks can be seen distinctly.

42. Pilots are forbidden from seeking or receiving directly or indirectly a gratuity from the Commanders, owners or agents of vessels that may be required to take charge of. Any discussion about a gratuity for piloting a vessel between a party concerned in her and a Pilot, whether before he takes charge, or whilst he is in charge, or after he has made over charge, is strictly prohibited, and will render him liable to dismissal.

43. Pilots are directed both on arrival at and just before leaving Canning to make themselves acquainted with and to attend to such rules and instructions in addition to the above as might appear from time to time in the Order Book at the Port Master's Office, and to keep copies of them for reference.

1. The delay which has occurred in dealing with this case is owing chiefly to the absence of the Law Officers of the Government from Calcutta during the Doorga Poojah holidays, and partly to the want of a full explanation from Captain Burbank, the Protector of Emigrants, which has now been received.

2. On the 14th July last the Protector of Emigrants forwarded to the Government for orders a letter from the Commander of the Eagle Speed, then lying in the Mutlah, tendering for the conveyance of native emigrants to Demerara. There was some doubt as to whether, under a strict construction of the law, (Section 7, Act XIII. of 1864,) emigration could take place from the Mutlah; but as it appeared to the Lieutenant-Governor that Canning was virtually an auxiliary port of Calcutta, connected with it by a railway and under the same administration and management, and that the shorter passage to sea would be in every way advantageous to the emigrant labourers, His Honor directed the Protector to report fully on the subject, and authorised him, in the meanwhile, to allow the Eagle Speed to embark emigrants at Canning for Demerara if she were in all respects fit for the service. The tender of the Eagle Speed was accordingly accepted, and the ship, having been surveyed and reported perfectly eligible in every respect for the conveyance of emigrants, was licensed on the 5th August to convey 450 adult emigrants to Demerara.

3. Both the Protector and the Medical Inspector of emigrants reported very strongly in favor of Canning as a port of emigration, and considered that to make it the place of departure for emigrant ships would be decidedly a change for the better, provided that certain specified precautions were taken to prevent delay in the embarkation of the labourers and in their departure to sea after embarkation. Accordingly the embarkation of labourers at Canning was authorised generally, subject strictly to the conditions specified by the Protector, all extra expense being borne by the emigration offices. And the Protector was desired to report after six months on the results of the experiment in respect to the health of the emigrants and the sufficiency of the existing establishment to superintend the embarkation. It should be explained, however, that the orders authorising emigration generally from the Mutlah, though issued and dated the 7th September, were given by the Lieutenant-Governor when on tour on the 31st August, and that intelligence of the loss of the Eagle Speed did not reach His Honor until afterwards. It has since been intimated to the Protector that no further emigration from the Mutlah will for the present be allowed.

4. The Lieutenant-Governor has no doubt whatever that in almost all respects it is better for emigrant labourers to depart to sea by the Mutlah than by the Hooghly, and that the danger or risk of accident in the navigation of the former is less than in that of the latter. But if a vessel with emigrants on board be wrecked in the Mutlah, even by unavoidable accident, and if all possible means be taken to save the lives of the emigrants—still more if she be lost through gross carelessness, and shamefully abandoned in a sinking state with emigrants on board—it is less likely that they will be afterwards saved in a river as yet comparatively unfrequented and unprovided with a telegraph than if they were wrecked in the Hooghly, where early notice would be given, and where more ready and abundant means of help would be at hand. For this reason it is inexpedient that there should be at present any further emigration from the Mutlah, and it has accordingly been prohibited.

5. On the 7th August the Protector forwarded, for the orders of Government, a certificate from Mr. Vardy, the Pilot who was to have charge of the Eagle Speed, to the effect that he considered the Lady Elgin to be a first class steamer for the Mutlah river, and that on account of the experience of the Captain he would much prefer that she should tow the Eagle Speed to sea. The Protector observed that the Lady Elgin was the only steamer employed on the Mutlah, and as the Commander was well acquainted with the channels, he proposed that she should be employed in towing emigrant vessels to sea though classed only as a second rate tug steamer, until Commanders of first class tugs should qualify themselves for the service. The employment of the Lady Elgin as proposed and recommended was accordingly sanctioned.

6. The circumstances under which the Eagle Speed left Canning with emigrants on board and was wrecked in the Mutlah are stated at length in the report of the officers appointed, under Section 100, Act I. of 1859, to make a formal investigation into the loss and abandonment of the ship, and need not be here recapitulated. The statement made in the report is fully borne out by the evidence taken before these officers, and before the Marine Court assembled for the trial of the Pilot.

7. It may here be mentioned that, although the ship went aground on the 21st August and the wreck was abandoned by the Lady Elgin on the 22nd, the first intimation of the loss was received in Calcutta on the 23rd. Prompt measures were immediately taken by the Marine Authorities, the Protector, the Emigration Agent, and the Agents of the Eagle Speed to send assistance to the wreck and to save as many lives as possible. A Marine Court was assembled on the 28th August for the trial of Mr. Vardy, the Pilot in charge of the vessel. He was tried on the following charges:—

First.—That he, being in pilotage charge of the Ship Eagle Speed, outward-bound, did, through unskilfulness, ignorance, negligence, or inattention, suffer that vessel to ground on the Roy-Mutlah Sand near the entrance of the River Mutlah on the 21st day of August 1865, in consequence of which she became a total wreck the following day.

Second.—For not having done his utmost to save the lives of the emigrants after the vessel became a wreck, but for having unnecessarily abandoned the greater number of them to their fate.

On these two charges the Jury unanimously found him guilty, and he was sentenced to be dismissed from the service. This sentence has since been confirmed by the Lieutenant-Governor. The Court sat for five days and the evidence it took of all the persons chiefly concerned with the wreck, or likely to have a knowledge of the circumstances under which it happened, was of great value in the subsequent enquiry.

8. The Master Attendant, in submitting the record of the trial, forwarded certain recommendations of the Jury, which will be presently noticed, and reflected severely on the conduct of Captain Burbank, the Protector, and Mr. Heath, the Master in command of the Lady Elgin, whose Pilot's license he reported that he had suspended. The suspension of Mr. Heath's license was confirmed and Captain Burbank was called upon for an explanation, which he has since furnished.

9. The Lieutenant-Governor was absent from Calcutta when the wreck happened. Immediately on hearing of it he directed an enquiry under the local Merchant Seamen's Act with a view to further proceedings. The Government Solicitor had in the meantime been desired to advise the Government whether there were sufficient grounds for proceeding, either criminally or before the Admiralty Court, against the Captain, officers, or crew of the Eagle Speed, and to institute such proceedings if thought expedient; but on the appointment of a Commission of Enquiry the Government Solicitor deemed it advisable to wait until the report of the Commission should be received.

10. The officers charged with the enquiry under the Merchant Seamen's Act (Mr. Bainbridge, the Magistrate of the 24-Pergunnahs, and Captain Howe, the Deputy Master Attendant,) after a thorough and careful investigation made their report on the 27th September. The report and proceedings were then sent to the Government Solicitor for the Advocate-General's opinion as to the course to be taken, but it was not until the 19th October that Counsel's opinion on the subject could be obtained. In the meanwhile Captain Brinsden, the Commander of the Eagle Speed, had intimated his intention of leaving Calcutta, and as the Commission of Enquiry was of opinion that, though he had grossly erred in judgment, he was not liable to a criminal prosecution, no steps were taken to detain him.

11. The Lieutenant-Governor having attentively considered the proceedings both of the Marine Court and of the Commission of Enquiry, will now record his opinion on the several points raised in connection with this lamentable occurrence.

12. The Committee of Enquiry are of opinion that upon the evidence there is not the smallest doubt of the seaworthiness of the Eagle Speed or of the soundness and efficiency of her boats. In this the Lieutenant-Governor entirely agrees. There appears indeed no reason whatever to doubt that she was thoroughly examined and surveyed, and that, as reported by the Surveyor, she was in every way adapted for the conveyance of emigrants. No blame can therefore rest on Captain Dando, the Surveyor for Lloyds' Agency, or on Captain Boon, the Government Surveyor, who certified as to her fitness for the conveyance of emigrants.

13 Captain Burbank, the Protector of Emigrants, is condemned by the Master Attendant, Captain Reddie, first, for allowing the Eagle Speed to proceed on the voyage when he knew from her Commander that a part of the crew was intoxicated; second, for not going down the river in the Eagle Speed this being the first time coolies were shipped from the Mutlah; and third, for allowing the Lady Elgin to tow the Eagle Speed and for making to the Government a frivolous, if not untrue, excuse for her employment. The Committee also are of opinion that it was Captain Burbank's duty to see that the Commander of the Eagle Speed duly complied with the rule obliging him to muster the crew in the presence of the Pilot, and that he ought to have assured himself of their physical as well as numerical efficiency. On all these points Captain Burbank has submitted a full, but not altogether a satisfactory, explanation. Although there is no express rule requiring the Protector to examine and inspect the officers and crew of an emigrant vessel, it is his duty to see that all rules are complied with. It is therefore to be regretted that he did not see that the officers and crew were duly mustered by the Commander in the presence of the Pilot, and that he did not properly assure himself that they were in all respects efficient. At the same time it must be admitted that the responsibility for seeing that the officers and crew of a vessel are efficient rests primarily with the Pilot, and that, whatever may have been the physical condition of the crew when the vessel left her moorings, neither the loss of the ship nor the subsequent mismanagement and abandonment of the wreck is in any way to be attributed to that cause. According to Dr. O'Sullivan there was nothing the matter with any of them which a few days at sea would not remedy, and with the exception of one or two who required trifling medical treatment, the whole crew was sound, though most of them were recovering from the effects of too much liquor. It is possible that if the Commander and Chief Officer had been in strong health they might have conducted themselves otherwise than they did after the vessel struck, and have done more to save the lives of the emigrants; but the evidence does not satisfy the Lieutenant Governor that the physical condition of the officers, even if it had been more carefully enquired into by Captain Burbank, was such that, in the absence of an express rule, he would have been justified in detaining the ship if the Pilot made no objection on that account. A rule will now be proposed for the sanction of the Government of India making it incumbent on the Protector and the Emigration Agents to assure themselves that the officers and crew of every emigrant vessel are numerically sufficient and sound in health before allowing the emigrants to embark.

The Lieutenant-Governor considers that Captain Burbank exercised a sound judgment in quitting the Eagle Speed after she had left her moorings and in not proceeding in her down the river as he at first intended. His Honor attributes no blame to Captain Burbank for recommending, on the certificate of Mr. Vardy, the employment of the Lady Elgin to tow the Eagle Speed to sea. And in every other respect it is shewn that Captain Burbank and the officers of his department did their duty thoroughly.

14 Of Mr. Marriott, the Emigration Agent, it is considered by the Committee that he was bound to approve the Master, officers, and crew of the Eagle Speed; that he failed in his duty in not seeing that the Commander mustered the officers and crew in the Pilot's presence; that the life buoys provided, though more than sufficient in number, were of bad quality; and that there ought to have been five topases instead of four. He is also blamed by the Master Attendant for not going down the river with the emigrants. On the last point only has Mr. Marriott had an opportunity of offering an explanation, and the Lieutenant-Governor considers it to be satisfactory It was not necessary that either the Protector or the Agent should accompany the emigrants to sea. In regard to the inspection of the officers and crew, it is to be regretted that Mr. Marriott did not see that they were mustered in the presence of the Pilot, but his responsibility in this respect is not different from that of the Protector. He will be called upon to explain why the life buoys provided were not properly covered, and the Protector will be desired to take especial care that the life buoys are always thoroughly serviceable and that the full number of topases are invariably appointed.

15. In regard to Captain Brindsden, the Commander of the Eagle Speed, the Committee are of opinion that although the ship's crew was numerically sufficient, yet their physical condition at starting was such as to imperil the emigrants in the event of an emergency like that which actually happened. The Captain himself had just recovered from illness and was not strong; the Chief Officer was incapacitated from sickness; the Medical Officer was suffering from an attack of pleurisy and the effects of a broken rib; and a large proportion of the crew were only just recovering from the effects of intoxication. Yet Captain Brinsden did not muster his officers and crew in the presence of the Pilot as he was bound to do, and he allowed the Pilot to take the vessel to sea knowing that, in respect to the health and condition of the officers and crew, she was not efficient. For this he is clearly to blame. When the hawser parted, although Captain Brinsden proposed to the Pilot to anchor, he does not appear to have urged his proposal or to have repeated it till the ship struck the sand, and though while the ship was drifting on to the sand, there was no leadsman in the chains and the lead was not kept going; he neither had soundings taken, nor pointed out the necessity for it to the Pilot. When, on the morning of the 22nd, the Commander of the Lady Elgin refused to anchor his steamer under the stern of the ship, and it was resolved to take to the boats, Captain Brinsden displayed the most utter want of coolness and judgment. Instead of assuming the command, directing others, and enforcing order and discipline on those who were bound to obey him, he worked with his own hands, left every one to shift for himself, and the officers and crew to do as they pleased, and then took measures for his own personal safety, leaving the ship when it was certain that she would not sink for many hours and making no protest whatever against her being abandoned. In the opinion of Counsel Captain Brinsden might have been prosecuted in the Admiralty Court under Section 79, Act I. of 1859, though it is suggested that proceedings under Section 81 (superseded by Act XV. of 1863) with a view to cancel his certificate would have been more suitable. But as Captain Brinsden has received his certificate from the Board of Trade, not from the Local Government, the provisions of the last-mentioned Act are inapplicable to his case. The only course that can be taken is to report his conduct to the Board of Trade, with the Lieutenant-Governor's strong recommendation that his certificate be cancelled

16. Of Mr Vardy there is little to be said. He has been dismissed from the service of the Government and will never again be employed as a Pilot. He has no certificate of competency as Master or Mate, and it is not likely that he will be able to obtain one. The finding of the Marine Court condemns him as guilty, not only of unskilfulness and negligence in losing the ship, but of inhumanity in leaving the unfortunate emigrants to their fate. He is shewn to have neglected his duty of seeing that the officers and crew were mustered before the ship sailed, and a further responsibility rests upon him for having certified the Lady Elgin as a first class steamer for the Mutlah and having recommended her employment to tow the Eagle Speed, though he must have known that in the event of bad weather she was unfit for the service. There can be no doubt that to Mr. Vardy is chiefly owing the wreck of the Eagle Speed and the terrible loss of life that ensued. With ordinary prudence he would not have persisted in going to sea in tow of an inefficient steamer; with ordinary skill he might have saved the ship from grounding; and with ordinary judgment and courage he could have run her into a place of safety. In all these respects he lamentably failed, and he also shares the chief blame of prematurely abandoning the ship and leaving the emigrants to their fate. It does not, however, appear that he has laid himself open to any further proceedings.

17. Mr. Hoskins, the Port Master of Canning, deserves every credit for the personal exertions he made to save life, but he also failed to display the judgment and aptitude for command which are expected in an officer of his position. As the Committee justly remark, he worked himself instead of effectively directing the efforts of others. As Port Master, seeing that no one in the ship was fit for the exercise of command under the trying circumstances in which she was placed, he ought undoubtedly to have assumed responsibility and to have required all, both in the ship and on the steamer, to obey his orders and act in concert for the safety of the emigrants. That he should have advocated the abandonment of the Eagle Speed and the return of the Lady Elgin to Port Canning when he thought the ship was sinking with numbers of unfortunate emigrants still clinging to her, is unpardonable. He is therefore suspended from his office, and the Master Attendant will be requested to report, after calling upon him for such explanation as he may have to offer, whether he ought not to be removed from the service.

18. The evidence of Mr. Heath, the Commander of the Lady Elgin, as truly described by the Committee of Enquiry, is marked from first to last with a most discreditable want of judgment, resource, courage, and humanity. He does not appear to hold a certificate of competency either from the Board of Trade or from the Local Government, and he is beyond the reach of the law. His Pilot's license has been taken from him, so that he can no longer command a tug steamer without having a Pilot on board. And here the Lieutenant-Governor cannot forbear expressing his surprise at the conduct of the gentlemen who were passengers on board the Lady Elgin. It is perhaps not to be wondered at that as landsmen they should have acquiesced in the decision of Mr. Hoskins and Mr. Heath to abandon the wreck of the Eagle Speed; but that on the 23rd August, just after the unfortunate emigrants had been left to perish, they should have joined in writing congratulatory letters to Messrs. Hoskins and Heath assuming the letters which were published in the Hurkaru Newspaper of the 28th August bearing their signature* to be real and not forged) and in praising Mr. Heath for qualities the very reverse of those he displayed throughout the previous day, is not to be accounted for on any supposition which can reflect credit on the writers. Their conduct must be left to the judgment of their countrymen.

19. The next person whose conduct is to be noticed is the Chief Officer, Mr. deGrouchy who is excused on the plea of sickness. But the evidence taken before the Committee shews that he was well enough to take measures for his own personal safety, while there is not a sign of his having raised his voice against the abandonment of the wreck. He could offer a reward to the men who took the life-boat from the Lady Elgin to bring away the Captain from the wreck and he was able to command the boat; but though he brought the Captain away he could not wait to fill the boat with emigrants, and when he had brought the Captain on board the steamer in a state of exhaustion, he did not either return to the wreck or make a single attempt to save life, or to induce others to do so. As he holds a certificate from the Board of Trade his conduct will be reported to the Board for such notice as they may think proper to take of it.

20. The second Officer, Mr. Mathews, who also holds a certificate from the Board of Trade, is shewn to have behaved in a most disgraceful manner and to have set an example to the crew of cowardice and disobedience of orders. If he had not left the country the Lieutenant-Governor would have directed the institution of legal proceedings against him under Section 79, Act I. of 1859. As it is, he will be reported to the Board of Trade with a strong recommendation that he be deprived of his certificate.

21. Of the Medical Officer, Dr. Donaldson, it is to be said that he was suffering from illness and was therefore unable to render any assistance; but in the opinion of the Committee, in which the Lieutenant-Governor entirely agrees, he was at least bound to make a formal and strenuous protest against the abandonment of the coolies, who were in an especial manner under his charge. The Lieutenant-Governor has already directed that he shall not be again employed as Medical Officer in charge of emigrants, and from this order His Honor finds no ground, in these proceedings, to recede.

22. The Boatswain, Thomas Lockart, is said by the Commander of the Eagle Speed to have jumped over board contrary to express orders and to have saved his own life by swimming to the steamer.

There can be no doubt that this man has rendered himself liable to punishment under Section 79 of the local Act; but as it would be necessary to charge a specific act against him, and as no such charge could be proved without the evidence of the Commander, a prosecution would, in all probability, be unsuccessful. Moreover, supposing that a conviction could be obtained, there would be no moral advantage in bringing to legal punishment a man of the boatswain's rank when his superiors, who are really far more culpable, have escaped it. His conduct and that of the seamen who so shamefully disgraced the name and character of British sailors must be left to the reprobation of their countrymen. From these last must be excepted the two able seamen, William Maynard and William Wilson, and the four topasses, Thomas Mills, Moses Smith, John Allsum, and W. Smith, who alone did their duty under very difficult and trying circumstances.

23. The conduct of the several persons implicated having been considered, it remains to deal with the recommendations of a general nature presented by the Jurors on the trial of the Pilot and by the Committee.

24. It is one of the duties of a Pilot on going on board an outward vessel, whether in the Hooghly or in the Mutlah, to satisfy himself that the officers and crew are numerically sufficient, and physically capable, of performing their duty and to refuse to move the vessel until the deficiency be supplied. The Master Attendant will be desired to enforce a strict observance of this duty and to report whether any further rule is necessary for the purpose.

25. The employment of any but first class tugs to tow emigrant ships to sea is already absolutely prohibited. It was only on the representation of the Pilot, that the Lady Elgin was, in his opinion, a first class tug for the Mutlah and that her Commander was specially acquainted with the channels, and on the special recommendation of the Protector, that her employment on this duty was authorised.

26. The Master Attendant will be desired to report whether any, and what, further regulation is required to prevent tug steamers proceeding to sea either with outward-bound vessels in tow, or in search of vessels inward-bound, without a sufficient supply of coal

27. The Master Attendant will also report on the question of placing an inner light at the mouth of the Mutlah and upon the other points connected with the navigation of that river, adverted to in paragraph 53 of the Committee's report. The papers enclosed in Captain Reddie's letter No. 2596, dated the 22nd September last, shew that many of the buoys are out of repair and the beacons blown away. This is attributed to the impossibility of thoroughly overhauling them last season owing to the press of work thrown on the department by the cyclone of October 1864; and though the River Surveyor considers that, with the exception of an additional second class buoy in the western channel, the channels of the Mutlah are well and sufficiently buoyed for navigation, it is clear that the complete examination and repair of the buoys is urgently required and must be undertaken at once.

28. The Director of Telegraphs has reported on the construction of a line of telegraph from Canning to the southernmost point of Halliday Island, and the Government of India has been requested to sanction its construction so that the work may be commenced early this season.

29. On the whole it appears that though occasion has been properly taken from the wreck of the Eagle Speed, and the lamentable loss of life that has occurred, to bring to notice all that, on enquiry, appears faulty in the arrangements either in the dispatch of emigrants, or for the safety of vessels navigating the Mutlah, with a view to the application of immediate and effective remedies, yet nothing can be more certain than that the calamity which has happened is in no way to be attributed to any such defects, and that but for the imprudence and unskilfulness of the Pilot, the want of judgment and presence of mind on the part of the Commander of the Eagle Speed, and the shameful misconduct of the Master of the Lady Elgin, the ship would in the first place not have been put in a position of danger, having been so placed she might easily have been extricated, while, when once it became apparent that she was a wreck, every person on board might certainly have been saved. The Lady Elgin may have been, and no doubt was, unfit to tow the Eagle Speed to sea against wind and tide in such weather as threatened when she left Halliday Island, but no one knew better than the Pilot himself the capabilities of the steamer for whose fitness he had vouched, and it was clearly his duty, in the first instance, to have detained the ship at Halliday Island till the weather improved, and afterwards when the hawser parted either to have anchored on the spot or to have returned to his former anchorage. He was at no time uncertain of his position, and if there had been an upper light in the river, or if the condition of all the buoys had been perfect, the result would have been the same. It is not to the absence of a light or to any imperfection of the buoyage that the loss of the ship can be traced. A muster of the officers and crew at Canning might have led to objections being made to some of them on account of their physical condition; but it is proved that they were numerically sufficient and that the loss of the ship is in no way owing to their physical condition, while it seems equally certain that, even if all had been in a state of perfect health and strength, as indeed nearly all of them were, the want of judgment, decision, and self-possession in the Commander, and the absence of discipline and ordinary courage among the majority of the officers and crew, would have led to the confusion on board the Eagle Speed, the abandonment of the ship, and the sacrifice of helpless lives just as they actually occurred. Above all, the shameful misconduct of the Master of the Lady Elgin in neglecting, or rather refusing to anchor his steamer astern of the ship, and in afterwards, for utterly insufficient reasons, prematurely abandoning the wreck, must be regarded as the real cause of all the lamentable loss of life that occurred. A telegraph might have brought earlier help to the few who may have left the wreck on spars and other floating objects before and after she was abandoned; but to the mass of those who were left on the wreck when the steamer abandoned it, her departure was the immediate and certain cause of destruction. This flagrant act of moral delinquency is aggravated by the fact that the steamer, after going in the direction of the floating light to ascertain her position, passed the wreck on her way back at a distance of five miles without going near her to see if any further assistance could be rendered to the perishing emigrants of whom hundreds were still left on board. It is to be hoped that compunction was felt at least by some on board the Lady Elgin when on the following morning she overtook the ship's boat in which the topases had succeeded in saving thirty-four lives besides their own after the wreck had been abandoned.

Government of Bengal.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 2nd December 1865, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon after the 6th of January 1866:—

A Bill to amend certain provisions of Act XIII of 1856 (for regulating the Police of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay) and Act XLVIII of 1860 (to consolidate and amend the Law relating to Gambling).

Preamble.

WHEREAS the Magistrates of the Town of Calcutta are at present authorised to punish with whipping only adult male offenders under Section 27, and juvenile male offenders under Clause 2 Section 26, of the said Act XIII of 1856, and it is expedient that other offenders also, in cases summarily cognizable by such Magistrates, should be rendered liable to the same punishment, and that the mode of inflicting such punishment should be duly regulated; and whereas it has been found expedient to extend the control now vested by law in the Commissioner of Police for the Town of Calcutta, over places of public resort and entertainment, wherein provisions, liquors, or refreshments are sold or consumed: It is enacted as follows:—

Parts of Acts XIII of 1856 and XLVIII of 1860 repealed.

I. Clause 2 Section 26 of the said Act XIII of 1856, and Sections 11, 12, and 13 of the said Act XLVIII of 1860, so far as they relate to the Town of Calcutta, are hereby repealed; and the following Sections shall be read with, and taken as part of, the said Act XIII of 1856.

In what cases whipping may be awarded in lieu of, or in addition to, other punishment.

II. If any male person shall be convicted of an offence summarily punishable with imprisonment under the provisions of the said Acts XIII of 1856 and XLVIII of 1860, he may be punished with whipping in lieu of any punishment to which he may, for such offence, be liable under any of the provisions of the said Act; and if any such person as aforesaid, having been previously convicted of any one of the offences hereinbefore specified, shall again be convicted of the same offence, he may be punished with whipping in lieu of, or in addition to, any other punishment to which he may for such offence be liable.

Mode of executing a sentence of whipping.

III. In the case of an adult male, the punishment of whipping shall be inflicted with such instrument, in such mode, and on such part of the person as the Local Government shall direct, and in the case of a juvenile offender, it shall be inflicted in the way of school discipline with a light rattan. In no case, if the cat-of-nine-tails be the instrument employed, shall the punishment of whipping exceed one hundred and fifty lashes, or if a rattan be employed, shall the punishment exceed thirty stripes. The punishment shall be inflicted in the presence of the Magistrate who shall have passed the sentence, or of any Officer of the grade of Superintendent of Police whom the said Magistrate may, by an order in writing, appoint to carry out the execution of such sentence, and also, unless the Magistrate shall otherwise order, in the presence of a Medical Officer.

Sentence not to be executed if offender be not in a fit state of health.

IV. No sentence of whipping shall be carried into execution unless a Medical Officer, if present, shall certify, or unless it shall appear to the Magistrate who shall have passed such sentence, that the offender is in a fit state of health to undergo the punishment; and if, during the execution of a sentence of whipping, a Medical Officer shall certify, or if it shall appear to such other Officer as aforesaid, that the offender is not in a fit state of health to undergo the remainder of the punishment, execution shall be stayed. No sentence of whipping shall be executed by instalments.

Nor by instalments.

Procedure if sentence be not executed.

V. In any case in which, under the last preceding Section of this Act, no part of a sentence of whipping is carried into execution, the offender shall be kept in custody for any period not exceeding twenty-four hours, to enable the Court which passed the sentence to revise it, and the said Court may, at its discretion, either order the discharge of the offender, or sentence him, in lieu of whipping, to imprisonment for any period, and such period may be in addition to any other punishment to which he may have been sentenced for the same offence. Provided that the whole period of imprisonment shall not exceed that to which the offender is liable under the provisions of the Section under which he may have been convicted, and of Section II of this Act.

Penalty for keeping a Hotel, &c., without a license.

VI. Whoever in the Town of Calcutta has or keeps any Hotel, Tavern, Punch house, Ale-house, Arrack or Toddy-shop, or place for the sale or consumption of Ganja, Chundoo, or other preparation of Opium, Hemp, or other intoxicating drug, plant, or substance, or any Eating-house, Lodging-house, or other place of public resort and entertainment, wherein provisions, liquors, or refreshments are sold or consumed (whether the same be kept or retailed therein or procured elsewhere) without a license to be obtained in the manner hereinafter mentioned, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty Rupees for every day that the said house or place of entertainment is kept open, or the sale of provisions, liquors, or refreshments is continued, without the necessary license. Provided that nothing in this Act shall apply to the sale in reasonable quantities of any drug, plant, or substance in any Chemist's or Druggist's shop for medicinal purposes only.

Excise license not to be granted without Certificate of Commissioner of Police.

VII. No license shall be granted under the provisions of Act XI of 1849 to any person who may keep, or desire to keep, any such house or place of public resort and entertainment as aforesaid in any locality within the Town of Calcutta, unless such person shall produce a Certificate from the Commissioner of Police stating that a license may be granted to him for the sale of spirituous liquors or intoxicating drugs, as the case may be, within such locality without risk or detriment to the preservation of peace and good order in the Town, and containing a full statement of such conditions as may have been imposed and shall have remained in force under the provisions hereinafter contained at the date when such license shall be granted. No license so granted shall be renewable without a fresh Certificate as aforesaid previously obtained from the Commissioner of Police, subject to the order and control of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

Duration and conditions of license.

VIII. It shall be competent to the Commissioner of Police, subject to the direction and control of the said Lieutenant-Governor, to limit, in such Certificate as aforesaid, the period for which the license may be granted, and also to fix such conditions as he may deem necessary for securing the good behaviour of the keepers of the houses and places of entertainment as aforesaid and for the prevention of drunkenness and disorder among the persons frequenting or using the same, and from time to time to vary such conditions subject to such direction and control as aforesaid; and no license granted under the said Act XI of 1849 shall be valid unless it shall contain such conditions as shall have been imposed and shall remain in force for the time being under this Section.

Penalty for a breach of any condition of a license.

IX. Any person committing a breach of any of the conditions of a license granted under the last preceding Section shall not only be liable to the forfeiture of his license, at the discretion of the Commissioner of Police, but shall also, on conviction before a Magistrate, be punishable by a fine not exceeding one hundred Rupees; and such fine shall be recovered from the person licensed, notwithstanding that such breach may have been owing to the default or carelessness of the servant or other person in charge of the shop or place of sale.

Fee for Certificate.

X. For every Certificate so issued by the Commissioner of Police under this Act there shall be levied a fee of one Rupee.

Penalty for driving a cart with ungreased wheels.

XI. Whoever by driving a hackery or cart with insufficiently greased wheels within the limits defined under the provisions of Section 19 of Act XLVIII. of 1860, shall create a noise which is reasonably calculated to cause annoyance to persons frequenting or residing near the thoroughfare in which such hackery or cart is driven, shall be liable on conviction to the penalty prescribed by the aforesaid Section.

Act to be read as part of Act XIII of 1856.

XII. This Act shall be read with, and taken as part of, the said Act XIII of 1856.

Statement of Objects And Reasons.

By Clause 2, Section 26 of Act XIII of 1856 Magistrates of Police for the Town of Calcutta are vested with the power of sentencing male offenders whose youth may seem to render it advisable, to corporal punishment, instead of imprisonment, whenever they be convicted of offences summ[illegible] imprisonment under that the Magistrates may, tion 27 of the same Act, o all male offenders but lations as to the mode in [illegible]entence of corporal punishment is to be executed, and provides no precautionary measures for testing the convict's physical condition and fitness to undergo this form of punishment.

Act VI of 1864, which gives a much wider jurisdiction in regard to the infliction of corporal punishment, and contains ample security in its provisions for the humane execution of such sentences, has reference only to cases punishable under the Penal Code; whilst the Magistrates of the Police for the Town of Calcutta act exclusively within the jurisdiction vested in them by Act XIII of 1856.

By Section 12 of Act XLVIII of 1860 the Commissioner of Police is required to grant a license to any keeper of a hotel, tavern, shop, or place used for the sale or consumption of spirituous liquors or intoxicating drugs, subject to such conditions as the Commissioner, acting under the general control and orders of the local Government, may see fit to impose with the object of preserving the peace and good order of the Town of Calcutta.

Every vendor of spirituous liquors and intoxicating drugs by retail must also have obtained a license from the Excise Officers under the provisions of Act XI of 1849.

In this state of the law it has been found that the degree of control vested in the Commissioner of Police over the vendors of spirituous liquors &c, within the Town of Calcutta is insufficient for the due maintenance of order in the Town, and it is deemed expedient to amend the law so as to give that Officer full power to put his veto on the grant of a license, or the opening of a shop for the sale of liquors, &c., where the grant of such license, or the establishment of such shop or place for the sale of liquors, may be deemed detrimental to the preservation of the peace of the Town.

The object of the present Bill is to extend the power now exercised by the Magistrates of Police for the Town of Calcutta in the infliction of corporal punishment, and to provide for the humane and proper execution of such sentences; and also to strengthen the hands of the Commissioner of Police for the preservation of the peace of the Town, by providing that no license for the sale of spirituous liquors, &c., shall be granted without his sanction previously obtained in the form of a Certificate to the effect that such license may be granted.

F. R. COCKERELL,

The 25th November 1865.

G. S. FAGAN,

Asst. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal,
Legislative Department.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 2nd December 1865, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon after the 6th of January 1866 :—

A Bill to amend certain provisions of Regulation VI. of 1819 (for rescinding Regulation XIX., 1816, and for enacting other provisions in lieu thereof.)

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to define more exactly the limits within which persons are prohibited from employing a ferry-boat plying for hire in the vicinity of a public Ferry, and also to provide some penalty for the wilful disregard of such prohibition; It is enacted as follows :—

Section 6, Regulation VI., 1819, repealed.

I. Section 6 of Regulation VI. of 1819 of the Bengal Code, so far as it relates to the provinces under the control of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, is hereby repealed.

Exclusive right to public Ferries vested in Government, and the employment of private Ferries in the vicinity prohibited.

II. Every Ferry which has been declared public under the provisions of the said Regulation VI. of 1819 shall belong exclusively to Government, and no person shall, except with the sanction of the Magistrate of the District or other Officer duly empowered to authorise such employment, be allowed to employ a ferry-boat plying for hire, for the purpose of crossing the same river or canal, within a distance of two miles from the place where the public Ferry is established.

Penalty for disregarding injunction of preceding Section.

III. Any person who wilfully acts in disregard of this injunction shall be deemed to have been guilty of the offence of criminal trespass, and shall be liable to the punishment provided by Section 447 of the Penal Code.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

AN exclusive property in public Ferries is vested in Government by Section 6 of Regulation VI. of 1819, and the Magistrate is empowered thereby to prohibit the employment of any ferry-boat plying for hire at or in their immediate vicinity without his previous sanction; but the law provides no penalty for any breach of this prohibitory order.

Under the law as it stood previous to the introduction of the Penal Code, any person guilty of wilful disregard of the Magistrate's injunction was held to be punishable for a misdemeanor, and, on the Penal Code coming into operation, persons so infringing the prohibitory order of the Magistrate were treated as liable to the penalties prescribed by its Section 188.

In the High Court's decision (24th September 1862) in the case of Ramnath Chowdhuree, it was ruled that the "injury" referred to in the Section before-mentioned implied injury to the person and not to the property. The result of this judgment is, therefore, that the only remedy provided by law against an infringement of the Magistrate's order disallowing the establishment of ferry-boats plying for hire in the immediate vicinity of a public Ferry lies in an action, against the person acting in defiance of such order, in the Civil Court.

The object of the present Bill is to define with more precision the limits within which the Magistrate's prohibitory order disallowing the employment of ferry-boats plying for hire without his sanction is to have effect; and to declare the infringement of such order to be a criminal offence, and the offender liable to the penalties prescribed for criminal trespass under Section 447 of the Penal Code.

3. The Committee shall, as soon as possible after its appointment, enter in this Register the name of every male person having the interest in the Temple, Mosque, or Establishment described in Section 15 of Act XX. of 1863, viz., of every male person "having a right of attendance or "having been in the habit of attending at the "performance of the worship or service of the "Mosque, Temple, or Religious Establishment, "or of partaking in the benefit of any distribu-"tion of alms, with his residence and the date of "the entry of his name in the Register."

Question of doubt as to entry or removal of names how to be decided.

4. If any doubt arises as to the eligibility of any individual to be included in the Register thus prescribed, or if any person whose name is not spontaneously entered in the Register by the Committee shall claim to have his name so entered, or if there be doubt as to whether the name of any person shall be removed from the Register, the question whether in each case the name shall be entered or not, or removed or not, shall be decided by the votes of the majority of the Committee.

Name of person acquiring an interest to be immediately entered, and Register to be revised every six months.

5. The Committee shall be bound to enter in this Register the name and residence of any person as soon as he acquires the interest defined in Rule 3, together with the date of the entry, and the Register shall be revised by the Committee at least once in every six months, in order to ascertain that it is correctly kept up, and that the name of no person not interested, as defined in Rule 3, is kept on the Register.

No name to be registered or removed during vacancy in the Committee.

6. No name is to be entered on the Register or removed from it during the existence of any vacancy among the Members of the Committee.

Rights of those registered.

7. The persons whose names are entered in the Register thus prescribed are to be accepted as the persons interested in the maintenance of the Mosque, Temple, or Religious Establishment, as described in Section 8 of Act XX. of 1863, and entitled therefore to vote at the election of any new Member of the Committee under Section 10 of Act XX. of 1863.

Day of election how to be notified.

8. Immediately upon the occurrence of a vacancy among the Members of the Committee, the remaining Members shall fix an early convenient day for the election of a new Member to fill the vacancy, giving notice thereof with all possible publicity, by beat of drum, and by a written proclamation suspended at the door of the Mosque, Temple, or Religious Establishment.

Election to be held publicly in the presence of candidates and of Members of the Committee.

9. The election shall be held upon the day thus notified in the most public manner possible, all candidates being invited to be present. The Members of the Committee are to be, one or more of them, present at the election throughout the day.

Election to be by poll. Rule for its conduct.

10. The election shall be by poll. A separate list shall be taken of the votes recorded for each candidate for the vacancy; such of the electors as are able to write shall sign their own names in the list to which they wish their names to be appended, and the Committee shall cause to be recorded the names of those electors who cannot write in the list to which they wish their names attached.

Hours of election.

11. The lists will be kept open on the day of election from sunrise to 10 A. M. and from 1 P. M. to sunset, and any elector shall be entitled to have his vote recorded during those hours. At 10 A. M.,

Precaution for integrity of lists.

and again at sunset, the Member or Members of the Committee present, and likewise any of the candidates present, shall affix their signature immediately below the name of the last elector whose vote is recorded on each of the lists.

Declaration of the result of the election.

12. As soon as the sun sets, the remaining Members of the Committee shall reckon up the votes taken and declare the candidate who has received the most votes to be duly elected to fill the vacancy in the Committee.

Poll lists how to be kept.

13. The poll lists shall be carefully kept and deposited among the records of the Temple, Mosque, or Religious Establishment, and shall be open to public inspection in the same manner as the Register of Electors.

THE following Rules are published for general information :—

Rules under Section 4, Act VI. (B. C.) of 1864, entitled an Act to provide for the periodical inspection of Steam Boilers and Prime Movers attached thereto in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta.

APPOINTMENT OF THE MEMBERS OF THE COMMISSION AND DUTIES OF INSPECTORS.

I.—There shall be opened, in some convenient part of the Town, an Office for the Commissioners for the inspection of boilers.

II.—A Boiler Commission shall be appointed for Calcutta, to consist of Commissioners as follows :—

1. The Commissioner of Police.
2. The Mint Master.
3. Such Engineers or Owners or Managers of Mills and Foundries as may be nominated Members of the Commission by the Government of Bengal.

III.—There shall be an Engineer Inspector, who shall also be Secretary to the Commission, with such Assistants as shall from time to time be found necessary.

IV.—The Commission shall meet periodically (at least once a month) to arrange for the inspection of boilers; to receive and consider the reports of the Engineer; to control the proceedings of the Engineer; and to settle all disputes between the Engineer and Boiler-owners, as these may arise, and to act as final referee in all cases.

V.—The Engineer shall attend at the Office and keep such records as the Commission may from time to time direct.

VI.—The Engineer shall keep in Form B1, B2, an index register and dimension sheet, in the order authorised by he Commissioners, of all boilers within the limits of the Act.

VII.—The Engineer shall inspect these boilers in the regular order laid down in this list except any deviation from this order be specially sanctioned by the Commissioners.

VIII.—There shall be three kinds of inspection of boilers :—

A. A thorough examination, once every twelve months, inside and outside, to be made by the Engineer in person, for which purpose the boilers must be emptied, cool, and clean and flues swept, and if required by the Engineer, any parts or settings removed for a complete examination of the boiler and machinery in every part.

B. An ordinary examination, once every four months, of a boiler while on work.

C. A special examination, in either Form A or B, at the request of the owner.

IX. The Engineer shall annually inspect every boiler on his list before he grants a certificate or permission to work the boiler.

This examination (A thorough) is to be inside and out. The Engineer shall give one week's notice (as per Form C.) of every such intended examination, (A thorough,) and if after that notice the boilers are not cool, clean, and ready for inspection on the date named, the Engineer shall prohibit the boilers from working and shall report the case to the Commissioners.

Further, if any request be made to remove fittings or setting, and such be not complied with, the Engineer shall in like manner stop the working of the boilers.

X.—The Engineer shall submit to the Commissioners his report on every boiler inspected in (Form D1,) which shall be recorded in the Office, and a report (Form D2) sent to the owner of the boiler, and the certificate granted in Form E.

XI.—The Engineer or his Assistants shall examine (B, ordinary) every boiler and apparatus once every four months, submitting a report to the Commissioners in Form D, on which the Certificate will be endorsed by the Engineer.

These examinations will be conducted while the boiler is at work, and without giving any notice to the owner.

XII.—The Engineer shall be provided with boiler testing pump, indicator, and guages and shall, under the following rules, test and indicate boilers :—

a. Whenever any owner of a boiler may wish to have a boiler tested, or to have his engine indicated, if he make application to the Commissioners, the Engineer shall test the boiler or indicate the engines on payment of the fees laid down.

b. These reports and diagrams, Form F,* shall be sent in original to boiler-owners and copy filed in Office.

* Form of Diagrams not yet ready.

XIII.—The Engineer shall report weekly or monthly to the Commissioners as per Form H, and the Assistant Inspector shall report daily to the Engineer in Form G.

Table of Fees payable for Certificates granted under the Acts

The following scale of fees shall for the present be charged :—

	Rs.
A. Thorough examination of boiler, with certificate	30 for one boiler. 50 for two. 10 for each additional.
B. Ordinary examination of boiler with endorsement of certificate ...	10
C. Special examination, if thorough ...	30
,, if ordinary ...	10
For testing any boiler ...	20	For each.
For every indication, top and bottom, each cylinder ...	5

No. 1520A. of 1865.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

Dated the 1st May 1865.

Notification.—The following Tea plantations and factories in Kumaon and the Deyrah Dhoon are offered for sale at the upset prices specified :—

1. Hawul Bagh in Kumaon, forty-six miles from the plains, and six miles from Almorah. The plantations (including the two small nurseries, viz., Kupeena and Lutchmaissur, in the immediate neighbourhood of Almorah) consist of about one hundred acres of land planted with Tea. At a short distance from the plantations there is a Cheer (Pinus longifolia) forest of about 100 acres in extent, in which the purchaser will have the right to cut timber, which is well fitted for making Tea chests, firewood, &c.

There are on the estate three large slated houses; numerous slated offices; a large slated factory; two large slated godowns; a slated barrack for Chinese Tea manufacturers; and the stock and block of the factory are complete for Tea operations and in working order.

2. Ayar Toli in Kuttyoor, Kumaon, distant about 80 miles from the plains, and about 40 miles from Almorah.

There are on the estate a slated factory and a large slated godown; slated barracks for Chinese Tea manufacturers, &c., and the stock and block of the factory are complete for the Tea operations and in working order.

This plantation consists of about 1,300 acres of land, of which about 360 acres are planted with Tea, two hundred acres of cleared land fitted for Tea-planting, and the remainder covered with pines, &c., forests, the timber of which is well adapted for making Tea chests, &c.

The yield of the two estates this season was lbs. 20,000 of Tea and 1,650 maunds of seeds.

These two estates will be sold in one lot in fee-simple, free of all demands, on account of Land Revenue, exclusive of existing local cesses, such as Road, Educational, and Postal cesses, or such as may be hereafter legally imposed, at an upset price of Rupees 2,00,000 (two lacs of Rupees.)

A small portion of the plantation of Ayar Toli named Bincolie, belonging to the temple of Nagnath, will bear an annual rental of Rupees 24 (twenty-four Rupees) per annum.

This land is leased in perpetuity from the temple of Nagnath on this rental.

3. Kowlaghir in the Deyrah Dhoon, distant two miles to the west of the Town of Deyrah. It consists of about 430 acres of land, of which about 380 acres are under cultivation with Tea, and the remainder adapted for Tea cultivation.

Through the property a branch of the Beejapore canal runs. At a short distance and to the south of the plantation there is a Forest of Syne, Jamune, &c., consisting of about 500 (five hundred) acres, in which the purchaser will have the right to cut timber for Tea chests, firewood, charcoal, &c. The timber is well fitted for making Tea chests.

There are on the estate three bungalows; an extensive pucka Tea factory; two large pucka godowns; a barrack for Chinese Tea manufacturers, &c., and the stock and block of the factory are complete and in full working order.

The yield this season was lbs. 25,099 of Tea, and 1,050 maunds of seeds.

This estate will be sold in fee-simple free of all demands on account of Land Revenue, exclusive of existing local cesses for roads, &c., or such as may hereafter be legally imposed, at an upset price of Rupees 2,00,000 (two lacs of Rupees.) The plantations will be transferred to the purchasers on the 1st April 1866, on or before which date the purchase money must be paid at the General Treasury, Calcutta.

Tenders will be received by William Jameson, Esquire, Superintendent, Botanical Gardens, North-Western Provinces, Saharunpore, until 1st March 1866, if the factories, &c., be not previously sold by private sale, and the highest offer above the upset price will be accepted.

All tenders must be made in writing.

Every tender should be superscribed—"Tender for Tea plantation," and will be registered by the Superintendent of the Botanical Gardens on the date of receipt in a book, which he will keep, together with the tenders, in his own custody under lock and key.

The highest registered tender at the time being for any lot will be communicated by the Superintendent to any enquirers up to the time of sale, but the names of the parties who have tendered shall in no case be disclosed.

The register of tenders will be examined at noon, on the 1st March 1866, by a Committee consisting of the Superintendent, Botanical Gardens, the Judge, and the Collector of Saharunpore, at the Office of the Superintendent, and in the presence of all parties who may attend; and the amount of the highest tender for each lot, or, it there be more than one tender of equal amount, the number and amount of such tenders, but not the names of the parties tendering, will be publicly declared, and the highest tender, in writing, above the upset price at 4 P. M., will be accepted on the part of Government by the Committee.

On the tender being accepted by the Committee the purchaser must deposit five per cent. of the purchase money, which will be forfeited if the amount of the purchase money be not paid in full on the date specified.

Agents must be supplied by their principals with sufficient Powers-of-Attorney.

The above particulars are believed, in good faith, to be correct, but intending purchasers must make their own enquiries, as no reclamation can be listened to after sale.

References may be made to W. Jameson, Esquire, Superintendent, Government Botanical Gardens, Saharunpore.

By Order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces,

R. SIMSON,
Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces.

4th. Each lot shall contain five Chests.

5th. A Promissory Note for a sum, calculated according to the scale noted in the margin, shall be taken as a deposit on each lot from the Purchaser in the Sale Room, and before the lot is registered in the Sale Book, and all such Promissory Notes shall be redeemed on the part of the Purchasers at this Office by Bank of Bengal Receipts, or by substitution of other Public Securities of the Bengal Government on or before 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the fifth day after the sale, or on the other hand, failing such redemption by the time aforesaid, then the lot or lots for which no Bank of Bengal Receipts, or deposit of other Public Securities as aforesaid shall have been delivered in, shall be re-sold at such time or times and under such conditions of re-sale as the Board of Revenue shall see fit, and all losses and expenses, whatsoever, attending such re-sale shall be borne and paid by the defaulters, whilst any profit accruing from such re-sale shall be forfeited to Government.

	Deposit.
When the amount bid is less than Rs. 1,200 per Chest	Rs. 200 per Chest.
On bids of Rs 1,200 but less than Rs. 1,600	„ 300 „
On bids of Rs. 1,600 but less than Rs. 2,000	„ 400 „
and so on, Rs 100 being added to the deposit for every additional Rs. 400 bid.

6. The Promissory Notes taken on the day of sale under the last mentioned condition, if remaining unredeemed at 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be placed in the hands of the Solicitor to the Government for realization in such manner as to him shall seem fit.

7. No tender of money, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Public Securities on account of Opium, upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be afterwards accepted.

8. The Opium now advertised for sale shall be paid for within fifteen clear days from the day of sale, and in case any lots of such Opium shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the Cash Deposit made under the fifth condition, or any Public Securities that may have been deposited on account of such lots or Chests, shall be forfeited, and the Opium shall be disposed of on account of Government at such time, and in such manner, as the Board of Revenue shall think fit, and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the Opium was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale.

9. Purchasers taking out Certificates or Orders for the delivery of Opium after making full payment as above prescribed, shall have the option of naming the number of lots of their purchase, which they may desire to be included in each Certificate or Order, and it is to be clearly understood that the Certificates or Orders so taken out shall be considered final, and not afterwards changeable for other Certificates or Orders authorizing the delivery of single lots or of a different number of lots or Chests, whether more or less than the number of lots or Chests originally required to be included in each Certificate or Order.

10. No deposit of Public Securities under the fifth of the present condition will be received in this Office, except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the Sale Book, or his authorized Agent. The Receipt for deposit of Public Securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the Securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

11. The Officer superintending the sale on the part of the Board of Revenue is empowered to reject, at his discretion, the bid of any individual unless such individual shall, on demand, tender at the time a deposit either in Government of India Notes, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Government Securities a sum equal to the amount, for which a Promissory Note would otherwise be taken under the fifth of these conditions.

12. With a view to prevent fictitious bidings designed to obstruct the sale, it is hereby notified that the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall be competent, at any time during the sale, to withdraw any unsold lot and immediately to put it up again for sale at a maximum upset price, diminishing the same gradually until a bid is obtained, and the first bonâ fide bidder for a lot after it has been offered for sale in the mode here described, shall be held and declared to be the purchaser of the said lot, and the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall also be competent to dispose in the same manner of as many of the subsequent lots as he may think proper, provided always that no lot shall be sold below the minimum price of 800 Rupees specified in the second of these conditions.

13. The purchaser of any lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession at the same price and under the same conditions any number of lots of the same Agency Opium not exceeding altogether twenty-five lots; provided always that there remain a sufficient number of lots of the Opium to complete the said twenty-five.

14. In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the Opium included in this Notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall and may be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

15. The following papers will be exhibited for inspection on the day of sale, or may be seen previously to that date by application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue:—

No. 1.—Certificate of the Opium advertized for sale.

No. 2.—Report of the examination of such Opium.

16. The Public are hereby informed that, in providing the investment of the Behar and Benares Opium for the year 1864-65, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years, to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the Cakes, and to have the due proportion of Opium put into each Cake. An account of the weight of the drug when packed at Behar and Benares, and a Statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken for the purpose of comparison from the dispatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue.

17. Any further information respecting the weight or quality of the Opium advertized for sale that may be desired by parties connected with the trade will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on application at the Office of the Board of Revenue, but, in accordance with established usage, under no circumstances will the Board entertain or recognize any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of Opium, or adulteration of the drug which may be preferred on reference to chests after the sale and delivery of the Opium for shipment.

18. It is hereby further notified that, under the 6th Article of the Convention between Great Britain and France, dated the 7th March 1815, quoted below, the Agents in India of the French Government, or persons duly appointed by them, are entitled to demand that, out of the quantities of Behar and Benares Opium declared as above for sale at the twelve sales of the year 1866, there shall be delivered to them at the average of the particular sale or sales to which the Opium so applied for may belong, a quantity not exceeding in the aggregate 300 chests, and the Agents of the French Government must make requisition specifying the quantity of Opium required by them at any particular sale within thirty days from the advertisement of such intended sale, provided, however, that the Agents of the French Government may make such requisition for the whole quantity within thirty days from the publication of this Notification. If the Agents of the French Government shall not make the requisition for Opium within the time above-mentioned the entire quantity of about 40,000 Chests of Behar and Benares, as above estimated, will be brought to sale in the usual manner, and if they shall make application for quantity of Opium to be delivered to them out of the quantity advertised for sale at each or any of the twelve sales above-mentioned, but shall not pay for it within the prescribed period of payment, the Government of Bengal reserves to itself the right of disposing of the Opium which the French authorities may so fail to pay for, either by increasing the quantity reserved at the sale next ensuing the date of payment, or by selling it at a sale to be held expressly for the purpose.

Article of the Convention above referred to.—

Article 6th.—"With regard to the Trade in "Opium, it is agreed between the high contracting parties that each of the periodical sales of "that article, there shall be reserved for the "French Government, and delivered upon requisition duly made by the Agents of His Most "Christian Majesty, or by the persons duly "appointed by them, the number of Chests so "applied for, provided that such supply shall not "exceed three hundred Chests in each year, and "the price for the same shall be determined by "the average rate at which Opium shall have "been sold at every such periodical sale, it being "understood that, if the quantity of Opium "applied for at any one time shall not be taken "on account of the French Government by the "Agents of His Most Christian Majesty within "the usual period of delivery, the quantity so "applied for shall nevertheless be considered as so "much in reduction of the three hundred Chests "herein before-mentioned. The requisitions for "Opium as aforesaid are to be addressed to the "Governor General at Calcutta within thirty "days after notice of the intended sales shall "have been published in the Government Gazette."

Port Canning Municipality.

NOTICE TO LOT-HOLDERS.

THE Municipal Commissioners give notice that all lots upon which the sum stipulated in the lease shall not have been expended either in raising such lots or in the erection of buildings thereon before the 31st December 1865 will be resumed.

Lots which have been, or may be, redeemed in freehold prior to the above date, are of course exempted from resumption.

Freehold titles can only be obtained by exchanging Port Canning Municipal Debentures at the rate of 600 Rupees Debentures for each beegah of land.

The lessee of two or more lots will be allowed the option of spending on any one lot the aggregate amount required under the terms of the leases to be expended on each separate lot.

By Order of the Commissioners,

THOMAS F. KILBY,
Secretary.

14, STRAND;
Calcutta,
The 27th July 1865.

Notice

Is hereby given that the under-mentioned Lot, consisting of 13,278 Acres, described as Nullee and Saplenja Chucks, according to a survey made by Lieutenant W. J. Stewart, Officiating Revenue Surveyor, in 1862-63, situated in the Backergunge portion of the Soonderbuns, and bounded as shewn at the foot of this Notice, having been applied for under the Rules for the sale of unassessed Waste Lands in the Lower Provinces of Bengal, will be put up to sale by auction to the highest bidder above the upset price of two Rupees and eight annas per Acre on the waste portion, estimated at 12,605 Acres, and Rupees 1,734-12-0 on the assessed portion measuring 673 Acres, as specified below, on the 2nd day of February 1866, at the Office of the Commissioner in the Soonderbuns at Allipore, should no objection be preferred so as to render it necessary to defer the sale under the provisions of Act XXIII. of 1863. The sale will be made in the manner, and subject to the conditions prescribed by the Rules above cited, and to the provisions of Act XXIII. of 1863.

BOUNDARIES OF THE LOT.

AN Extraordinary General Meeting of Shareholders will be held at the Office of the Secretaries on Wednesday, 10th January 1866, at noon, for the purpose of confirming the following Resolutions passed at the Meeting held on 28th Novemlor 1865:—

That the purchase by the Directors of the Steam Tugs Paris and Bombay, or Mauritius, from the Bengal Steam Tug Company, "Limited," at the price of Four and a half lakhs of Rupees be, and the same is hereby, confirmed.

That for the purpose of carrying out and completing such purchase the Capital of the Company be increased by the issue of 750 new Shares, of the nominal value of Rupees six hundred each, aggregating Four and a half lakhs of Rupees, and that of such number 250 Shares be issued to the Bengal Steam Tug Company, "Limited," in part payment for the said Tugs, and in terms of the Agreement entered into by the Directors with the Bengal Steam Tug Company, "Limited."

That the remaining 500 Shares be issued to the Shareholders, including the Bengal Steam Tug Company, "Limited;" agreeably to the 7th Clause of the Articles of Association.

That for the purpose also of carrying out and completing such purchase, and until the issue of the said Shares, the Directors be, and they are hereby, empowered, if necessary, to borrow the sum of Three lakhs of Rupees, the payment thereof to be secured by the issue of Debentures bearing interest at 10 per cent. per annum, or on such other terms and conditions as the Directors may think proper.

That the Board of Directors consist of not more than seven, nor less than three, and that their Meetings shall be held not less frequently than once in every fourteen days; and that at each Meeting a sum equal to twenty Rupees for each existing Director for the time being be divided amongst the Directors present.

That the alternations in the Deed rendered necessary by the foregoing Resolutions be made.

Report on the Cattle Disease of 1864.

From DR. C. PALMER, Presidency Surgeon, to S. C. BAYLEY, ESQ., Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(dated the 7th October 1865.)

I HAVE the honor to forward my Report on the Cattle Disease which appeared in this neighbourhood in 1864.

I regret very much the great delay in submitting this: practically, however, this delay has been of advantage, and has added much to the interest of the subject. I am convinced that the disease now raging in England is the same we had here in 1864. I am persuaded it is a disease which for years has existed extensively in India, but which has up to this time not been recognised, and I am hopeful that it is amenable to treatment. Occasional or sporadic cases of a mild character are frequently met with and are successfully treated.

Report on the Calcutta Epizootic, or Cattle Disease of 1864.

THE year 1864 will be memorable in the annals of Bengal as that in which the first Agricultural Exhibition was held in India. The collection of animals of various kinds was such as the most sanguine promoters of this great and successful undertaking scarcely ventured to anticipate. The accommodation laid out in the spacious grounds of Belvedere was, however, ample. There was no crowding of the varied, numerous, and interesting gathering of cattle, horses, goats, &c., all of which were kept distinct and separate, were well housed and cared for, and the space allotted was all that was required, either individually or collectively. It was not long, however, after the opening of the exhibition on the 24th January that one of the cows exhibited, was taken ill, and died. Several exhibitors took alarm and early removed their cattle; a rumour fast gained ground that a "murrain" had broken out. This fear was soon confirmed by the fact that other cattle became ill and died, and it was considered so serious, that the subject was brought officially to the notice of Government, and the Government was requested to take the matter into consideration and cause an investigation to be instituted and reported upon. The Agricultural and Horticultural Society of Bengal, through the representations of Mr. John Stalkartt, took an active part in the enquiry and suggested to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor the appointment of a medical officer to assist, or rather to conduct, the wished for enquiry. In compliance with that request the writer of this paper was directed to carry out the views of the society and furnish a report on the nature and history of this "murrain," and, if possible, to suggest a probable method of successful treatment of cattle attacked by it, and the means to be adopted to check its progress.

When, however, the orders of Government to this effect were received, (and there was no delay whatever in issuing this order,) the disease was on the decline, not, however, before it had committed extensive ravages in the dairies and farm-yards in the suburbs of Calcutta.

We purpose, for the sake of clearness, to speak of this disease as the "Calcutta epizootic of 1864," believing this term epizootic to be more correct, and to convey a more definite meaning than the term "murrain," or cattle plague. The word "epizootic" having precisely the same technical signification in veterinary medicine and pathology that "epidemic" has in human.

The earliest cases of the "Calcutta epizootic" that appeared in the neighbourhood and were brought under treatment occurred on the 2nd January, or prior to the opening of the exhibition. There is little doubt but that the disease existed to a considerable extent for some time even antecedent to this; indeed, it is difficult to define a period for its first appearance in Calcutta. It will be shewn presently that a disease very similar, if not identical, broke out in Entally, in the suburbs of Calcutta, in 1862, and since then occasional or sporadic cases have been observed. The opinion has been entertained by many that the disease originated amongst the cattle exhibited at Belvedere; but such was, as we have just shewn, not the case. It existed for some time previous to the holding of the exhibition. There is ample proof, however, that many healthy cattle contracted the disease there, and carrying it to their homesteads infected others. Mr. Rutherford, who was the first to recognise the existence of the epizootic, was early impressed with the idea that he was dealing with a disease hitherto unrecognised in this neighbourhood, by either cattle proprietors or by his profession, and it was not long before he was made fully aware of its intractable, almost incurable, nature, and of its infectious character. As has been observed, it first attacked one, and then many of the cattle exhibited, and towards the close of the exhibition the epizootic appears to have reached its height. From this time it gradually died out, and when the subject was made one of special investigation, the disease had not only materially lessened, but the cases that were brought in were found to be less severe and more amenable to treatment. By the end of April the epizootic had disappeared as such altogether, although sporadic cases have since been brought under notice and treatment, as we are informed by Mr. Greenhill; but as an epizootic from this time, the end of April, the disease had died out. We may therefore define the time during which the disease existed as an epizootic from January to April inclusive. The havoc this epizootic committed during the period under review was great and serious; it spared but few; neither condition, nor age, nor sex, was a protection: indeed those best fed and cared for, and in the highest condition, were at least as liable to be attacked as cattle in poorer condition and indifferently housed and fed; and all equally succumbed. The disease, as a rule, made a clean sweep of all the cattle in a yard where it had found ingress. We may, in elucidation, mention the fatal result to the large and valuable herd of cattle belonging to Mr. Floyd of Alipore; he lost all. Mr. Stalkartt of Howrah lost all his, and many others who had for years given the subject of the improvement of the breed of cattle in Bengal much consideration, and had expended much time and money on this object, saw their work of years demolished in a few weeks. It is not, we regret, in our power to give any correct or reliable statistics shewing the number of cattle attacked by this epizootic; but, the result of treatment of those which were brought in was most alarming and discouraging; probably not less than 90 per cent. died! (Rutherford.)

We now proceed to give the symptoms of this epizootic, for which we are indebted to Mr. R. Rutherford, who made careful notes of the cases that were brought under his observation and treatment, and who has most liberally placed his notes at our disposal. Mr. Greenhill also lent us valuable assistance whilst conducting our enquiries, and his observations corroborate those made by Mr. Rutherford. It is to be remembered that these notes were written some fifteen months since, and when we compare them with the symptoms given of the epizootic now raging in England, their closeness and similarity to these is remarkable. Mr. Rutherford describes the symptoms thus:—"The disease is ushered in, in all cases, with fever of a remittent character, but it is only in a few cases that the shivering and sweating is observed; the skin is hot and dry, or otherwise of a clammy feel; ears hot, and pulsation of their arteries very distinct; extremities hot and cold alternately; breathing accelerated and oppressed; catching of the flanks, and frequent twitchings of the muscles of the flank. Dulness and loss of spirits is an early symptom, and a strong disinclination to move or be moved about; the horns are hotter than usual, more so near their base; eye dull and expressive of pain of a dull character; conjunctival lining red, and towards the inner canthus the membrane shews several ecchymosed spots; gradually the eye becomes duller and more dusky in hue, a discharge of tears is constant, and the animal experiences great annoyance from the flies buzzing about the eyes; the muzzle is usually dry, hot and glazed, or otherwise a few drops of water are exuded, which, however, do not run into each other and make the muzzle moist but remain isolated. There is early a watery discharge from both nostrils, which gradually assumes a muco-purulent character. From the mouth you early observe a dribbling of saliva of a sticky nature and mixed with air, and of a disagreeable fetor; the mouth is very hot and breath early of a most disagreeable fetor; this is a most important symptom and will almost distinguish the disease from any other. The tongue towards its base is slightly swollen and coated with mucus and saliva. I have observed no soreness of the mouth except in one case, and that was confined to the gum of the incisor teeth. At times, however, slight ulcerated spots are easily observed on the Schneiderian membrane; they are small and superficial, irregular edged, and of a yellow tinge, owing, apparently, to a covering of lymph on their surfaces. The colour of the Schneiderian membrane is early of a deep red hue, gradually becoming more so, and in many cases evidently embarrasses the breathing. The air expired through the nostrils is also of a fetid odour, as also is the discharge; cough, although present, is not, in my opinion, pathognomonic of the disease, as I have only noticed it two or three times; this, I think, is owing to the intense inflammation of the fauces and larynx; the pain of coughing would be fearful and the animal avoids it. Amongst the earliest symptoms is the animal's total refusal of food and drink; water even cannot be swallowed, and these forced upon the brute are swallowed with great pain and difficulty: this is a distinguishing symptom and one of great value taken in conjunction with the dribbling of fetid saliva from the mouth. At first the urine is only slightly changed in colour, in some instances not at all, but in all cases it latterly becomes very much diminished in quantity, of a high colour, and strong smell. The action of the bowels, at first natural, rapidly becomes deranged, the discharges are of a darker colour, incline to a blackish green hue, rank and very offensive odour; but as yet there is no positive diarrhœa. At any time, however, from this, diarrhœa may supervene; the fæces become much thinner, are discharged frequently and with violence, mixed with mucus and air, and in most cases shortly afterwards with blood. By this time, however, the fever has generally altered in character; it has assumed a low typhoid form; the animal is thoroughly prostrate, capable of no exertion or exercise of nervous energy; the former symptoms are aggravated, the skin becomes cooler and more clammy, and the ears of irregular heat; remission of the fever takes place, sometimes once a day, in other cases in two days. This also is observable of the purging in a few cases; the breathing becomes short and quick, and pulse quick and tremulous; expression of face is that of dull pain and congestion about the head; the flies swarm about the eyes, mouth, and nostrils, and, as appeared in my post-mortem examinations, readily deposit their ova on the inner edge of eyelid and nostril. In milk cows the secretion is early diminished, gradually becoming less, but rarely entirely suspended; it is, however, of inferior quality and slightly altered in colour, as if mixed with the serum of the blood. In some cases symptom of abdominal pain occur, getting up and lying down at times, boring the head into flanks and cold sweats; in others there is strong evidence of the lungs being involved: the breathing is catching and abdominal, and auscultation gives an increased harsh sound over the region of the larger bronchiæ. Towards the lower part of the trachea and bifurcation of the tube the mucous râle is very distinct. Tympanitis of the first stomach is a common symptom, but never to a great extent, and is owing to the suspension of rumination, which latter took place at the commencement of the disease; the food in the stomach ferments and decomposes, giving off gas in the process. If tapped the gas still continues to form, unless some strong stimulants is passed in through the canula. Tenesmus is now present, and the motions are frequently mixed with blood; in other cases the discharges are like dirty water and come away with sudden violence, discharged almost involuntarily. By this time the animal has become extremely offensive, her motions and breath taint the surrounding atmosphere to a nauseating degree, and in the majority of cases death now rapidly ensues from exhaustion and depraved blood."

Such are the symptoms noticed and detailed by Mr. Rutherford; he has condensed them into the following as "diagnostic symptoms":—

1*st*.—Total refusal of drinks, also of food, and this from the earliest stage of the complaint.

2*nd*.—Disagreeable, fetid breath.

3*rd*.—The finger placed backwards on the tongue can detect the slightest fetor; generally this is unnecessary, as the saliva which dribbles from the mouth affords ample evidence of the fact.

4*th*.—No eruption on teats, or soreness of feet.

5*th*.—Diarrhœa of a fetid character early setting in.

6*th*.—Scanty,—high-colored urine.

7*th*.—Fever of a remittent form.

8*th*.—Disease averaging from two to eleven days, four days averaged in fatal cases; convalescence protracted to many weeks.

9*th*.—Inflammation of pharynx and base of tongue.

10*th*.—Tenesmus and dysentery, at times choleraic evacuations. These symptoms, thus carefully noted by Mr. Rutherford, tally with the observations made by Mr. Greenhill, v. s, and by many non-professional observers who watched the progress and symptoms of the disease with minute attention. Amongst these Mr. Floyd has written a most clear and able description of the epizootic, as it first attacked and made its way through his farm-yard. This account is so full of interest that we venture to give it in extenso. Mr. Floyd writes—"I sent several cows to the late exhibition at Alipore, and they were all in good health when they left my farm-yard. A day or two before the prizes were awarded I observed that my best cow was failing in milk and would not eat (all) the food that was given to her. I attributed it to her being in a strange place. The following day she appeared afraid and anxious to leave the stall, quite regardless of her calf. In the afternoon an up-country cow died in an adjoining stall, and in the neighbouring stalls several belonging to Mr. Apcar and others were reported to have refused their food. A few days prior to this one of two cows that had come from Chowringhee sickened and died. The death of the up-country cow above alluded to induced me to suppose that something serious was about to happen, and I obtained permission to remove my cows. The change, however, did my cow no good, she was still fretful, and in about a couple of days became very dull; the ears drooped, saliva ran from the mouth, and eyes became inflamed. I then sent her away from the farm and had her treated by natives; they said she had the 'matha;' whatever it was, her calf took the disease and died first. The cow being a strong animal lingered for about eight days: diarrhœa came on and she died. For a week, or longer, everything went on well, and I fancied that I had acted wisely in having sent the diseased cow out of the farm. Another valuable cow, however, fell sick, and in a few weeks every cow and calf belonging to me fell a victim to the disease.

"I tried everything that man could devise, separating the healthy from the sick, keeping them perfectly clean, fumigating their houses, not sparing lime; giving those too ill to eat gram, &c., arrowroot, suttoo, and boiled rice, recommended by natives. During the first stage I tried purgatives with some, but in none could I perceive the slightest improvement for a single day; the symptoms were the same in every case, only some cows died in five days, others in eight or ten. The coat of my cows became rough, but there were no pustules visible, the mouth and throat appeared inflamed, and the eyes became mattery after the redness subsided, which was generally in about three days.

"I would here remark that I placed three healthy cows in my stable in the hope of saving them; they did very well for some time, but even there the disease attacked them; they were removed without loss of time. A fortnight after, however, my horse got sick, suffered with the same symptoms, and died in less than eight days. I got the stall thoroughly repaired, the floor renewed, and all the wood-work painted, and all the time it remained unoccupied (nearly two months.). I kept it well aired and smoked, not apprehending infection, I brought a healthy young mare and kept her in the stall for about twenty days, when she too sickened in the same way and died. The sufferings of the horses were greater than those of the cows; the throat became affected much sooner.

"In one thatched shed, with a kutcha (mud) floor, four calves became diseased and died. I then placed an old sow in it and kept her there for about three months; she never got ill, and when I removed her I had the shed well cleaned and covered with clay and cow dung and kept two horses in it up to the day of the late cyclone, (October 5, 1864,) when the shed was blown down; the horses were not sick nor sorry for a single day." Mr. Floyd proceeds to recommend, on the authority of a letter to the Illustrated London News of some time since, turpentine, and states that the remedy was successfully tried by his neighbour, Mr. Pritchard; to this we shall revert when we notice the mode of treatment of the disease. He then observes: "The disease from its first stage attracts myriads of flies, which prove very distressing to cows. When Mr. Pritchard's cow got the turpentine and linseed oil, the total absence of flies was remarkable." Some years ago the disease prevailed in Russia, and lasted for 5 years. Some parts of Australia have been known to suffer from it. Natives of the N. W. Provinces say "that whenever it has appeared, it has remained for 4 or 5 years, breaking out between November and January, and carrying off horses and other animals, as well as cows." This highly interesting account tallies very closely with the symptoms given by Mr. Rutherford, and it is of importance to note that Mr. Floyd's description is that of a non-professional person, who described exactly what he saw without consulting a veterinary surgeon. Further, both these reports were made during last year and long before the English "cattle plague" had made its appearance.

It is worthy of remark here that the cattle treated by Messrs. Greenhill and Rutherford were invariably brought to the extensive stables over which they preside, were kept in stalls and boxes adjoining horses, yet the disease was in no instance communicated to horses, and, even with Mr. Floyd's cases before us, we cannot but record our opinion that the disease is not communicable to horses.

Our own observations, and those made by others who watched the progress of the epizootic, are completely confirmatory of the foregoing.

In 1862 Mr. Ladd, who has long been an enthusiast in cattle-breeding, had a fine young cow attacked at his farm at Entally, in the suburbs; his description of the disease his cow suffered from corresponds closely with the above specified symptoms. She was treated by a highly intelligent Veterinary Surgeon, Mr. Bretherton, who pronounced the disease to be an uncommon one, and to be essentially a "blood disease." Out of a total of 9 head of cattle 7 were attacked and died; but it does not appear that the disease spread at this time. Mr. Rutherford, however, states that he believes he has met with cases occasionally both in Calcutta and on the other side of the river at Seebpore,* but that these cases were of a sporadic character and did not spread. Mr. Ladd recognised the disease at the exhibition on its first appearance as the same his cattle had been affected with two years previously, and warned Mr. Floyd of its infectious nature and advised him to remove his cattle at once; but the warning came too late; these circumstances are of practical importance, as they go far to prove that the Calcutta epizootic of 1864 was really not, as was generally believed, a new disease, although we are not in a position to assert that it had been previously known as an epizootic.

Having thus fully given the symptoms characterising the Calcutta epizootic of 1864, we proceed to remark upon other epizootics which have been rife of late years in different portions of this country; and we shall be led to the conclusion, from the information which has been submitted by the chief officers of extensive districts, that a disease similar to, probably identical to, that we have described, has been long known under other denominations in India, and we shall endeavor to shew that at least two distinct epizootics are, and have been, of frequent occurrence. To quote extensively from the reports which have been submitted would be to lengthen this paper to an inconvenient and unnecessary extent. The correspondence has already been published in the Supplement to the Calcutta Gazette of March 12th, 1864. We propose, therefore, to extract only briefly from these letters, premising that there is a remarkable resemblance in all the descriptions given, so much so, that we are compelled to believe that similar epizootics have been recognised in various districts and appear to be equally fatal in all. There are, doubtless, many other and different epizootics which may have been confounded with those described; but we have, we believe, ample evidence to lead to the conclusion that at least two distinct, highly fatal, and infectious epizootics have been described in these reports with considerable accuracy. One of these is the same as the Calcutta epizootic of 1864. The other is of a different character, but also well known in Calcutta. The districts from which reports have been submitted comprise a large portion of the Madras Presidency, and nearly all of Bengal, viz, Burdwan, Nuddea, Rajshahye Patna, Chittagong, Bhaugulpore, Dacca, Cuttack, Assam, Chota Nagpore, Cachar, Darjeeling, and were the enquiry extended to the N. W. Provinces and the Punjab, it is believed that reports similar to those submitted by the Bengal officers would be furnished, and Mr. Floyd's statement, founded upon information given him by natives belonging to the North-West, that a similar disease has been for years known there, would receive confirmation.

When it is borne in mind that the various reports above alluded to are each an analysis of many reports furnished by the magistrates attached to the several districts in the extensive divisions mentioned, we should, à priori, expect to find a great variety of description and not a little actual inaccuracy. Such, however, is not the case, and we believe that the general similarity of these reports is owing to the fact that the natives, as a rule, describe all epizootics, or cattle plagues, as small-pox,—ghootee or bussunt; and this is particularly exemplified in Mr. Floyd's memorandum. He says, speaking of his cow, that he had handed over to the natives for treatment,—"they said she had the matha," small-pox: further, we have known a disease attacking numerous heads of cattle in Calcutta, and carrying off large numbers, described as bussunt or ghootee (small-pox. Under this name it was for years known as existing amongst the cattle belonging to the municipality of this city, and it was only in 1861, when a veterinary surgeon was, on our recommendation, appointed to the care of the municipal cattle, that the disease was accurately described and recognised, not as a variola or small-pox, but as a most alarming, fatal, and highly infectious epizootic, viz., the "eczema epizootica," or apthous epizootic, or "foot and mouth disease" of veterinary pathologists. It is this epizootic which has been so universally described and in terms of extraordinary similarity as the disease which has reckoned its victims by tens-of-thousands throughout India, and with which the epizootic which appeared in Calcutta and elsewhere has been, we believe, not unfrequently mixed up and confounded: the two diseases have many features in common, but they are entirely different in their nature. The "eczema epizootic,"—the animal is hot, listless, exhibits all the symptoms of fever, and is lame: the feet high up in the cleft of the hoof are early affected; vesicles are frequently observed on various parts of the body, especially between the thighs; the mouth becomes affected, dysentery supervenes, and if allowed to arrive at this advanced stage, the majority die; but the disease if early recognised is very amenable to treatment. From our own experience we believe it selects the ill-fed, overworked, and weakened constitution. Comparing these symptoms with those given of the Calcutta epizootic of 1864, it cannot be a matter of surprise that the two diseases have been confounded.

* Of 13 head of cattle 13 were attacked and all died.

Captain Nelson describes the cattle disease in the Madras Presidency thus:—"The disease in question, which is now reducing the herds by half, shews itself first in a refusal of food; the ears droop; the eyes run water; purging commences, which in a few days becomes a bloody-flux, and the whole body is covered with pustules: the animal dies between the fifth and tenth days, when with a piece of cloth you may sweep the body completely free of hair and cuticle; it comes off as if it had been scalded." This description tallies completely in certain well-marked features with the symptoms given of the Calcutta epizootic, but it clearly and indisputably, we consider, establishes the difference, in that the animal is "covered with pustules," &c. Captain Nelson is describing the "epizootic eczema," or, as it is commonly called in England, the "foot and mouth disease," and we venture, without casting the least disparagement on Captain Nelson's observations, to hint that, had the epizootic he has so well described been watched by a veterinary surgeon, we should have learnt, in addition, that the feet were early affected, even though actual lameness had not resulted.

Captain Campbell, Deputy Commissioner of Nowgong, describes an epizootic in his district thus:—"On referring to the records of this office I find that in the year 1853, from January to June, no less than 21,625 head of cattle died. During the above period cholera was raging to a great extent and carried off 9,060 persons, consequently the natives I asked about it say it was the same disease that carried off the cattle. The symptoms appear to have been a swelling of the tongue, which protruded from the mouth, great purging, and the animal was generally dead in two days. I cannot discover that there was any resemblance to small-pox, as appears to be the case at Madras." Here we are evidently dealing with a disease distinct from that described by Captain Nelson, and we are of opinion that it was of the nature of the Calcutta epizootic.

From Jessore, a district which suffers much yearly from extensive mortality of cattle, we have Mr. Oliphant writing as follows:—"It (the cattle disease) is known by the name 'Mardrishtee, which means the look of mother 'Shitala,' the goddess of small-pox, and the first symptoms which generally shew themselves are a disinclination to eat food, a bloody colouring of the urine, and the breaking out of pustules on the body and these are followed by others mentioned by Captain Nelson." Mr. Oliphant proceeds to say that the disease is considered fatal, and mentions the means used for effecting a cure or arresting its progress. This disease is, we feel persuaded, "the eczema epizootica." Mr. Oliphant, however, goes on with his investigation, and says—"There is, however, another disease in this part of the country very similar to the above, but much more common, called 'puschima,' probably because it was supposed to have travelled from the west, and a large number of cattle have fallen victims to this disease within the last few years. The symptoms are, for the most part, the same as in the first-mentioned disease, with the exception that no pustules are visible on the body. The natives, however, appear to think that the two diseases are distinct, and that what cholera is to man, puschima is to the cattle; they look upon it as fatal and do not appear to try any remedy or cure." Mr. Oliphant states that owing, as he is informed, to the ravages of this latter epizootic chiefly, the diminution of cattle in his district—Jessore—is such that the price has risen "ten times higher than it was formerly." In the district of Burdwan again two distinct diseases are described. The one as ghootee or small-pox, the other is there also called "puschima," which is more fatal than the former. The immediate symptoms are, "loss of appetite, swelling of the glands of the throat, difficulty in breathing, enlargement of the head, and occasionally of the stomach also." It is scarcely possible to have a more independent convincing evidence than the above that the two distinct epizootics we have named have been for years raging in one and the same district or locality, and it we consider establishes our view that the two epizootics, viz., the eczema and the Calcutta epizootic, have extensively existed, and not improbably, contemporaneously in the same localities, and that they have been in some instances confounded. The reports before us are replete with similar evidence; but we must be content with one further extract to add still greater force to this opinion. Mr. Jervoise Grey, writing from Sarun, describes a disease which is there called "seetla" or "matha" or "chenchuck," and of which the symptoms are similar to those of the cattle murrain prevailing in the Madras Presidency, namely, refusal of food, running from the mouth, eyes, and nostrils, and purging, but pustules are said to appear only slightly and occasionally. This, we are of opinion, is the Calcutta disease, and not the "eczema epizootica." Mr. Holm, a gentleman of great experience in Rungpore, alludes to a disease amongst cattle known there as "gola-har," the chief symptom of which is "ulcerated sore throat," for which no successful treatment is known. He also describes the bussunt or small-pox and "cholera."

Sufficient has, we think, been advanced to prove the existence, very extensively throughout India, of two distinct and very fatal epizootics; the one, we believe, to be identical with the "eczema epizootica," or "apthous epizootic," or "foot and mouth disease" of England. The other is identical with the Calcutta epizootic of 1864, and which we have advanced evidence to shew was no new disease but had hitherto been either confounded with other diseases, or not taken any very special notice of. We have hitherto spoken of this epizootic as that of Calcutta of 1864, without attempting to classify it amongst recognised cattle diseases. We have little doubt, however, that this disease is the one known in Europe as the "Rinderpest," the epizootic which for so many years past has devastated Central Europe, and from "its home" the steppes of Russia has again found a footing in England and is at this moment working out its deadly course amongst the cattle of the metropolis, and by the last received accounts is spreading through the counties of England,—a disease which in the opinion of those best qualified to judge, both in England and France, was restricted to a circle, large indeed, but still restricted, and could not possibly extend itself beyond those precincts. If our opinion be correct, it will be seen that this deadly cattle scourge has been making rapid strides in this, an eastward direction, and that all the regulations which have been on the Continent of Europe so rigidly enforced, the military 'cordons' which were to have prevented any diseased cattle from leaving a farm or a locality in which the disease had shewn itself, and the strict supervision exercised at ports, both of export and import, have apparently proved futile in checking the spread of this fatal epizootic in a westwardly direction. Accepting the opinion expressed by Professor Symonds and other leading veterinary authorities, both in England and on the Continent, that the steppes of Russia are the home of this disease, and that it has spread from thence by infection, and that by severe sanitary prohibitions its progress might be limited; it is a highly interesting and important fact to advance that this same disease has travelled eastward, and as it has been unchecked by any sanitary restrictions, its progress has been, perhaps, proportionally more rapid in an eastwardly and unguarded and unprotected direction than it has been westwardly, where science, backed by arbitrary and even despotic Government aid, has been called in to check its march, but with, as it now appears, only partial success; it was checked only, not turned back; it is raging in England with a violence equal to any it has exhibited in India or elsewhere, and threatens to bring distress and disease to thousands. It, however, must be borne in mind that, although a universally admitted contagious or infectious disease, it is not at present believed to owe its existence to infection alone, it is held to be a true epizootic engendered by some malarious, or, as yet unknown, epizootic influence, and in all probability its cause will be found to be similar to all other epizootics, and it will exhaust itself or die out. It would occupy too much space to transcribe the symptoms, &c., given by Professor Symonds and others of the Epizootic of Central Europe and Russia, and which is known on the Continent as the Rinderpest, which name Professor Symonds proposes to designate it by in England. We content ourselves by asserting that those symptoms so closely resemble the symptoms observed here of the disease in 1864 that little doubt can be entertained as to the identity of the two diseases; but should any person wish to pursue this subject more minutely we would refer him to Professor Symonds' evidence given before a Parliamentary "Committee on contagious diseases bill" and his "report on the cattle plague:" and a paper by M. Renault, Director of Alford, read before the Central Society of Agriculture of France, all of which are contained in the "Veterinarian" for 1857-58 and 1859; and in an article headed "cattle plague" in the Veterinarian, July 1st, 1857, will be found a very full description of the Rinderpest, which we had transcribed, but now exclude from this paper, as we fear extending it to too great length. These articles are well worthy the perusal of those interested in this enquiry, and we believe that the symptoms described in the "Veterinarian" proves the identity of the two diseases, the "Rinderpest" and the Calcutta epizootic of 1864.

It has been remarked in England by Professors Symonds, Gamgee, and others that the present English epizootic is not only the "Rinderpest," but that it was known in England in 1745, and was ruinously destructive throughout the country. Existing for several years (12) in spite of the most stringent sanitary laws enacted and rigidly enforced with the view of checking its spread, it was stated to have been then imported from Holland by two diseased calves: it is now reported to have been brought by foreign cattle into Islington market. The general opinion is, that it is an imported and infectious disease, but on the other hand there are many who insist upon its originating within the country, and is not an imported disease, and this question is now being very warmly discussed. The descriptions given of the symptoms are, however, very similar and admit of little or no misunderstanding or doubt as to the nature of the disease when it shews itself. We select amongst numerous reported symptoms, furnished by men of eminence, the following, which are published by order of the Privy Council. The identity of the symptoms, with those recorded by Mr. Rutherford in this paper, are remarkable, and again confirm our opinion of the nature of the disease which we observed here in 1864.

The following is copied from the Evening Mail of August 7th, 1865:—

"Description of the symptoms of the disease before referred to.

"Variations in the earliest indications of the disease will be manifested; these depending somewhat on the severity of the attack, but more especially on the circumstance as to whether the digestive or respiratory system is the chief focus of the malady.

"As soon as the affection declares itself the animal ceases to take any kind of food, and in most cases even refuses water; rumination is suspended, and the animal stands with its head drooping and its ears drawn back. If made to move, it shews great prostration of strength, and frequently staggers as if about to fall. The skin is hot in places, and often remarkably so between the limbs, the hind ones in particular.

"An exudation early takes place from these parts, and is succeeded by cracks and sores. The hair is staring, especially along the upper part of the neck, shoulders, and back. The extremities are cold, even at the commencement of the disease, and in a latter stage the increased heat of the surface of the body gives place to a remarkable coldness, especially along the course of the spine.

"Tears trickle from the eyes, which are red and expressive of suffering, and a watery discharge flows early from the nostrils. There is a continuous increase of these secretions, which become more or less purulent in the advanced state of the malady. The mouth is hot, red, and 'inflamed,' often presenting here and there raw-looking spots, especially on the inner side of the lips and along the roof. The breath is fœtid. The respiration is increased, and generally accompanied with a moan in the advanced stages. A slight cough is also present in some instances. The pulse is quick and weak and scarcely to be felt, excepting at the heart, even at the commencement of the disease.

"The bowels are sometimes torpid at the outset, but diarrhœa leading to dysentery mostly follows, the evacuations being slimy, liquid, and of a dirty yellow colour, occasionally tinged with blood. Tenesmus is likewise present as a rule. Slight tremors of the muscles of the shoulders and thighs are to be observed in some cases, and so also is an emphysematous condition of the skin along the upper part of the back. In milch cows the secretion of milk is quickly arrested, a remarkable diminution in the quantity taking place as one of the early indications of the attack. As the disease advances towards a fatal termination the prostration of the vital powers becomes more marked; the breathing short, quick, and more painful; the alvine evacuations more fœtid and more slimy, and the surface of the body deathly cold. The animal will sometimes sink as early as twelve hours from the commencement of the attack; but in many cases the disease will be protracted to the fifth or sixth, and occasionally to the eighth or ninth day.

"The period of incubation of the disease is found to vary, the majority of animals sickening on the tenth day after exposure to the infection, but some have been attacked on the seventh day."

Nothing can be more convincing than the above description, tallying almost verbatim with those we have given of the symptoms of the Calcutta epizootic. The diseases are, we consider, one and the same. Mr. Rutherford's memorandum was written fifteen months since. Mr. Floyd's ten months since; the symptons just copied from the Evening Mail not two months ago, and Mr. Greenhill, who has paid much attention to the disease and has treated a vast number of cases, gives a similar description.

"It would be highly interesting to trace the roads by which this epizootic has spread itself over the old world, and doubtless ere long we shall ransack its origin and spread with the same accuracy as the origin and spread of epidemic cholera has been investigated and made known. It is worthy of remark that the cattle disease which devastated Egypt broke out in that country a few weeks after its disappearance here, and we are informed by the Times that that epizootic carried off no less than 1,700,000 head of cattle.—(Evening Mail, August 7.)

Mr. Rutherford made post-mortem examinations of a great number—with one or two exceptions—all of his cases, and he has kindly placed his notes at our disposal; they will be read with interest by those who are prosecuting the subject. He remarks—"The principal changes were confined to the mucous membrane of the alimentary tract. The tongue in all cases is swollen, particularly towards its base, and throughout its whole substance I observed effusion into and discoloration of the muscular substance. The superior investing membrane in all cases was separated from the substance of the tongue by effusion, was very much thickened and was covered with a thick viscid fetid secretion, or products of inflammation, apparently muco-purulent. The mucus membrane of the pharynx was similarly inflamed, and presented the same characters, being thickened and covered with a greyish exudation. In all cases these appearances extended into the nasal passages, producing throughout appearances somewhat modified towards the nostrils. In some cases small abrasions were observed on the Schneiderian membrane. I noted the fact of immense quantities of small bodies, resembling the ova of flies covering the mucus membrane of the posterior nares and pharynx. In most cases the inflammatory signs were traceable into the larynx, and thence more or less modified into the trachea, seldom further. From the pharynx the appearances above noted were to be easily traced along the œsophagus into the first and second stomachs and into the third stomach; here, in many cases, the food was found caked as hard as in the disease known at home as 'Fardel bound.' This appearance is owing to the non-swallowing of fluids, the arrest of secretion and functions of the third stomach. In all cases the fourth or true stomach was very seriously affected; it was generally empty, with the exception of a little variously coloured liquid; the mucus coat red, in patches dark red, swollen and thickened and very easily detached from the muscular coat. In many cases bile was plentiful in the stomach, as also in the duodenum, which intestine, with the jejunum and ileum, was affected similarly as, but more intensely than, the stomach; ulcerated patches were frequently met with, but never any deep ulcers, but rather rough, irregular edged depressions on the mucus membrane, with dark red circumferences. The large intestines were generally empty and but slightly affected, with the exception of the rectum, which generally exhibited signs of great irritation. The liver was in all cases highly congested, and even enlarged. The kidneys and other viscera were in no wise affected. The blood was in a grumous state."

Mr. Greenhill also made post-mortem examinations of very numerous cases which came under his observation and treatment, and he gives the following as the chief and most important of the diseased appearances noted:—"The back part of the tongue and throat inflamed; mucus membrane of the larynx and air passages inflamed; heart soft in texture; liver congested, and the whole of the fourth stomach greatly inflamed with patches of a dark purple hue, and abrasions of the mucus membrane all along the alimentary canal. The rectum for about three feet from the anus inflamed and studded with black patches. The large intestines healthy; kidneys healthy."

These post-mortem appearances correspond in many respects, and indeed, generally, with those met with by Professor Symonds, and described in his evidence before the Parliamentary Committee before alluded to. They indicate a typhoid or "enteric" condition, and bear out, to a very considerable extent, the idea that has been advanced that this disease is a "Typhoid Fever."

To those who have read the reports and evidence of Professor Symonds published in the "Veternarian on the Rinderpest," also the reports furnished by the commissioners and magistrates throughout Bengal of the cattle diseases observed in their several districts especially noticed in this paper, our own remarks regarding the Calcutta epizootic of 1864, and the recent accounts of the disease now raging in England, it will not be a matter of surprise to learn our complete inability to recommend with confidence any one particular treatment as likely to be generally attended with successful results. We have already recorded the almost universal fatality amongst all the cattle submitted to treatment. At one period every case died, but towards the decline of the epizootic many cases did well. Some of these exhibited the disease in a marked form, but by great care and attention made a slow, tedious, but at length complete recovery; and from these we may be permitted to recommend a course of treatment which in mild cases will be found to be generally successful, and certainly worthy of trial in even the most hopeless. We would venture to hope also that as the nature of the disease is more minutely investigated, and its pathology understood, a corresponding advance will be made in its treatment, and this, we feel persuaded, will ere long be the result of the general discussion and deep interest the disease is at present commanding in England.

It would be of no practical utility our relating the modes of treatment which have from time to time and in different places been adopted by the natives of this country. The result of such treatments has been generally utterly inefficacious, based, as they frequently are, upon superstition. "Poojahs," with some; rice grown at Juggernauth, raw fish, and the dried tongues of tigers and leopards with others, have had, and continue to remain, on trial. More rational and consistent measures have, however, been in many instances adopted, such as the removal of infected cattle, cleanliness, fumigating infected cow-sheds, and the giving of nutritious non-stimulating food and fresh wholesome grass, also stimulating drugs; but the same story is told by all; treatment is inefficacious, and to quote any mode of treatment which is allowed to be of little value would be simply filling this paper with certainly many curiosities of native and even european treatment of diseased cattle, but can be of no practical utility

To give, however, the treatment adopted, in some cases, with success, will, we consider, be of much practical assistance, not to that portion of the public only who are deeply interested in this important subject, but also to members of the veterinary profession, both in India and in England, who have hitherto considered the disease almost, if not wholly, incurable. We might quote many cases of successful treatment, but the following will exemplify sufficiently the treatment which we would advocate. The two cases subjoined were treated by Mr. Greenhill. We watched these and we can safely affirm that they were well marked and almost hopeless cases of the disease:—

Case I., by Mr. Greenhill.—"April 10th, 1864, called to see a cow of Mr. J. Stalkartt of Howrah. The cow was in an off place, having been separated from the others by the owner. I found the cow with a young calf by her side about six weeks old; the cow's skin was hot and dry, coat staring, breathing increased, mouth and breath fetid; a quantity of saliva dropping from the mouth; the saliva was of a thick sticky character; eyes rather dull. Ordered the cow and calf to the hospital. Purging had not commenced when I first saw the cow. Gave spirit of nitric ether six ounce, aromatic spirit of ammonia two drachms. On the 11th cow worse; eyes sunk in her head, breathing increased, purging greatly, black in colour and fetid, with slime coming after the fœcal matter had passed, lying down a good deal, the head protruded straight; gave opium one drachm, camphor one drachm, with gruel; towards night the cow seemed a little better, but took not the slightest notice of her calf; repeated the medicine. On 12th purging less, cow easier, breath fetid; gave spirit nitric ether six ounce, gentian four drachms, aromatic spirit of ammonia two drachms in gruel. Calf taken the same as the mother; with great trouble we gave it food. Night, cow better; gave gentian and ginger half ounce each, with one drachm camphor in gruel: gave calf gruel: calf unless roused would lie in one place. On the 13th, cow this morning passing large quantities of blood, but the fœcal matter better in colour and the fetid smell not so great: calf worse; gave cow two bottles of beer with two drachms of gentian and two drachms of ginger. At 2 P. M. cow for first time notices calf and inclines to pick green grass: calf worse. Night, cow easier; dung of better colour, and less purging; gave gruel with beer. On the 14th, cow better; calf dead; dung brighter in colour; purging stopped, no more blood passed; dull about the eyes; gave beer with gruel: 1 P. M. gave beer gruel; 6 P. M. cow breathing hard, lung affected, cough dry; blistered sides with croton oil and turpentine; gave opium one drachm, tartar emetic two drachms. On the 15th dressed blisters, gave gruel; breathing easier, and brighter about the eyes, purging setting in again; gave camphor and gentian each two drachms, and opium one drachm in gruel: 1 P. M. gave gruel again; cow appeared easier; 6 P. M. purging less, gave gruel. On 16th cow better and brighter, purging stopped, breathing less; dressed sides, gave gruel; cow picks a little Australian hay for the first time. On 17th cow better; dung bright in colour, but still fetid; gave gruel; eats a little dry hay and green grass. The cow from this time had no bad symptoms and was discharged cured.

Case II.—A white bullock entered in April 11th. Coat staring, large discharge from mouth and nose, breathing quick and fetid, dung of a blackish colour; gave epsom salts one lb., powder of capsicum one ounce, turpentine four ounces, and gruel. On 12th bullock purged, smell fetid, dull in coat; breathing slightly decreased; flow of saliva from mouth and discharge from nose less; gave camphor one drachm, spirit nitric ether six ounces, aromatic spirit of ammonia two drachms: 1 P. M. gave gruel; bullock dull, purging lots of mucus and small quantities of blood, and very fetid: 6 P. M. purging less; bullock dull; gave ginger and gentia of each two drachms, with beer in gruel. On 13th bowels more healthy, less fetid, eyes brighter, less fever; gave camphor one drachm, nitrate of potass two ounces in beer gruel: 1 P. M. gave gruel; looking better but not feeding: 6 P. M. purging stopped; dung healthy in colour; eats nothing. On 14th bullock better; eyes brighter, breathing little harder; breath less fetid, dung rather hard, but healthy, refuses all food; gave beer gruel, lays down with head straight out and groans a little: 1 P. M. gave tartar emetic two drachms, nitre two ounces, ginger one ounce; 6 P. M. dung healthy in colour, but hard; eats nothing; gave epsom salts two ounces, camphor two drachms, powder capsicum two drachms. On 15th bullock not so well, breathing greatly increased; blistered both sides with croton oil and turpentine; gave tartar emetic one drachm, nitre two ounces, turpentine two ounces in gruel: 1 P. M. no better, blister upsetting the animal: 6 P. M. the same; gave gruel. On 16th blisters taken, dressed; breathing easier, but grunting; bowels well opened, but not much purged; a quantity of gas passing off from intestine; gave assafœtida two drachms, powder capsicum one drachm, camphor one drachm: 1 P. M. easier; gave gruel; looking about; left off grunting: 6 P. M. gave beer gruel. On 17th dressed blisters; bullock looking better; coat smoothed, eyes brighter and fuller, breathing easier, beginning for first time to pick Australian hay. This bullock had no relapse from this time, and with nursing and good feeding completely recovered."

These two cases exemplify the mode of treatment which in Mr. Greenhill's hands has been most successful, and under which he has saved about 50 per cent. Mr. Rutherford has kindly furnished the following summary of his treatment:—"Many of the cases, in fact all that I admitted into hospital, were put into cool, airy, and thoroughly healthy boxes. My earliest cases were treated, if purging was present, with brandy and tincture of opium, (laudanum,) and on relief being given this was followed by frequent doses of quinine, brandy, and ammonia, in different forms, invariably the purging returned and as invariably sinking and death. At one gentleman's request, and on consideration of his theory of the disease, I opened the skin, made wounds and injected and inserted on sponge infusion of quassia; the result was death in the two or three cases experimented on. Different mixtures were applied to the head to keep the flies off, such as those of camphor, turpentine, creasote, and tar water. One case, that of a very fine young Devon bull, recently imported, and in which the symptoms were peculiarly violent, I had removed to a large airy box, and at once gave a mixture containing the liquor ammonia acetas and sulphate of magnesia, (epsom salts,) inserted a seton on each side of the throat and fired his spine, and twice a day applied a strong solution of the nitrate of silver to the base of the tongue and pharynx; he had large quantities of gruel poured down his throat, and stimulants of every description; and also Donovan's solution of arsenic was administered; this medicine was also given in several other cases, and with no satisfactory results. This animal, like all treated at this period, died. In March the disease became more amenable to treatment, as it was also becoming lessened in intensity and in numbers of animals attacked, and from this period cases did recover. One case especially is deserving of notice. A cow, the property of Mr. Cockerell, of Allipore, which had the disease in a well-marked form, and from the precautions I adopted for the protection of the other cattle in his homestead, the disease did not extend. The treatment adopted in this case, stimulating the throat both internally and externally daily; administration of large and repeated doses of camphor, sweet spirit of nitre, nitrate of potass or nitre and bhang, and a sufficient quantity of whey to form a drench, and the diet such as she would herself select. I experienced great difficulty in many cases from the total suspension of rumination, and from the affected condition of the third stomach, preventing the free and absolute passage of medicines administered into the system, I had to puncture the rumen in many instances to allow of the escape of gas generated in the decomposition of undigested food; in some cases I passed a tube into the stomach, which allowed the escape of gas as fast as it formed, and by means of which I could pour in stimulants with the view of rousing the rumen into action. I am satisfied, from the results of my latter cases, that the most effectual treatment consists in mild laxatives, combined with powerful diffusible stimulants, and particularly counter-irritation by setoning and blistering over the right side, especially towards the false ribs. Setons to the region of the throat I also recommend, and supporting the strength with the best and most nutritious diet in a liquid form. There are many things which will suggest themselves in special cases to the observer.

"In many cases I noticed great relief obtained from sponging the body frequently with vinegar and water. I think there is great difficulty in pointing out a remedy within the means of the poor class of native cattle-owners, unless they confine themselves to preventive measures and to the use of native purging medicines, combined aromatics and stimulants."

Mr. Floyd has advocated the employment of turpentine and linseed, and towards the end of the Calcutta Epizootic this treatment was most efficacious where it was tried. It is one that we believe might be more extensively and with much confidence again carried out; it is certainly well worthy of trial, being within the reach of all.

We may give the following as the general indications of treatment to be followed:—

I.—Placing the patient in a well ventilated open place, with plenty of clean straw, a dry flooring, and scrupulous cleanliness.

II.—Aperients and diffusible stimulants, such as ammonia, ether, camphor, the nitrate of potass, and sedatives, of which the Cannabis Indica, Indian hemp, or bhang, is perhaps the most valuable, and in this country the most readily commanded.

III.—Counter-irritants, such as turpentine and croton oil embrocations, setons smeared with some stimulants, especially croton oil, as being quick in its action, and these may be applied to the throat and sides of the chest, and especially over the right side and region of the liver.

IV.—Nutritious and even stimulating drenches, gruel made with beer, arrowroot, linseed, and even alcohol or ether, may be mixed occasionally with these drenches, and fresh green fodder or any fresh wholesome food, whenever the animal shews a disposition to pick any.

V.—Sponging the body, especially the head, nares, and around the eyes, with cooling washes, such as vinegar and water, which will give a feeling of relief and coolness, and tar water or kerosine may be employed with the view of keeping off the flies which swarm about the diseased animal.

VI.—Supporting the strength in every possible way during convalescence.

To those conversant with the treatment of cattle the above record of cases and indications for treatment of the disease are ample; but to many who have no opportunity of consulting a professional man, or even of obtaining the remedies we have mentioned at once, a few plain directions may be of value, and the ingredients we select are to be procured in almost every bazaar in the country.

In the first stage the following may be given as an aperient drench :—

Epsom salts eight ounces, common salt eight ounces, powdered ginger, or pepper, or any aromatic stimulant one to three ounces, mixed up in conjee water, or plain water, and given as a drench. At the same time employ hot water fomentations to the throat, or stronger counter-irritants. If the premonitory symptoms are severe, turpentine six ounces, croton oil one ounce, is a sharp and effectual counter-irritant, and, if procurable, ammonia,—the strong liquid—may be added, and this rubbed in over the fauces, the chest, the right side over the liver, and along the spine.

The bowels having been acted upon, the next object is to sustain the vital powers and stamina, and sedatives, combined with direct stimulants, should be given with an unsparing hand. The following will be found useful:—Camphor one ounce, bhang four ounces, (any preparation of Cannabis Indica, but that met with and sold in the bazaar answers very well,) carbonate of ammonia four drachms, brandy one pint, given in a quart of water, or, when procurable, whey.

When the dysenteric symptoms supervene, we can only recommend a steady exhibition of gruel and mucilaginous drinks and stimulants; the so-called astringents, kino chalk, &c, have not been found sufficiently successful in their action to warrant our recommending them for trial.

A strong solution of nitrate of silver, a scruple to the ounce, should be applied to the swollen tongue, and as far down the fauces as practicable; if this is not obtainable, sponging the tongue and fauces with a solution of common salt will be of service.

Where expense is not an object, we would suggest a trial of large doses of quinine and ipecacuanha: the treatment has not been, so far as we are aware, tried; but the wonderful influence the latter drug exercises in the human subject in cases of dysentery with hepatic complication, and having here before us a disease which rapidly runs into a deadly dysentery, induces us to suggest a trial of this remedy: it should be resorted to on the first appearance of dysenteric purging, at the same time we would perseveringly administer stimulants, nutritious drenches, and counter-irritants.

The above comprises all we have to suggest as regards the therapeutic or remedial measures which are likely to be of service; and admitting a loss of even 90 per cent. of cattle treated, and which is certainly taking the highest possible ratio, and bearing in mind that towards the decline of the epizootic the cases which came under review were milder and more amenable to treatment, until we find Mr. Greenhill returning a ratio of at least fifty cures per 100 treated, we are justified, we consider, in urging a full trial of the remedial measures we have above given, and in encouraging all who may unfortunately be visited by this disease to patiently and perseveringly carry out the measures we have recommended, and not to be disheartened at even repeated failures. We cannot hold out prospects of great success; but we believe that many valuable cattle will be saved by attention to the rules we have laid down. We would most certainly not recommend the wholesale slaughtering of cattle which our countrymen in England appear to have so universally, and, as we think, unadvisedly, recommended on the first outbreak of the disease; but which, we are glad to find, has received a check. We cannot refrain from quoting an extract from one of the many able and practical articles which have appeared in the London Times; it gives encouragement and is replete with practical common sense: "What strikes us most is the facility with which farmers and veterinary surgeons abandon themselves to despair, so far as regards all hope of successful treatment, and resort to the extreme measure of prohibition and destruction. We could do this, of course, if we were the merest savages, ready to believe a demon had passed over our cattle, and glad to fall back on our yams and plantains; but we are rather better than savages, and we profess to have some power over the diseases of man and beast. It is a very humbling confession that is made by our medical authorities when they tell us to kill at once, for there is nothing else to be done. All our epidemics from cholera and small-pox down to scarlatina measles and the common influenza do much less mischief under some treatments than others."—(See Evening Mail of August 21st). Such opinions, backed by the knowledge that experience has proved their truth and value, incites us to be up and doing, to use our skill and observation and experience to our utmost ability to combat the dire, but by no means universally fatal disease, which is apparently extending itself over every country of the world.

We have confined our remarks thus far to the purely therapeutic and remedial measures to be enforced in cases of actual disease. There yet remains an even more important branch of the subject to be noticed, viz., the prevention of the disease and the checking it when once it has shown itself in a district, village or homestead. To fully enunciate our views on this most important subject would carry us far into the recognised and admitted rules of general Hygiene, a science which of late has become generally studied, and which is working out much practical good. Without asserting that fresh air, fresh pure water, absolute cleanliness, wholesome and properly proportioned food, and a regulation of temperature will, combined, form a complete barrier against the attacks of all diseases of a malarious or epizootic nature, we are yet justified in advancing the opinion that these, which may be not incorrectly termed the foundation of hygiene, will so modify and dilute, if we may be permitted the expression, the epizootic "influence" or poison, that the disease will be of comparatively insignificant importance and danger. In proof of this we adduce the numerous instances which have already been brought to notice of dairies in London having wholly escaped the epizootic there owing to their advanced hygienic state, whilst others in their immediate vicinity have been actually swept away. Too great stress cannot therefore be laid on these points as protective against epizootic disease; but should the disease effect an inroad, he question of how to check its further spread is one of the utmost importance. Prompt and complete separation of the healthy from the affected nd suspected cattle is to be enforced. To effect his it may be a question as to whether the still ealthy cattle should be removed to another and n untainted spot, or the diseased animal taken to ome place especially set aside for its reception and reatment. The latter will be the more generally easible plan, but when it is practicable to remove he unaffected cattle, we believe this proceeding he more likely to be successful in checking the isease; this may, however, involve constant hange, and thus render its being fully carried out n the great majority of cases impracticable.

In the mofussil, where occasionally almost unlimited space is at command, this course should, we think, be insisted upon; early separation, however, is absolutely to be carried out, and not only of the animals themselves, but of every article they have come in contact with that can be removed, and fixtures must be at once and thoroughly disinfected. Straw, dung, hay troughs, and such like should be removed, burnt or disinfected; the stall in which the animal stood should not be again used, but thoroughly cleansed out and disinfected, and it would be well were some cheap disinfectant sprinkled over the stalls containing the healthy cattle; night and morning a small quantity of McDougall's disinfecting powder might be dusted lightly over the stalls and sheds. Mr. Murray, in a letter to the Times, says he has long adopted this course in his stalls at Manchester with excellent result, and "the cost does not exceed one penny per week per horse." All animals dying should be buried without a moment's delay, not skinned; and no animals should be allowed to approach the burial-ground until some time has elapsed since the last interment.

Although in the epizootic of Calcutta condition appeared to be no protection, yet, as a general rule, we should expect to find the poor, ill-fed and dirty cattle more susceptible, and their physical state should be improved as far as possible.

The question of inoculation has been mooted, and by some the experiment has been strongly urged; we learn that it was tried in 100 cases on the continent and that all died.—(See "Veterinarian" of 1857, page 527, a Report of Central Society of Agriculture of France.)

There are accounts also of its having been tried in Africa and Australia, and with success; but, so far as we learn, not for the disease we have been treating of, but for "pleuro-pneumonia," and we believe the two epizootics have been not unfrequently confounded. Should the disease again appear, the practice of inoculation may be, and will be, here tried and the results made known. It would be most hazardous to recommend the experiment, except as an experiment, and one on which we are quite unable at present to risk an opinion.

We would suggest that wherever there are large gatherings of cattle, as at some of our large fairs and agricultural exhibitions, a veterinary surgeon should be officially appointed to inspect all cattle brought to these places and any cattle suffering from any disease should at once be removed and subsequently dealt with as the inspector, in consultation with the police authorities, might deem expedient. Should the cattle be condemned to be killed, the owner might be wholly, or in part, remunerated for his loss.

Having thus submitted our views of the nature of the Calcutta epizootic and its treatment, we may conclude this paper by a brief summary.

1*st*.—The cattle disease, which assumed an epizootic character in Calcutta in 1864, was not the result of the herding together of cattle at the exhibition, nor did it break out there, it existed in a grave form prior to the exhibition.

2*nd*.—The disease is of a highly infectious and contagious nature, but we have no grounds for concluding that it was imported into the neighbourhood; it had existed in a sporadic form for years before it assumed a true epizootic character.

3*rd*.—The symptoms, progress, and great fatality, all lead to the conclusion that it is the same disease as that known as the "rinderpest," which always exists in certain parts of Russia, and is the same epizootic as that at present raging in England.

4*th*.—That it is confined to the bovine race and is not communicable to other animals, nor to man. (Mr. Floyd's account, however, would rather negative this, as he believes two horses caught the disease and died of it.)

5*th*.—That although no specific has been discovered, yet that judicious and careful treatment promises success. Such treatment consists in mild purgatives, combined with aromatic stimulants, and diffusible stimulants, as ether, nutritious and stimulating drenches, such as beer drenches, counter-irritants, free circulation of air, and scrupulous cleanliness.

6*th*.—That careful hygienic measures are of the greatest importance, such as wholesome food, pure water, fresh air; removal from jungles, and other sources of malaria, and in case of an invasion of the disease, complete and absolute separation of the healthy from the diseased and suspected cattle, the immediate destruction of every article or substance that can hold the infectious properties of the disease, and careful cleanliness of the premises occupied by cattle, and disinfectants scattered on the floors, &c.

We would lastly draw attention that, although the disease we have been treating of is one of the most fatal, it appears to be one the least generally recognised, amongst the several epizootics in India, to which diseases the term ghootee or bussunt, or some other name signifying small-pox is given, yet that no true variola or small-pox really appears in any of the descriptions. The very fatal epizootic in which vesicular eruptions are observed is probably the eczema epizootica. Pleuro-pneumonia is doubtless common, and the disease which we have treated of is the "rinderpest."

In India we were accustomed to the terms "cattle plague" and "cattle disease," when our attention was drawn to the subject in 1864, and our fears that the epizootic would become more formidable than it did were aroused. We hear much now of "cattle plague" and "cattle disease" in England; no distinguishing name has been given it; it is not even classified so far as we know, and we have therefore, in the want of a better term, designated the disease we have treated of as the "Calcutta epizootic of 1864."

Agricultural Show to be held at Chootea near Ranchee in February 1866.

From Lieutenant-Colonel E. T. Dalton, Commissioner of Chota Nagpore, to S. C. Bayley, Esq., Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 1931, dated the 25th October 1865)

Sir,

In continuation of previous correspondence, I do myself the honor to submit the annexed notification and prize list relating to the Chota Nagpore Agricultural Show to be held at Chootea, near Ranchee, in connection with the usual Annual Fair in February next, and solicit that, if approved, they may be published in the Calcutta Government Gazette.

NOTIFICATION.

The usual Annual Chota Nagpore Fair will be held at Chootea, near Ranchee, from the 1st to the 15th of February 1866.

During the last week of the Fair a show of cattle and agricultural produce will be held, and prizes amounting in the aggregate to about Rupees 3,000 will be awarded for the best specimens of live-stock, implements, and produce named in the subjoined list.

Intending exhibitors should intimate to the Managing Committee their intentions to compete for prizes in the separate classes. This intimation should be given on or before the first day of the Fair.

E. T. Dalton, Lieut.-Col.,
Commissioner of Chota Nagpore and President of Divisional Committee.

Chota Nagpore,
The 24th October 1865.

Government of Bengal.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 2nd December 1865, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon after the 6th of January 1866:—

A Bill to amend certain provisions of Act XIII of 1856 (for regulating the Police of the Towns of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay), and of Act XLVIII of 1860 (to amend Act XIII of 1856.)

Preamble.

Whereas the Magistrates of Police for the Town of Calcutta are at present authorised to punish with whipping only adult male offenders under Section 27, and juvenile male offenders under Clause 2 Section 26, of the said Act XIII of 1856, and it is expedient that other offenders also, in cases summarily cognizable by such Magistrates, should be rendered liable to the same punishment, and that the mode of inflicting such punishment should be duly regulated; and whereas it has been found expedient to extend the control now vested by law in the Commissioner of Police for the Town of Calcutta, over places of public resort and entertainment, wherein provisions, liquors, or refreshments are sold or consumed: It is enacted as follows:—

Parts of Acts XIII of 1856 and XLVIII of 1860 repealed.

I. Clause 2 Section 26 of the said Act XIII of 1856, and Sections 11, 12, and 13 of the said Act XLVIII of 1860, so far as they relate to the Town of Calcutta, are hereby repealed; and the following Sections shall be read with, and taken as part of, the said Act XIII of 1856.

In what cases whipping may be awarded in lieu of, or in addition to, other punishment.

II. If any male person shall be convicted of an offence summarily punishable with imprisonment under the provisions of the said Acts XIII of 1856 and XLVIII of 1860, he may be punished with whipping in lieu of any punishment to which he may, for such offence, be liable under any of the provisions of the said Act; and if any such person as aforesaid, having been previously convicted of any one of the offences hereinbefore specified, shall again be convicted of the same offence, he may be punished with whipping in lieu of, or in addition to, any other punishment to which he may for such offence be liable.

Mode of executing sentence of whipping.

III. In the case of an adult male, the punishment of whipping shall be inflicted with such instrument, in such mode, and on such part of the person, as the Local Government shall direct, and in the case of a juvenile offender, it shall be inflicted in the way of school discipline with a light rattan. In no case, if the cat-of-nine-tails be the instrument employed, shall the punishment of whipping exceed one hundred and fifty lashes, or if the rattan be employed, shall the punishment exceed thirty stripes. The punishment shall be inflicted in the presence of the Magistrate who shall have passed the sentence, or of any Officer of the grade of Superintendent of Police whom the said Magistrate may, by an order in writing, appoint to carry out the execution of such sentence, and also, unless the Magistrate shall otherwise order, in the presence of a Medical Officer.

Sentence not to be executed if offender be not in a fit state of health.

IV. No sentence of whipping shall be carried into execution unless a Medical Officer, if present, shall certify, or unless it shall appear to the Magistrate who shall have passed such sentence, that the offender is in a fit state of health to undergo the punishment; and if, during the execution of a sentence of whipping, a Medical Officer shall certify, or if it shall appear to such other Officer as aforesaid, that the offender is not in a fit state of health to undergo the remainder of the punishment, execution shall be stayed. No sentence of whipping shall be executed by instalments.

Nor by instalments.

Procedure if sentence be not executed.

V. In any case in which, under the last preceding Section of this Act, no part of a sentence of whipping is carried into execution, the offender shall be kept in custody for any period not exceeding twenty-four hours, to enable the Court which passed the sentence to revise it, and the said Court may, at its discretion, either order the discharge of the offender, or sentence him, in lieu of whipping, to imprisonment for any period, and such period may be in addition to any other punishment to which he may have been sentenced for the same offence: Provided that the whole period of imprisonment shall not exceed that to which the offender is liable under the provisions of the Section under which he may have been convicted, and of Section II of this Act.

Penalty for keeping a Hotel, &c., without a license.

VI. Whoever in the Town of Calcutta has or keeps any Hotel, Tavern, Punch house, Ale-house, Arrack or Toddy-shop, or place for the sale or consumption of Ganja, Chundoo, or other preparation of Opium, Hemp, or other intoxicating drug, plant, or substance, or any Eating-house, Lodging-house, or other place of public resort and entertainment, wherein provisions, liquors, or refreshments are sold or consumed (whether the same be kept or retailed therein or procured elsewhere) without a license to be obtained in the manner hereinafter mentioned, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty Rupees for every day that the said house or place of entertainment is kept open, or the sale of provisions, liquors, or refreshments is continued, without the necessary license. Provided that nothing in this Act shall apply to the sale in reasonable quantities of any drug, plant, or substance in any Chemist's or Druggist's shop for medicinal purposes only.

Excise license not to be granted without Certificate of Commissioner of Police.

VII. No license shall be granted under the provisions of Act XI of 1849 to any person who may keep, or desire to keep, any such house or place of public resort and entertainment as aforesaid in any locality within the Town of Calcutta, unless such person shall produce a Certificate from the Commissioner of Police stating that a license may be granted to him for the sale of spirituous liquors or intoxicating drugs, as the case may be, within such locality without risk or detriment to the preservation of peace and good order in the Town, and containing a full statement of such conditions as may have been imposed and shall have remained in force under the provisions hereinafter contained at the date when such license shall be granted. No license so granted shall be renewable without a fresh Certificate as aforesaid previously obtained from the Commissioner of Police, subject to the order and control of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

Duration and conditions of license.

VIII. It shall be competent to the Commissioner of Police, subject to the direction and control of the said Lieutenant-Governor, to limit, in such Certificate as aforesaid, the period for which the license may be granted, and also to fix such conditions as he may deem necessary for securing the good behaviour of the keepers of the houses and places of entertainment as aforesaid and for the prevention of drunkenness and disorder among the persons frequenting or using the same, and from time to time to vary such conditions subject to such direction and control as aforesaid; and no license granted under the said Act XI of 1849 shall be valid unless it shall contain such conditions as shall have been imposed and shall remain in force for the time being under this Section.

Penalty for a breach of any condition of a license.

IX. Any person committing a breach of any of the conditions of a license granted under the last preceding Section shall not only be liable to the forfeiture of his license, at the discretion of the Commissioner of Police, but shall also, on conviction before a Magistrate, be punishable by a fine not exceeding one hundred Rupees; and such fine shall be recovered from the person licensed, notwithstanding that such breach may have been owing to the default or carelessness of the servant or other person in charge of the shop or place of sale.

Fee for Certificate.

X. For every Certificate so issued by the Commissioner of Police under this Act there shall be levied a fee of one Rupee.

Penalty for driving a cart with ungreased wheels.

XI. Whoever by driving a hackery or cart with insufficiently greased wheels within the limits defined under the provisions of Section 19 of Act XLVIII. of 1860, shall create a noise which is reasonably calculated to cause annoyance to persons frequenting or residing near the thoroughfare in which such hackery or cart is driven, shall be liable on conviction to the penalty prescribed by the aforesaid Section.

Act to be read as part of Act XIII of 1856.

XII. This Act shall be read with, and taken as part of, the said Act XIII of 1856.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

By Clause 2, Section 26 of Act XIII of 1856 Magistrates of Police for the Town of Calcutta are vested with the power of sentencing male offenders whose youth may seem to render it advisable, to corporal punishment, instead of imprisonment, whenever they may be convicted of offences summarily punishable with imprisonment under that Act; and in cases of theft the Magistrates may, under the provisions of Section 27 of the same Act, award a like punishment to all male offenders: but the law contains no regulations as to the mode in which a sentence of corporal punishment is to be executed, and provides no precautionary measures for testing the convict's physical condition and fitness to undergo this form of punishment.

Act VI of 1864, which gives a much wider jurisdiction in regard to the infliction of corporal punishment, and contains ample security in its provisions for the humane execution of such sentences, has reference only to cases punishable under the Penal Code; whilst the Magistrates of the Police for the Town of Calcutta act exclusively within the jurisdiction vested in them by Act XIII of 1856.

By Section 12 of Act XLVIII of 1860 the Commissioner of Police is required to grant a license to any keeper of a hotel, tavern, shop, or place used for the sale or consumption of spirituous liquors or intoxicating drugs, subject to such conditions as the Commissioner, acting under the general control and orders of the local Government, may see fit to impose with the object of preserving the peace and good order of the Town of Calcutta.

Every vendor of spirituous liquors and intoxicating drugs by retail must also have obtained a license from the Excise Officers under the provisions of Act XI of 1849.

In this state of the law it has been found that the degree of control vested in the Commissioner of Police over the vendors of spirituous liquors, &c, within the Town of Calcutta is insufficient for the due maintenance of order in the Town, and it is deemed expedient to amend the law so as to give that Officer full power to put his veto on the grant of a license, or the opening of a shop for the sale of liquors, &c., where the grant of such license, or the establishment of such shop or place for the sale of liquors, may be deemed detrimental to the preservation of the peace of the Town.

The object of the present Bill is to extend the power now exercised by the Magistrates of Police for the Town of Calcutta in the infliction of corporal punishment, and to provide for the humane and proper execution of such sentences; and also to strengthen the hands of the Commissioner of Police for the preservation of the peace of the Town, by providing that no license for the sale of spirituous liquors, &c., shall be granted without his sanction previously obtained in the form of a Certificate to the effect that such license may be granted.

F. R. COCKERELL,

The 25th November 1865.

G. S. FAGAN,

Asst. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal,
Legislative Department.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 2nd December 1865, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon after the 6th of January 1866 :—

A Bill to amend certain provisions of Regulation VI. of 1819 (for rescinding Regulation XIX., 1816, and for enacting other provisions in lieu thereof.)

WHEREAS it is expedient to define more exactly the limits within which persons are prohibited from employing a ferry-boat plying for hire in the vicinity of a public Ferry, and also to provide some penalty for the wilful disregard of such prohibition; It is enacted as follows :—

Preamble.

I. Section 6, of Regulation VI. of 1819 of the Bengal Code, so far as it relates to the Provinces under the control of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, is hereby repealed.

Section 6, Regulation VI., 1819, repealed.

II. Every Ferry which has been declared public under the provisions of the said Regulation VI. of 1819 shall belong exclusively to Government, and no person shall, except with the sanction of the Magistrate of the District or other Officer duly empowered to authorise such employment, be allowed to employ a ferry-boat plying for hire, for the purpose of crossing the same river or canal, within a distance of two miles from the place where the public Ferry is established.

Exclusive right to public Ferries vested in Government, and the employment of private Ferries in the vicinity prohibited.

III. Any person who wilfully acts in disregard of this injunction shall be deemed to have been guilty of the offence of criminal trespass, and shall be liable to the punishment provided by Section 447 of the Penal Code.

Penalty for disregarding injunction of preceding Section.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

AN exclusive property in public Ferries is vested in Government by Section 6 of Regulation VI. of 1819, and the Magistrate is empowered thereby to prohibit the employment of any ferry-boat plying for hire at or in their immediate vicinity without his previous sanction; but the law provides no penalty for any breach of this prohibitory order.

Under the law as it stood previous to the introduction of the Penal Code, any person guilty of wilful disregard of the Magistrate's injunction was held to be punishable for a misdemeanor, and, on the Penal Code coming into operation, persons so infringing the prohibitory order of the Magistrate were treated as liable to the penalties prescribed by its Section 188.

In the High Court's decision (24th September 1862) in the case of Ramnath Chowdhuree, it was ruled that the "injury" referred to in the Section before-mentioned implied injury to the person and not to the property. The result of this judgment is, therefore, that the only remedy provided by law against an infringement of the Magistrate's order disallowing the establishment of ferry-boats plying for hire in the immediate vicinity of a public Ferry lies in an action, against the person acting in defiance of such order, in the Civil Court.

The object of the present Bill is to define with more precision the limits within which the Magistrate's prohibitory order disallowing the employment of ferry-boats plying for hire without his sanction is to have effect; and to declare the infringement of such order to be a criminal offence, and the offender liable to the penalties prescribed for criminal trespass under Section 447 of the Penal Code.

F. R. COCKERELL.

The 25th November 1865.

G. S. FAGAN,

Asst. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal,
Legislative Department.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 9th December 1865, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon after the 13th of January 1866 :—

A Bill to provide for the better regulation of the Police within the Suburbs of the Town of Calcutta.

WHEREAS it is expedient to exclude the Suburbs of the Town of Calcutta from the general Police District of Bengal, and to make provision for the better regulation of the Police within the limits so excluded; It is enacted as follows :—

Preamble.

I. It shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal to exclude the Suburbs of the Town of Calcutta from the general Police District of the Provinces subject to his control, and the limits of the tract of country so excluded shall be defined in a notification to be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

The Suburbs may be excluded from the general Police District.

The Police Force to be under the control of the Commissioner of Police for Calcutta.

II. The Police Force of the Suburbs of the Town of Calcutta shall be under the exclusive direction and control of the Commissioner of Police of the Town of Calcutta, who may from time to time, subject to the approbation of the said Lieutenant-Governor, frame such orders and regulations as he shall deem expedient, relative to the general government of the Force, the places of residence, the classification, rank, distribution, and particular service of the several Members thereof, their inspection, and the description of arms, accoutrements, and other necessaries to be furnished to them; and all such other orders and regulations relative to the said Police Force as the said Commissioner shall, from time to time, deem expedient for preventing neglect or abuse, and for rendering such force efficient in the discharge of all its duties.

Appointment, &c., of the Force to rest with the Commissioner.

III. The appointment of the Members of the Police Force shall rest with the Commissioner of Police, and he may, at any time, suspend or dismiss any Member of the Force whom he shall think remiss or negligent in the discharge of his duty, or otherwise unfit for the same.

Commissioner may fine for lesser breaches of discipline.

IV. For any lesser breach of discipline, or misconduct not requiring the suspension or dismissal of the offender, a Member of the Police Force may be fined by the Commissioner in any sum not exceeding one-half of his monthly pay.

Additional penalties for neglect of duty, &c.

V. For neglect or violation of duty in his office and for any breach of the orders and regulations framed as aforesaid, every Member of the Police Force, besides being suspended or dismissed from his employment at the discretion of the Commissioner, shall be liable, on conviction before a Magistrate, to a fine not exceeding one hundred Rupees, (which may be deducted from any salary then due to such offender,) or to imprisonment, simple or rigorous, for any term not exceeding three months.

Penalty for asking for or taking a bribe.

VI. Whoever, being a Member of the Police Force, asks for or takes any bribe or unauthorized reward, may be dismissed by order of the Commissioner, and, upon conviction before a Magistrate, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred Rupees, or to imprisonment of either description for any term not exceeding six months.

Police Officers not to resign without notice.

VII. No Member of the Police Force to be enrolled under this Act shall be at liberty to resign his office, or to withdraw himself from the duties thereof, unless expressly allowed so to do in writing by the Commissioner, or unless he shall have given to the Commissioner six months' notice of his intention if a Member of the Mounted Branch of the said Force, and two months' notice if a Member of any other branch; and every Member of the said Force who shall so resign or withdraw himself without such leave or notice shall be liable, on the order of the Commissioner, to forfeit all arrears of pay then due to him; and, on the sentence of a Magistrate, to pay a fine not exceeding fifty Rupees, or to undergo imprisonment of either description for any term not exceeding two months.

Police Officer to receive Certificate conferring the powers of a Constable.

VIII. Every Member of the Police Force shall receive on his enrolment a Certificate in the form hereunto annexed, under the signature of the Commissioner of Police, by virtue of which he shall be vested with the powers, functions, and privileges of a Constable. Such Certificate shall cease to have effect whenever the person named in it is suspended or dismissed, or otherwise removed from employment in the Force.

Penalty for dismissed Members not delivering up clothing, &c.

IX. Every Member of the Police Force who shall be dismissed from, or shall cease to hold and exercise his office, and who shall not forthwith deliver up his Certificate and all the clothing, accoutrements, and appointments, and other necessaries which may have been supplied to him for the execution of his duty, to the Commissioner, or to such person and at such time and place as shall be directed by the said Commissioner, shall be liable, on conviction before a Magistrate, to imprisonment of either description for any term not exceeding one month. And it shall be lawful for the Commissioner, or for any Magistrate, to issue his warrant to search for and seize all the clothing, accoutrements, appointments, and other necessaries which shall not be so delivered over, wherever the same may be found.

Superannuation Fund.

X. There shall be deducted from the pay of every Member of the Police Force, of a class not entitled to the benefit of the Uncovenanted Service Pension Rules, a sum after such rate as the Lieutenant-Governor shall direct, not being a greater rate than one-half anna in the Rupee, which sum so deducted, and also the moneys accruing from stoppages from Members of the Police Force during absence from sickness or other cause, and from fines imposed on Members thereof for misconduct, and from fines imposed by Magistrates upon drunken persons or for assaults upon Police Officers, and all moneys arising from the sale of worn or cast-off clothing or other articles supplied for the use of the Police, shall from time to time be invested in such manner and in such securities as the Lieutenant-Governor may in writing direct, and the interest and dividends thereof, or so much of the same as shall not be required for the purposes hereinafter mentioned, shall be likewise invested as aforesaid, and accumulate, so as to form a Fund, to be called, "The Police Superannuation Fund," and shall be applied from time to time to payment of such superannuation or retiring allowances or gratuities as may be ordered by the Lieutenant-Governor at any time to any of the aforesaid Members of the Police Force as hereinafter provided.

Superannuation pensions.

XI. It shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor to order that any Member of the Police Force as aforesaid who is incapacitated from further employment by old age, protracted ill-health, loss of sight, or other bodily or mental infirmity, may be superannuated, and receive thereupon, out of the Police Superannuation Fund, a monthly pension, subject to the following conditions and not exceeding the following proportions, that is to say—

First.—If the period during which the individual shall have been actually employed in the Police Force be more than sixteen years, but less than twenty-four years, the amount of the pension shall not exceed one-third of the monthly salary or authorized official allowances of such individual, calculated on an average of five years previously to the date of the application for such pension.

Secondly.—If the period of actual service be twenty-four years or upwards, the amount of the pension shall not exceed one-half of the salary or authorized allowances of the individual, calculated in the manner above stated. Provided that nothing in this or the preceding Section shall be construed to entitle any Member of the Police Force absolutely to any superannuation allowance, or to prevent him from being dismissed without superannuation allowance.

Allowance to Officers disabled by injury received in execution of duty.

XII. If any Officer of the Police Force as aforesaid shall be disabled by any wound or injury received in the actual execution of the duty of his office, it shall be lawful to grant to him, out of the Police Superannuation Fund, any monthly allowance not more than the half of his pay.

Appointment of Special Constables.

XIII. The Commissioner of Police may, of his own authority, appoint Special Constables to assist the Police Force on any temporary emergency.

And of additional Constables on the application of private individuals.

XIV. The Commissioner of Police may also, if he shall think fit, on the application of any person shewing the necessity of it, appoint any additional number of Constables to keep the peace at any place within the limits of the operation of this Act, at the charge of the person applying, but subject to the orders of the said Commissioner, and for such time as he shall think fit, and every such Constable shall receive a Certificate, by virtue of which he shall be vested with all the powers, privileges, and duties of the Constables belonging to the Police Force. Provided that the person upon whose application such appointment shall have been made may, upon giving one month's notice in writing to the Commissioner of Police, require that the Constables so appointed at his expense shall be discontinued, and thereupon the said Commissioner shall discontinue such additional Constables; and all moneys received by the Commissioner for the payment of any such additional Constables shall be accounted for by him.

Apprehension and punishment of reputed thieves, &c.

XV. A Police Officer may arrest without a warrant any person found, between sun-set and sun-rise, armed with any dangerous or offensive instrument whatsoever, with intent to commit any offence against the person or property of another; any reputed thief found, between sun-set and sun-rise, on board any vessel or boat, or lying or loitering in any bazaar, street, road, yard, thoroughfare, or other place, who shall not give a satisfactory account of himself; any person found, between sun-set and sun-rise, having his face covered or otherwise disguised, with intent to commit any such offence as aforesaid; any person found, between sun-set and sun-rise, in any dwelling-house or other building whatsoever, without being able satisfactorily to account for his presence therein; and any person having in his possession, without lawful excuse, (the proof of which excuse shall be on such person,) any implement of housebreaking; and such person shall be liable to imprisonment, with or without hard labor, for a term not exceeding three months.

Whoever, not being a soldier or sailor in the Army or Navy of the Queen or a Police Officer, goes armed with any sword, spear, gun, or other offensive weapon, in any street, thoroughfare, or public place, unless by leave of the Magistrate, shall be liable to be disarmed by any Police Officer; and the weapon so seized shall be forfeited to the Government, unless redeemed by payment of a fine, at the discretion of the Magistrate, not exceeding ten Rupees.

Brothels.

XVII. On proof to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of Police, or of a Magistrate, that a house is used as a common brothel, or lodging-house for prostitutes, or disorderly persons of any description, to the annoyance of the respectable inhabitants of the vicinity, such Commissioner or Magistrate may summon the owner or tenant of the house to answer the complaint, and on being satisfied that the house is so used, and is therefore a source of annoyance and offence to the neighbours, may order the owner or tenant to discontinue such use of it, and if he shall fail to comply with such order within five days, may impose upon him a fine to the extent of twenty-five Rupees for every day thereafter that the house shall be so used.

Excise license not to be granted without Certificate of Commissioner of Police.

XVIII. No license shall be granted under the provisions of Act XI of 1849 to any person who may keep, or desire to keep, any such house or place of public resort and entertainment as aforesaid in any locality within the Suburbs of the Town of Calcutta, unless such person shall produce a Certificate from the Commissioner of Police stating that a license may be granted to him for the sale of spirituous liquors or intoxicating drugs, as the case may be, within such locality without risk or detriment to the preservation of peace and good order in the Town, and containing a full statement of such conditions as may have been imposed and shall have remained in force under the provisions hereinafter contained at the date when such license shall be granted. No license so granted shall be renewable without a fresh Certificate as aforesaid previously obtained from the Commissioner of Police, subject to the order and control of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

Duration and conditions of license.

XIX. It shall be competent to the Commissioner of Police, subject to the direction and control of the said Lieutenant-Governor, to limit, in such Certificate as aforesaid, the period for which the license may be granted, and also to fix such conditions as he may deem necessary for securing the good behaviour of the keepers of the houses and places of entertainment as aforesaid and for the prevention of drunkenness and disorder among the persons frequenting or using the same, and from time to time to vary such conditions subject to such direction and control as aforesaid; and no license granted under the said Act XI of 1849 shall be valid, unless it shall contain such conditions as shall have been imposed and shall remain in force for the time being under this Section.

Penalty for a breach of any condition of a license.

XX. Any person committing a breach of any of the conditions of a license granted under the last preceding Section, shall not only be liable to the forfeiture of his license, at the discretion of the Commissioner of Police, but shall also, on conviction before a Magistrate, be punishable by a fine not exceeding one hundred Rupees; and such fine shall be recovered from the person licensed, notwithstanding that such breach may have been owing to the default or carelessness of the servant or other person in charge of the shop or place of sale

Penalty for keeping a Hotel, &c., without a license.

XXI. Whoever within the Suburbs of the Town of Calcutta has or keeps any Hotel, Tavern, Punch-house, Ale-house, Arrack or Toddy-shop, or place for the sale or consumption of Ganja, Chundoo, or other preparation of Opium, Hemp, or other intoxicating drug, plant, or substance, or any Eating house, Lodging-house, or other place of public resort and entertainment, wherein provisions, liquors, or refreshments are sold or consumed, (whether the same be kept or retailed therein or procured elsewhere,) without a license, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty Rupees for every day that the said house or place of entertainment is kept open, or the sale of provisions, liquors, or refreshments is continued, without the necessary license Provided that nothing in this Act shall apply to the sale in reasonable quantities of any drug, plant, or substance in any Chemists' or Druggists' shop for medicinal purposes only.

Fee for Certificate.

XXII For every Certificate so issued by the Commissioner of Police under this Act there shall be levied a fee of one Rupee.

Penalty for owning or keeping, or having charge of, a gaming house, &c

XXIII. Whoever, being the owner or occupier, or having the use of any house, room, or place, keeps or uses the same as a common gaming-house; and whoever, being the owner or occupier of any house or room, knowingly and wilfully permits the same to be kept or used by any other person as a common gaming-house; and whoever has the care or management of, or in any manner assists in conducting the business of any house, room, or place so kept or used; and whoever advances or furnishes money for the purpose of gaming with persons frequenting such house, room, or place—shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred Rupees, or to imprisonment, with or without hard labor, for any term not exceeding three months.

Penalty for being found playing in a gaming-house.

XXIV. Whoever is found in any such house, room, or place, playing at gaming with cards, dice, counters, money, or other instruments of gaming, or is found there present for the purpose of gaming, whether playing for any money, wager, stake, or otherwise, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred Rupees, or to imprisonment, with or without hard labor, for any term not exceeding one month; and any person found in any common gaming-house during any gaming or playing therein, shall be presumed, until the contrary be proved, to have been there for the purpose of gaming.

Commissioner or Magistrate may authorize certain Police Officers to enter a gaming-house for the purpose of search and seizure

XXV. If the Commissioner of Police or Magistrate, upon information on oath, and after such enquiry as he may think necessary, has reason to believe that any house, room, or place is used as a common gaming-house, he may, by his warrant, give authority to any superior Officer of Police to enter, with such assistance as may be found necessary, by night or by day, and by force if necessary, any such house, room, or other place; and to take into custody all persons whom he finds therein, whether or not then actually gaming; and to seize all instruments of gaming, and all moneys, and securities for money, and articles of value, reasonably suspected to have been used or intended to be used for the purpose of gaming, which are found therein; and to search all parts of the house, room, or place which he shall have so entered, when he has reason to believe that any instruments of gaming are concealed therein, and also the persons of those whom he so takes into custody; and to seize and take possession of all instruments of gaming found upon such search.

Common gaming-houses.

XXVI. When any cards, dice, gaming-table, or cloth, board, or other instruments of gaming are found in any house, room, or place, if information has been given on oath to the Commissioner of Police that it is suspected of being used as a common gaming-house, or about the person of any of those who are found therein, it shall be evidence, until the contrary is made to appear, that such house, room, or place is used as a common gaming-house, and that the persons found therein were there present for the purpose of gaming, although no play was actually seen by the Police Officer or any of his assistants.

On conviction for keeping a gaming-house, instruments of gaming to be destroyed, &c.

XXVII. On conviction of any person for keeping any such common gaming-house, or being present therein for the purpose of gaming, all the instruments of gaming found therein shall be destroyed by order of the Magistrate, who may also order all or any of the securities for money, and other articles seized, not being instruments of gaming, to be sold and converted into money, and the proceeds thereof, with all moneys seized therein, to be forfeited; or, in his discretion, may order any part thereof to be returned to the persons appearing to have been severally thereunto entitled. It shall not be necessary, in order to convict any person of keeping a common gaming-house, or of being concerned in the management of any common gaming-house, to prove that any person found playing at any game was playing for any money, wager, or stake.

Proof of playing for stakes unnecessary.

Witnesses indemnified.

XXVIII. Any person who shall have been concerned in gaming contrary to this Act, and who shall be examined as a witness before a Magistrate on the trial of any person for a breach of any of the provisions of this Act, relating to gaming, and who, upon such examination, shall make true and faithful discovery, to the best of his knowledge, of all things as to which he shall be so examined, and who shall thereupon receive from the said Magistrate a certificate in writing to that effect, shall be freed from all prosecutions under this Act for any thing done before that time in respect of such gaming.

Act not to apply to certain games

XXIX. Nothing in the foregoing provisions of this Act contained shall be held to apply to any game of mere skill played at licensed Hotels, Taverns, or Eating-houses, or places of public resort.

Portion of fine may be paid to informer.

XXX. The Magistrate may direct any portion, not exceeding one-fourth, of any fine which shall be levied under Sections XXIII and XXIV of this Act, or any part of the money or proceeds of articles seized, and ordered to be forfeited under Section XXVII, to be paid to an informer.

Gambling in the streets.

XXXI. A Police Officer may apprehend without warrant any person found gaming with cards, dice, counters, money, or other instruments of gaming, in any public street, place, or thoroughfare; and such person shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty Rupees, or to imprisonment, with or without hard labor, for any term not exceeding one month; and such instruments of gaming and money shall be forfeited.

Pawn-brokers and money-changers to report stolen property under a penalty for neglect.

XXXII. If any property regarding which written or printed information shall be given by any Police Officer to any pawn-broker, or dealer in second-hand property, or money-changer, as having been stolen, embezzled, or fraudulently obtained, shall then be, or thereafter come into the possession of, or be offered in pawn, or for sale, or change, to such pawn-broker, dealer, or money-changer, he shall, without unnecessary delay, give information at the nearest Police Office that certain property, answering the description of the said property, was offered to him or is in his possession, and shall also state the name and address given by the party by whom the same was offered, or from whom the same was received, under a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees for each and every such neglect or offence; provided always that, in the case of wearing apparel or other articles, which it may be difficult for such pawn-broker or dealer to trace out and identify, no fine shall be exigible in respect of not reporting such articles, unless it shall appear to the Magistrate that such articles had been knowingly concealed by such pawn broker or dealer.

If stolen articles be altered or defaced by broker, after information of the theft, he shall be deemed a receiver of stolen goods

XXXIII. If any pawn-broker or dealer in second-hand goods, or worker in gold or silver, after receiving information of the theft, or the embezzling, or the fraudulent disposal of any metals, goods, or articles of whatsoever description, melts, alters, defaces, or puts away the same, or causes the same to be melted, altered, defaced, or put away, without having previously received the permission of the Magistrate, and it shall be found that such metals, goods, or articles were stolen, embezzled, or fraudulently disposed of by the person from whom such pawn-broker, dealer, or worker received the same, or by any other person, then and in such case it shall be held that such pawn-broker, dealer, or worker knew that such metals, goods, or articles were stolen, embezzled, or fraudulently disposed of; and such pawn-broker, dealer, or worker shall be proceeded against, according to law, as a receiver of stolen goods, or as being a party to the fraud, and punished accordingly: and no other evidence of his guilt shall be necessary than evidence of such melting, altering, defacing, or putting away, after receiving information as aforesaid.

Manufacture or possession of Gunpowder.

XXXIV. Whoever manufactures Gunpowder or, without a license from the Commissioner of Police, has in his possession, in any house, shop, warehouse, or other building, at any one time, a greater quantity of Gunpowder than ten pounds, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred Rupees, and also to forfeit such Gunpowder so manufactured or possessed, together with the vessel or receptacle in which it may be contained.

Licenses by Commissioner of Police for sale and deposit of Gunpowder, &c.

XXXV. The Commissioner of Police may grant to any person a license for the sale or keeping in deposit of any quantity of Gunpowder not exceeding fifty pounds, on such conditions, and for such term, not exceeding one year, as shall be specified in the license; and any person who shall be guilty of a breach of any of such conditions, shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred Rupees, and to forfeit all Gunpowder so kept in deposit contrary thereto, and the vessels containing it, and also, in the discretion of the Magistrate, or of the Commissioner, to forfeit his license.

Licenses for conveying and removing Gunpowder.

XXXVI. The Commissioner of Police may grant to any person a license for the transit and carrying of Gunpowder from one place to another, in such manner and in such quantity as he may deem advisable; and any person, not being duly licensed in that behalf, who carries or conveys a greater quantity of Gunpowder than one pound from one place to another, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Commissioner of Police may issue warrant to search for Gunpowder, &c.

XXXVII. The Commissioner of Police, on credible information laid before him on oath, may issue his warrant authorizing a Police Officer to search in the day-time any house, shop, magazine, or other building or place in which he has reasonable ground to suspect that any Gunpowder is manufactured, sold, or kept, or any boat, carriage, cart, or other vehicle in which any Gunpowder may be suspected to be carried, or any person suspected of carrying the same contrary to the provisions of this Act; and all Gunpowder found on such search shall, together with the vessels or receptacles in which it may be stored, be immediately seized and kept, pending the judgment of a Magistrate.

Act not to apply to Government powder, &c.

XXXVIII. None of the four last preceding Sections shall extend to any Government magazine, or store, or building for the making or deposit of Gunpowder under the authority, or for the use of the Government, or to any Gunpowder belonging to Government.

Commissioner may make rules for the conduct of assemblies and processions.

XXXIX. The Commissioner of Police, from time to time, as occasion may require, may, subject to the orders of the Lieutenant-Governor, make rules for the conduct of all assemblies and processions in the public roads, streets, or thoroughfares within the limits aforesaid, prescribing the routes by which, and the times at which, such processions may pass, and for keeping order in the public roads, streets, thoroughfares, ghauts, and landing places, and all other places of public resort, and preventing obstructions thereof, on the occasion of such assemblies and processions; and in the neighbourhood of places of worship during the time of public worship; and in any case when the roads, streets, thoroughfares, ghauts, or landing places may be thronged, or may be liable to be obstructed; and may give licenses for the use of music in the streets on the occasion of native festivals and ceremonies; and every person opposing or not obeying the orders so issued by the Commissioner of Police, or violating the conditions of such license, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

XL. Whoever, within such limits as shall be from time to time defined by the Commissioner of Police with the sanction of the local Government, in any public street, road, thoroughfare, or place of public resort, shall commit any of the following offences, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty Rupees:—

Penalty for the following offences in public streets, &c.

Driving, &c, elephant or camel.

2. Whoever shall drive any vehicle of any description, at any time between three quarters of an hour after sun-set, and one hour before sun-rise, without a sufficient light, except when, in the opinion of the Magistrate, there may be sufficient moonlight to render such light unnecessary.

Driving a vehicle without a sufficient light.

3. Whoever, without reasonable cause, shall drive a carriage, cart, or other vehicle otherwise than on the left or near side of the road.

Driving vehicle otherwise than on left side of the road.

4. Whoever shall expose for show, hire, or sale, any horse or other animal, or any carriage; or shall clean or dress any horse or other animal; or shall clean any carriage or other conveyance; or shall make or repair any part of any cart or carriage, except in cases of accident where repair on the spot is necessary; or shall train or break any horse except in such place and at such times as may be allowed by the Commissioner.

Exposing for show, horses, or cleaning or repairing conveyances, or training horses in places not allowed by the Commissioner.

5. Whoever, by negligence or ill-usage in driving cattle, shall cause any mischief to be done by such cattle, or shall in any wise misbehave himself in the driving, management, or care of such cattle, so as to cause mischief or obstruction.

Negligence in driving cattle.

6. Whoever, being in charge of a cart, carriage, or horse, shall leave it at such a distance as not to have the same under due control.

Leaving cart, &c., without control.

7. Whoever shall cause any cart or truck, with or without horses or cattle, to remain or stand longer than may be necessary for loading or unloading, except at places lawfully appointed for the purpose; or shall leave any cart, carriage, or truck, or fasten any horse or other animal, so as to cause any obstruction in any thoroughfare.

Obstructing road or thoroughfare by carriage, &c.

8. Whoever shall lead or ride any horse or other animal, or draw or drive any cart, carriage, or truck, upon any foot-way, or shall fasten any horse or animal so that it can stand across or upon any foot-way.

Obstructing foot-way.

9. Whoever shall beat a drum or tom-tom, or blow a horn or trumpet, or beat or sound any brass or other metal instrument, or utensil, except at such times and places as shall be from time to time allowed by the Commissioner of Police.

Beating drums, tom-tom, &c.

10. Whoever by driving a hackery or cart with insufficiently greased wheels shall create a noise which is reasonably calculated to cause annoyance to persons frequenting or residing near the thoroughfare in which such hackery or cart is driven.

Driving a cart with insufficiently greased wheels.

11. Whoever, without the consent of the Commissioner of Police, shall put up any post or other thing on the side of any public street, for the purpose of affixing thereon lamps to illuminate the street.

Illuminations.

12. Whoever, without the consent of the owner or occupier, shall affix any bill or notice, or any paper, against or upon any building, wall, or fence; or shall write upon, deface, or mark any such building, wall, or fence with chalk, or paint, or in any way whatsoever.

Affixing bills, or otherwise defacing houses, &c.

13. Whover shall bathe or wash himself in any public street, or in, upon, or by the side of any public tank, reservoir, or aqueduct, not being a place set apart for such purpose.

Bathing, &c., in public street or aqueduct.

14. Whoever shall obstruct or incommode a person bathing at any place set apart as a bathing place, by wilful instrusion, or by using such place as a landing place, or by anchoring or otherwise fastening or keeping boats, or by washing horses, cattle, or dogs at or near such place, or in any other way.

for, or obtain alms, by means of any false statement or pretences.

Stray Dogs.

XLI. It shall be lawful for the Magistrate, by order in writing to be affixed at the principal Police Stations, and also to be published in some public newspaper, to appoint from time to time certain periods within which any dogs found straying in the streets or beyond the enclosures of the houses of the owners of such dogs, may be destroyed.

Police Officer may arrest without warrant on view of offence.

XLII. Any Police Officer may arrest without a warrant any person committing in his view any offence against this Act, or punishable under the Indian Penal Code, if the name and address of such person be unknown to him.

Police Officer may take into custody, without warrant, persons charged with aggravated assault recently committed.

XLIII. Any Police Officer may take into custody, without a warrant, any person who is charged with committing an aggravated assault, in every case in which he shall have good reason to believe that such assault has been committed, although not in his view, and that, by reason of the recent commission of the offence, a warrant could not have been obtained for the apprehension of the offender.

Persons taken into custody by a Police Officer without warrant may be detained in Police Office until brought before a Magistrate or bailed.

XLIV. Every person taken into custody without a warrant by a Police Officer under this Act shall be taken to the nearest Police Office, in order that such person may be detained until he can be brought before the Magistrate, or until he shall enter into recognizances, with or without sureties, for his appearance before the Magistrate.

Power to take recognizances at the Station House upon certain charges.

XLV. Whenever any person is brought to a Station House charged with any offence against this Act, other than a felony; or whenever a person charged with a felony is in the custody of any Police Officer without a warrant—it shall be lawful for the Officer in charge of such Station House, or any superior Officer of Police, if he shall deem it prudent, and, in the case of felony, if he shall deem it probable that the person is falsely accused, to enlarge such person on his own recognizance, with or without sureties, conditioned as hereinafter mentioned.

Condition of recognizance.

XLVI. Every recognizance so taken shall be without fee or reward, and shall be conditioned for the appearance of the person thereby bound before a Magistrate at his next sitting and the time and place of appearance, and the sum thereby acknowledged (not exceeding one thousand Rupees) shall be specified in the said recognizance, or in the condition thereof; and the Officer taking the recognizance shall enter into a book, to be kept for the purpose, the name, residence, and occupation of the party, and his surety or sureties, (if any,) entering into such recognizance; together with the condition thereof, and the sum thereby acknowledged, and shall return every such recognizance to the Magistrate present at the time and place when and where the party is bound to appear.

Fines and penalties how to be applied.

XLVII. All fines and penalties imposed under the authority of this Act, shall be applied in equal proportions to the Fund established under Section X. of this Act and to the Municipal Fund established under the provisions of Act III of 1864, passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council.

Jurisdiction.

XLVIII. Any Joint Magistrate or Deputy Magistrate duly authorized to exercise the powers of a Magistrate, and any Assistant vested with the powers of a Subordinate Magistrate of the 1st Class, may, in cases referred to him by the Magistrate, exercise all the powers vested in a Magistrate by this Act.

Deputy Commissioner may exercise the powers of Commissioner.

XLIX. The Deputy Commissioner of Police of the Town of Calcutta may, under the orders of the Commissioner, exercise all or any of the powers vested in the latter by the provisions of this Act.

Act XXI. of 1857 repealed.

L. Act XXI. of 1857 is hereby repealed so far as it applies to the suburbs of the Town of Calcutta as defined in the mode prescribed by Section I. of this Act.

Form of Certificate.

A. B. has been appointed a Superintendent, Inspector, Jemadar, Darogah, or Peon (as the case may be) in the Suburban Police Force, and is vested with the powers, functions, and privileges of a Constable.

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

On the transfer of the direction and control of the Calcutta Suburban Police from the Magistrate of the 24-Pergunnahs to the Commissioner of Police for the Town of Calcutta, an entirely new organization was given to that Force similar to that of the Calcutta Police under the provisions of Act XIII of 1856, which does not extend to the Suburbs. Whilst, therefore, the only legal status which this Police Force possesses is derived from Regulation XX. of 1817, the system on which it is organized, the rules under which its operations are conducted, and the various official designations by which the Officers composing it are distinguished, are wholly inconsistent with the provisions of that Regulation.

By Section 4 of Act V of 1861 it is provided that the entire administration of the Police throughout a general Police District shall be exclusively vested in the Inspector-General of Police; hence the provisions of this Act could not be applied to the Suburban Police without either taking the direction and control of this Force out of the hands of the Commissioner of Police for the Town of Calcutta, or subordinating this latter Officer to the Inspector-General of the general Police District of Bengal.

It is proposed, therefore, in the present Bill to re-enact so much of the provisions of Act XIII of 1856, and Act V of 1861, as appear to be applicable to the Suburban Police Force under its present constitution.

F. R. COCKERELL.

The 25th November 1865.

G. S. FAGAN,
Asst. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal,
Legislative Department.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 9th December 1865, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to report thereon within a week:—

A Bill to amend Act VI. of 1863, passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council (An Act to vest the property of the Town of Calcutta and the management of its Municipal affairs in a Corporation, and to make better provision for the Conservancy and Improvement of the Town, and for the levying of rates and taxes therein.)

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Act VI. of 1863, passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council; It is enacted as follows:—

Chairman of the Justices not to be deemed incapable of being a Member of the Lieutenant-Governor's Council.

I. Nothing in the said Act shall be deemed to prevent the Chairman of the Justices of the Peace for the Town of Calcutta from being a Member of the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for making Laws and Regulations.

Act to be read with Act VI. of 1863.

II. This Act shall be read with, and taken as part of, the said Act VI. of 1863.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

BY Section 10 of Act VI of 1863, it is provided that the Chairman and Vice-Chairman of the Justices of the Peace for the Town of Calcutta shall have no other profession, and that Officers in the service of Government shall be deemed qualified for the office of Chairman or Vice-Chairman only so long as they hold no other appointment.

From this it follows that a Chairman of the Justices who should be appointed to be a Member of the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for making Laws and Regulations would thereby become legally disqualified to retain his office.

It has been considered that the interests of the public require that the Chairman should be eligible for a seat in the Lieutenant-Governor's Council, and that, although his appointment thereto may conflict with the letter of the law as it now stands, it does not violate the principle.

The object of the present Bill, therefore, is to declare that the restrictive provisions of the law, in regard to "other appointments," shall not be held to extend to the appointment to a seat in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for making Laws and Regulations.

F. R. COCKERELL.

INDIA OFFICE,

London, 16th October 1865.

POLITICAL,
No. 75.

To HIS EXCELLENCY THE RIGHT HON'BLE THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF INDIA IN COUNCIL.

SIR,—With reference to my despatch of the 3rd June, (No. 42,) 1865, I transmit herewith, for the information of your Excellency's Government, copy of a letter* received from Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs respecting the course henceforth to be pursued towards ships of war belonging to the United States of America. I have to direct that the instructions contained in Earl Russell's letter may be fully carried out in all Ports, Harbours, and waters under your control.

* Dated 13th October 1865.

Foreign Office,
The 13th October 1865.

To the Right Hon'ble Sir Charles Wood, Bart., &c., &c., &c.

Sir,—With reference to my letter of the 2nd of June last, prescribing the course to be taken by Her Majesty's several authorities in all ports, harbours, and waters belonging to Her Majesty, whether in the United Kingdom or beyond the seas, in consequence of the recognition by Her Majesty's Government that peace was restored within the whole territory of which the United States of North America before the commencement of the Civil War were in undisturbed possession, and with reference more particularly to that passage in my letter in which it was laid down that confederate vessels departing in pursuance of requisitions to be made by Her Majesty's Authorities from any Ports, Harbours, and waters belonging to Her Majesty in which at the time of the receipt by those authorities of the fresh orders such vessels might be found, should then, and for the last time, have the full benefit of the prohibition theretofore enforced against pursuit of them within twenty-four hours by a cruiser of the United States lying at the time within any such Ports, Harbours, and waters, I have the honor to state to you that Her Majesty's Government are of opinion that it is desirable that Her Majesty's Naval and other authorities at home and in Her Majesty's possessions abroad should be formally apprised that as full time has now elapsed since my letter of the 2nd of June for giving effect to the provisions of that letter, all measures of a restrictive nature on vessels of war of the United States in British Ports, Harbours, or waters are now to be considered to be as at an end, and that it is the desire and intention of Her Majesty's Government that unrestricted hospitality and friendship should be shewn to vessels of war of the United States in all Her Majesty's Ports, whether at home or abroad.

I have addressed a similar letter to the Secretaries of State for the Colonies, and the Home Department, and to the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury and Admiralty.

I have, &c.,

(Sd.) Russell.

Notification.—The 9th December 1865.—Whereas in consequence of two recent attempts made, within a short interval of each other, to throw a train off the line near the Village of Raghopore, within the jurisdiction of Thannah Cotwally, in the District of Bhaugulpore, it is deemed expedient to increase the Police Force in the neighbourhood of the aforesaid village in accordance with the provisions of Section 15, Act V. of 1861: it is hereby notified that the Lieutenant-Governor, under the power vested in him by that Section, has been pleased to direct that a Guard of four Constables be quartered in the said village for one month.

Notification.—The 11th December 1865.—The following addition should be made to the list of Districts and Sub-Districts for the purposes of Act XVI. of 1864, (an Act to provide for the Registration of Assurances,) published in paragraph 2 of the Notification of the 21th December 1864, which appeared in the Calcutta Gazette of the 28th idem.

THE following Rules are published for general information :—

Rules under Section 4, Act VI. (B. C.) of 1864, entitled an Act to provide for the periodical inspection of Steam Boilers and Prime Movers attached thereto in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta.

APPOINTMENT OF THE MEMBERS OF THE COMMISSION AND DUTIES OF INSPECTORS.

I.—There shall be opened, in some convenient part of the Town, an Office for the Commissioners for the inspection of boilers.

II.—A Boiler Commission shall be appointed for Calcutta, to consist of Commissioners as follows :—

1. The Commissioner of Police.
2. The Mint Master.
3. Such Engineers or Owners or Managers of Mills and Foundries as may be nominated Members of the Commission by the Government of Bengal.

III.—There shall be an Engineer Inspector, who shall also be Secretary to the Commission, with such Assistants as shall from time to time be found necessary.

IV.—The Commission shall meet periodically (at least once a month) to arrange for the inspection of boilers; to receive and consider the reports of the Engineer; to control the proceedings of the Engineer; and to settle all disputes between the Engineer and Boiler-owners, as these may arise, and to act as final referee in all cases.

V.—The Engineer shall attend at the Office and keep such records as the Commission may from time to time direct.

VI.—The Engineer shall keep in Form B1, B2, an index register and dimension sheet, in the order authorised by the Commissioners, of all boilers within the limits of the Act.

* * *

VII.—The Engineer shall inspect these boilers in the regular order laid down in this list except any deviation from this order be specially sanctioned by the Commissioners.

VIII.—There shall be three kinds of inspection of boilers :—

A. A thorough examination, once every twelve months, inside and outside, to be made by the Engineer in person, for which purpose the boilers must be emptied, cool, and clean and flues swept, and if required by the Engineer, any parts or settings removed for a complete examination of the boiler and machinery in every part.

B. An ordinary examination, once every four months, of a boiler while on work.

C. A special examination, in either Form A B, at the request of the owner.

IX. The Engineer shall annually inspect every boiler on his list before he grants a certificate or permission to work the boiler.

This examination (A thorough) is to be inside and out. The Engineer shall give one week's notice (as per Form C.) of every such intended examination, (A thorough,) and if after that notice the boilers are not cool, clean, and ready for inspection on the date named, the Engineer shall prohibit the boilers from working and shall report the case to the Commissioners.

Further, if any request be made to remove fittings or setting, and such be not complied with, the Engineer shall in like manner stop the working of the boilers.

X.—The Engineer shall submit to the Commissioners his report on every boiler inspected in (Form D1,) which shall be recorded in the Office, and a report (Form D2) sent to the owner of the boiler, and the certificate granted in Form E.

XI.—The Engineer or his Assistants shall examine (B, ordinary) every boiler and apparatus once every four months, submitting a report to the Commissioners in Form D, on which the Certificate will be endorsed by the Engineer.

These examinations will be conducted while the boiler is at work, and without giving any notice to the owner.

XII.—The Engineer shall be provided with boiler testing pump, indicator, and guages and shall, under the following rules, test and indicate boilers :—

a. Whenever any owner of a boiler may wish to have a boiler tested, or to have his engine indicated, if he make application to the Commissioners, the Engineer shall test the boiler or indicate the engines on payment of the fees laid down.

b. These reports and diagrams, Form F,* shall be sent in original to boiler-owners and copy filed in Office.

* Form of Diagrams not yet ready.

XIII.—The Engineer shall report weekly or monthly to the Commissioners as per Form H, and the Assistant Inspector shall report daily to the Engineeer in Form G.

Table of Fees payable for Certificates granted under the Act.

The following scale of fees shall for the present be charged :—

		Rs.
A.	Thorough examination of boiler, with certificate	30 for one boiler. 50 for two. 10 for each additional.
		Rs.
B.	Ordinary examination of boiler with endorsement of certificate ...	10
C.	Special examination, if thorough ...	30
	„ if ordinary ...	10	For each.
	For testing any boiler ...	20
	For every indication, top and bottom, each cylinder ...	5

The yield of the two estates this season was lbs. 0,000 of Tea and 1,650 maunds of seeds.

These two estates will be sold in one lot in feemple, free of all demands, on account of Land evenue, exclusive of existing local cesses, such as oad, Educational, and Postal cesses, or such as ay be hereafter legally imposed, at an upset price f Rupees 2,00,000 (two lacs of Rupees.)

A small portion of the plantation of Ayar Toli amed Bincolie, belonging to the temple of Nagath, will bear an annual rental of Rupees 24 twenty-four Rupees) per annum.

This land is leased in perpetuity from the emple of Nagnath on this rental.

3. Kowlaghir in the Deyrah Dhoon, distant wo miles to the west of the Town of Deyrah. It onsists of about 430 acres of land, of which bout 380 acres are under cultivation with Tea, nd the remainder adapted for Tea cultivation.

Through the property a branch of the Beejapore anal runs. At a short distance and to the south of he plantation there is a Forest of Syne, Jamune, c., consisting of about 500 (five hundred) acres, in hich the purchaser will have the right to cut timer for Tea chests, firewood, charcoal, &c. The mber is well fitted for making Tea chests.

There are on the estate three bungalows; an extensive pucka Tea factory; two large pucka godowns; a barrack for Chinese Tea manufacturers, &c., and the stock and block of the factory are complete and in full working order.

The yield this season was lbs. 25,099 of Tea, and 1,050 maunds of seeds.

This estate will be sold in fee-simple free of all demands on account of Land Revenue, exclusive of existing local cesses for roads, &c., or such as may hereafter be legally imposed, at an upset price of Rupees 2,00,000 (two lacs of Rupees.) The plantations will be transferred to the purchasers on the 1st April 1866, on or before which date the purchase money must be paid at the General Treasury, Calcutta.

Tenders will be received by William Jameson, Esquire, Superintendent, Botanical Gardens, North-Western Provinces, Saharunpore, until 1st March 1866, if the factories, &c., be not previously sold by private sale, and the highest offer above the upset price will be accepted.

All tenders must be made in writing.

Every tender should be superscribed—"Tender for Tea plantation," and will be registered by the Superintendent of the Botanical Gardens on the date of receipt in a book, which he will keep, together with the tenders, in his own custody under lock and key.

The highest registered tender at the time being for any lot will be communicated by the Superintendent to any enquirers up to the time of sale, but the names of the parties who have tendered shall in no case be disclosed.

The register of tenders will be examined at noon, on the 1st March 1866, by a Committee consisting of the Superintendent, Botanical Gardens, the Judge, and the Collector of Saharunpore, at the Office of the Superintendent, and in the presence of all parties who may attend; and the amount of the highest tender for each lot, or, if there be more than one tender of equal amount, the number and amount of such tenders, but not the names of the parties tendering, will be publicly declared, and the highest tender, in writing, above the upset price at 4 P. M., will be accepted on the part of Government by the Committee.

On the tender being accepted by the Committee the purchaser must deposit five per cent. of the purchase money, which will be forfeited if the amount of the purchase money be not paid in full on the date specified.

Agents must be supplied by their principals with sufficient Powers-of-Attorney.

The above particulars are believed, in good faith, to be correct, but intending purchasers must make their own enquiries, as no reclamation can be listened to after sale.

References may be made to W. Jameson, Esquire, Superintendent, Government Botanical Gardens, Saharunpore.

By Order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces,

R. SIMSON,
Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces.

The Board however reserve to themselves the right of altering these dates should circumstances render it expedient to do so.

The following are the conditions of Sale :—

1*st*. The Opium will be sold for exportation by sea only, and no certificate will be granted except to cover such Export.

2*nd* The Opium will be ordinarily offered for sale at an upset price of Rupees 800 per Chest, and sold to the highest bidder above that price, except under the circumstances for which provision is made by Clause 12th of these conditions of Sale.

3*rd*. The Sale shall commence at the hour of 11 A. M. of the day fixed by previous Notification, and shall not be continued after the hour of 5 P. M., but if at that hour any of the lots advertised for sale shall remain unsold, the sale may, at the discretion of the Board of Revenue, be resumed on the next day following (not being Sunday or a Public Holiday) at the hour of 11 A. M., and so on, until the whole of the remaining lots are disposed of, or, if the whole quantity advertized shall not be sold on the day appointed, the Board may dispose of the lots which remain on hand at a future Sale.

4*th*. Each lot shall contain five Chests.

5*th*. A Promissory Note for a sum, calculated according to the scale noted in the margin, shall be taken as a deposit on each lot from the Purchaser in the Sale Room, and before the lot is registered in the Sale Book, and all such Promissory Notes shall be redeemed on the part of the Purchasers at this Office by Bank of Bengal Receipts, or by substitution of other Public Securities of the Bengal Government on or before 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the fifth day after the sale, or on the other hand, failing such redemption by the time aforesaid, then the lot or lots for which no Bank of Bengal Receipts, or deposit of other Public Securities as aforesaid shall have been delivered in, shall be re-sold at such time or times and under such conditions of re-sale as the Board of Revenue shall see fit, and all losses and expenses, whatsoever, attending such re-sale shall be borne and paid by the defaulters, whilst any profit accruing from such re-sale shall be forfeited to Government.

Deposit.
When the amount bid is less than Rs. 1,200 per Chest ...	Rs. 200 per Chest.
On bids of Rs. 1,200 but less than Rs. 1,600 ...	„ 300 „
On bids of Rs. 1,600 but less than Rs. 2,000 ...	„ 400 „

and so on, Rs. 100 being added to the deposit for every additional Rs. 400 bid.

6. The Promissory Notes taken on the day of sale under the last mentioned condition, if remaining unredeemed at 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be placed in the hands of the Solicitor to the Government for realization in such manner as to him shall seem fit.

7. No tender of money, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Public Securities on account of Opium, upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be afterwards accepted.

8. The Opium now advertised for sale shall be paid for within fifteen clear days from the day of sale, and in case any lots of such Opium shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the Cash Deposit made under the fifth condition, or any Public Securities that may have been deposited on account of such lots or Chests, shall be forfeited, and the Opium shall be disposed of on account of Government at such time, and in such manner, as the Board of Revenue shall think fit, and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the Opium was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale.

9. Purchasers taking out Certificates or Orders for the delivery of Opium after making full payment as above prescribed, shall have the option of naming the number of lots of their purchase, which they may desire to be included in each Certificate or Order, and it is to be clearly understood that the Certificates or Orders so taken out shall be considered final, and not afterwards changeable for other Certificates or Orders authorizing the delivery of single lots or of a different number of lots or Chests, whether more or less than the number of lots or Chests originally required to be included in each Certificate or Order.

10. No deposit of Public Securities under the fifth of the present condition will be received in this Office, except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the Sale Book, or his authorized Agent. The Receipt for deposit of Public Securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the Securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

11. The Officer superintending the sale on the part of the Board of Revenue is empowered to reject, at his discretion, the bid of any individual unless such individual shall, on demand, tender at the time a deposit either in Government of India Notes, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Government Securities a sum equal to the amount, for which a Promissory Note would otherwise be taken under the fifth of these conditions.

12. With a view to prevent fictitious bidings designed to obstruct the sale, it is hereby notified that the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall be competent, at any time during the sale, to withdraw any unsold lot and immediately to put it up again for sale at a maximum upset price, diminishing the same gradually until a bid is obtained, and the first bonâ fide bidder for a lot after it has been offered for sale in the mode here described, shall be held and declared to be the purchaser of the said lot, and the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall also be competent to dispose in the same manner of as many of the subsequent lots as he may think proper, provided always that no lot shall be sold below the minimum price of 800 Rupees specified in the second of these conditions.

13. The purchaser of any lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession at the same price and under the same conditions any number of lots of the same Agency Opium not exceeding altogether twenty-five lots; provided always that there remain a sufficient number of lots of the Opium to complete the said twenty-five.

14. In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the Opium included in this Notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall and may be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

15. The following papers will be exhibited for inspection on the day of sale, or may be seen previously to that date by application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue:—

No. 1.—Certificate of the Opium advertized for sale.

No. 2.—Report of the examination of such Opium.

16. The Public are hereby informed that, in providing the investment of the Behar and Benares Opium for the year 1864-65, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years, to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the Cakes, and to have the due proportion of Opium put into each Cake. An account of the weight of the drug when packed at Behar and Benares, and a Statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken for the purpose of comparison from the dispatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue.

17. Any further information respecting weight or quality of the Opium advertized for sale that may be desired by parties connected with the trade will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on application at the Office of the Board of Revenue, but, in accordance with established usage, under no circumstances will the Board entertain or recognize any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of Opium, or adulteration of the drug which may be preferred on reference to chests after the sale and delivery of the Opium for shipment.

18. It is hereby further notified that, under the 6th Article of the Convention between Great Britain and France, dated the 7th March 1815, quoted below, the Agents in India of the French Government, or persons duly appointed by them, are entitled to demand that, out of the quantities of Behar and Benares Opium declared as above for sale at the twelve sales of the year 1866, there shall be delivered to them at the average of the particular sale or sales to which the Opium so applied for may belong, a quantity not exceeding in the aggregate 300 chests, and the Agents of the French Government must make requisition specifying the quantity of Opium required by them at any particular sale within thirty days from the advertisement of such intended sale, provided, however, that the Agents of the French Government may make such requisition for the whole quantity within thirty days from the publication of this Notification. If the Agents of the French Government shall not make the requisition for Opium within the time above-mentioned the entire quantity of about 40,000 Chests of Behar and Benares, as above estimated, will be brought to sale in the usual manner, and if they shall make application for quantity of Opium to be delivered to them out of the quantity advertised for sale at each or any of the twelve sales above-mentioned, but shall not pay for it within the prescribed period of payment, the Government of Bengal reserves to itself the right of disposing of the Opium which the French authorities may so fail to pay for, either by increasing the quantity reserved at the sale next ensuing the date of payment, or by selling it at a sale to be held expressly for the purpose.

Behar ...	24,000
Benares ...	16,000
	40,000

Article of the Convention above referred to.—

Article 6th.—"With regard to the Trade in "Opium, it is agreed between the high contracting parties that each of the periodical sales of "that article, there shall be reserved for the "French Government, and delivered upon requisition duly made by the Agents of His Most "Christian Majesty, or by the persons duly "appointed by them, the number of Chests so "applied for, provided that such supply shall not "exceed three hundred Chests in each year, and "the price for the same shall be determined by "the average rate at which Opium shall have "been sold at every such periodical sale, it being "understood that, if the quantity of Opium "applied for at any one time shall not be taken "on account of the French Government by the "Agents of His Most Christian Majesty within "the usual period of delivery, the quantity so "applied for shall nevertheless be considered as so "much in reduction of the three hundred Chests "herein before-mentioned. The requisitions for "Opium as aforesaid are to be addressed to the "Governor General at Calcutta within thirty "days after notice of the intended sales shall "have been published in the Government Gazette."

No. 1141.

Rules regarding the bonding of Salt subsidiary to those contained in Act VI. of 1863, Sections 70-115, so far as they may be applicable, sanctioned by the orders of Government, No. 1706, dated 3rd May 1865.

1. On receipt of an application under Section 75, Act VI. of 1863 for the admission of salt into a public or private warehouse, and after due execution of a bond under the provision of Sections 77, 78, 79, Act VI. of 1863 the Collector of Customs shall make such arrangements as he may deem necessary for the proper weighment of salt during its discharge from the vessel for the purpose of being conveyed to the appointed licensed warehouse.

2. The weighment shall be conducted in the presence of the Preventive Officer on board, and the expense thereof shall be charged to the bonder at a rate of Rupees 3 per 1,000 maunds.

3. No salt for which the full duty has not been previously paid shall be taken from any vessels, save in a lighter provided with hatches, which are capable of being securely fastened down, and it shall be the duty of the Preventive Officer on board to satisfy himself that such lighter is in serviceable condition before permitting such salt to be placed therein.

4. As soon as the bonder, or his agent, or servant, shall notify to the Preventive Officer that he desires to proceed with any boat-load of salt, he shall obtain a boat-note, in which the name of the importing vessel, and of the bonder, the quantity of salt contained therein, and the warehouse wherein it is to be deposited, shall be specified. The salt shall thereupon be carefully impressed with a stamp specially provided for this purpose, and the hatches shall be closed and sealed by, or in the presence of, the Preventive Officer. The lighter shall then be allowed to proceed in charge of a Native officer deputed for that purpose.

5. Notice of the arrival of such salt shall at once be given to the warehouse-keeper in the case of salt to be bonded in a public warehouse, or if the salt is to be bonded in a private licensed Warehouse, to the Superintendent of licensed Warehouses. Such officer shall thereupon depute a proper officer to examine and compare the boat-note and the cargo of salt, and to superintend its removal to, and storage in, the appointed warehouse.

6. All expenses connected with the removal and storage of the salt shall be borne by the bonder, who shall also pay to the Collector such fees as he may fix for the services of the officer in charge of the salts from the time of its discharge from the vessel side to the completion of its storage in the warehouse.

7. If the officer appointed by the Superintendent of the Government and Bonded Warehouses shall have reason to believe that the salt has in any way been tampered with during its transit by river, he shall at once report the circumstance to the Superintendent, who, with the permission of the Collector, may direct the salt to be re-weighed, and such re-weighments shall be at the expense of Government.

8. If there be found any unexplained deficiency in the salt on board the cargo boats, as compared with the quantity specified in the boat-note, the whole of the salt contained in such bont shall be confiscated, and the bond under which the salt is in course of being stored shall be cancelled.

9. Salt relating to different bonds shall be stored separately and distinctly. Any admixture of salt specified in different bonds shall render those bonds liable to cancelment, and the holders to immediate payment of the full duty payable thereon.

10. On salt bonded in a warehouse under the exclusive control of Government Warehouse-keepers, the duty shall be calculated on the quantity actually delivered from such warehouse.

11. On salt bonded in a private licensed warehouse, the duty shall be calculated on the quantity delivered on weighment from the side of the ship in which it was imported, less an allowance on account of wastage, which shall not, in ordinary cases, exceed 2½ per cent. on the quantity bonded.

12. In any special case, the Board of Revenue, as Chief Customs Authority of the Presidency, is competent to direct that an increased allowance for wastage shall be granted in accordance with the provision of Section 96, Act VI. of 1863.

13. If the Collector of Customs has any reason to believe that any fraud has been perpetrated by the bonder, or owner of the salt, or any person in his employ, he shall refuse to make any allowance on account of wastage and shall demand the full duty payable on the entire quantity received into bond

Junior Secretary.

Port Canning Municipality.

NOTICE TO LOT-HOLDERS.

THE Municipal Commissioners give notice that all lots upon which the sum stipulated in the lease shall not have been expended either in raising such lots or in the erection of buildings thereon before the 31st December 1865 will be resumed.

Lots which have been, or may be, redeemed in freehold prior to the above date, are of course exempted from resumption.

Freehold titles can only be obtained by exchanging Port Canning Municipal Debentures at the rate of 600 Rupees Debentures for each beegah of land.

The lessee of two or more lots will be allowed the option of spending on any one lot the aggregate amount required under the terms of the leases to be expended on each separate lot.

By Order of the Commissioners,

THOMAS F. KILBY,
Secretary.

LEGISLATIVE.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 15th December 1865, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in six weeks:—

No. 23 of 1865.

A Bill to amend the Law of Partnership in India.

Preamble. Whereas it is expedient to amend the Law relating to Partnership; It is enacted as follows:—

Lender not a partner by advancing money for share of profits.

1. The advance of money by way of loan to a person engaged or about to engage in any trade or undertaking upon a contract in writing with such person that the lender shall receive a rate of interest varying with the profits or shall receive a share of the profits arising from carrying on such trade or undertaking, shall not, of itself, constitute the lender a partner with the person or the persons carrying on such trade or undertaking, or render him responsible as such.

Explanation.—A person who being entitled, whether as a retiring partner or otherwise, to demand and receive present payment of the value of any share or interest of or in the capital or other funds of a business shall, after the value thereof shall have been ascertained between such person and the person or persons liable to pay the same, allow the same to remain therein or to be used by such person or persons for the purposes of such business, shall be construed to make an advance of money by way of loan within the meaning of this Section.

Remuneration of agents, &c., by profits not to make them partners.

2. No contract for the remuneration of a servant or agent of any person engaged in any trade or undertaking by a share of the profits of such trade or undertaking shall, of itself, render such servant or agent responsible as a partner therein, nor give him the rights of a partner.

Certain annuitants not to be deemed partners.

3. No person being the widow or child of the deceased partner of a trader, and receiving by way of annuity a portion of the profits made by such trader in his business, shall, by reason only of such receipt, be deemed to be a partner of, or to be subject to any liabilities incurred by, such trader.

Receipt of profits, &c., not to make the seller a partner.

4. No person receiving by way of annuity or otherwise a portion of the profits of any business, in consideration of the sale by him of the good-will of such business, shall, by reason only of such receipt, be deemed to be a partner of, or be subject to, the liabilities of the person carrying on such business.

Interpretation of "person."

5. In the construction of this Act the word "person" shall include a Partnership Firm, a Joint Stock Company, and a Corporation.

STATEMENTS OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

This Bill is, with one addtion and one ommission, transcribed from the English Statute 27 and 28 Vic., cap. 86, which, by simply abolishing an objectionable legal principle, known as the rule in Waugh v. Carver, is expected to produce the same effects as the French system of partnership encommandite.

Apart from the obvious expediency of Indian following English legislation in mercantile matters, the abolition of the rule in question is desirable for various reasons. The rule—that he who participates in the profits of a partnership shall, by operation of law, be made liable to its losses—is a mere obiter dictum of Chief Justice Eyre's, and is founded by him on Lord Mansfield's irrelevant decision in Grace v. Smith. In that case the share of the profits stipulated for by the lender would have amounted to more than the legal rate of interest, and the fiction of a constructive partnership was invented by Lord Mansfield as the only means of upholding a contract which, if regarded as one of loan, would have been void as contravening the usury laws. These laws having now been abolished, the fiction which originated in them need no longer be maintained. Next the abolition of the rule give additional stability to mercantile firms by doing away with the risk which at present would be incurred by retiring partners who should leave their shares in the buisness, stipulating for remuneration out of the profits. Thirdly, the Bill, if it become law, will promote those beneficial arrangements between employer and employed, based on the principle of the latter being remunerated by a portion of the profits of the business. Fourthly, interests created under the proposed Act will not generally be saleable, and the non-commercial classes will therefore be able to procure investments which, though more remunerative than Government Paper or mortgages, have not the highly speculative value of shares in ordinary limited liability undertakings. Lastly, the change proposed would, in one important respect, bring our mercantile law into harmony with that of the Natives of India, who are well known to practise among themselves a system of commanditarian partnership.

The addition above referred to is that of an explanation to the effect that a retiring partner leaving in the business the value of his share shall be construed to make a loan within the meaning of the 1st section. The omission above referred to is that of the 5th section of the English Statute, which provides that, in case of the borrower's insolvency, the commanditarian lender shall not be entitled to prove in competition with the other creditors. This provision appears to be at variance with the spirit of the rest of the enactment; and there would, moreover, be practical difficulties in working it in the Mofussil, where no system of insolvency has yet been established.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Act of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council received the assent of His Honor on the 16th December 1865, and having been assented to by His Excellency the Governor General on the same day, is hereby promulgated for general information:—

ACT No. IX OF 1865.

An Act to amend Act VI of 1863 passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council (An Act to vest the property of the Town of Calcutta and the management of its Municipal affairs in a Corporation, and to make better provision for the Conservancy and Improvement of the Town, and for the levying of rates and fares therein.)

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Act VI of 1863 passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council; It is enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

I. Nothing in the said Act shall be deemed to prevent the Chairman of the Justices of the Peace for the Town of Calcutta from being a Member of the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for making Laws and Regulations.

Chairman of the Justices not to be deemed incapable of being a Member of the Lieutenant-Governor's Council.

II. This Act shall be read with, and taken as part of, the said Act VI of 1863.

Act to be read with Act VI of 1863.

G. S. FAGAN,

Asst. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal,
Legislative Department.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 9th December 1865, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon after the 18th of January 1866:—

A Bill to provide for the better regulation of the Police within the Suburbs of the Town of Calcutta.

WHEREAS it is expedient to exclude the Suburbs of the Town of Calcutta from the general Police District of Bengal, and to make provision for the better regulation of the Police within the limits so excluded; It is enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

I. It shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal to exclude the Suburbs of the Town of Calcutta from the general Police District of the Provinces subject to his control, and the limits of the tract of country so excluded shall be defined in a notification to be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

The Suburbs may be excluded from the general Police District.

II. The Police Force of the Suburbs of the Town of Calcutta shall be under the exclusive direction and control of the Commissioner of Police of the Town of Calcutta, who may from time to time, subject to the approbation of the said Lieutenant-Governor, frame such orders and regulations as he shall deem expedient, relative to the general government of the Force, the places of residence, the classification, rank, distribution, and particular service of the several Members thereof, their inspection, and the description of arms, accoutrements, and other necessaries to be furnished to them; and all such other orders and regulations relative to the said Police Force as the said Commissioner shall, from time to time, deem expedient for preventing neglect or abuse, and for rendering such force efficient in the discharge of all its duties.

The Police Force to be under the control of the Commissioner of Police for Calcutta.

III. The appointment of the Members of the Police Force shall rest with the Commissioner of Police, and he may, at any time, suspend or dismiss any Member of the Force whom he shall think remiss or negligent in the discharge of his duty, or otherwise unfit for the same.

Appointment, &c., of the Force to rest with the Commissioner.

IV. For any lesser breach of discipline, or misconduct not requiring the suspension or dismissal of the offender, a Member of the Police Force may be fined by the Commissioner in any sum not exceeding one-half of his monthly pay.

Commissioner may fine for lesser breaches of discipline.

V. For neglect or violation of duty in his office and for any breach of the orders and regulations framed as aforesaid, every Member of the Police Force, besides being suspended or dismissed from his employment at the discretion of the Commissioner, shall be liable, on conviction before a Magistrate, to a fine not exceeding one hundred Rupees, (which may be deducted from any salary then due to such offender,) or to imprisonment, simple or rigorous, for any term not exceeding three months.

Additional penalties for neglect of duty, &c.

VI. Whoever, being a Member of the Police Force, asks for or takes any bribe or unauthorized reward, may be dismissed by order of the Commissioner, and, upon conviction before a Magistrate, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred Rupees, or to imprisonment of either description for any term not exceeding six months.

Penalty for asking for or taking a bribe.

VII. No Member of the Police Force to be enrolled under this Act shall be at liberty to resign his office, or to withdraw himself from the duties thereof, unless expressly allowed so to do in writing by the Commissioner, or unless he shall have given to the Commissioner six months' notice of his intention if a Member of the Mounted Branch of the said Force, and two months' notice if a Member of any other branch; and every Member of the said Force who shall so resign or withdraw himself without such leave or notice shall be liable, on the order of the Commissioner, to forfeit all arrears of pay then due to him; and, on the sentence of a Magistrate, to pay a fine not exceeding fifty Rupees, or to undergo imprisonment of either description for any term not exceeding two months.

Police Officers not to resign without notice.

VIII. Every Member of the Police Force shall receive on his enrolment a Certificate in the form hereunto annexed, under the signature of the Commissioner of Police, by virtue of which he shall be vested with the powers, functions, and privileges of a Constable. Such Certificate shall cease to have effect whenever the person named in it is suspended or dismissed, or otherwise removed from employment in the Force.

Police Officer to receive Certificate conferring the powers of a Constable.

IX. Every Member of the Police Force who shall be dismissed from, or shall cease to hold and exercise his office, and who shall not forthwith deliver up his Certificate and all the clothing, accoutrements, and appointments, and other necessaries which may have been supplied to him for the execution of his duty, to the Commissioner, or to such person and at such time and place as shall be directed by the said Commissioner, shall be liable, on conviction before a Magistrate, to imprisonment of either description for any term not exceeding one month. And it shall be lawful for the Commissioner, or for any Magistrate, to issue his warrant to search for and seize all the clothing, accoutrements, appointments, and other necessaries which shall not be so delivered over, wherever the same may be found.

Penalty for dismissed Members not delivering up clothing, &c.

X. There shall be deducted from the pay of every Member of the Police Force, of a class not entitled to the benefit of the Uncovenanted Service Pension Rules, a sum after such rate as the Lieutenant-Governor shall direct, not being a greater rate than one-half anna in the Rupee, which sum so deducted, and also the moneys accruing from stoppages from Members of the Police Force during absence from sickness or other cause, and from fines imposed on Members thereof for misconduct, and from fines imposed by Magistrates upon drunken persons or for assaults upon Police Officers, and all moneys arising from the sale of worn or cast-off clothing or other articles supplied for the use of the Police, shall from time to time be invested in such manner and in such securities as the Lieutenant-Governor may in writing direct, and the interest and dividends thereof, or so much of the same as shall not be required for the purposes hereinafter mentioned, shall be likewise invested as aforesaid, and accumulate, so as to form a Fund, to be called, "The Police Superannuation Fund," and shall be applied from time to time to payment of such superannuation or retiring allowances or gratuities as may be ordered by the Lieutenant-Governor at any time to any of the aforesaid Members of the Police Force as hereinafter provided.

Superannuation Fund.

XI. It shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor to order that any Member of the Police Force as aforesaid who is incapacitated from further employment by old age, protracted ill-health, loss of sight, or other bodily or mental infirmity, may be superannuated, and receive thereupon, out of the Police Superannuation Fund a monthly pension, subject to the following conditions and not exceeding the following proportions, that is to say—

Superannuation pensions.

First.—If the period during which the individual shall have been actually employed in the Police Force be more than sixteen years, but less than twenty-four years, the amount of the pension shall not exceed one-third of the monthly salary or authorized official allowances of such individual, calculated on an average of five years previously to the date of the application for such pension.

Secondly.—If the period of actual service be twenty-four years or upwards, the amount of the pension shall not exceed one-half of the salary or authorized allowances of the individual, calculated in the manner above stated. Provided that nothing in this or the preceding Section shall be construed to entitle any Member of the Police Force absolutely to any superannuation allowance, or to prevent him from being dismissed without superannuation allowance.

XII. If any Officer of the Police Force as aforesaid shall be disabled by any wound or injury received in the actual execution of the duty of his office, it shall be lawful to grant to him, out of the Police Superannuation Fund, any monthly allowance not more than the half of his pay.

Allowance to Officers disabled by injury received in execution of duty.

XIII. The Commissioner of Police may, of his own authority, appoint Special Constables to assist the Police Force on any temporary emergency.

Appointment of Special Constables.

XIV. The Commissioner of Police may also, if he shall think fit, on the application of any person shewing the necessity of it, appoint any additional number of Constables to keep the peace at any place within the limits of the operation of this Act, at the charge of the person applying, but subject to the orders of the said Commissioner, and for such time as he shall think fit, and every such Constable shall receive a Certificate, by virtue of which he shall be vested with all the powers, privileges, and duties of the Constables belonging to the Police Force. Provided that the person upon whose application such appointment shall have been made may, upon giving one month's notice in writing to the Commissioner of Police, require that the Constables so appointed at his expense shall be discontinued, and thereupon the said Commissioner shall discontinue such additional Constables; and all moneys received by the Commissioner for the payment of any such additional Constables shall be accounted for by him.

And of additional Constables on the application of private individuals.

Apprehension and punishment of reputed thieves, &c.

XV. A Police Officer may arrest without a warrant any person found, between sun-set and sun-rise, armed with any dangerous or offensive instrument whatsoever, with intent to commit any offence against the person or property of another; any reputed thief found, between sun-set and sun-rise, on board any vessel or boat, or lying or loitering in any bazaar, street, road, yard, thoroughfare, or other place, who shall not give a satisfactory account of himself; any person found, between sun-set and sun-rise, having his face covered or otherwise disguised, with intent to commit any such offence as aforesaid; any person found, between sun-set and sun-rise, in any dwelling-house or other building whatsoever, without being able satisfactorily to account for his presence therein; and any person having in his possession, without lawful excuse, (the proof of which excuse shall be on such person,) any implement of house-breaking; and such person shall be liable to imprisonment, with or without hard labor, for a term not exceeding three months.

Penalty for carrying arms without authority.

XVI. Whoever, not being a soldier or sailor in the Army or Navy of the Queen or a Police Officer, goes armed with any sword, spear, gun, or other offensive weapon, in any street, thoroughfare, or public place, unless by leave of the Magistrate, shall be liable to be disarmed by any Police Officer; and the weapon so seized shall be forfeited to the Government, unless redeemed by payment of a fine, at the discretion of the Magistrate, not exceeding ten Rupees.

Brothels.

XVII. On proof to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of Police, or of a Magistrate, that a house is used as a common brothel, or lodging-house for prostitutes, or disorderly persons of any description, to the annoyance of the respectable inhabitants of the vicinity, such Commissioner or Magistrate may summon the owner or tenant of the house to answer the complaint, and on being satisfied that the house is so used, and is therefore a source of annoyance and offence to the neighbours, may order the owner or tenant to discontinue such use of it, and if he shall fail to comply with such order within five days, may impose upon him a fine to the extent of twenty-five Rupees for every day thereafter that the house shall be so used.

Excise license not to be granted without Certificate of Commissioner of Police.

XVIII. No license shall be granted under the provisions of Act XI of 1849 to any person who may keep, or desire to keep, any such house or place of entertainment as aforesaid in any locality within the Suburbs of the Town of Calcutta, unless such person shall produce a Certificate from the Commissioner of Police stating that a license may be granted to him for the sale of spirituous liquors or intoxicating drugs, as the case may be, within such locality without risk or detriment to the preservation of peace and good order in the Town, and containing a full statement of such conditions as may have been imposed and shall have remained in force under the provisions hereinafter contained at the date when such license shall be granted. No license so granted shall be renewable without a fresh Certificate as aforesaid previously obtained from the Commissioner of Police, subject to the order and control of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

Duration and conditions of license.

XIX. It shall be competent to the Commissioner of Police, subject to the direction and control of the said Lieutenant-Governor, to limit, in such Certificate as aforesaid, the period for which the license may be granted, and also to fix such conditions as he may deem necessary for securing the good behaviour of the keepers of the houses and places of entertainment as aforesaid and for the prevention of drunkenness and disorder among the persons frequenting or using the same, and from time to time to vary such conditions subject to such direction and control as aforesaid; and no license granted under the said Act XI of 1849 shall be valid, unless it shall contain such conditions as shall have been imposed and shall remain in force for the time being under this Section.

Penalty for a breach of any condition of a license.

XX. Any person committing a breach of any of the conditions of a license granted under the last preceding Section, shall not only be liable to the forfeiture of his license, at the discretion of the Commissioner of Police, but shall also, on conviction before a Magistrate, be punishable by a fine not exceeding one hundred Rupees; and such fine shall be recovered from the person licensed, notwithstanding that such breach may have been owing to the default or carelessness of the servant or other person in charge of the shop or place of sale.

Penalty for keeping a Hotel, &c., without a license.

XXI. Whoever within the Suburbs of the Town of Calcutta has or keeps any Hotel, Tavern, Punch-house, Ale-house, Arrack or Toddy-shop, or place for the sale or consumption of Ganja, Chundoo, or other preparation of Opium, Hemp, or other intoxicating drug, plant, or substance, or any Eating house, Lodging-house, or other place of public resort and entertainment, wherein provisions, liquors, or refreshments are sold or consumed, (whether the same be kept or retailed therein or procured elsewhere,) without a license, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty Rupees for every day that the said house or place of entertainment is kept open, or the sale of provisions, liquors, or refreshments is continued, without the necessary license. Provided that nothing in this Act shall apply to the sale in reasonable quantities of any drug, plant, or substance in any Chemists' or Druggists' shop for medicinal purposes only.

Fee for Certificate.

XXII. For every Certificate so issued by the Commissioner of Police under this Act there shall be levied a fee of one Rupee.

XXIII. Whoever, being the owner or occupier, or having the use of any house, room, or place, keeps or uses the same as a common gaming-house; and whoever, being the owner or occupier of any house or room, knowingly and wilfully permits the same to be kept or used by any other person as a common gaming-house; and whoever has the care or management of, or in any manner assists in conducting the business of any house, room, or place so kept or used; and whoever advances or furnishes money for the purpose of gaming with persons frequenting such house, room, or place—shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred Rupees, or to imprisonment, with or without hard labor, for any term not exceeding three months.

Penalty for owning or keeping, or having charge of, a gaming house, &c

XXIV. Whoever is found in any such house, room, or place, playing or gaming with cards, dice, counters, money, or other instruments of gaming, or is found there present for the purpose of gaming, whether playing for any money, wager, stake, or otherwise, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred Rupees, or to imprisonment, with or without hard labor, for any term not exceeding one month; and any person found in any common gaming-house during any gaming or playing therein, shall be presumed, until the contrary be proved, to have been there for the purpose of gaming.

Penalty for being found playing in a gaming-house.

XXV. If the Commissioner of Police or Magistrate, upon information on oath, and after such enquiry as he may think necessary, has reason to believe that any house, room, or place is used as a common gaming-house, he may, by his warrant, give authority to any superior Officer of Police to enter, with such assistance as may be found necessary, by night or by day, and by force if necessary, any such house, room, or other place; and to take into custody all persons whom he finds therein, whether or not then actually gaming; and to seize all instruments of gaming, and all moneys, and securities for money, and articles of value, reasonably suspected to have been used or intended to be used for the purpose of gaming, which are found therein; and to search all parts of the house, room, or place which he shall have so entered, when he has reason to believe that any instruments of gaming are concealed therein, and also the persons of those whom he so takes into custody; and to seize and take possession of all instruments of gaming found upon such search.

Commissioner or Magistrate may authorize certain Police Officers to enter a gaming-house for the purpose of search and seizure.

XXVI. When any cards, dice, gaming-table, or cloth, board, or other instruments of gaming are found in any house, room, or place, if information has been given on oath to the Commissioner of Police that it is suspected of being used as a common gaming-house, or about the person of any of those who are found therein, it shall be evidence, until the contrary is made to appear, that such house, room, or place is used as a common gaming-house, and that the persons found therein were there present for the purpose of gaming, although no play was actually seen by the Police Officer or any of his assistants.

Common gaming-houses.

XXVII. On conviction of any person for keeping any such common gaming-house, or being present therein for the purpose of gaming, all the instruments of gaming found therein shall be destroyed by order of the Magistrate, who may also order all or any of the securities for money, and other articles seized, not being instruments of gaming, to be sold and converted into money, and the proceeds thereof, with all moneys seized therein, to be forfeited; or, in his discretion, may order any part thereof to be returned to the persons appearing to have been severally thereunto entitled. It shall not be necessary, in order to convict any person of keeping a common gaming-house, or of being concerned in the management of any common gaming-house, to prove that any person found playing at any game was playing for any money, wager, or stake.

On conviction for keeping a gaming-house, instruments of gaming to be destroyed, &c.

Proof of playing for stakes unnecessary.

XXVIII. Any person who shall have been concerned in gaming contrary to this Act, and who shall be examined as a witness before a Magistrate on the trial of any person for a breach of any of the provisions of this Act, relating to gaming, and who, upon such examination, shall make true and faithful discovery, to the best of his knowledge, of all things as to which he shall be so examined, and who shall thereupon receive from the said Magistrate a certificate in writing to that effect, shall be freed from all prosecutions under this Act for any thing done before that time in respect of such gaming.

Witnesses indemnified.

XXIX. Nothing in the foregoing provisions of this Act contained shall be held to apply to any game of mere skill played at licensed Hotels, Taverns, or Eating-houses, or places of public resort.

Act not to apply to certain games.

XXX. The Magistrate may direct any portion, not exceeding one-fourth, of any fine which shall be levied under Sections XXIII and XXIV of this Act, or any part of the money or proceeds of articles seized, and ordered to be forfeited under Section XXVII, to be paid to an informer.

Portion of fine may be paid to informer

XXXI. A Police Officer may apprehend without warrant any person found gaming with cards, dice, counters, money, or other instruments of gaming, in any public street, place, or thoroughfare; and such person shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty Rupees, or to imprisonment, with or without hard labor, for any term not exceeding one month; and such instruments of gaming and money shall be forfeited.

Gambling in the streets.

XXXII. If any property regarding which written or printed information shall be given by any Police Officer to any pawnbroker, or dealer in second-hand property, or money-changer, as having been stolen, embezzled, or fraudulently obtained, shall then be, or thereafter come into the possession of, or be offered in pawn, or for sale, or change, to such pawn-broker, dealer, or money-changer, he shall, without unnecessary delay, give information at the nearest Police Office that certain property, answering the description of the said property, was offered to him or is in his possession, and shall also state the name and address given by the party by whom the same was offered, or from whom the same was received, under a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees for each and every such neglect or offence; provided always that, in the case of wearing apparel or other articles, which it may be difficult for such pawn-broker or dealer to trace out and identify, no fine shall be exigible in respect of not reporting such articles, unless it shall appear to the Magistrate that such articles had been knowingly concealed by such pawn-broker or dealer.

Pawn-brokers and money-changers to report stolen property under a penalty for neglect.

If stolen articles be altered or defaced by broker, after information of the theft, he shall be deemed a receiver of stolen goods.

XXXIII. If any pawn-broker or dealer in second-hand goods, or worker in gold or silver, after receiving information of the theft, or the embezzling, or the fraudulent disposal of any metals, goods, or articles of whatsoever description, melts, alters, defaces, or puts away the same, or causes the same to be melted, altered, defaced, or put away, without having previously received the permission of the Magistrate, and it shall be found that such metals, goods, or articles were stolen, embezzled, or fraudulently disposed of by the person from whom such pawn-broker, dealer, or worker received the same, or by any other person, then and in such case it shall be held that such pawn-broker, dealer, or worker knew that such metals, goods, or articles were stolen, embezzled, or fraudulently disposed of; and such pawn-broker, dealer, or worker shall be proceeded against, according to law, as a receiver of stolen goods, or as being a party to the fraud, and punished accordingly: and no other evidence of his guilt shall be necessary than evidence of such melting, altering, defacing, or putting away, after receiving information as aforesaid.

Manufacture or possession of Gunpowder.

XXXIV. Whoever manufactures Gunpowder or, without a license from the Commissioner of Police, has in his possession, in any house, shop, warehouse, or other building, at any one time, a greater quantity of Gunpowder than ten pounds, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred Rupees, and also to forfeit such Gunpowder so manufactured or possessed, together with the vessel or receptacle in which it may be contained.

Licenses by Commissioner of Police for sale and deposit of Gunpowder, &c.

XXXV. The Commissioner of Police may grant to any person a license for the sale or keeping in deposit of any quantity of Gunpowder not exceeding fifty pounds, on such conditions, and for such term, not exceeding one year, as shall be specified in the license; and any person who shall be guilty of a breach of any of such conditions, shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred Rupees, and to forfeit all Gunpowder so kept in deposit contrary thereto, and the vessels containing it, and also, in the discretion of the Magistrate, or of the Commissioner, to forfeit his license.

Licenses for conveying and removing Gunpowder.

XXXVI. The Commissioner of Police may grant to any person a license for the transit and carrying of Gunpowder from one place to another, in such manner and in such quantity as he may deem advisable; and any person, not being duly licensed in that behalf, who carries or conveys a greater quantity of Gunpowder than one pound from one place to another, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Commissioner of Police may issue warrant to search for Gunpowder, &c.

XXXVII. The Commissioner of Police, on credible information laid before him on oath, may issue his warrant authorizing a Police Officer to search in the day-time any house, shop, magazine, or other building or place in which he has reasonable ground to suspect that any Gunpowder is manufactured, sold, or kept, or any boat, carriage, cart, or other vehicle in which any Gunpowder may be suspected to be carried, or any person suspected of carrying the same contrary to the provisions of this Act; and all Gunpowder found on such search shall, together with the vessels or receptacles in which it may be stored, be immediately seized and kept, pending the judgment of a Magistrate.

Act not to apply to Government powder, &c.

XXXVIII. None of the four last preceding Sections shall extend to any Government magazine, or store, or building for the making or deposit of Gunpowder under the authority, or for the use of the Government, or to any Gunpowder belonging to Government.

Commissioner may make rules for the conduct of assemblies and processions.

XXXIX. The Commissioner of Police, from time to time, as occasion may require, may, subject to the orders of the Lieutenant-Governor, make rules for the conduct of all assemblies and processions in the public roads, streets, or thoroughfares within the limits aforesaid, prescribing the routes by which, and the times at which, such processions may pass, and for keeping order in the public roads, streets, thoroughfares, ghauts, and landing places, and all other places of public resort, and preventing obstructions thereof, on the occasion of such assemblies and processions; and in the neighbourhood of places of worship during the time of public worship; and in any case when the roads, streets, thoroughfares, ghauts, or landing places may be thronged, or may be liable to be obstructed; and may give licenses for the use of music in the streets on the occasion of native festivals and ceremonies; and every person opposing or not obeying the orders so issued by the Commissioner of Police, or violating the conditions of such license, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Penalty for the following offences in public streets, &c.

XL. XLIX. The Deputy Commissioner of Police of the Town of Calcutta may, under the orders of the Commissioner, exercise all or any of the powers vested in the latter by the provisions of this Act.

Act XXI. of 1857 repealed.

L. Act XXI. of 1857 is hereby repealed so far as it applies to the suburbs of the Town of Calcutta as defined in the mode prescribed by Section I. of this Act.

FORM OF CERTIFICATE.

A. B. has been appointed a Superintendent, Inspector, Jemadar, Darogah, or Peon (as the case may be) in the Suburban Police Force, and is vested with the powers, functions, and privileges of a Constable.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

ON the transfer of the direction and control of the Calcutta Suburban Police from the Magistrate of the 24-Pergunnahs to the Commissioner of Police for the Town of Calcutta, an entirely new organization was given to that Force similar to that of the Calcutta Police under the provisions of Act XIII of 1856, which does not extend to the Suburbs. Whilst, therefore, the only legal status which this Police Force possesses is derived from Regulation XX. of 1817, the system on which it is organized, the rules under which its operations are conducted, and the various official designations by which the Officers composing it are distinguished, are wholly inconsistent with the provisions of that Regulation.

By Section 4 of Act V of 1861 it is provided that the entire administration of the Police throughout a general Police District shall be exclusively vested in the Inspector-General of Police; hence the provisions of this Act could not be applied to the Suburban Police without either taking the direction and control of this Force out of the hands of the Commissioner of Police for the Town of Calcutta, or subordinating this latter Officer to the Inspector-General of the general Police District of Bengal.

It is proposed, therefore, in the present Bill to re-enact so much of the provisions of Act XIII of 1856, and Act V of 1861, as appear to be applicable to the Suburban Police Force under its present constitution.

THE following Rules are published for general information :—

Rules under Section 4, Act VI. (B. C.) of 1864, entitled an Act to provide for the periodical inspection of Steam Boilers and Prime Movers attached thereto in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta.

APPOINTMENT OF THE MEMBERS OF THE COMMISSION AND DUTIES OF INSPECTORS.

I.—There shall be opened, in some convenient part of the Town, an Office for the Commissioners for the inspection of boilers.

II.—A Boiler Commission shall be appointed for Calcutta, to consist of Commissioners as follows :—

1. The Commissioner of Police.
2. The Mint Master.
3. Such Engineers or Owners or Managers of Mills and Foundries as may be nominated Members of the Commission by the Government of Bengal.

III.—There shall be an Engineer Inspector, who shall also be Secretary to the Commission, with such Assistants as shall from time to time be found necessary.

IV.—The Commission shall meet periodically (at least once a month) to arrange for the inspection of boilers; to receive and consider the reports of the Engineer; to control the proceedings of the Engineer; and to settle all disputes between the Engineer and Boiler-owners, as these may arise, and to act as final referee in all cases.

V.—The Engineer shall attend at the Office and keep such records as the Commission may from time to time direct.

VI.—The Engineer shall keep in Form B1, B2, an index register and dimension sheet, in the order authorised by the Commissioners, of all boilers within the limits of the Act.

VII.—The Engineer shall inspect these boilers in the regular order laid down in this list except any deviation from this order be specially sanctioned by the Commissioners.

VIII.—There shall be three kinds of inspection of boilers :—

A. A thorough examination, once every twelve months, inside and outside, to be made by the Engineer in person, for which purpose the boilers must be emptied, cool, and clean and flues swept, and if required by the Engineer, any parts or settings removed for a complete examination of the boiler and machinery in every part.

B. An ordinary examination, once every four months, of a boiler while on work.

C. A special examination, in either Form A or B, at the request of the owner.

IX. The Engineer shall annually inspect every boiler on his list before he grants a certificate or permission to work the boiler.

This examination (A thorough) is to be inside and out. The Engineer shall give one week's notice (as per Form C.) of every such intended examination, (A thorough,) and if after that notice the boilers are not cool, clean, and ready for inspection on the date named, the Engineer shall prohibit the boilers from working and shall report the case to the Commissioners.

Further, if any request be made to remove fittings or setting, and such be not complied with, the Engineer shall in like manner stop the working of the boilers.

X.—The Engineer shall submit to the Commissioners his report on every boiler inspected in (Form D1,) which shall be recorded in the Office, and a report (Form D2) sent to the owner of the boiler, and the certificate granted in Form E.

XI.—The Engineer or his Assistants shall examine (B, ordinary) every boiler and apparatus once every four months, submitting a report to the Commissioners in Form D, on which the Certificate will be endorsed by the Engineer.

These examinations will be conducted while the boiler is at work, and without giving any notice to the owner.

XII.—The Engineer shall be provided with boiler testing pump, indicator, and guages and shall, under the following rules, test and indicate boilers :—

a. Whenever any owner of a boiler may wish to have a boiler tested, or to have his engine indicated, if he make application to the Commissioners, the Engineer shall test the boiler or indicate the engines on payment of the fees laid down.

b. These reports and diagrams, Form F,* shall be sent in original to boiler-owners and copy filed in Office.

* Form of Diagrams not yet ready.

XIII.—The Engineer shall report weekly or monthly to the Commissioners as per Form H, and the Assistant Inspector shall report daily to the Engineeer in Form G.

Table of Fees payable for Certificates granted under the Act.

The following scale of fees shall for the present be charged :—

		Rs.
A.	Thorough examination of boiler, with certificate	30 for one boiler. 50 for two. 10 for each additional.
		Rs.
B.	Ordinary examination of boiler with endorsement of certificate ...	10	For each.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

Dated the 1st May 1865.

Notification.—The following Tea plantations and factories in Kumaon and the Deyrah Dhoon are offered for sale at the upset prices specified :—

1. Hawul Bagh in Kumaon, forty-six miles from the plains, and six miles from Almorah. The plantations (including the two small nurseries, viz., Kupeena and Lutchmaissur, in the immediate neighbourhood of Almorah) consist of about one hundred acres of land planted with Tea. At a short distance from the plantations there is a Cheer (Pinus longifolia) forest of about 100 acres in extent, in which the purchaser will have the right to cut timber, which is well fitted for making Tea chests, firewood, &c.

There are on the estate three large slated houses; numerous slated offices; a large slated factory; two large slated godowns; a slated barrack for Chinese Tea manufacturers; and the stock and block of the factory are complete for Tea operations and in working order.

2. Ayar Toli in Kuttyoor, Kumaon, distant about 80 miles from the plains, and about 40 miles from Almorah.

There are on the estate a slated factory and a large slated godown; slated barracks for Chinese Tea manufacturers, &c., and the stock and block of the factory are complete for the Tea operations and in working order.

This plantation consists of about 1,300 acres of land, of which about 360 acres are planted with Tea, two hundred acres of cleared land fitted for Tea-planting, and the remainder covered with pines, &c., forests, the timber of which is well adapted for making Tea chests, &c.

The yield of the two estates this season was lbs. 20,000 of Tea and 1,650 maunds of seeds.

These two estates will be sold in one lot in fee-simple, free of all demands, on account of Land Revenue, exclusive of existing local cesses, such as Road, Educational, and Postal cesses, or such as may be hereafter legally imposed, at an upset price of Rupees 2,00,000 (two lacs of Rupees.)

A small portion of the plantation of Ayar Toli named Bincolie, belonging to the temple of Nagnath, will bear an annual rental of Rupees 24 (twenty-four Rupees) per annum.

This land is leased in perpetuity from the temple of Nagnath on this rental.

3. Kowlaghir in the Deyrah Dhoon, distant two miles to the west of the Town of Deyrah. It consists of about 430 acres of land, of which about 380 acres are under cultivation with Tea, and the remainder adapted for Tea cultivation.

Through the property a branch of the Beejapore canal runs. At a short distance and to the south of the plantation there is a Forest of Syne, Jamune, &c., consisting of about 500 (five hundred) acres, in which the purchaser will have the right to cut timber for Tea chests, firewood, charcoal, &c. The timber is well fitted for making Tea chests.

There are on the estate three bungalows; an extensive pucka Tea factory; two large pucka godowns; a barrack for Chinese Tea manufacturers, &c., and the stock and block of the factory are complete and in full working order.

The yield this season was lbs. 25,099 of Tea, and 1,050 maunds of seeds.

This estate will be sold in fee-simple free of all demands on account of Land Revenue, exclusive of existing local cesses for roads, &c., or such as may hereafter be legally imposed, at an upset price of Rupees 2,00,000 (two lacs of Rupees.) The plantations will be transferred to the purchasers on the 1st April 1866, on or before which date the purchase money must be paid at the General Treasury, Calcutta.

Tenders will be received by William Jameson, Esquire, Superintendent, Botanical Gardens, North-Western Provinces, Saharunpore, until 1st March 1866, if the factories, &c., be not previously sold by private sale, and the highest offer above the upset price will be accepted.

All tenders must be made in writing.

Every tender should be superscribed—"Tender for Tea plantation," and will be registered by the Superintendent of the Botanical Gardens on the date of receipt in a book, which he will keep, together with the tenders, in his own custody under lock and key.

The highest registered tender at the time being for any lot will be communicated by the Superintendent to any enquirers up to the time of sale, but the names of the parties who have tendered shall in no case be disclosed.

The register of tenders will be examined at noon, on the 1st March 1866, by a Committee consisting of the Superintendent, Botanical Gardens, the Judge, and the Collector of Saharunpore, at the Office of the Superintendent, and in the presence of all parties who may attend; and the amount of the highest tender for each lot, or, if there be more than one tender of equal amount, the number and amount of such tenders, but not the names of the parties tendering, will be publicly declared, and the highest tender, in writing, above the upset price at 4 P. M., will be accepted on the part of Government by the Committee.

On the tender being accepted by the Committee the purchaser must deposit five per cent. of the purchase money, which will be forfeited if the amount of the purchase money be not paid in full on the date specified.

Agents must be supplied by their principals with sufficient Powers-of-Attorney.

The above particulars are believed, in good faith, to be correct, but intending purchasers must make their own enquiries, as no reclamation can be listened to after sale.

References may be made to W. Jameson, Esquire, Superintendent, Government Botanical Gardens, Saharunpore.

By Order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces,

R. SIMSON,
Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces.

7. No tender of money, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Public Securities on account of Opium, upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be afterwards accepted.

8. The Opium now advertised for sale shall be paid for within fifteen clear days from the day of sale, and in case any lots of such Opium shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the Cash Deposit made under the fifth condition, or any Public Securities that may have been deposited on account of such lots or Chests, shall be forfeited, and the Opium shall be disposed of on account of Government at such time, and in such manner, as the Board of Revenue shall think fit, and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the Opium was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale.

9. Purchasers taking out Certificates or Orders for the delivery of Opium after making full payment as above prescribed, shall have the option of naming the number of lots of their purchase, which they may desire to be included in each Certificate or Order, and it is to be clearly understood that the Certificates or Orders so taken out shall be considered final, and not afterwards changeable for other Certificates or Orders authorizing the delivery of single lots or of a different number of lots or Chests, whether more or less than the number of lots or Chests originally required to be included in each Certificate or Order.

10. No deposit of Public Securities under the fifth of the present condition will be received in this Office, except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the Sale Book, or his authorized Agent. The Receipt for deposit of Public Securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the Securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

11. The Officer superintending the sale on the part of the Board of Revenue is empowered to reject, at his discretion, the bid of any individual unless such individual shall, on demand, tender at the time a deposit either in Government of India Notes, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Government Securities a sum equal to the amount, for which a Promissory Note would otherwise be taken under the fifth of these conditions.

12. With a view to prevent fictitious bidings designed to obstruct the sale, it is hereby notified that the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall be competent, at any time during the sale, to withdraw any unsold lot and immediately to put it up again for sale at a maximum upset price, diminishing the same gradually until a bid is obtained, and the first bonâ fide bidder for a lot after it has been offered for sale in the mode here described, shall be held and declared to be the purchaser of the said lot, and the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall also be competent to dispose in the same manner of as many of the subsequent lots as he may think proper, provided always that no lot shall be sold below the minimum price of 800 Rupees specified in the second of these conditions.

13. The purchaser of any lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession at the same price and under the same conditions any number of lots of the same Agency Opium not exceeding altogether twenty-five lots; provided always that there remain a sufficient number of lots of the Opium to complete the said twenty-five.

14. In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the Opium included in this Notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall and may be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

15. The following papers will be exhibited for inspection on the day of sale, or may be seen previously to that date by application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue:—

No. 1.—Certificate of the Opium advertized for sale.

No. 2.—Report of the examination of such Opium.

16. The Public are hereby informed that, in providing the investment of the Behar and Benares Opium for the year 1864-65, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years, to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the Cakes, and to have the due proportion of Opium put into each Cake. An account of the weight of the drug when packed at Behar and Benares, and a Statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken for the purpose of comparison from the dispatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue.

17. Any further information respecting weight or quality of the Opium advertized for sale that may be desired by parties connected with the trade will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on application at the Office of the Board of Revenue, but, in accordance with established usage, under no circumstances will the Board entertain or recognize any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of Opium, or adulteration of the drug which may be preferred on reference to chests after the sale and delivery of the Opium for shipment.

18. It is hereby further notified that, under the 6th Article of the Convention between Great Britain and France, dated the 7th March 1815, quoted below, the Agents in India of the French Government, or persons duly appointed by them, are entitled to demand that, out of the quantities of Behar and Benares Opium declared as above for sale at the twelve sales of the year 1866, there shall be delivered to them at the average of the particular sale or sales to which the Opium so applied for may belong, a quantity not exceeding in the aggregate 300 chests, and the Agents of the French Government must make requisition specifying the quantity of Opium required by them at any particular sale within thirty days from the advertisement of such intended sale, provided, however, that the Agents of the French Government may make such requisition for the whole quantity within thirty days from the publication of this Notification. If the Agents of the French Government shall not make the requisition for Opium within the time above-mentioned the entire quantity of about 40,000 Chests of Behar and Benares, as above estimated, will be brought to sale in the usual manner, and if they shall make application for quantity of Opium to be delivered to them out of the quantity advertised for sale at each or any of the twelve sales above-mentioned, but shall not pay for it within the prescribed period of payment, the Government of Bengal reserves to itself the right of disposing of the Opium which the French authorities may so fail to pay for, either by increasing the quantity reserved at the sale next ensuing the date of payment, or by selling it at a sale to be held expressly for the purpose.

Article of the Convention above referred to.—

Article 6th.—"With regard to the Trade in "Opium, it is agreed between the high contracting parties that each of the periodical sales of "that article, there shall be reserved for the "French Government, and delivered upon requisition duly made by the Agents of His Most "Christian Majesty, or by the persons duly "appointed by them, the number of Chests so "applied for, provided that such supply shall not "exceed three hundred Chests in each year, and "the price for the same shall be determined by "the average rate at which Opium shall have "been sold at every such periodical sale, it being "understood that, if the quantity of Opium "applied for at any one time shall not be taken "on account of the French Government by the "Agents of His Most Christian Majesty within "the usual period of delivery, the quantity so "applied for shall nevertheless be considered as so "much in reduction of the three hundred Chests "herein before-mentioned. The requisitions for "Opium as aforesaid are to be addressed to the "Governor General at Calcutta within thirty "days after notice of the intended sales shall "have been published in the Government Gazette."

Port Canning Municipality.

NOTICE TO LOT-HOLDERS.

THE Municipal Commissioners give notice that all lots upon which the sum stipulated in the lease shall not have been expended either in raising such lots or in the erection of buildings thereon before the 31st December 1865 will be resumed.

Lots which have been, or may be, redeemed in freehold prior to the above date, are of course exempted from resumption.

Freehold titles can only be obtained by exchanging Port Canning Municipal Debentures at the rate of 600 Rupees Debentures for each beegah of land.

The lessee of two or more lots will be allowed the option of spending on any one lot the aggregate amount required under the terms of the leases to be expended on each separate lot.

By Order of the Commissioners,

THOMAS F. KILBY,
Secretary.

14, STRAND;
Calcutta,
The 27th July 1865.

Notice

Is hereby given that the under-mentioned Lot, consisting of 13,278 Acres, described as Nullee and Saplanga Chucks, according to a survey made by Lieutenant W. J. Report on the State of the Salt Market during the Second Quarter of 1865-66.

From T. BRUCE LANE, ESQ., Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No 1134, dated the 29th November 1865.)

I AM directed by the board of Revenue to submit the following report on the state of the salt market during the second quarter of 1865-66.

2. The quantity of Government salt, irrespective of the auction sales in July last, sold under rowannahs issued by the Board, amounted to maunds 12,775, as shewn in the margin, giving a monthly average of maunds 4,258, or about maunds 16,362 less than the monthly average of the corresponding quarter of 1864-65, and maunds 14,319 less than that of the last quarter. This falling off in the sales at fixed prices can only be attributed to the auction sales of July, the clearances of which during the quarter amounted to maunds 2,36,425.

August	1865, Mds....	5,730
September	" " ...	2,870
October	" " ...	4,175
Total, Mds....		12,775

3. The sales of Government salt at the Tamlook depôt amounted to maunds 1,325, against maunds 8,455 in the first quarter of 1865-66, and maunds 46,800 in the corresponding quarter of 1864-65. At Hidgellee the sales amounted to maunds 10,600, against maunds 15,290 in the preceding quarter, and maunds 13,960 in the corresponding quarter of 1864-65 There were no sales from the Ghoosery Golahs during the quarter under review.

4. The sales of Excise salt during the quarter aggregated maunds 3,994, against maunds 2,055 in the previous quarter, and maunds 8,625 in the second quarter of 1864-65.

5. The quantities of salt which have been despatched into the interior of the country viâ the border chowkey of Ballikhal up the Hooghly, and by the East Indian Railway from the Howrah station, are shewn in the following comparative statement:—

Period.	Quantity vid Ballikhal.	Quantity by the East Indian Railway.
	Maunds.	Maunds.
Second quarter of 1863-64	1,206,548	79,777
Ditto 1864-65	1,172,018	116,272
Ditto 1865-66	1,005,214	119,053

The quantity of salt dispatched by the East Indian Railway during the first quarter of 1865-66 amounted to maunds 175,296, against maunds 143,821 and maunds 146,294 in the corresponding quarter of the two previous years. This information was not available when the last report was submitted.

6. The importations and clearances of sea-imported salt during the quarter are shewn comparatively in the following statement:—

The figures given in the last column, which represent the total quantities for which rowannahs were issued by the Board during the quarter, include a portion of the clearances from the Custom House in the previous quarter, in respect of which rowannahs had not been taken out prior to 1st August 1865. For the purpose of comparison with the figures of the corresponding quarter of the two previous years it may be as well to state that the total clearances from the Custom House during the quarter under review amounted to maunds 1,338,480.

7. The following are the details of the importations and clearances of Indian Kurkutch given above:—

Exporting Port.	1863-64.		1864-65.		1865-66.

The points calling for attention in this statement are the increase in the importation from the Madras Coasts over that from Bombay, which hitherto supplied the largest quantity, and the increase in the total importations as compared with those of the corresponding quarter of the two previous years. The latter may be attributed to the high prices that prevailed in this markt in July and August last. It is also worthy of note that a large quantity of salt was imported during the quarter from Iskapalli, a port for a long time neglected. The last importation (maunds 6,480) took place in June 1861.

8. The shipments at Liverpool appear from published market reports and private advices to have been in—

		Tons.
July	1865	11,432
August	„	16,288
September	„	21,974
	Total ...	49,694

9. The price of Liverpool Salt sold from the ship, which remained steady during the first fortnight of August at Rupees 84, fell about the middle of that month to Rupees 80. It rose again early in September, and continued to rise until it reached Rupees 94 about the first week of October. This rate prevailed throughout that month, the stock in port having been greatly reduced. The price of Liverpool salt in bond at the close of October was from Rupees 75 to 80.

10. Madras and Bombay Kurkutch, which were selling at Rupees 52 and Rupees 60, respectively, at the close of July, fell gradually to Rupees 42 and Rupees 47 about the end of September. Throughout October the prices of these salts stood at Rupees 45 and Rupees 50. Judda kurkutch ranged throughout the quarter between Rupees 85 and Rupees 90.

11. In September last Messrs. Halliday, Bullock and Co., (now Bullock Brothers and Co.,) of Chittagong, offered to purchase the whole of the Madras kurkutch (maunds 138,715) stored at that depôt at Rupees 43 per hundred maunds, but their proposed arrangements for the payment of the value of the salt and the Government duty thereon did not appear to the Board to be suitable, or in any way worthy of consideration. This salt will probably rise in value as the pungah stock diminishes in quantity.

12. The total quantity of salt that was available on private trade at the several Madras depôts on the first day of each of the three months of the quarter under review and of the corresponding quarter of the two previous years is exhibited below :—

LEGISLATIVE.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 15th December 1865, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in six weeks:—

No. 23 of 1865.

A Bill to amend the Law of Partnership in India.

Preamble.

Whereas it is expedient to amend the Law relating to Partnership; It is enacted as follows:—

Lender not a partner by advancing money for share of profits.

1. The advance of money by way of loan to a person engaged or about to engage in any trade or undertaking upon a contract in writing with such person that the lender shall receive a rate of interest varying with the profits or shall receive a share of the profits arising from carrying on such trade or undertaking, shall not, of itself, constitute the lender a partner with the person or the persons carrying on such trade or undertaking, or render him responsible as such.

Explanation.—A person who being entitled, whether as a retiring partner or otherwise, to demand and receive present payment of the value of any share or interest of or in the capital or other funds of a business shall, after the value thereof shall have been ascertained between such person and the person or persons liable to pay the same, allow the same to remain therein or to be used by such person or persons for the purposes of such business, shall be construed to make an advance of money by way of loan within the meaning of this Section.

Remuneration of agents, &c., by profits not to make them partners.

2. No contract for the remuneration of a servant or agent of any person engaged in any trade or undertaking by a share of the profits of such trade or undertaking shall, of itself, render such servant or agent responsible as a partner therein, nor give him the rights of a partner.

Certain annuitants not to be deemed partners.

3. No person being the widow or child of the deceased partner of a trader, and receiving by way of annuity a portion of the profits made by such trader in his business, shall, by reason only of such receipt, be deemed to be a partner of, or to be subject to any liabilities incurred by, such trader.

Receipt of profits, &c., not to make the seller a partner.

4. No person receiving by way of annuity or otherwise a portion of the profits of any business, in consideration of the sale by him of the good-will of such business, shall, by reason only of such receipt, be deemed to be a partner of, or be subject to, the liabilities of the person carrying on such business.

Interpretation of "person."

5. In the construction of this Act the word "person" shall include a Partnership Firm, a Joint Stock Company, and a Corporation.

Statements of Objects and Reasons.

This Bill is, with one addtion and one ommission, transcribed from the English Statute 27 and 28 Vic., cap. 86, which, by simply abolishing an objectionable legal principle, known as the rule in Waugh v. Carver, is expected to produce the same effects as the French system of partnership encommandite.

Apart from the obvious expediency of Indian following English legislation in mercantile matters, the abolition of the rule in question is desirable for various reasons. The rule—that he who participates in the profits of a partnership shall, by operation of law, be made liable to its losses—is a mere obiter dictum of Chief Justice Eyre's, and is founded by him on Lord Mansfield's irrelevant decision in Grace v. Smith. In that case the share of the profits stipulated for by the lender would have amounted to more than the legal rate of interest, and the fiction of a constructive partnership was invented by Lord Mansfield as the only means of upholding a contract which, if regarded as one of loan, would have been void as contravening the usury laws. These laws having now been abolished, the fiction which originated in them need no longer be maintained. Next the abolition of the rule give additional stability to mercantile firms by doing away with the risk which at present would be incurred by retiring partners who should leave their shares in the buisness, stipulating for remuneration out of the profits. Thirdly, the Bill, if it become law, will promote those beneficial arrangements between employer and employed, based on the principle of the latter being remunerated by a portion of the profits of the business. Fourthly, interests created under the proposed Act will not generally be saleable, and the non-commercial classes will therefore be able to procure investments which, though more remunerative than Government Paper or mortgages, have not the highly speculative value of shares in ordinary limited liability undertakings. Lastly, the change proposed would, in one important respect, bring our mercantile law into harmony with that of the Natives of India, who are well known to practise among themselves a system of commanditarian partnership.

The addition above referred to is that of an explanation to the effect that a retiring partner leaving in the business the value of his share shall be construed to make a loan within the meaning of the 1st section. The omission above referred to is that of the 5th section of the English Statute, which provides that, in case of the borrower's insolvency, the commanditarian lender shall not be entitled to prove in competition with the other creditors. This provision appears to be at variance with the spirit of the rest of the enactment; and there would, moreover, be practical difficulties in working it in the Mofussil, where no system of insolvency has yet been established.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Act of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council received the assent of His Honor on the 16th December 1865, and having been assented to by His Excellency the Governor General on the same day, is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. IX OF 1865.

An Act to amend Act VI of 1863 passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, in Council (An Act to vest the property of the Town of Calcutta and the management of its Municipal affairs in a Corporation, and to make better provision for the Conservancy and Improvement of the Town and for the levying of rates and fares therein.)

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Act VI of 1863 passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council; It is enacted as follows :—

Chairman of the Justices not to be deemed incapable of being a Member of the Lieutenant-Governor's Council.

I. Nothing in the said Act shall be deemed to prevent the Chairman of the Justices of the Peace for the Town of Calcutta from being a Member of the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for making Laws and Regulations.

Act to be read with Act VI of 1863.

II. This Act shall be read with, and taken as part of, the said Act VI of 1863.

G. S. FAGAN,

Asst. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal,
Legislative Department.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 23rd December 1865, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon after the 27th of January 1866 :—

A Bill to amend Act I of 1864 passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council (An Act for regulating Hackney Carriages and Palankeens in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta.)

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Law regulating Hackney Carriages and Palankeens in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta; It is enacted as follows :—

Certain Sections of Act I of 1864 repealed and modified.

I. Sections 6, 11, 12, 15, 18, 26, 35, and 43 of Act I of 1864 passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council, are hereby repealed, and Section 30, Clause 1, of the said Act, so far as it relates to the wearing of a ticket, shall not be applicable to the driver of any Hackney Carriage of the first Class.

Time and duration of registry.

II. The year of registration shall commence on the first day of March of each year, and every registration made on any date within such year of registration shall be in force to the end thereof and no longer. Any person wishing within the year to use as a Hackney Carriage a Carriage not so in use on the last preceeding day of annual registration, may have such carriage registered on application to the Registering Officer. When any registered Carriage is transferred within the year, it shall be registered anew in the name of the person to whom it has been transferred.

Owners and drivers of Carriages to give notice of change of residence.

III. As often as any registered owner or licensed driver of a Carriage registered under the said Act I of 1864 shall change his residence, he shall give notice thereof in writing signed by him to the Registering Officer, specifying in such notice his new residence. Every registered owner or licensed driver who shall change his residence, and shall neglect for one week to give notice of such change, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding twenty Rupees.

Penalty on owner for not delivering up plate on expiration of period of registry.

IV. On the expiration of each year of registration the owner of any Carriage registered as aforesaid shall cause the plate of such Carriage, affixed under Section 7 of the said Act I of 1864, to be delivered to the Registering Officer; and any person who, after the expiration of the period aforesaid, shall wilfully neglect for three days to deliver the plate to the said Officer, and every person who shall use or detain any plate affixed in respect of a registration which is no longer in force, shall, for every such offence, be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees. Every person who shall, for the purpose of deception, use or have any plate resembling or intended to resemble any plate affixed under this Act shall, for every such offence, be liable to a penalty not exceeding two hundred Rupees. It shall be lawful for the Registering Officer, or for any person employed by him for that purpose, to prosecute any person so neglecting to deliver up a plate at any time within twelve calendar months after the expiration of the registration in respect of which such plate was affixed; and it shall be lawful for any Police Officer, or any person employed for that purpose by the Registering Officer, to seize and take away any such plate, or any plate used for the purpose of deception as aforesaid, wheresoever the same may be found, and to deliver the same to the Registering Officer.

Fee for license. Driver to wear a metal ticket.

V. For every license to act as driver granted under this Act a fee of two Rupees shall be paid, and the Registering Officer shall, at the time of granting any license, deliver to every driver of a Hackney Carriage of the second or third Class to whom the same may be granted a metal ticket upon which shall be marked or engraved his employment, and a number corresponding with the number which shall be inserted in the license. The Driver to whom such ticket is delivered shall at all times, while acting as such Driver, or while attending before any Magistrate, carry such ticket exposed to view.

Certified copies of the particulars of licenses and registered Carriages to be given on payment of fee.

VI. The particulars of every license which shall be granted as aforesaid shall be entered in books to be kept for that purpose at the Office of the said Registering Officer; and every person, applying at all reasonable times, shall be furnished with a certified copy of the particulars respecting any licensed person or respecting any registered Carriage on payment of a fee of two annas for each copy.

Registering Officer may cancel the registration of any Carriage not having the table of fares duly affixed.

VII. It shall be lawful for the Registering Officer to cancel the registration of any Carriage the owner of which shall, without reasonable excuse, neglect to comply with the provisions of Section 22 of the said Act I of 1864. The negligence of the agent or servant of such owner shall not be deemed a reasonable excuse.

Penalty for destroying, &c., a table of fares.

VIII. Any person who shall maliciously or knowingly tear, destroy, or remove any table of fares which shall have been put up under the provisions of the Section last aforesaid, shall be liable on conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty Rupees, and any portion of such last-mentioned fine may be awarded to the owner of the Hackney Carriage to which such table of fares shall have been affixed.

Penalty for refusing to let a Carriage at the specified fares.

IX. Any owner or person in charge of any Hackney Carriage registered under this Act who shall, without sufficient reason, refuse to let such Carriage for hire at the fares specified for the hire of the same under this Act, shall, provided the amount of such fare shall have been tendered to him in cash at the time, be liable on conviction to a fine not exceeding fifty Rupees, and to pay such further sum by way of compensation to the prosecutor as to the Magistrate who shall hear the case may seem just, and such further sum shall, in default of immediate payment, be levied in the mode provided for the levying of fines under the said Act I of 1864.

Disputes how to be settled.

X. In case of any dispute between the hirer and driver of any Hackney Carriage of the second or third Class registered under the said Act I of 1864, the hirer may, if any Magistrate be then sitting, require the driver to drive to the Court of such Magistrate, and such Magistrate shall hear and determine the dispute in a summary way.

Registry of Palankeen bearers.

XI. It shall not be lawful for any person to act as the bearer of a registered Palankeen unless such person shall have obtained a license from the Registering Officer in the mode prescribed for drivers of Hackney Carriages under the provisions of the said Act I of 1864 and of this Act, and all the provisions of the said Acts in regard to the grant of such licenses to the drivers of Hackney Carriages, and the registration of the same, shall be applicable to the bearers of Palankeens. For every license to act as a Palankeen bearer, granted under this Act, a fee of eight annas shall be paid, and the Registering Officer shall deliver a ticket under the conditions prescribed by Section 5 of this Act.

To what distance and at what rate of speed bearers of Palankeen bound to go.

XII. The bearers of every Palankeen registered under this Act shall (unless they have a reasonable excuse to be allowed by the Magistrate before whom the matter shall be brought in question) carry such Palankeen to any place to which they shall be required by the hirer thereof to carry the same, not exceeding five miles from the place where the same shall have been hired; provided always that, when such Palankeen shall have been hired by time, the bearers thereof may be required to carry it at any rate not exceeding two and a half miles within one hour; and, if the bearers of such Palankeen shall be required to carry it more than two and a half miles within one hour, then, in every such case, they shall be entitled to demand, in addition to the fare regulated by time in Schedule (B) annexed to the said Act I of 1864, for every mile or any part thereof exceeding two and a half miles, the fare regulated by distance as set forth in the same Schedule. All the provisions contained in the said Act I of 1864 or in this Act as to offences committed by or against the owners and drivers of Hackney Carriages shall, save as is otherwise expressly provided, be applicable, so far as the same may reasonably be applied, to the owners and bearers of Palankeens.

Power to extend the Act.

XIII. It shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, by a notification to be published in the Calcutta Gazette, to extend the provisions of the said Act I of 1864 and of this Act to the Station of Howrah and to any other towns or places within the Provinces under his control.

Construction of Act.

XIV. This Act shall be read with, and taken as part of, the said Act I of 1864.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

UNDER the provisions of the Hackney Carriage Act, the refusal to let a registered Hackney Carriage or Palankeen for hire, at the fares specified therein, is made punishable by fine on conviction before a Magistrate.

It has been found that, notwithstanding this penalty, the owners or persons in charge of these conveyances, relying on the known unwillingness of persons to spend time and trouble in the prosecution of cases of refusal to let for hire at the authorized rates, too frequently disregard the provisions of the law, and practically exact their own terms from the hirers.

The unwillingness to prosecute in these cases may be in great measure attributed to the want of any compensatory provision, for the trouble and loss of time entailed by such prosecution, corresponding to that which the law contains in regard to prosecutions by owners of registered conveyances for the recovery of their lawful fares.

It has also been thought that there should be a complete registration of Palankeen bearers, as well as of drivers of Hackney Carriages, which is not provided for in the Act.

The existing Law also, whilst it makes offences by the owners and bearers of Palankeens liable to be punished in the same way as offences by the owners and drivers of Hackney Carriages, gives no corresponding special remedy to the former class in regard to offences committed against them.

The present Bill aims at remedying these and other minor defects and omissions which the experience of the working of the Act during the past year has brought to notice, and provides also for the extension of the Law to other towns and places in which its operation may seem to be called for.

No. 3622.—The 22nd December 1865.—The Governor General in Council is pleased to direct the publication in the Gazette of India of the following Despatch from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India.

FINANCIAL. INDIA OFFICE;
No. 255. London, 8th November 1865.

To His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council.

SIR,—I have considered in Council your Financial letter dated the 12th August 1865, No. 135, forwarding a Memorial from the principal Uncovenanted Officers at Calcutta, praying for certain modifications in the rules relative to leave of absence and pensions on retirement.

2. The Memorialists submit the following specific requests :—

"I. That the rule allowing privilege leave to accumulate up to a limit of three months be restored."

"II. That the option of the old or the new rules be allowed to those whose service reckoned from before June 1863."

"III. That service be allowed to reckon from the age of 20."

"IV. That periods of absence on sick leave be allowed to reckon towards pension up to a limit of two years in a service of 25 years."

"V. That a graduated scale of pensions be allowed."

3. The first request, that privilege leave be allowed to accumulate to a limit of three months, is recommended by your Government, on the ground that few European Officers can get any change of climate likely to benefit them during the space of a month, and that Natives of the country, whose homes are remote from Railway communication, cannot visit their friends and return to duty within that period.

4 As you have recommended that the grant of cumulative leave should be allowed when it can be given without inconvenience to the public service, I will not refuse to sanction that concession.

5. In requesting to be granted the option of the old or new rules, the Memorialists refer particularly to the maximum amount of pension. They state that, "under the old rules, Uncovenanted Servants were permitted to retire with medical certificate on one-third pay after 20 years' service, and on half pay after 30 years' service, and without medical certificate on half pay after 35 years' service, the pension in all these cases being calculated on the average salary received during the last five years of service. The amount of pension was not restricted in the case of individuals who entered the service prior to 19th May 1855, but as regards those who entered subsequently the amount was limited to a maximum of £500 a year."

6. This subject was brought before me in a Memorial from certain Uncovenanted Officers at your Presidency, forwarded with your Financial letter dated the 13th October 1863, No. 127. In transmitting that Memorial you stated that the Uncovenanted Service could not claim any rights under the rules of 1831 beyond what could be considered to arise out of "the general pledge which those rules may be taken to give, that a member of that service, when rendered incapable of further duty, shall not be discharged without some pensionary support. As regards the amount of pension to be given, the rules merely fix a limit which is not to be exceeded, and although it has, with rare exceptions, been the practice to allow the highest pension of which the rules allow, this practise cannot be admitted to confer on the Uncovenanted Service any right to claim that maximum in all cases, without any regard whatever to the original design and scope of the rules."

7. The Memorial was fully considered by the Home Government, and in reply you were informed, in my Financial Despatch dated the 9th February 1864, No 20, "that Uncovenanted Servants appointed prior to 19th May 1855, whose average salary during the last five years of their service shall have exceeded Rupees 10 000 per annum, and also those who were promoted prior to the 6th August 1862, (the date of the letter from the Government of India relative to the limitation of pensions to Uncovenanted Servants,) to offices to which salaries exceeding Rupees 10,000 per annum are attached, shall, if their average salary during the last five years of their service exceed that amount, be allowed, 'in cases of extraordinary merit,' pensions exceeding £500 per annum, the amount of excess to be governed by the merits and services of the retiring servants, and to be limited to an amount consistent with a due regard to the public interests. In regard to Uncovenanted Servants who have rendered approved services of only an ordinary character, the pension must in no case exceed £500 per annum." What the Memorialists desire, therefore, is not only the option of the old or new rules, but the option of the old rules according to their interpretation of them. I must decline to accede to this request.

8. The third and fourth requests are, that service may be allowed to count from the age of 20, and that periods of absence on sick leave may be allowed to reckon towards pension up to a limit of two years in a service of 25 years. You recommend that the first of those requests should be acceded to, and that the second should be complied with to the extent to the year, as allowed to the Covenanted Service.

9 I must, however, observe that the Uncovenanted Rules were framed to apply equally to Europeans and Natives of India. The latter usually enter the Government employ at an earlier age than Europeans, and in order to render the rules justly applicable to both, it was considered necessary, when reducing the period of service for pension, to fix an age from which the service should be allowed to reckon.

10. The period of service qualifying for pension was accordingly reduced, as specified in the margin, the commencement of service to count from the age of 22, but all leaves of absence on Medical Certificate or private affairs, except privilege leave, were to be excluded.

ON MEDICAL CERTIFICATE.	Old Rules.	New Rules.
For a pension not exceeding one-third salary	20	15 Limited to Rs. 3,000 per annum.
One-half ...	30	25 Limited to Rs. 5,000 per annum.
WITHOUT MEDICAL CERTIFICATE.
One-half ...	35	30 Ditto.

11. In order to provide for any case in which the effect of the new rules would render it necessary for an Officer, in order to obtain a pension, to serve for a longer period than was required by the old rules, I have already by Financial Despatch dated the 18th January 1865, authorised the grant of a pension under the old rules, provided that the applicant had not availed himself of the benefit of the new leave regulations, I cannot consent to any further modifications in this request, or to allow periods of absence other than those mentioned in Clause 12 of the Rules, to count for pension.

12. The proposition that a graduated scale of pensions should be allowed, is inadmissible. The principle on which a limit has been fixed is, that a pension of the full amount allowed is only to be granted as the reward of extraordinary merit. In ordinary cases such a pension within that limit is to be granted as the circumstances of each case may appear to require.

13. There is always some difficulty in acting strictly in accordance with that principle, and it would obviously be greatly increased if a graduated scale were sanctioned, as proposed by the Memorialists. I cannot therefore accede to this request.

I have, &c.,

THE following Rules are published for general information:—

Rules under Section 4, Act VI. (B. C.) of 1864, entitled an Act to provide for the periodical inspection of Steam Boilers and Prime Movers attached thereto in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta.

APPOINTMENT OF THE MEMBERS OF THE COMMISSION AND DUTIES OF INSPECTORS.

I.—There shall be opened, in some convenient part of the Town, an Office for the Commissioners for the inspection of boilers.

II.—A Boiler Commission shall be appointed for Calcutta, to consist of Commissioners as follows:—

1. The Commissioner of Police.
2. The Mint Master.
3. Such Engineers or Owners or Managers of Mills and Foundries as may be nominated Members of the Commission by the Government of Bengal.

III.—There shall be an Engineer Inspector, who shall also be Secretary to the Commission, with such Assistants as shall from time to time be found necessary.

IV.—The Commission shall meet periodically (at least once a month) to arrange for the inspection of boilers; to receive and consider the reports of the Engineer; to control the proceedings of the Engineer; and to settle all disputes between the Engineer and Boiler-owners, as these may arise, and to act as final referee in all cases.

V.—The Engineer shall attend at the Office and keep such records as the Commission may from time to time direct.

VI.—The Engineer shall keep in Form B1, B2, an index register and dimension sheet, in the order authorised by the Commissioners, of all boilers within the limits of the Act.

VII.—The Engineer shall inspect these boilers in the regular order laid down in this list except any deviation from this order be specially sanctioned by the Commissioners.

VIII.—There shall be three kinds of inspection of boilers:—

A. A thorough examination, once every twelve months, inside and outside, to be made by the Engineer in person, for which purpose the boilers must be emptied, cool, and clean and flues swept, and if required by the Engineer, any parts or settings removed for a complete examination of the boiler and machinery in every part.

B. An ordinary examination, once every four months, of a boiler while on work.

C. A special examination, in either Form A or B, at the request of the owner.

IX. The Engineer shall annually inspect every boiler on his list before he grants a certificate or permission to work the boiler.

This examination (A thorough) is to be inside and out. The Engineer shall give one week's notice (as per Form C.) of every such intended examination, (A thorough,) and if after that notice the boilers are not cool, clean, and ready for inspection on the date named, the Engineer shall prohibit the boilers from working and shall report the case to the Commissioners.

Further, if any request be made to remove fittings or setting, and such be not complied with, the Engineer shall in like manner stop the working of the boilers.

X.—The Engineer shall submit to the Commissioners his report on every boiler inspected in (Form D1,) which shall be recorded in the Office, and a report (Form D2) sent to the owner of the boiler, and the certificate granted in Form E.

XI.—The Engineer or his Assistants shall examine (B, ordinary) every boiler and apparatus once every four months, submitting a report to the Commissioners in Form D, on which the Certificate will be endorsed by the Engineer.

These examinations will be conducted while the boiler is at work, and without giving any notice to the owner.

XII.—The Engineer shall be provided with boiler testing pump, indicator, and guages and shall, under the following rules, test and indicate boilers:—

a. Whenever any owner of a boiler may wish to have a boiler tested, or to have his engine indicated, if he make application to the Commissioners, the Engineer shall test the boiler or indicate the engines on payment of the fees laid down.

b. These reports and diagrams, Form F,* shall be sent in original to boiler-owners and copy filed in Office.

* Form of Diagrams not yet ready.

XIII.—The Engineer shall report weekly or monthly to the Commissioners as per Form H, and the Assistant Inspector shall report daily to the Engineer in Form G.

Table of Fees payable for Certificates granted under the Act.

The following scale of fees shall for the present be charged:—

		Rs.
A.	Thorough examination of boiler, with certificate	30 for one boiler. 50 for two. 10 for each additional.
		Rs.
B.	Ordinary examination of boiler with endorsement of certificate ...	10	For each.
C.	Special examination, if thorough ...	30
	,, if ordinary ...	10
	For testing any boiler ...	20
	For every indication, top and bottom, each cylinder ...	5

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

Dated the 1st May 1865.

Notification.—The following Tea plantations and factories in Kumaon and the Deyrah Dhoon are offered for sale at the upset prices specified :—

1. Hawul Bagh in Kumaon, forty-six miles from the plains, and six miles from Almorah. The plantations (including the two small nurseries, viz., Kupeena and Lutchmaissur, in the immediate neighbourhood of Almorah) consist of about one hundred acres of land planted with Tea. At a short distance from the plantations there is a Cheer (Pinus longifolia) forest of about 100 acres in extent, in which the purchaser will have the right to cut timber, which is well fitted for making Tea chests, firewood, &c.

There are on the estate three large slated houses; numerous slated offices; a large slated factory; two large slated godowns; a slated barrack for Chinese Tea manufacturers; and the stock and block of the factory are complete for Tea operations and in working order.

2. Ayar Toli in Kuttyoor, Kumaon, distant about 80 miles from the plains, and about 40 miles from Almorah.

There are on the estate a slated factory and a large slated godown; slated barracks for Chinese Tea manufacturers, &c., and the stock and block of the factory are complete for the Tea operations and in working order.

This plantation consists of about 1,300 acres of land, of which about 360 acres are planted with Tea, two hundred acres of cleared land fitted for Tea-planting, and the remainder covered with pines, &c., forests, the timber of which is well adapted for making Tea chests, &c.

The yield of the two estates this season was lbs. 20,000 of Tea and 1,650 maunds of seeds.

These two estates will be sold in one lot in fee-simple, free of all demands, on account of Land Revenue, exclusive of existing local cesses, such as Road, Educational, and Postal cesses, or such as may be hereafter legally imposed, at an upset price of Rupees 2,00,000 (two lacs of Rupees.)

A small portion of the plantation of Ayar Toli named Bincolie, belonging to the temple of Nagnath, will bear an annual rental of Rupees 24 (twenty-four Rupees) per annum.

This land is leased in perpetuity from the temple of Nagnath on this rental.

3. Kowlaghir in the Deyrah Dhoon, distant two miles to the west of the Town of Deyrah. It consists of about 430 acres of land, of which about 380 acres are under cultivation with Tea, and the remainder adapted for Tea cultivation.

Through the property a branch of the Beejapore canal runs. At a short distance and to the south of the plantation there is a Forest of Syne, Jamune, &c., consisting of about 500 (five hundred) acres, in which the purchaser will have the right to cut timber for Tea chests, firewood, charcoal, &c. The timber is well fitted for making Tea chests.

There are on the estate three bungalows; an extensive pucka Tea factory; two large pucka godowns; a barrack for Chinese Tea manufacturers, &c., and the stock and block of the factory are complete and in full working order.

The yield this season was lbs. 25,000 of Tea, and 1,050 maunds of seeds.

This estate will be sold in fee-simple free of all demands on account of Land Revenue, exclusive of existing local cesses for roads, &c., or such as may hereafter be legally imposed, at an upset price of Rupees 2,00,000 (two lacs of Rupees.) The plantations will be transferred to the purchasers on the 1st April 1866, on or before which date the purchase money must be paid at the General Treasury, Calcutta.

Tenders will be received by William Jameson, Esquire, Superintendent, Botanical Gardens, North-Western Provinces, Saharunpore, until 1st March 1866, if the factories, &c., be not previously sold by private sale, and the highest offer above the upset price will be accepted.

All tenders must be made in writing.

Every tender should be superscribed—"Tender for Tea plantation," and will be registered by the Superintendent of the Botanical Gardens on the date of receipt in a book, which he will keep, together with the tenders, in his own custody under lock and key.

The highest registered tender at the time being for any lot will be communicated by the Superintendent to any enquirers up to the time of sale, but the names of the parties who have tendered shall in no case be disclosed.

The register of tenders will be examined at noon, on the 1st March 1866, by a Committee consisting of the Superintendent, Botanical Gardens, the Judge, and the Collector of Saharunpore, at the Office of the Superintendent, and in the presence of all parties who may attend; and the amount of the highest tender for each lot, or, if there be more than one tender of equal amount, the number and amount of such tenders, but not the names of the parties tendering, will be publicly declared, and the highest tender, in writing, above the upset price at 4 P. M., will be accepted on the part of Government by the Committee.

On the tender being accepted by the Committee the purchaser must deposit five per cent. of the purchase money, which will be forfeited if the amount of the purchase money be not paid in full on the date specified.

Agents must be supplied by their principals with sufficient Powers-of-Attorney.

The above particulars are believed, in good faith, to be correct, but intending purchasers must make their own enquiries, as no reclamation can be listened to after sale.

References may be made to W. Jameson, Esquire, Superintendent, Government Botanical Gardens, Saharunpore.

By Order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces,

R. SIMSON,
Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces.

6. The Promissory Notes taken on the day of sale under the last mentioned condition, if remaining unredeemed at 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be placed in the hands of the Solicitor to the Government for realization in such manner as to him shall seem fit.

7. No tender of money, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Public Securities on account of Opium, upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be afterwards accepted.

8. The Opium now advertised for sale shall be paid for within fifteen clear days from the day of sale, and in case any lots of such Opium shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the Cash Deposit made under the fifth condition, or any Public Securities that may have been deposited on account of such lots or Chests, shall be forfeited, and the Opium shall be disposed of on account of Government at such time, and in such manner, as the Board of Revenue shall think fit, and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the Opium was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale.

9. Purchasers taking out Certificates or Orders for the delivery of Opium after making full payment as above prescribed, shall have the option of naming the number of lots of their purchase, which they may desire to be included in each Certificate or Order, and it is to be clearly understood that the Certificates or Orders so taken out shall be considered final, and not afterwards changeable for other Certificates or Orders authorizing the delivery of single lots or of a different number of lots or Chests, whether more or less than the number of lots or Chests originally required to be included in each Certificate or Order.

10. No deposit of Public Securities under the fifth of the present condition will be received in this Office, except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the Sale Book, or his authorized Agent. The Receipt for deposit of Public Securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the Securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

11. The Officer superintending the sale on the part of the Board of Revenue is empowered to reject, at his discretion, the bid of any individual unless such individual shall, on demand, tender at the time a deposit either in Government of India Notes, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Government Securities a sum equal to the amount, for which a Promissory Note would otherwise be taken under the fifth of these conditions.

12. With a view to prevent fictitious bidings designed to obstruct the sale, it is hereby notified that the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall be competent, at any time during the sale, to withdraw any unsold lot and immediately to put it up again for sale at a maximum upset price, diminishing the same gradually until a bid is obtained, and the first bonâ fide bidder for a lot after it has been offered for sale in the mode here described shall be held and declared to be the purchaser of the said lot, and the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall also be competent to dispose in the same manner of as many of the subsequent lots as he may think proper, provided always that no lot shall be sold below the minimum price of 800 Rupees specified in the second of these conditions.

13. The purchaser of any lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession at the same price and under the same conditions any number of lots of the same Agency Opium not exceeding altogether twenty-five lots; provided always that there remain a sufficient number of lots of the Opium to complete the said twenty-five.

14. In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the Opium included in this Notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall and may be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

15. The following papers will be exhibited for inspection on the day of sale, or may be seen previously to that date by application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue:—

No. 1.—Certificate of the Opium advertized for sale.

No. 2.—Report of the examination of such Opium.

16. The Public are hereby informed that, in providing the investment of the Behar and Benares Opium for the year 1864-65, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years, to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the Cakes, and to have the due proportion of Opium put into each Cake. An account of the weight of the drug when packed at Behar and Benares, and a Statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken for the purpose of comparison from the dispatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue.

17. Any further information respecting weight or quality of the Opium advertized for sale that may be desired by parties connected with the trade will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on application at the Office of the Board of Revenue; but, in accordance with established usage, under no circumstances will the Board entertain or recognize any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of Opium, or adulteration of the drug which may be preferred on reference to chests after the sale and delivery of the Opium for shipment.

18. It is hereby further notified that, under the 6th Article of the Convention between Great Britain and France, dated the 7th March 1815, quoted below, the Agents in India of the French Government, or persons duly appointed by them, are entitled to demand that, out of the quantities of Behar and Benares Opium declared as above for sale at the twelve sales of the year 1866, there shall be delivered to them at the average of the particular sale or sales to which the Opium so applied for may belong, a quantity not exceeding in the aggregate 300 chests, and the Agents of the French Government must make requisition specifying the quantity of Opium required by them at any particular sale within thirty days from the advertisement of such intended sale; provided, however, that the Agents of the French Government may make such requisition for the whole quantity within thirty days from the publication of this Notification. If the Agents of the French Government shall not make the requisition for Opium within the time above-mentioned, the entire quantity of about 40,000 Chests of Behar and Benares, as above estimated, will be brought to sale in the usual manner, and if they shall make application for quantity of Opium to be delivered to them out of the quantity advertised for sale at each or any of the twelve sales above-mentioned, but shall not pay for it within the prescribed period of payment, the Government of Bengal reserves to itself the right of disposing of the Opium which the French authorities may so fail to pay for, either by increasing the quantity reserved at the sale next ensuing the date of payment, or by selling it at a sale to be held expressly for the purpose.

Article of the Convention above referred to.—

Article 6th—"With regard to the Trade in "Opium, it is agreed between the high contracting parties that each of the periodical sales of "that article, there shall be reserved for the "French Government, and delivered upon requisition duly made by the Agents of His Most "Christian Majesty, or by the persons duly "appointed by them, the number of Chests so "applied for, provided that such supply shall not "exceed three hundred Chests in each year, and "the price for the same shall be determined by "the average rate at which Opium shall have "been sold at every such periodical sale, it being "understood that, if the quantity of Opium "applied for at any one time shall not be taken "on account of the French Government by the "Agents of His Most Christian Majesty within "the usual period of delivery, the quantity so "applied for shall nevertheless be considered as so "much in reduction of the three hundred Chests "herein before-mentioned. The requisitions for "Opium as aforesaid are to be addressed to the "Governor General at Calcutta within thirty "days after notice of the intended sales shall "have been published in the Government Gazette."

Port Canning Municipality.

NOTICE TO LOT-HOLDERS.

THE Municipal Commissioners give notice that all lots upon which the sum stipulated in the lease shall not have been expended, either in raising such lots or in the erection of buildings thereon before the 31st December 1865 will be resumed.

Lots which have been, or may be, redeemed in freehold prior to the above date, are of course exempted from resumption.

Freehold titles can only be obtained by exchanging Port Canning Municipal Debentures at the rate of 600 Rupees Debentures for each beegah of land.

The lessee of two or more lots will be allowed the option of spending on any one lot the aggregate amount required under the terms of the leases to be expended on each separate lot.

By Order of the Commissioners,

Notice.

Circumstances have occurred in Bombay to induce me to resume the family business connexion in that City, established nearly a century ago by my grand-uncle, the late John Forbes, Esquire, of Newe, and continued by my father, the late Sir Charles Forbes, up to the period of his death in 1849. With that object in view I have arranged to establish a house in Bombay under the designation of "Sir Charles Forbes and Co." for the conducting of Banking and Agency business only.

My Partners are Mr. Henry Forman, of Bombay; my son, Mr. George Stewart Forbes, of Aslown, Aberdeenshire; Mr. Andrew John Macdonald, for some years a confidential Assistant of Messrs. Forbes, Forbes & Co., and Mr. Henry Randall Cormack, son of the late Mr. Henry Cormack, Merchant, Bombay. The resident Partners in Bombay will be Mr. Forman, Mr. Macdonald, and Mr. Cormack.

The Firm of "Sir Charles Forbes and Co." will act as the Special Agents of my London Firm, Forbes, Forbes and Co., and the latter will act as the Special London Agents of the Bombay House.

Charles Forbes, Bart., of Newe and Edingtassie.

London,
The 12th October 1865.

Referring to the annexed Circular, the undersigned Firm of Sir Charles Forbes & Co. is this day established in Bombay.

Sir Charles Forbes & Co.

Bombay,
The 9th November 1865.

Calcutta Steam Tug Association, "Limited."

An Extraordinary General Meeting of Shareholders will be held at the Office of the Secretaries on Wednesday, 10th January 1866, at noon, for the purpose of confirming the following Resolutions passed at the Meeting held on 28th November 1865:—

That the purchase by the Directors of the Steam Tugs Paris and Bombay, or Mauritius, from the Bengal Steam Tug Company, "Limited," at the price of Four and a half lakhs of Rupees be, and the same is hereby, confirmed.

That for the purpose of carrying out and completing such purchase the Capital of the Company be increased by the issue of 750 new Shares, of the nominal value of Rupees six hundred each, aggregating Four and a half lakhs of Rupees, and that of such number 250 Shares be issued to the Bengal Steam Tug Company "Limited," in part payment for the said Tugs, and in terms of the Agreement entered into by the Directors with the Bengal Steam Tug Company, "Limited."

That the remaining 500 Shares be issued to the Shareholders, including the Bengal Steam Tug Company, "Limited," agreeably to the 7th Clause of the Articles of Association.

That for the purpose also of carrying out and completing such purchase, and until the issue of the said Shares, the Directors be, and they are hereby, empowered, if necessary, to borrow the sum of Three lakhs of Rupees, the payment thereof to be secured by the issue of Debentures bearing interest at 10 per cent. per annum, or on such other terms and conditions as the Directors may think proper.

That the Board of Directors consist of not more than seven, nor less than three, and that their Meetings shall be held not less frequently than once in every fourteen days; and that at each Meeting a sum equal to twenty Rupees for each existing Director for the time being be divided amongst the Directors present.

That the alternations in the Deed rendered necessary by the foregoing Resolutions be made.

Gordon, Stuart & Co.,
Secretaries.

Calcutta,
The 1st December 1865.

If the balance be not paid by noon of the fifteenth day after the sale, reckoning the day of sale as one, or if that day be a close holiday, then by noon of the first succeeding Office day, the sale to be cancelled, the sum deposited being forfeited to Government, and the Estate to be again put up for sale at the risk of the defaulting Purchaser after issue of advertisement as in the case of original sale.

5*th*.—In addition to the ordinary Government Revenue fixed on the Estates the Purchasers shall be bound to pay for the construction of roads and improvement of communications one per cent. on the Government Revenue assessed from the date of entry upon the purchase. This sum will be leviable in the same manner as other arrears of Revenue.

By Order of the Board of Revenue,

R. B. Chapman,
Secretary.
